County eligible for Fed contracts

The U.S. Department of Labor has added Shelby County to the list of areas classified as "labor surplus" because of high unemployment.

This classification, effective Oct. 1, 1982 through May 31, 1983, makes employers in the county eligible for preference in obtaining Federal procurement contracts.

The Department of Labor designates such areas to give potential government contractors, located where unemployment is highest, preference in bidding on government contracts. The aim is to put a portion of the government's procurement dollars into areas where people are in the most severe economic

The initial list of labor surplus areas for the current 12 month period (June 1, 1982 through May 31, 1983) was announced

May 28. To have been included, an area's average unemployment rate during 1980 and 1981 must have been at least 20 percent higher than the national average jobless rate during the same two years. Because the national rate averaged 7.5 percent during those years, an area must have had an unemployment rate of 9.0 percent or higher during the reference period to have been included on the listing.

Proration halting circuit jury trials

by David F. Moore

Proration of the state's general fund budget has led to the indefinite postponement of circuit court jury trials in Shelby county.

Trial jurors and grand jurors empaneled for October in Shelby County have been instructed not to come to court until further notice. Unless other measures are taken by October 8, such as possible layoffs of court personnel or cuts in days worked, jury trial cancellations will probably go into effect across the state.

Eighteenth Circuit Judge Kenneth Ingram told the Reporter Friday that he was "shocked" at the money saving measure.

Alabama's Chief Justice C.C. "Bo" Torbert announced the plan last Thursday at a called meeting of circuit judges in Montgomery.

The jury cancellations come in the wake of Governor Fob James' abrupt order for a 15%, across the board proration of state services paid through the general fund.

Ingram said the proration is indefinite in amount and duration, and should last until tax revenue

Ingram said the entire judicial system operates on $48.8 million, or about 2% of the state budget. Cancellation of jury trials was deemed a necessary belt tightening step. "We've got to have ed for October 25 has likewise some period of time to save money," he said.

Ingram, who attended the Thursday meeting, said, "We discussed ways we could meet the requirements of the proration demand. The consensus was that the most immediate procedure to follow would be to cancel jury trials during the month of October."

Although he hopes jury trials will start again in November, Ingram said they may not convene until 1983, contingent on statewide availability of funds.

Until further notice from Torbert, Ingram said the courts will continue hearing only nonjury cases. In the meantime, the courts' backlog of jury trials will continue to grow.

In the 18th Circuit, which includes Shelby, Coosa, and Clay counties, the cancellations are expected to affect more civil cases than criminal cases.

Shelby county's circuit clerk notified about 65 potential jurors last Friday by telephone and mail that civil cases set here for October 4-8 had been cancelled.

Jurors set for a special 10-day civil docket on October 25 are also being notified, Ingram said. Ingram added that a Shelby County grand jury session plannbeen put off.

No decision has yet been reached on the next scheduled criminal trials in Shelby County, docketed for November 8-12.

Inrgam said the cancellations come during the heaviest time of the year for jury trials.

According to Curcuit Clerk Kyle Lansford, Shelby County jury trials alone cost $2,409.65 in September. That figure includes $2,034 pay and mileage for jurors, $349.40 for one meal and one night's lodging while a criminal jury was sequestered, and $27.85 for state witnesses.

Trial courts in Shelby County from August 2-19 cost $3651.80. Pay and mileage for the grand jury that met that month cost $1,062, according to Lansford.

Other cost cutting measures being taken here include curtailing mailing and resetting lunch

If the 15% proration were left in effect for the entire fiscal year, which began October 1, the state judicial system would have to trim $7.3 million from its $48.8 million budget.

State law sets salaries for judges and circuit clerks at $22.6 million, which cannot be prorated. Another $22.6 million of the budget goes for court secretaries, filers, and assistants.

Calera gets $3.4 million grant

by David F. Moore

The City of Calera has received a $3.4 million grant for its sewer system. The announcement was made to Mayor Carl Prichard Tuesday morning by U.S. Senator Jeremiah Denton's of-

"This will help a lot of long standing problems and will be a great benefit to the future of our town," Prichard commented.

"We're pleased to announce this award to the citizens of Calera," Denton said in releasing the news. "Growth and progress are encouraged and sought, but our responsibility in protecting the public's resources is essen-

The Environmental Protection Agency grant provides $3,440,922, which Calera will match by one fourth, or $1,014,974.

The funds will allow for expanding and upgrading Calera's present treatment plant, located just south of the city off U.S. 31. The present pumping station and force mains will also be rehabilitated.

Calera and Prichard have pushed for the grant for about seven years, ever since a federal court ordered the system upgraded to meet EPA standards, according to city clerk Lemoyne Payton. Obtaining the grant required a three-phase process which included planning and surveying designs, and projecting needs, Payton explained.

Procurement of the grant moves Calera into the third and final stage of the upgrading pro-

Tuesday morning, Prichard called a 4 p.m. press conference to announce the good news. The conference, however, was canceled a short time later when a family death called the mayor out of

"We were all very sorry to learn of the death," Denton aide Philip Lasater told the Reporter. Lasater had planned to represent Denton at the press conference.

Lasater said Calera was one of five municipalities in Alabama which received a total of $20 million in hard-to-get EPA grants. The other municipalities are Dauphin Island, Boaz, Sheffield and Bay Minette.

Payton said Calera's sewer system currently serves about 700 customers. Upgrading the system will increase its capacity to 7,000 customers, enough to meet a 20-year growth projection, Payton said.

The project has been under the supervision of engineer Ben Karr, Payton said, and is expected to take several years to complete.

Alabaster blacks claim 'shortchange' on funds

by Bert Seaman

"We don't care what kind of money is used, we just want to get sewerage," Robert Tolbert told the Alabaster Council Monday night.

Tolbert and other residents of the city's black community complained that their area had been used to get grant money but were left out when the money came through.

Eloise Underwood mentioned the grant to put in the sewer system, saying that black residents on old Hwy. 31 were dropped off when the work was done.

However, City Clerk Dot Henry contradicted that statement, pointing out that the area had never been included in the plans because of a drainage problem.

Overflowing septic tanks at the homes of residents living behind Thompson Middle School are creating a health hazard, the black delegation told the council.

Mayor H.A. "Doc" Rubin assured the concerned residents that the $700,000 community development block grant the city recently received will be used entirely in their area. The funds are to be used for housing rehabilitation, street repair, to improve water pressure and for sewerage.

But without consulting the plan that was drawn up for the grant, the Mayor couldn't say exactly what area would be eligible for the sewer lines.

It would only take 1,500 feet of line to serve 22 homes in the 7th Ave. area, Tolbert reported.

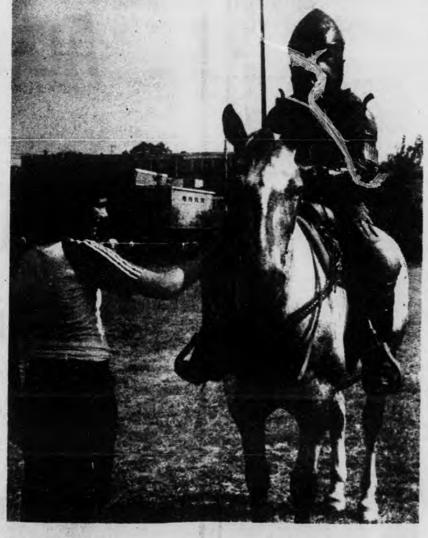

Henry Tolbert noted that the sewerage problem also prevents any more homes from being built in that area.

Reference was also made to the park for the black community which cannot be used until a property dispute is decided by the Rubin said the council was trying to do everything possible to remedy situations that had occurred in the past.

The city's beautification board has a new slate of officers, Councilman Jack Reagin announced. They are: Mike Tillman, chairman; Sybil Moreland, chairmanelect; Bud Haynes, vice chairman; Ann Branyon, secretary; Rita Newell, finance chairman.

Fay Quick bids farewell to tax collector post

by David F. Moore Shelby County tax collector

Fay Quick said goodbye to public life last Friday. Her resignation ends 32 years of work in the county's service.

Mrs. Quick has been tax collector since 1967. She was elected that year with an overwhelming majority, and drew no opposition in her next two bids for the six year post.

She has been called one of the most popular of all office holders in Shelby County.

Prior to her 15 years as tax collector, Mrs. Quick spent 17 years as chief clerk in the probate office-the only other position she held for the county.

Although her last official day on the job was Thursday, September 30, she said she came in Friday to tie up loose ends such as turning the office key over to her appointed replacement, Mrs. Annette Davis Skinner.

Mrs. Quick announced her resignation in a surprise move last March. At the time, she cited her reasons as the continuing problem of cramped courthouse space, and problems with property reappraisals that were out of her control.

Friday, however, Mrs. Ouick only smiled and said she would rather not talk about those aspects of her leaving.

"I'm looking foward to doing some things I haven't had time to do," she said instead. "It really hasn't hit me yet how good it feels."

Mrs. Quick has a son and one grandchild in Georgia she hopes to now see more often. She jokingly said it would be nice to sleep until 10 o'clock, too.

"Leaving these people I work with, missing the tax payers on their annual visit to the courthouse, the friends I've made over the years-this is what I'll be missing," she told the Reporter.

The clerk staff Mrs. Quick left to her replacement includes Delyn Cost, Erline Mayhew, Shane Davis, Shelby Patrick, Doris Spires, and Edith White.

"I'm leaving it (the tax collector's office) in extremely competent hands," Mrs. Quick said.

Mrs. Skinner was appointed last month by Governor Fob James to fill the remaining three years of Quick's term. That term expires September 30. 1985.

For the past three weeks the former tax collector has been showing Mrs. Skinner the ropes of the office.

Westover man killed in two car collision

A two car accident early Monday morning claimed the life of 21 year old Todd Champion of Westover.

Champion was reportedly riding to work with a friend from Westover, David Wayne Cooper, 18, when their vehicle was struck by an eastbound pickup on U.S. Hwy. 280.

The accident occurred at 5:55 a.m. as Cooper, driving a 1980 Toyota, attempted to turn from the westbound land of Hwy. 280 onto County Road 47.

According to State Trooper G.W. Washington, Cooper pulled into the path of the pickup driven by Norman S. Kendrick, 35, of Birmingham, who was traveling east toward Harpersville.

The Westover men were transported by ambulance to Brookwood Hospital but Champion was dead on arrival.

Cooper's condition was listed as stable Monday afternoon; Kendrick was reportedly unin-

Intense fire destroys home

by David F. Moore

An intense fire destroyed a house on U.S. 280 Wednesday afternoon last week. The owner was nearly trapped inside, and was helped from a window by a passer-by.

Sparks from the fire climbed the side of Oak Mountain, reignited Friday, and burned some 50 acres of woods. The rugged terrain prohibited firefighters from completely dousing the forest fire, and it was still smoldering this week.

According to Cahaba Valley Fire District Chief Grady Gullege, the fire apparently caused by an electrical short in the basement of a house belonging to Oran Welburn. The house is located on the side of Oak Mountain about a half-mile from the CVFD station.

The fire knocked out power to electrical smoke detectors before they were able to sound an alarm, Gullege said.

Lt. Tony Perryman said the heat was so intense it exploded windows around the house.

Perryman said Welburn joined the CVFD volunteers two months ago so he would be better prepared in event of a fire.

Gullege said Welburn had worked a night shift at the VA Hospital, and had just gone to sleep shortly before the fire was spotted about noon.

"I was passing by (on 280) and thought someone was burning trash," said cash register serviceman Dennis Brooks of Ensley Highlands. "Then I saw smoke coming out of the basement."

Brooks told the Reporter he called for help from several motorists who also slowed on the highway. Then he went up the drive to make sure no one was inside the house.

"I rang the doorbell and banged, on it a little," Brooks said. "Then I worked my way around in back of the house and saw this guy (Welburn) trying to punch the screen out of a bedroom win-

"He got the screen out, pushed out some clothes, and I helped pull him out," Brooks said. "He was in his underwear and was pretty shook up."

CVFD firefighters were assisted by volunteers from Chelsea, but were unable to save the house from the inferno.

Gullege said Welburn noticed a small woods fire Thursday and put it out.

But apparently a smoldering hot spot somewhere on the mountain side flared up early Friday. Gullege said county foresters were notified about 3 that morning of a forest fire on the moutain.

The steep, rocky terrain hampered firefighters and made the scene inaccessible to even the forestry department's bulldozer.

Welburn's family was not home when the fire broke out, Gullege said. No one reportedly was injured, but Gullege said Welburn was "just plain lucky."

Ad valorem tax deadline extended

Shelby County tax payers will get an extension to their ad valorem tax deadline this year.

The new tax year began October 1, but the tax notices have not yet been mailed because of lengthy Board of Equalization hearings.

The tax notices may still be 2-3 weeks from mailing.

County computer data director Ken Robinson said he received the files for the overall abstract Monday from the tax assessor's office. He hoped to have the abstract run through the computer by Wednesday and back to Bobbie Reynolds' office that day.

After her approval, Robinson said it would take about a week to print the notices from the information in the computer, and he might get started by tomor-

Tax collector Annette Skinner said that once the notices get to her office, they will be mailed within seven days.

Because the notices are so late. Skinner told the Reporter that she will definitely ask the state for an extension to the payment deadline.

"I will ask for an extension and you can quote me on it," she said. "The people deserve that."

How long the extension will be, however, is up in the air until the late notices finally go out.

In the past, the Board of Equalization has usually required only about six weeks to hear complaints and requests for changing assessments. However, because of the current use extension, the board was forced to hold dual sessions that ran from June 6 to Official results of last week's Democratic Party runoff election were released Friday. They showed that the Governor's race attracted more attention in Shelby County than any other.

Reader deplores political mud-slinging, distortion

Letters to the editor

Letter to the Editor:

The behavior of some people during the recent elections in Shelby County has made me very angry. I cannot understand why posters of opposing candidates must be torn down, destroyed or slashed to make a candidate more desirable. In my opinion, this type of behavior shows that these workers for candidates must question their candidate's ability to win without resorting to destruction.

I also cannot understand why any political candidate must resort to mud-slinging and distorting or partially reporting facts to make themselves look better than the opposition. Any candidate should be willing to stand on his own qualifications and promises. More than once, these tactics have made me change my vote from one candidate to another because I believe in a clean campaign.

In case anyone thinks this letter has been written because my particular choice of candidates have won or lost, I am writing and posting this letter before election results are known.

Letter to the Editor:

A free press is a cornerstone of our democracy. In the First Amendment to the Constitution, our Founding Fathers affirmed their belief that competing ideas are fundamental to freedom. We Americans cherish our freedom of expression and our access to multiple sources of news and information.

But, as we know, there are other nations where the free flow of news is thwarted by governments fearful of letting people know the truth. In those countries, where censorship is a means of containing thought and action, newspapers are controlled by the government, and it follows that all human freedoms are limited.

The theme of this 1982 obser-

Wallace's major challenge in the short time before the general election is to make peace with the McMillan voters, who are still smarting from their narrow defeat.

The former governor showed in both the first and second primaries that he has lost little of his magic. Even though his margin of victory was thin on Sept. 28, he still carried a huge 53 of the state's 67 counties, a strong indication of his broad base of support.

Wallace is also expected to pick up most of the black votes that went for McMillan in the run-off. While many blacks are still uncomfortable supporting Wallace, they would be even more uncomfortable in Folmar's camp.

Most observers, most polisters, have installed Wallace as the heavy favorite to win the election.

Just when I needed to be at my most agile, I found myself virtually crippled.

My car door was the reason I had to be able to twist and turn my body at various angles so I could get behind the wheel.

And if you're still wondering what I'm talking about, let me give you further enlightenment.

At various and sundry times, without warning, I either open my car door and then can't get it closed, or else I just plain can't get it open.

The latter happened last week. So I was forced to climb in the passenger side.

With the hump on the floor and a tray full of all sorts of odds and ends plus the seat belt hickeys on the seat, there's no way to simply slide smoothly across.

Add a big old camera bag which must be stuck someplace, and you realize the difficulty of the situation, especially when twinges of pain accompany every movement.

The explanation for the pain is aching muscles caused by exercise.

I must admit I'm at a loss to understand it because those old muscles get a workout several times a week - well, most weeks anyway.

But the other night, I participated in a class that I usually don't have the opportunity to at-

Writer believes he was flim-flammed

Letter to the Editor:

Wasn't it convenient for the Board of Equalization to issue the findings of a taxpayer's hearing before them to protest their property reappraisal and at the same time advise you that if you were not satisfied with their findings you had the option to file suit in Circuit Court within 30 days.

At the time of my hearing the Chairman of the Committee advised that, in fact, there were discrepancies in their reappraisal of my property and that after being advised of their review findings that "we could get together again" if I wasn't "very pleased" with the results. I think I was flim-flammed.

Legal advisory has assured me that documentation presented to the Board was substantial in disproving the reappraisal of my home, based upon the Federal Court ordered value upgrading to levels existing October 1, 1980, and was in a favorable position if I chose to file suit. However, it is a catch-22 situation because all legal and court costs would be mine whether the suit was won or lost.

It would seem that the old adage of not being able to fight City Hall still holds true but you can rest assured that my vote is still alive, well and kicking.

Pelham begins 19th year

by Fred Guarino

The City of Pelham quietly marked an important day in its history last Friday morning.

Without the benefit of marching bands, balloons or fireworks, the young city stepped into the age of adulthood. Pelham began its 19th year of incorporation.

On October 1, 1964 the city swore in its first council which included Burk Dunaway, A. M. Hinds, J. T. Shelton, Allen Wilson, Joe Hodges, Bobby Fortenberry and Mayor Paul Yeager.

To say that there was no celebration, however, would not be accurate.

Dinah Scott, a typist for the city, provided a surprise 18th anniversary cake. Water Board Clerk Kathleen Buff and City Court Clerk Neal Lambert provided the trimming. A singing of "Happy Anniversary to You" was also enjoyed.

In an interview with the Reporter, Mayor Dunaway, who is beginning his seventh year in that position, reflected on the city's progress.

He said, "Probably what has been most beneficial over all was the putting in of a water system. None of the other things this city has done would have been possible without it. At the time the city incorporated, everyone was on individual wells."

A quick check with City Clerk Willie Mae Denis showed that the system was begun in 1967 with a Farmers Home Administration loan of $200,000. It was completed in 1969 and currently has assets totaling $3,270,557.67.

Dennis has been the only person to hold the position of city clerk in Pelham's entire 18 year

The second major accomplishment, according to Dunaway, was the construction of a new city building was constructed seven years ago. She said that the first office for the city was actually in her own home.

Later, the city moved into a school building on the site of the present city hall. After that, for 18 months, the city carried out all of its business from a trailer located behind the construction site of the new building.

Dennis said that the trailer housed the municipal court, the police station, the city clerk's office and the mayor's office.

Another major accomplishment for the city, Dunaway said, has been the construction of a new sewerage system.

Dennis reports that project was begun with a bond issue of $1.75 million in July of this year and should go into service next week.

According to the mayor, the impact of the new sewerage system will be the same on the growth of Pelham as was the water system. He said, "We have reached our peak of growth without a sewerage system."

Dunaway predicted that Pelham will continue to grow. It has already increased from a population of 654 to an estimated 7,200 and has gone from a town with only one major business to a city of many.

The city has enjoyed 12 annexations in its 18 year life, which added approximately 1,500 people. The mayor called the influx of other residents "true growth."

On the horizon, Dunaway sees a proposed Fun Waters Recreation Center as a huge boost to the city. That ambitious project, which is to be completed in May of next year, will provide a wave pool and recreation area.

Dunaway said, "We have always had progressive people on the council who encouraged growth instead of holding it back. We are probably in better

According to Dennis, the shape financially than most cities.

> "Our operation has been pay as you go with the exception of the water and sewerage system. Everyting else has been paid for, for the most part."

The mayor called Pelham's police and fire departments the city's biggest assets. He said. "New residents and industries are interested in that and we've got two outstanding departments."

He added, "We created paid fire departments in this county. Other cities are now following suit."

Pelham began its paid fire department in 1967 with a chief and seven firemen.

There were only three or four students on Jones' bus, number 73-7, when smoke started coming from under the hood.

After his passengers were out, Jones tried to put out the fire with the extinguisher on the bus.

When that failed, he called the mechanics from the bus shop but their attempt to put out the fire was also unsuccessful.

It took the Columbiana Fire Department to extinguish the fire top of the engine which sent smoke pouring out.

An estimated $3,500 worth of damage was done to the wiring. However, head mechanic Jerry Davidson expects repairs to be completed within several weeks.

No determination has been made as to what caused the fire, but the county education board's transportation supervisor Braxton Baker said the state transportation department will look into the matter.

Since standby buses are available, Baker reported that another vehicle will be used on the route until the damaged bus is repaired.

Members of a jury who will take their seats in the Shelby County courtroom next Thursday will have to decide whether an elderly gentlemen is guilty of murdering a teenage boy.

When the case gets underway at 6 p.m., Columbiana attorney Conrad M. Fowler Jr. will be the presiding judge.

Actually, the proceedings will be a mock trial which pits the state of Alabama against a defendant named Wainwright.

The case, which will highlight Court Observance Week, is designed to test the skill of the prosecution and defense.

Ironically, real juries have been cancelled because of the state's financial problems.

Calera Council draws fire from residents by Fred Guarino A very discontented crowd of

Budgets protested

27 residents looked on as the City of Calera adopted its 1982-83 budgets Monday night. While complaints centered around a $2,369,046 gas board budget, exchanges between the council and the crowd began when the city prepared to adopt its $687,693 general fund budget.

The residents were angry because the gas board budget included revenue from a four percent operating cost increase which was added to a hefty 14% gas rate increase passed on to the city by Southern Natural Gas. The result was a natural gas rate increase of 18% to customers.

When the crowd heard that the general fund budget included money transferred from gas board surplus funds, questions began to fly.

James Phillips asked, "How do you get money from gas (for other projects) and raise gas costs?'

Mayor Carl Prichard responded, "That's right Jim... If we didn't have the availability of this money, we would have to severely raise property taxes or cut services."

When Phillips asked how the gas department generated a profit, the mayor told him that the money came mainly from industrial users.

Howard Hughes asked if the city could pass on the 14% increase and leave off its four percent additional hike in operating

Prichard explained that if the cost increase were not passed on to gas customers that the uncollected revenue would amount to the city subsidising industries in Calera, who are the heaviest gas users. He made an example of the 14% hike.

Prichard said, "The City of Calera would fall flat on its back. We would have to get rid of our police."

When Hughes said he was not talking about the 14% but the four percent added to the increase by the city, Prichard said, "We could cut water rates and everything but soon this city would be in bad shape." He told Hughes that with past increases already absorbed by the city, residents are actually ahead of the game.

One man near the back of the room shouted, "If you keep on, the people living here will be in bad shape."

Another man stated, "I object to the four percent increase. You picked the worst time to put it on." He asked, "Have you thought about old people?"

Upon completion of discussion of the general fund budget, councilman Roy Hadaway moved that it be adopted. Councilman W.B. Watts who opposed the budget at its last meeting said, "I've already expressed myself. Priorities are in the wrong place."

The budget was approved with Watts voicing the only no vote. Following the vote on the general fund budget, Hadaway moved that the council adopt its gas board budget which was approved unanimously.

When Mayor Prichard asked

Calera mayor wins and loses with council

by Fred Guarino Mayor Carl Prichard enjoyed both success and failure during Monday night's session of the Calera City Council.

An ordinance, introduced by Mayor Prichard at the last session was automatically reintroduced and passed. It deals with the regulation of electronic and mechanical games.

The ordinance sets permit fees, regulates the hours and days the games may be operated in Calera. and was approved by councilmen Roy Hadaway, Bob Liftin and Jeff Pilgreen. Councilmen Doug LeSueur and W.B. Watts voted

According to the ordinance, a permit fee of $25 will be required yearly. If that permit is lost or destroyed, a replacement fee of $17.50 will be charged.

During the school year, games may be operated from 2:30 p.m. until 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday; 2:30 p.m. until midnight on Fridays; 8 a.m. until midnight on Saturdays; and 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Games may be operated when children are not in school from 8 a.m. until midnight, Monday through Saturday and from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Businesses with less than three machines must post hours of operation on the machines.

However a nomination by Prichard to place Joe Ball, vice president of Central State Bank, on the Calera water board failed to receive even a single yes vote.

LeSueur nominated Herman Palmer to the board in light of a recommendation by water board chairman J.C. Rowl. Palmer received the approval of all counIn other action:

Loftin officially resigned from office to accept a job with Liberty National Insurance Company. He had been a member of Calera's City Council for two years and Prichard said, "I accept this letter of resignation with reluctance."

Loftin explained that it was a policy of Liberty National that none of its employees hold public

The council agreed to pay Mrs. James Lee $158.34 for damages to her car's windshield while a city crew was mowing grass.

Pat Phillips was paid $50 for damages to her ice maker caused when the city cut off her water to make repairs.

Louise McCelhan received an adjustment of $5.87 on her sewer bill which resulted from problems on 17th Avenue.

While the council expressed its discontent, it agreed to pay engineer William E. Bright $440.14 for management of the city's gas lines and $641.36 for his work on the Southern Foundry Gas line for the city.

The council was upset because a retainer fee of $175 did not apply toward the invoices.

Prichard indicated that the council should consider putting its contract for a gas line engineer up for bid.

A payment of $300 was approved to Lamont Franklin for her 50 hours of work with the Calera Community Education Charges by Howard Hughes that a city official (police investigator Billy O'Bryan) used his car for other than city business were refuted by the council.

THANK YOU

To the Citizens of Shelby County:

My family and I want to personally thank each of you for the confidence and support you gave me in the Superintendent of Education race. I had the opportunity to meet many new friends during the campaign, and I am even more convinced that Shelby County is blessed with many wonderful people.

I look forward to the challenge ahead with excitement, confidence, humility, and of course a little anxiety. I am humbled by the opportunity to serve you. Your continued support will be needed during the coming years in order for our school system to provide the type educational opportunities our children need and deserve. I would appreciate it very much if the campaign workers could donate a little more of their time and help clean up our campaign posters and signs in their respective communities. I take pride in the fact that we ran a first-class campaign; so let's end it the same way. Again, thanks for your support and prayers.

Posters bring powerful message about DAY

"It's a nice intelligent program where young adults like us go because no other school in Shelby or Jefferson County will take

Those words were written on the poster created by a student in the DAY program for entry in a contest last week.

The initials DAY stand for developing Alabama youth, a program recently initiated in this county for students who are either delinquents or heading in that direction. The student who penned the words written above was twice sentenced to youth detention.

Although the poster didn't win a prize, program director J.K. Terrell feels that it packs a powerful message.

Terrell says he's having the poster framed to keep on permanent display at the center.

Fourteen young people between the ages of 12 and 17 now participate in the program which is housed in a small dwelling and counselor, because if it behind the Shelby County High School football stadium.

However, space limitations are forcing the relocation of the center to a larger building in Siluria within the next two weeks.

CETA, which provides funding for the program, has agreed to take care of remodeling costs.

The purpose of the poster contest, Terrell reported, was to "let our students display their creative ability and also to let them tell us what they're thinking about this program."

Other thoughts expressed on the poster which Terrell plans to keep before the students are these: "The program gives us special opportunities and makes us feel like somebody; it gives you good thoughts and helps you know what you want to do when you're ready to leave."

The student continued, "This is a very special place for us and we should respect each teacher

Without the center, students expeleld from school would receive no educational instruction. But with the remedial education they are receiving, most will be able to return to their classes at the grade level indicated by their age.

The majority of those enrolled are below grade level now, Terrell said. So their instruction, he explained, concentrates on reading, English and math.

However, one student demonstrated what can be accomplished when a one on one situation is possible.

who had gained one year and three months academically since the beginning of the school year.

In some cases, the problem stems from having the wrong attitude, the director noted.

Terrell told of a young man

Examining the 13 posters displayed at the center, contest judges were hard pressed to choose a winner.

They were asked to consider creativity, theme and neatness.

After careful deliberation, they awarded the $10 first prize to a poster which showed a great deal of artistic ability.

With the slogan, "The DAY program is out of this world," the colorful poster showed the earth and the bodies of outer

A poster entitled, "DAY program is progress with a purpose," took the $5 second prize.

Two posters tied for third. One referred to the program as "a blast," and the other showed a jack-o-lantern tipping his hat and saying, "hats off to the DAY program."

Third place winners were given a free lunch at a local restaurant with counselors of their choice.

Doug Bunn takes clown/fireman Bob Wanninger to jail during the Westover Fire Department Festival held Saturday, as he says goodbye to youngsters. #### Boothton lives

There's nothing left of the coal mining town of Boothton but memories. However, former residents and their descendents keep those memories alive with annual reunions at the site of the now razed southwest Shelby County community. Sunday's 25th Annual Boothton Day had a special touch for the oldest person there, Edward Lippeatt: it was his 83rd birthday. The youngest descendent attending the reunion was Randi Lynn Stone. Her grandfather, Hamilton Stone, a Boothton coal miner in the 30's, bought meat at the commissary from Lippeatt. (Photo by David F. Moore)

Poison emergency?

Over 15,000 poisonings were reported to The Children's Hospital Poison Information Center last year.

The leading culprits were drug ingestions which accounted for 3,500 accidents, houseplants which accounted for an additional 970 accidents and pesticides which were responsible for 620 potential disasters.

Charles Bruce, Director of The Children's Hospital Poison Information Center, said that parents could reduce the danger to their children by proper handling and storage of items this fall.

"Because of the rise in the number of coughs and colds seen in cooler weather, many cough and cold medications may be in your home," Bruce says. "All these can be toxic if not taken as directed. Many anti-cough formulas, antihistamines and nasal decongestants are very dangerous in the hands of a toddler, especially when the product is not available with child-proof packaging."

Members of The Children's Hospital Poison Information Staff caution parents against leaving any medication in purses, on kitchen or bathroom cabinets or anywhere in reach or sight of small children. The safest storage is always behind a lock. Perhaps an old tackel box or cosmetics case can be locked and placed high in a closet and out of reach and sight of curious toddlers.

Poisons in Your Garden Bulbs from your flower garden are potentially poisonous. If you intend to store them inside for the winter, put them behind a lock and out of reach and out of sight of children. Never put them in an open closet or on an open garage

Pesticides are deadly. Always put them up, but especially during the fall season when they are not frequently used. Toddlers want to mimic their parents' behavior and undoubtably your children have seen you using these pesticides during the summer past.

You should also store the gasoline for your lawnmower in a proper place, not in a glass bottle or soft drink container. Many children and adults as well have often made the mistake of drinking liquid poisons improperly stored in milk containers of other bottles.

Poisons in the Home

If you are planning to remove winter clothes that have been stored with moth balls, be sure to discard the moth balls safely. Toddlers often mistake these for gumdrops or candy. Only one or two moth balls can cause serious illness if ingested.

Black widow and brown recluse spiders are known to nest in boxes in dresser drawers where winter clothing has been stored. Be careful as you remove these clothes from storage. Shake clothes well before handling or wearing.

Should a poisoning occur, call the Poison Information Center at The Children's Hospital immediately. In the greater Birmingham area call 933-4050. Outside this area, call toll-free 1-800-292-6678.

Y programs are for children and their parents

An Indian princess who visited Thompson Elementary School last week had no trouble keeping the attention of her audience.

When she told them about a program in which they could be Indian princesses and guides, the students seemed captivated by the idea.

In reality, Princess Night Owl is Shelby County's YMCA Director Molly McGregor.

And the program she presented is one of the parent-child programs now in their second year at the county Y.

"One aspect of these programs that make them unique," McGregor explained, "is the requirement that parent and child participate together."

Something else different about them, she noted, is the meetings being held in homes rather than at the Y

According to the Y director, 150 parents and children in Shelby County participated in the two programs last year.

Registration is being held this month, and interested persons who are not able to get to the Y may call 663-6504.

To be eligible for the program, youngsters should be between the

"It is good!," insists UW Montevallo Service Center director Connie Miller. "This is good, name-brand stuff." The store works this way, she explains. People bring unwanted clothing in "nearly new" condition to the center. In return, they can claim the donations as tax deductions.

"There are some very dedicated folks who once or twice a year clean out their closets and bring their stuff down to us," Miller says. "Some of the donations are left-overs from yard sales." "We're open to anyone who wants to come in and shop," she says. "We're strictly a non-profit organization and any purchase money goes back into other United Way services."

Store hours are 9-1 Monday through Thursday, and 10-1 on Saturdays. Miller is on hand to assist shoppers on the weekdays and Susie Willis is there to help on Saturdays.

Since the heaviest shopping day is Saturday, Miller suggests coming on, say, Thursday, to beat the crowd and get the best selection. This is especially true for children's clothing, she adds. Besides bargain conscious shoppers, the Nearly New Store is always looking for donations of clothing in good condition.

"We need both," Miller says. "That's what keeps us going."

For more information on the United Way's Nearly New Store, call 665-1942.

Falling rainbow

The Sautel family had a colorful surprise Saturday morning when a giant, hot air balloon landed in front of their north Shelby home. Wafford Sautel snapped this picture a short time later as the balloon's chase crew helped deflate 'The Promise.'

Rainbow ends in north Shelby

by David F. Moore

Saturday started out as just another quiet beautiful, morning in north Shelby. It was shortly before eight and the Wafford Sautel family was getting ready to go the country fair at Our Lady of the Valley.

Then they heard it, the loud

"When I heard the noise," said Flora Sautel, "I thought we had a problem with the plumbing, or the kids had turned on the high pressure spigot outside."

"I raced out the front door and there I was--face to to face with a rainbow of color!"

Time to back up for a word about The Promise.

Earlier that morning, at the intersection of highways 280 and 119, pilot Bob Sult and his chase crew inflated The Promise, a massive, rainbow colored, hot air balloon. Steve and Sidney Zaden, a Jefferson County couple who won a balloon ride from WDJC radio station, climbed in the basket with Sult, and away they

The rainbowed Promise climbed slowly into the Shelby morning sky, offering a vista of long reaching valleys. Flying low, the balloonists waved to people below and collected oak leaves and hickory nuts from tree tops, Sult said.

After a slow, beautiful ride of about an hour, Sult said he spotted the first good landing spot he'd seen--open spaced Sunny Meadows subdivision.

"It was time to land anyway, so I took advantage of situation." Sult said. "We came down in the road, about 15 feet from a mailbox."

It was the hiss of Promise's propane flame that caught the attention of the Sautel family.

"I didn't know what to do when I saw that big colorful balloon right there in front of our house," said Mrs. Sautel, "so I called out, 'Can I get you a cup of coffee?""

"Oh, we're in time for breakfast," Sult laughed back. No one complained that the quiet morning had unexpectedly taken a turn for the exciting. "We ooohed and ahhhed for a while, and the girls (Stephanie, 9, and Sharon, 8) got excited and my husband took pictures," said Mrs. Sautel, "We got them orange juice and watched them take the ballon down."

"Yes," agreed Sult, "we had a tremendous time and wonderful fellowship with the Sautels."

For their cooperation, Sult presented the family with a certificate of balloon return "to Mother Earth on property of the Sautels." "We were real excited about the whole experience," said Mrs.

The Sautel family formerly lived in Pelham, but moved eight years ago to Louisville, Kentucky. They returned to north Shelby only about six weeks ago.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mildred Dawson would love to say a special thanks to the neighbors, friends and loved ones for all of the prayers, food and many expressions of love in our time of sadness.

A special word of thanks to the Columbiana Clinic P.A. for their devoted time in the medical field. Thanks, too, for the time spent with the family trying to help us understand.

Last, but by no means not least, our deepest appreciation goes out to the 3rd floor nurses station. Shelby Medical Center has a very big asset on 3rd floor. All of the nurses went far beyond their duty not only with Mama but with her family also. We learned to love so many of you fin a very special way. You will never be forgotten. Thanks again for such beautiful people at Shelby Medical Center.

We would also like to thank the Shelby County Sheriff's Deputies, Calera Police Dept., and Montevalio Police Dept. for their escort and traffic control during the time of our Mother's death.

For the many prayers and words of comfort from so many people we say

Thompson steamrolls over Shelby County

by Richard Crosby Ever tried to stop a runaway steamroller? That was the task Friday night. for Shelby County's Wildcats last

The Wildcats tried to stop the the machine. Thompson won the battle 35-6 in Columbiana. The new chant from the Thompson sidelines is, "Six and O and eight to go!" The first half of that cheer is complete. To finish the second, Thompson would have to become the state 3A champion.

steamrolling Thompson Warriors

but managed only to slow down

That's the kind of team Thompson looked like Friday night. The Warriors scored the first time they had the ball, moving 61 yards in about four minutes. Richard Brasher passed 20 yards to Tim Smith for the score. Jeff Willis was wide with the PAT.

The second possession was also fruitful for the Warriors. Demetrius Threatt ran the final two yards to cap a 57 yard drive. Brasher passed to Scottie Hawkins for the two-point conversion, making the score 14-0 with 2 seconds left in the first quarter.

Thompson made it look easy on its third possession. From his own 32 yard line, quarterback Brasher hurled a 68 yard bomb to Jeff Joiner for a touchdown. Again the PAT was wide, leaving the score 20-0 with just under ten minutes left in the first half.

While Thompson scored the first three times it had the ball, Shelby County had a different fate. The Wildcats failed to make a first down. The fourth time seemed to be different.

Curtis Sherman made the Wildcats' first first down of the night, followed by another minutes later by Pat Wallace on a fourth-and-one play.

The excitement was short lived however. A 15 yard penalty pushed the 'Cats back, and two plays later quarterback Kenneth Jones was tackled in the endzone giving Thompson two points.

With the score 22-0, Thompson sent in the substitutes. The half finished with the Warriors in control 22-0.

The Warriors added another touchdown at the start of the third period. Moving 74 yards, Threatt scored his second TD of the night on a 14 yard run. Willis toed true on the PAT making the score 29-0.

Shelby County's lone score of the evening came in the third period with a 54 yard march. Three first downs were gathered in the drive with Kenneth Jones passing 25 yards to Bruce Martin on a fourth down play. The pass for the conversion points was unsuccessful.

With a score of 29-6 both teams reverted to a defensive effort. Thompson's first punt of the night came in the third period with under two minutes left.

Shelby County had another chance to score with seven minutes left in the game. A bad snap by Thompson on a punt set the Wildcats up with a first and goal from Thompson's 10 yard

The Warrior defense and crucial penalties pushed Shelby County back, however. With fourth down and 43 yards to go, the Wildcats faked a punt and passed, but it wasn't enough.

The final score of the evening came by chance. Wildcat Jones attempted a flair pass that was picked off by Thompson's Scottie Hawkins who ran it back 50 yards for a touchdown. That made the score 35-6 with 13 seconds remaining.

Thompson coach Larry Simmons said afterwards that he was glad the game was over. "You know it's tough playing Ricky (Seales)," Simmons remarked. "He was my quarterback in 1972. That was Thompson's first 10-0 season and the first year to play in the state playoffs.

"Ricky is the only former player I've had to coach against," Simmons continued. "When we prepared for this game us coaches had to remember that we were playing Shelby County and not Ricky."

Coach Simmons was pleased with the win, but discounted the chants from the crowd. This week Thompson takes on Childersburg while Shelby County readies for Homecoming against Pell City.

Play action

Shelby County's Kenneth Jones sets up a pass play against the Thompson Warriors. The play helped the Wildcats to their only touchdown of the night. Thompson whipped Shelby County 35-6 to keep its undefeated record perfect. (Photo by Richard

Briarwood wins homecoming, stays perfect

by Fred Guarino

The undefeated Briarwood Lions are for real.

They proved it before an already convinced homecoming crowd Friday night, defeating Independent Methodist School 26-12.

That win, which came against a team Briarwood had not beaten in three meetings, pushed the Lions' record to 5-0 on the season.

But it was a victory that did not come easy. IMS held on to a 12-7 lead at the half.

Coach Gary Fleming called the second half comeback by his team, "fantastic."

He said, "We just wore them After a victory prayer, Flemming told his charges, "You never gave up and you didn't quit. You had key people out nurt and never quit. You blew them off the

When one team member shouted "No practice Monday," the coach smiled and said, "Weights, Monday."

Things did not start well for Briarwood. IMS took the opening kick and marched from its own 47 yard line to pay dirt. The PAT failed and Independent Methodist led 6-0.

But Briarwood was itching

IMS saw a bad punt taken over by Briarwood at the its own 21 yard line late in the first period.

Rob Holmes carried the ball to the 11 for a first down and then to the IMS six. On second down, Stephen Lindsey burst into the endzone. Holmes added the PAT and the Lions led 7-6.

IMS tried again to spoil Briarwood's homecoming.

A pass picked off by an IMS defender set Independent Methodist up in good field position at the Lions' 41 yard line.

On fourth down and six yards to go. IMS completed a 25 yard pass to the Briarwood four yard line. The next play saw IMS go on top 12-7 in the second period.

A fake kick, two point conversion try failed but Independent Methodist took that lead into the halftime dressing room.

Any hopes IMS had of making it four wins in a row over Briarwood evaporated in the cool night air of the second half.

Briarwood took the second half kickoff and returned it 75 yards for a Lion touchdown. The PAT failed but Briarwood led 13-12 never trailed again.

by Fred Guarino

The Vincent Yellow Jackets continued their winning ways Friday night by blasting Winterboro 30-6 for homecoming.

Coming off a big win over B. B. Comer last week, Vincent pushed its season record to 3-2 with the victory.

Assistant Coach Richard Crumpton said that his team was glad to win. However, he indicated that the team did not play as well as it could have. "It was homecoming, which tends to distract the kids with all that hoopla and nonsense," said Crumpton.

"In the second and third quarter we did not play real well. In the fourth quarter we played better but not as well as we did

The visitors were able to get on the scoreboard thanks only to a Vincent gift.

The Jackets fumbled on their own 15 yard line as the third quarter came to a close. Winterboro took advantage of the offering and scored from one yard out early in the fourth period.

To prevent Winterboro from nurturing any comeback hopes, Vincent took the kick and struck with lightning speed.

Reynolds went to the air and lit the scoreboard early in the first hit Smith for a 72 yard touchdown play. Kelow missed the extra point but the Jackets upped their lead to 23-6.

If that wasn't enough, Vincent put the game on ice with just five minutes left in the contest.

Douglas Datcher picked up a Winterboro fumble and carried it 25 yards for a touchdown. The conversion was good and the Jackets claimed victory 30-6.

Crumpton was indeed pleased with the outcome of Friday's game. Even though he said the Yellow Jackets were slowed down by homecoming activities, he took his hat off to the team and gave it to Reporter photographer

David Moore. Vincent managed 18 first downs for the night, rushed for 242 yards and went to the air for 142 yards. The result was 384 yards total offense.

The visitors could gain only seven first downs, rush for 73 yards and pass for 46 yards. Their effort for the night was 119 yards total offense. Vincent is now 2-1 in area play.

Jemison rips Montevallo 34-0 Jemison claimed its fifth son suffered a neck injury that beat Montevallo. He said his straight win of the season Friday, blanking Montevallo 34-0.

The loss dropped Montevallo's season record to 2-4, but provided the Jemison homecoming crowd with all the satisfaction they could want.

Coach Richard Gilliam said of the contest, "We just got a good whipping by a good ball club."

What the Bulldog Coach did not want to emphasize was the fact that three Montevallo starters were injured. One of those players could not compete Friday night and two played with severe limitations.

In practice prior to Friday's contest, 6'5" 250 lb. Ricky Dobwill keep him out of action for four to six weeks.

Just as Dobson went to the hospital, 245 lb. tackle Lonnie Layton went down with a leg injury. A severe briuse took him out of practice for the week and limited his play against Jemison.

On the same day, quarterback Howard Gaddis suffered a bruised thigh. In addition to running Montevallo's offense, he handles all punting and place kicking duties.

Coach Gilliam said that he stopped practice after the in-

Fultondale knocks out Pelham

The Pelham Panthers dropped their season record to 1-4, losing to Fultondale 17-0 in Pelham.

Panther Coach Billy Tohill attributed the loss to his team's inability to make tackles.

He said, "We had people in position all night long but missed tackle after tackle."

Tohill called Fultondale's Kevin Wood one of the best tailbacks his team has faced all year.

Fultondale held Pelham to only nine first downs, 107 yards rushing and six yards passing for a total offense of 113 yards.

The visitors scored on a 13 yard pass, a three yard run and a 27 yard field goal. They amassed 286 yards total offense.

Pelham will face Moody in an away game tomorrow night.

Rules change for hunting opossums

The raccoon and opossum season opened on October 15 with some changes in the legal arms and ammunition hunters may use.

Chief Law Enforcement Officer Dalton Halbrook of the Game and Fish division, Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, says the law now restricts raccoon and opossum hunters to using shotguns with No. 8 shot or smaller.

Halbrook says the new law prohibits using No. 6 shot or .22 caliber rifles as allowed in previous years.

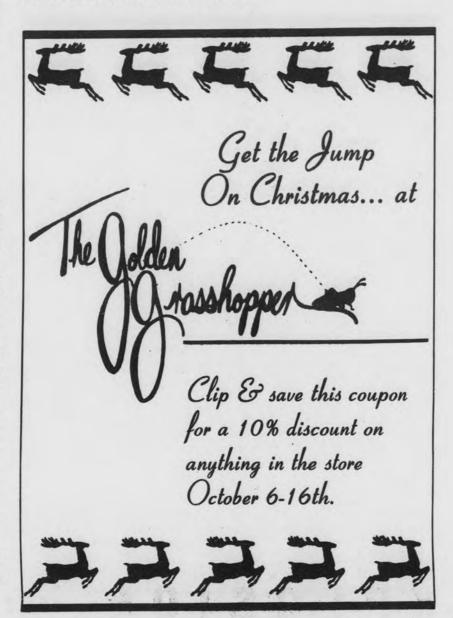

The season will close on February 28, 1983. The bag limits remain five raccoons per party per day with no limit set for oppossum.

Halbrook cautions all hunters hunting on the lands of another to have the landowner's permis-

Analyzes pest eradication

CVA teacher called by nations

by Fred Guarino

A Coosa Valley Academy science and math teacher has provided a service not only to this country but to Mexico as well.

Dr. W. G. Eden was called upon to serve as a disinterested third party to analyze a project to eradicate the screw worm from the Rio Grande south to the Isthmus of Tehuantepec this past

The governments of Mexico and the United States have signed a treaty calling for a blockade of the serious insect livestock pest by establishing a biological barrier to prevent it from moving

The screw worm fly lays eggs in the wounds of livestock which hatch into worms. Those worms feed on living tissue until they reach adulthood and become

The method being used to control them is to introduce sterile male screw worm flies into populations with fertile females. Their mating results in eggs which will not hatch.

The worm has already been eliminated in the southwest United States, according to Eden, and should be eradicated in Mexico by 1984.

Eden was well qualified to analyze the project. A retired entomologist, (person who studies insects) he served on the faculty of Auburn University for 25 years and the University of Florida for ten years.

He has been involved in international activity concerning the study of insect pest problems.

Upon retiring from college work, Eden became a teacher for Coosa Valley Academy three years ago. He teaches advanced courses in biology, physics, chemistry, algebra, trigonometry and geometry.

How is the project working? Eden said, "That is exactly the question the Mexican and me to answer. I have just completed my report. It has to be answered with a provision.

"If 500 million flies can be produced per week by January 1983, the project can be completed by 1984."

However, he points out that economic conditions could affect the plant in Southern Mexico

American governments wanted which will produce the sterile files and could cause delays in getting them delivered.

> But he said, "There is no question that the technique is right."

Eden is a native of St. Clair County and a resident of Pell City. He said of Coosa Valley Academy, "It is a wonderful little institution."

Chelsea wins first game; downs Maplesville 18-9

by Fred Guarino

The Chelsea Hornets have claimed their first win of the 1982 season.

In an away contest, the Hornets defeated Maplesville 18-9 to go 1-4 for the year.

Coach Roger Hibbs credited the win to the game plan by his assistant coaches and a "hell of a good job by our kids."

Making the victory sweet for Chelsea was the fact that it was their first away game win in six years and it came against a team that had lost only one game.

Hibbs said of the victory, "It was a total team effort. We got a lot of good leadership from our seniors and a lot of sophomores grew up in that game."

He heaped praise on Larry Cork, Jeff Lackey, Keith Brasher, Greg Conkle, Tommy White, Joe Lee, Walt Tatum, Mort Moody and Mat Russell.

He stated, "I haven't looked at the film yet but these were people who made big plays."

Not leaving anyone out, Coach Hibbs stated that the kids who did not enter the game Friday night contributed by giving support to those on the field.

Realistically, Hibbs stated, "We are not a good team yet but we've got something to build on.

We have got to take each game one at a time and improve each week."

Chelsea scored first on a three yard run by Cork in the first quarter. A two point conversion attempt failed but the Hornets led 6-0.

In the second quarter Lackey broke a 35 yard run to the Maplesville three yard line. He then took the ball into the endzone for the score.

Another two point conversion attempt failed but Chelsea led 12-0.

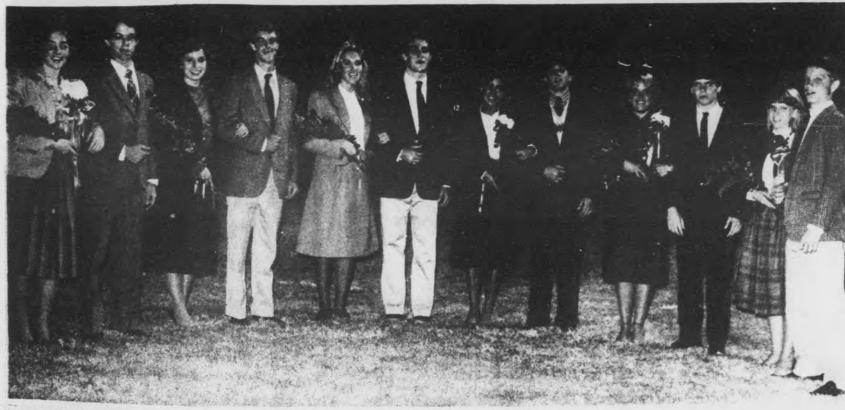

Maplesville recovered a Chelsea fumble in the third quarter and cashed that in for a touchdown. The PAT was good and the score was cut 12-7.

The Hornets iced the game in the fourth period.

Lackey broke a 45 yard run against Maplesville and Cork took the ball into the endzone from two yards out. A two point conversion attempt failed again but the Hornets led 18-7.

Late in the fourth quarter, Chelsea played safe and gave up a safety to Maplesville. The game ended with the Hornets on top for the first time this season 18-9.

The Hornets play at Winterboro tomorrow night.

Young Panthers win

A goal line stand early in the 'run by George Golliday with the first quarter helped the undefeated Pelham 85 pounders blank Adamsville.

The 14-0 win for the young Panthers pushed their season record to a perfect 6-0.

Set up by a fumble, Adamsville drove to a first down on the Panther four yard line. But successive defensive plays by David Sanders, Brian Chambers and Wade Evans netted Adamsville a minus five yards.

Pelham took over the ball on its nine yard line.

Under the direction of quarterback Jimmy Hicks, the young Panthers marched for a 6-0 halftime lead. The score came on a aid of a key block by Robbie Mc-Cary in the second quarter.

In the second half, Pelham again drove for a touchdown. The score came on a four yard dive by David Sanders with key blocking by Todd Miller, Chris Caldwell, J.D. Charlton and Jimbo Doyle.

Defensively, the Panthers were led by Slade Holladay with eight tackles, one interception and one fumble recovery. The defense was helped by the pass rushing of Jeff Sciascia, Scott Queen and Eric Horton.

Adamsville could manage only 48 total yards.

Shocking Raiders drop Lowndes

by Fred Guarino

"We finally looked better... It has been a long time coming... It was shocking.'

Those were the words of Shelby Academy's Coach De-Wayne Kervin after his team snapped a three game losing streak Friday night.

In an away game, the Raiders defeated Lowndes Academy 29-14 and evened their season record at 3-3.

For fans who saw Shelby Academy's last three contests, Friday's game must have been shocking.

The Raiders made 20 first downs, rushed for 349 yards and passed for 39 yards for a total offense of 388 yards.

Kervin said, "I was shocked we could control the ball that well. We whipped them (Lowndes) from end to end. Keith Knowles and Bryan Russell ran harder than they have all year.

"Mike Silvani executed the option perfectly."

For the night Russell gained 159 yards, Silvani made 100 yards and Knowles gained 90 yards.

Continuing his disbelieving praise, Kervin said, "I didn't think we could make that big a turnaround that fast."

Shelby Academy scored first on a one yard Silvani run, which capped a 65 yard drive. Knowles booted the PAT good and the Raiders led 7-0.

The second score of the night came on a one yard burst by Russell in the second quarter. The PAT was no good but the Raiders led 13-0.

The Raiders upped their lead in the third quarter when Knowles booted a 22 yard field goal. That made the score 16-0 Shelby Lowndes scored in the third period but failed in a two point conversion effort.

Proving they were really back, the Raiders then marched 70 yards for another score, overcoming two 15 yard penalties.

The drive showed that the Raiders could control the ball as it lasted nearly eight minutes and an 11 yard run. They made carried from the third into the fourth quarter.

Silvani capped the drive with a six yard run. The PAT failed but the Raiders were up 22-6.

Lowndes scored on a long pass the two point conversion good to cut the lead back to 22-14.

Hoping to steal at least a tie from the Raiders, Lowndes tried an onside kick. However, it was the Raiders' Art Vernon who came up with the ball.

The Raiders drove again, and scored with a one yard Knowles run. The PAT was good and the Raiders took home the win 29-14.

Commissioner Don Murphy said, "I was led to believe we would have a substantial increase. What was the difference?"

The commission clerk responded, "About a million and a half dollars."

Snowden said that requests turned in by department heads would take the county budget over eight and a half million dollars.

Hand for the library

Hands on the shovel which broke ground for Alabaster's new library belong to architect Charles Moss, Mayor "Doc" Rubin, Caroline Scott and State Director of Public Library Services, Tony Mealy.

White perseveres in nomination fight

Supreme Court has agreed with a lower court on residency requirements. White won the Democratic party nomination for State Senate District 17 over Doug Cook in the September primary. But she was challenged for not having resided in the district continually for three years preceding the election.

The Democratic Party's Executive Committee ruled that she had not met the requirement, and the decision was affirmed in two courts. The state Supreme Court ruled on it Monday.

Nadine Anderson, a spokesperson for White, told the Reporter that they may appeal to a federal court. The decision on a Lucile White is not giving up, federal appeal is waiting the writeven though the Alabama ten report from the Supreme Court.

White has retained former Birmingham Mayor David Vann as her attorney, but he was not allowed to present her case to the Democratic Executive Committee. The committee named Dale Corley of Vestavia as its candidate for the office, turning aside Doug Cook, who was the senator from that district for the past four years. The district serves a large section of Shelby County in the Alabaster-Pelham area, as well as a part of Jefferson County.

The Democratic nominee will face Spencer Bachus III, the Republican candidate, in the November general election.

Even though it began to sprinkle as the Homecoming parade for Shelby County High School was about to get underway Friday afternoon, it didn't dampen this happy clown's spirits.

Alabaster library breaks ground "It all began one day when designed the building and Mr.

Phil Clark walked into my office." recounted Alabaster Mayor H.A. "Doc" Rubin, "and asked if we could use a $300,000 library grant if he could get it."

Rubin said his answer was, 'Go after it!"

"And he did," the Mayor laughed. With a lot of people working toward that end, the grant was obtained and a groundbreaking for the structure held Friday. Tony Mealy, state director of public library services, was one of the people responsible for the grant being obtained. He told those gathered for the ceremony that "Without sharing and cooperation, libraries would have a difficult time existing." Saying he was happy to have helped obtain the money for the library construction, Mealy added that the grant was the last one to be given through the Appalachian Regional Commission.

"I look forward to coming back to help you dedicate the building," he said.

Another individual who played a major role in making the library a reality was also on hand for the groundbreaking.

Caroline Scott, the widow of the late Albert L. Scott, and her family donated the 42,000 foot site at 1st Ave and 9th St. to the Architect Charles Moss, who

Lovelady, the contractor, were also on hand.

Members of the building committee who were present were: Scott, Katie Hill, Milton Allen and Clark. Mildred Harrison is also a committee member.

The city is required to put $75,000 into the project. Of that amount, $35,000 will be in-kind services and $40,000 will come from revenue sharing funds.

Deputy hours may be cut

by Fred Guarino

An 11 percent pay raise for sheriff's deputies may be no raise at all.

Monday, the Shelby County Commission discussed the possibility of granting the increase required by state law, but cutting back the number of hours deputies are allowed to work.

The pay increase would be based on an hourly scale and would result in an almost identical action to that taken by the state regarding the pay of its troopers.

As the county will not see as large an increase in revenue as it expected, Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden said, "I believe we are not going to be able to give a raise, but (we can) do like the Graveside services were held Sunday afternoon at the Montevallo cemetery for Francis Peterson (Pete) Givhan, Sr.

The Shelby County business and civic leader died Thursday night October 7, after a brief stay in a Montgomery nursing home.

A graduate of the University of Alabama and a veteran of World War II, Givhan served as mayor of Montevallo and as chairman of the Montevallo Cemetery Board. He was also a past president of the Montevallo Chamber of Commerce.

In 1978 he was named distinguished citizen of the year by the Chamber of Commerce. At that presentation he was honored as a charter member and former president of the Montevallo Rotary Club, as an elder and trustee of the Montevallo Presbyterian Church and as chairman of the city's planning and zoning board.

At the time of his death he was chairman of the board of directors of the Merchants and Planters Bank.

Mr. Givhan was formerly associated with the Birmingham Coca Cola Bottling Company.

He is survived by his wife Frances Lewis Givhan, a son, Dr. Edgar G. Givhan, II of Montgomery, a daughter, Mrs. R.M. Lightfoot of Montevallo and nine grandchildren.

He was a lifetime resident of Montevallo.

Some Columbiana residents haven't paid a sewer charge in three years. Although the council agreed in August to disconnect water at the homes of 44 individuals who had delinquent bills, no action has been taken so far.

At Thursday night's council meeting, Councilman Lewis Walker, who also heads the city's water board, said he had been trying to let the controversy about the board settle down before he acted.

Walker referred to charges that have been made by former water board chairman Bob Hume regarding the operation of the

At Thursday's meeting, Walker was faced with having his department become even more unpopular.

In seeking a solution to collecting overdue garbage bills, Councilman Frank Owen presented an ordinance used by the the city of Vincent.

It calls for disconnecting the water of individuals who have delinquent garbage bills.

After it was suggested that the water board was the appropriate department to handle that chore, Walker expressed his disapproval.

"We'll be like a police force,"

Owen then said he thought the council should give some more thought to the proposal.

meeting. The law which exists but is not enforced concerns the confinement of dogs.

Since there have never been any serious problems, the council has never had to crack down on the canine population.

But a recent incident involving an attack on a young child made the panel take a closer look at the situation.

Junior Littlefield's parents brought the youngster to the meeting to show the council the result of the attack.

The little boy had stitches in his forehead, eyelid, ear and both cheeks, and the parents said plastic surgery would have to be performed.

However, the dog ordinance would have no bearing on that particular situation since the dog was chained on the owner's property at the time of the attack.

Commissioner Don Murphy echoed Snowden saying, "We have to do like the troopers."

The county attorney advised that the commission could copy the state's action because the law requiring it to grant the pay increase was comparable. Commissioner Harold Davenport stated that the salary of the employees would just have to be converted to hours.

A question was raised by Murphy concerning the fact that deputies are already supposed to be collecting the pay increase. He asked about Friday's upcoming payroll, "Do we pay them with or without the raise?'

Commissioner Alpha Lowe suggested that the county hold back the pay increase until a new budget is adopted. Davenport added that the pay could be added retroactively after the budget is

How to stretch $63,139 to cover $151,547 in requests is the problem confronting the finance committee of the Montevallo City Council.

The city's General Revenue Sharing budget for fiscal 1982-83 is set at $63,139. During a public hearing regarding spending of revenue sharing funds held Monday night, council members heard requests totaling $151,547.

The finance committee will present its recommendations on Oct. 25. The council will then allocate revenue sharing funds to various departments and functions of city government.

Montevallo's public safety departments made the largest requests with the police department asking for $25,937, the fire department requesting $25,000 and emergency medical services asking for $10,000.

Other requests: Library Board, $21,000; general services, $15,000 for a computer and $15,000 for a dump truck, $10,000 for a surfaced running track at Fisher Stadium, $10,000 for repairing downtown sidewalks, $6,610 for refurbishing and replacing park and recreation equipment, $8,000 for a fence at the Middle School Park and $5,000 to resurface roads in the Montevallo Cemetery.

Don Murphy wants a branch license office in north Shelby County. Monday he asked his fellow county commissioners to vote with him on the project.

Two of them went along with him, and Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden was authorized to work up plans for such an office. The only commissioner to object was J. Alpha Lowe.

Lowe told Snowden, "You had better find out if it is legal. People from Vincent will be down here to demand one too."

Snowden told Lowe, "It is legal, because I have been working on it six years. Everyone would like to have a branch. The commission will just have to decide where."

Lowe said that he felt all parts of the county should be treated equally, "one for one." He said that he would not vote for any budget that included a branch license office.

Documentation

In addition to the plan for a branch license office, Murphy moved that the commission request documentation from the sheriff concerning the medical treatment of inmates.

Commission members agreed to the request when the county attorney pointed out that such records would be necessary if it wanted to deny treatment to a prisoner because of suspected medical care abuse. Liquor

Monday, Commissioner Harold Davenport moved that the license be denied because he understood no letter would be coming from Glasgow. He said that a letter had been sent, but the sheriff called it back.

However, when applicant Mary Lorraine Montgomery told the commission that she expected a letter from the sheriff in support of the license, the issue was set aside again. Davenport told the commission that he had nothing against the people who wanted the license but felt the location of the lounge had been a trouble spot.

He said, "I have turned down applications on this same location three times but there was nothing wrong with the people who applied."

Davenport said that if a letter of support came from the sheriff, he would approve the request. He commented that the sheriff's department would be responsible for keeping order at the location.

A liquor license request was denied for Vines Package Store on Highway 25 in Vandiver. Lowe made the motion.

General Motors to purchase back a sheriff's car which burned after until a letter of recommendation it was repaired; and heard a report from the county attorney that a written demand has been sent to Gulf States Paper Company to reopen Brown Acres Road near Moore Town.

The burned sheriff's car was reportedly repaired at Bill Strickland's Chevrolet in Alabaster and caught fire just a few blocks away.

General Motors said it would repurchase the car at the purchase price less 15 cents per mile on the car.

Murphy was concerned about equipment the county had invested in the car and wanted to be sure the county could regain what it had put into the vehicle.

Breakins and forgeries top sheriff's report

Six thefts, six burglaries and one attempted burglary were investigated by the sheriff's department from October 1-9.

October 6, someone apparently made a dual burglary on two U.S. 280 businesses. The Westover '76 Station and Westover Auto Parts, which share the same building, were both burglarized early Wednesday morning.

According to reports, $5,000-$6,000 worth of merchandise was stolen from the parts store. About $600 worth of collector's coins and bills, and cigarettes were taken from the service station next door.

Investigators reportedly have a suspect in the case.

An apparent breakin was made at Eason Mitchell's Shelby Shores residence October 2. When authorities responded to the alarm, they found a window broken and a door open.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

We got there at nine o'clock, passed a million trees turning red and gold and pink, all of 'em so pretty you almost didn't want to go on, but would just stay on the road and look.

But we went on. The same as we do once every week, because fishing is pretty special at our house.

There's one thing I ought to mention, right now before I forget it. Never go fishing unless you've got things fixed for it. And another thing: If you do go and figure you'll have to tramp up and down the rough banks, be dead certain you don't forget your belt. Fishing with your pants halfway off is not a very good way to do it.

Well, we had two poles and two lines. One had a float on it and a hook and a sinker. The other had a float and a hook but no sinker. And there was a nickle candy sack in the truck at Woodlawn with hooks in it and floats and sinkers.

Amy threw under a willow bush and a bass stripped her pole. That left one pole with nothing on it and one pole without a sinker and the candy sack in Woodlawn.

"Did you bring your tackle box?" she asked me.

I didn't want to answer. But she kept looking at me.

"Did you?" she added.

"I guess I didn't," I managed. She said something about going to the store in the morning. She'd get a tackle box with hooks in it and floats and lines and sinkers. And two people trying to fish with just one pole and no

"I'll go get some," I said. And I did, back past the million trees, and on into town.

When I got back she had caught two brim and put 'em in the basket and one had got out, through the bottom that wasn't fastened.

I fixed the basket, halfway, and put on a sinker, she caught two more while I fixed another pole. When I went to put the last one in the basket it was empty. That made four fish and we only had one.

While in town, hurrying, I got the wrong size hooks. They were tiny bait hooks and I lost four brim. I yelled to a guy down the bank and he loaned me a good hook. Amy caught two more while I was changing hooks. And when I got my line in she caught another. I put my pole down to take it off and a big bull got on my line and drug my pole in. A good thirty feet from the bank. I called to the man again. He came over and got my pole out, hooking it with his rod and reel.

By now, we had a fine catch and it was time to leave. "You know something," I said. She looked at me sort o' strange. "What?"

"I forgot my belt, and walking up and down this bank with my pants half off has just about run me crazy."

She didn't say a word.

Scrambled

Now I understand the expression, "the bottom fell out."

It fell out Tuesday as I sat at my MDT, frantically trying to get all my copy written before deadline.

Even when I viewed the situation with as much optimism as I could muster, it was still a losing

And then it happened. Water suddenly poured down on me from above.

It was a startling experience to say the least.

There I was, trying to work my way through a sewer story, when I suddlenly felt as though I was in Water ran down a rod from the ceiling onto the fluorescent light fixture above me and from there it cascaded down like a waterfall onto my desk.

The deluge also plummeted from above through other ceiling cracks in my area.

Everyone ran for a garbage can or waste basket to put under the leaks. Some kind person put sheets of brown wrapping paper over all the valuable litter that covers my desk top.

Although we've had leaks during heavy rains, this was the first time we've ever experienced anything of this magnitude at the son County. There is no law against this, but surely with as many people as we have in Shelby

Our investigative staff deduced that the sewer had backed up because of heavy rainfall, causing our drains and bathroom fixtures to become fountains. I seem to remember something in last week's paper about Columbiana needing to improve its sewer system. As the streams of water coming from above diminished into drips, I removed the piece of plastic from my machine and settled down on my soggy chair to finish my stories.

But guess what? The source of my information had vanished.

I'm talking about my notebook, which is as important to a reporter as a scalpel is to a surgeon. When I say I turned the shop upside down looking for that pocket sized item, I'm not kidding. If I didn't find it, I knew I wouldn't have time to make calls and get all the information I I guessed I'd just pick up and go home and let the paper go to press without my fascinating, timely, and never to be forgotten stories. But I knew the world was waiting to find out about sewers, court fines, and the knights of old who visited the county. Yes, I even visualized a certain family scanning the pages of the paper time after time, trying to find a story about their goats. I've got to find that notebook,

I muttered, as I dug through every garbage can.

Finally, when I was nearly at my wit's end, one member of the staff held up a pad she'd found on a cabinet in the rear of the shop under a coffee cup.

"That's it I screamed - you found it - you have my undying gratitude."

. Of course no one knows how it got there, but then, who cares? I have a Scrambled Eggs column for you, and you get to find out about the other stuff I recorded in that little spiral bound book this week.

So even though I'm still soggy -I always say, all's well that ends

Come to Calera council, stop 'field day'

Open letter to the Citizens of Calera:

changed, if at all!

I hope there will always be a good crowd at every council meeting, for you've seen how they pass something that concerns all of us when they catch a few or no one at all there to protest. Because once they have passed on something it is hard to get it

Look at the 4 percent maintenance cost added to our bill, we know this should never have passed. You people that were at the meeting saw how much they are making off the gas system, everything was paid from the gas fund or so it seemed. A lot of you don't know how the council operates because you haven't been to the meetings.

Please start coming and let's stop these field days. This council was elected because people thought they would improve the city. Where are the improvements? All we have are more police, more police cars, more expensive salary, gas consumption, less work for the money, etc.

What does Calera need with a special investigator anyway? Anything special the chief can take care of, for he does not have a regular patrol or shift, as other chiefs had before him.

Calera is furnishing the special investigator a car, gas, etc. to drive and use 7 days a week 24 hrs. a day and he lives outside the county, drives back and forth home everyday. Do we need this? He is needed to patrol the city, not somewhere else. The city is paying him to protect us, not someone outside the county.

Even the chief lives in Jeffer-

County out of work, someone out there is smart enough that they could have hired one of our own county people, if at all we needed a new chief, instead of bringing a man out of another county. Come to the meetings, not just once in a while. Attend regularly.

Together we can change a few things around here. Howard Hughes

Posse nabs road gang escapees

by David F. Moore

Two road gang escapees allegedly burglarized a trailer, armed themselves, got lost, and were shot at before a posse recaptured them early last Wednesday.

Dallas Mitchell and Ronnie Leo Isbell made their dash for freedom about 8:20 a.m., Tuesday, October 5, while working a roadside trash detail on highway 42 near Lay Lake.

Mitchell, 21, of Wilton, was serving time for burglary. Isbell, also 21, was serving three years for theft following probation violation.

A volunteer group of Perkins Camp residents discovered the inmates hiding along highway 28, ed and turned around. about 3:30 the next morning.

Blue Springs celebrates anniversary

by Bert Seaman

When the early circuit riders preached at Blue Springs Methodist Church, they delivered their messages on fire and brimstone loud enough to wake any sleeping babies.

Today the messages from the pulpit are preached in a moderate tone by Rev. J.C. Crim.

One of the early churches in the county, Blue Springs is celebrating its 100th anniversary on Nov. 14. Joining the congregation to mark the occasion will be Rev. Earl Gordon, Superintendent of the Sylacauga District.

The district superintendent will bring the message at the morning worship service and then join the congregation for lunch afterwards.

In the early days, one longtime member recalled, the preacher would accompany a member home for dinner, return to the church to deliver the evening message and then spend the night with another family.

And he wasn't paid with money. In those days, a man of the cloth often received produce or meat in place of monetary compensation.

Records show that one of the early preachers was Rev. A.J. Chappell, who served the church in 1890.

When it was established, the Blue Springs Church on County Road 55 east of Columbiana was a log structure and a number of

'Mac' reaches 3,000th mile

It has taken him slightly over eight months, but W.G. "Mac" McCarley's walking war agianst cancer will reach its 3,000th mile today in Homewood. McCarley is a former state senator who represented Shelby County. He is now a victim of cancer.

On Feb. 1, he began a 3,783 mile trek of U.S. highways in Alabama to dramatize how cancer can be beaten with determinationa and the generosity of Alabamians. Since leaving the Capitol steps in Montgomery, the 54-year old Prattville native has spread his gospel of hope to thousands of Alabamians.

"People have been good to me in this effort," McCarley said. "In celebration of the 3,000 mile mark, I will be presenting a $10,000 check to Dr. Jerry Glickson of the UAB Comprehensive Cancer Center for some needed research equipment."

McCarley is expected to arrive for that celebration approximately 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, Oct. 14, at the parking lot located on the 18th St. South curve in Homewood.

During his sometimes lonely walking tour, Mac has received the endorsement and support of a number of organizations, including: the Alabama Jaycees, the Alabama Bankers Association, and the American Legion.

McCarley said the walk has been difficult mentally and physically. "Sometimes it has been a matter of simply putting one foot in front of the other without thinking about all the miles in front of me," he said. "It has been hard at times to keep going rain or shine, cold or heat, but there are some things in life that are much harder to bear. One of those things is the suffering and early deaths caused by cancer.

Anyone wishing to contribute to McCarley Army vs. Cancer should send their gift to McCarley's Cancer Walk, Courthouse, Prattville, AL 36067.

City begins sewer work

In order to receive clearance from the Shelby County Health Department, contractors who plan to build a fast food restaurant in Columbiana had to raise the site elevation.

There are presently problems in the Davis Plaza shopping mall, adjacent to the site of the new business, which causes sewerage backup in periods of heavy rain-

Because lines in the vicinity which carry sewerage have deteriorated, they are infiltrated by ground water.

At Thursday's council meeting, the city's governing body took a step to improve the condition of the system.

The panel voted to accept a low bid from Consolidated Pipe to put in a new line from the lagoon to the Hwy. 25 bypass.

The price for 2,800 feet of pipe will be $14,476

Columbiana applied in the spring for a $300,000 community block development grant to improve and expand the sewer system, but failed to get it prepared the grant said the city's need should have made Columbiana number one in priority.

Councilwoman Jessie Jones, who is in charge of grant applica-

"But we've never been told where we were ranked or why we were turned down," Jones remarked.

The councilwoman says she intends to make further inquiries about the matter.

Even if the grant had come through, the city would still have been required to lay the pipe from the lagoon to the by-pass as a first step.

With that thought in mind, Columbiana recently purchased a backhoe so the city could do the work and not have to contract it

A backhoe owned by the city was not in good enough mechanical condition to be used for the job, but it can still be useful for gas and water board

At the request of those two boards, the council voted that the old machine be designated exclusively for their use unless there is an emergency.

Cubs help Chelsea school

Cubs Scour from Pack 354 donated 51 books to the Chelsea School Library. The scouts collected the books as their summer service project, and made the donations Monday night at the Chelsea PTO meeting.

Participating in the book drive were Cubs Eric Bradley, Bryan Weldon, Georgie Griswold, Chris

They were assisted by den leaders Glenda Bradley and Beebe Griswold. Cubmaster is L.P. Bradberry, assisted by Phillip Alford.

Five new Cubs recently joined the pack: John Michael Alford, Fred Rice, Danny Curran, Will Gholson and Chris Woods.

Alabaster has been charged with 5. All was quiet, so he cruised on.

Investigators theorize that Smith waited nearby until Walker left, then made his move. Police say Smith parked a 1973 Honda 750 beside the store, and entered through a rear window, thinking he'd have an hour or so before another patrolman returned.

What Smith apparently didn't know, hurt him, polic say. Pelham officers are instructed to follow no set patterns on their patrol rounds, so ten minutes later, Walker happened to return.

He spotted the motorcycle, checked it on the NCIC computer listing, and found it listed as stolen.

Walker called for assistance from Sgt. Bobby Patterson and Donnie Gyer. They discovered the rear window had been opened, called the store manager, and searched inside the building.

They found no one. They searched again and this time Gyer looked under a car in the garage and found Smith wedged between the muffler and the body.

Smith is 5'7" and weighs 128

Lt. Tommy Thomas said Smith has a record of previous burglary arrests. Because of the stolen motorcycle, Thomas said further charges are pending against Pelham police arrested another Alabaster man last week in connection with an auto break-in.

Ken Powers, 22, of 226 12th Street is charged with the unlawful breaking and entering of a vehicle. The indictment is pending the finding of a grand jury hearing.

Powers was arrested at 2 a.m., October 3 by patrolman Rodney Prince and reservist John Samples.

Thomas said the officers found him at Buy-Rite Auto Sales, removing a stereo from inside a 1969 Mustang.

Calera Elementary wins parent attendance award

There's a new plaque hanging on the wall at Calera Elementary School.

It was the parents of CES students who won the award for the school.

They turned out in droves when the school, along with other elementary schools in the county, held open house.

In the competition, Calera Elementary registered a percentage attendance of 148.

Both parents in each child's family were encouraged to attend, so 200% attendance was possible.

The actual number of parents who attended the open house was 532. Students enrolled at the school number 360.

In winning the event, CES acquired the plaque from Valley who registered the largest percentage of parents at the first open house event last year.

Besides walking off with the plaque in the elementary school division, Calera Elementary also earned a $100 cash award for their winning effort.

Apparel spending rises, percent falls

by Ed Curran U...S Dept. of Agriculture

Clothing expenditures take a big slice out of the American family income. Last year, we Americans spent $115.4 billion on clothing and shoes. And just to keep the record straight, that total does not include cleaning and repairing. It's strictly for new clothing and shoes.

Wall Mart Sells for Less . Wall Mart Sells for Less . Wall Mart Sells for Les

By comparison, that total is up 10 percent from a year earlier. It's well over double the amount spent for those items in 1972--just 9 years earlier--and four times the amount spent for clothing and shoes 20 years earlier.

On a per capita basis, each of us spent $502 for clothing and shoes last year. Double the total of 10 years earlier; three and a half times the $149 each of us spent for those items in 1961.

In terms of constant (1972) dollars, we spent about 50% more than we did 10 years earlier, about 80% more than we did for clothing and shoes 20 years

Despite all that spending, we're putting out a smaller percentage of our disposable income for clothing than ever before. In 1960, when records on this series began, we were spending 8.2% of our disposable income for clothing and shoes. While that percentage remained firm in that costs of clothing and shoes 1962, it has dropped off steadily since, to 7.9% in 1963, to 7.8% in 1967, to 7.5% in 1972.

It dropped to 6.9% in 1976, to 6.8% in 1977, to 6.5% in 1979 and finally to 6.3% in 1980, where it remained last year.

One of the reasons for this is have lagged behind the over-all CPI (Consumer Price Index) for a number of years.

While the CPI went up 111/2 % in 1979, clothing prices went up only 4.3%. When the CPI went up 131/2% in 1980, apparel prices advanced only 6.6%. When the CPI went up 10.6% last year, apparel prices went up only 5.7%.

by Fred Guarino The Army National Guard in Vincent is now at full strength.

According to Sgt. First Class Don Greene, the unit reached its full force mark of 108 men Thursday night at 8:30 p.m. with the swearing in of James Riggins.

The Vincent Guard unit was changed from a radio relay outfit to a munitions ordnance unit Friday morning, offering conwhich meant that it had to increase its membership.

Increase it did from 70 members in September of 1981 to 108 as of last Thursday night.

The accomplishment was so well appreciated that Greene received a call from Batallion Commander Billy Butterworth gratulations.

But maybe of more interest to the people of Vincent, the 100% staffed unit will see an increase in income paid to its men of $30,000.

The increase, according to Greene, should be credited to the members of the Vincent unit who go out and brag and bring in new members.

He also gave a nod of appreciation to Sgt. Harry Moon who has Green said that he did not take increasing his unit's membership by 38 men lightly. He stated, "We have never been authorized this many men before. 'Seems Joiner was home on leave and decided to visit the hideout of some deserter friends to strum guitars and play fiddles. The music ended when a Confederate posse galloped onto the Everyone quickly scattered except Joiner. He began explaining that he was on legal leave, but the soldiers turned deaf ears and loaded guns at him.

That was the end of the line for John, but not the Joiners. As Fate would have it, he left behind a pregnant wife who bore a son, LaFayette.,

"Fate," as most folks in Davis Community called him, eventually reered seven boys to manhood: Hiram, Jack, Rufus, Charlie (who later married Gusta), the twins Duke and Dewey, and

According to Gusta, in 1924 the brothers Joiner built the Seven Star Saw Mill in what's now Joinertown.

Joiner what?

There's not any "town" to Joinertown. But there are a lot of Joiners and even a few other families fondly referred to as "immigrants." About half of the community residents showed up recently at the hunting club for a scheduled town picture. From the front row, left to right, are (Joiners, unless otherwise noted): Danny, Jason, Jill, Misty, Stacey, Holli, Shane, Steve, Travis, Crystal, Glenn, Genia, Wednes-

'This is what you call rural America'

there is little agriculture. Otha, Eloise's husband--sometimes called the unofficial mayor, sometimes the unofficial judge-says the local soil is so poor even the scrub timber has a rough time growing.

The road through Joinertown crosses three small streams, two obvious, one not so obvious. The streams flow together to the south to form Wolf Creek 'Town' is unofficially 2.3 miles long and ends (or begins) where the blacktop turns to chirt. The chirt road "Y's" west towards Pinnacle Tower, north to an eventual Chelsea back route.

Guideless strangers could easiv drive through and never know hey'd been to Joinertown. There's not much to it-not from he car window, that is.

But to people with roots there, or people who know something about it, Joinertown is more than a handful of houses scattered on a back country road.

Joiner what? A dab of history helps with the answer:

Until about 35 years ago, the community wasn't even known as Joinertown. By the mathematics of surnames, it was called the Davis Community, a name that predates the Civil War.

Early members of the Davis Family, the Bentley Family, and others (their names now apparently obscure to descendents), ettled the land north of Columbiana, probably in the 1830's. Their idea was to farm, but the tubborn land was not particulary receptive to the plan.

The Davis community crew managed to carve a few farm plots out of the scrub woods, but little came of the farming. Logging and "burning coal," (making harcoat; proved slightly more

Among the early Davis esidents lived one John C. oiner (1836-1863)--apparently he original Joinertown Joiner. According to tombstone history, ing. Prior to WWII, he "moved to town" where he is known today as "Uncle Henry" to half of everyone in Columbiana.

"We got it in our heads we could make money with that mill," Uncle Henry recalls. "But we didn't do so good, not at $9 for a 1,000 board-feet. We might cut 8,000 board-feet a day--and that wasn't working no eight hours, either. That was sunup to sundown."

During this time the Bentley boys ran another saw mill in the area. In the early days the mills used steer teams to haul timber to Columbiana for shipping.

This was perhaps the heyday of the community. Besides the mills, it boasted some 30 houses, the one room, logged, Davis School, and the New Bethel Baptist Church. It was at the school that Henry met his future bride, Perrine Miner. (Even though she didn't know him at the time this the '50's blew away four houses, but they'd already been deserted. But home is home, and the the church burned. A tornado in Electricity came to the community in 1950. In 1960, highway 34 was paved. Fifteen years ago, telephone lines were installed.

Even if there's no neon nightlife, the men are quick to point out that you can always run 'coon. During the season they hunt them 3-4 nights a week.

"In turkey season we go to Wilsonville," county license inspector Bobby Joiner grins, hoping to throw of competing turkey hunters. "If you want to know the truth, Joinertown's the next thing to Amazing Grace."

"The one thing that would improve Joinertown is if Columbiana and Buck Falkner would run water out here," says Sharon Joiner, raising her voice a little.

Jason Joiner, 15, says he already provides running water for his mother: "I run to the well,

Adam Joiner, 11, says, "I like it. I go hunting when the season's here. There's a lot of things to do--swim, fish, ride bikes."

From a mother's standpoint, Sharon adds that the slow pace of the community lends a certain freedom, especially to raising kids. "We don't have to worry about the kids riding their bikes in the streets, or the cars."

Bob Franks and family, like the Ray Bentleys, John and Lois Queen, the Freeman Joneses, the Mike Adneys, the Eddie Terchs, and Henry and Betty Bullard, are sort of "immigrants." He moved his family from the city to Joinertown 1969.

Says Franks of the community he now calls home: "There's no way I'm itching to move. When I look out my window I don't have to look in my neighbors' windows, and that's the way I like

"I moved to Four Mile for awhile," confesses Ronny Joiner, "but there was too much going on so I moved back here."

"I'm close enough to the stores," says Judy Joiner. "I like being out to myself."

Every Mother's Day a crowd gathers at Noma Joiner Smith's for a homecoming feast. Another unofficial Joinertown booster, Noma broadcasts, "Tell anyone who wants to come to Joinertown to come right along. We'll take them right in!"

That hospitable attitude may come in handy if the proposed Columbiana-Pelham expressway is ever built. It would pass near Joinertown if not through it, and would make the place much more accessible.

"Fate, Henry's daddy, was a kind, considerate person," Perrine says. "And all these folks out here are, too. I guess it's part of the breeding." Joiner what?

"Joinertown," explains Solon Joiner. "It's home."

"I'm going to stay here all my life," says little Steve. "Me too," adds Adam. .

happened, Perrine refuses to let die the "R" rated story of the day Uncle Henry got caught with his pants down by a woman in Davis. Henry had peeled to help push a wagon out of a mud hole, when the woman suddenly rode up from the rear. Henry, mortified in the buff, grabbed his hat, covered his rear, ran to the house and hid under the bed. "I always thought Henry was the most famous person to come out of Joinertown," she insists.)

But the heyday didn't last. Uncle Henry explains that times were tough, farming was rough, and sawmilling was not much better. People moved to town. Others went to fight wars.

"Finally there got to be more Joiners than Davises, so they changed the name," Uncle Henry says. "Started calling it Joinerteacher Lloyd Mehaffey and students spent the day listening to and watching demonstrations put on by the knights and ladies.

Referring to the seagoing group, one of the fanciers of medieval history who visited Vincent noted that society members on the nuclear powered carrier, the Nimitz, have the only moving medieval village in existence.

He reported that societies devoted to preserving the culture of that era exist throughout this country and abroad.

The Birmingham group are part of the Kingdom of Meridan which is ruled over by King

Members of the society go by the names they have adopted from medieval times.

It was Sir Barok who did the arms exhibition in the library; and Sir Robert who made the meat tarts for students to sample. Another knight who donned a mail shirt and armor as he prepared for combat, called himself Cipriano de Alvarez. Reporting that his attire weighed approximately 60 pounds, Cipriano said that members of the society hold competitive jousting contests during the spring and fall.

The kingdom the Birmingham group belongs to, the knight explained, is made up of Georgia, Tennessee, Florida, Kentucky, Louisana, Mississippi, and part of Arkansas.

Members run the gamut from students to professional people.

The 35 members of the Birmingham group include a fireman, computer programmer, steel worker, landscaper and an industrial engineer.

"We help each other make the clothing we wear," explained one member.

Since the knights don various pieces of apparatus made of leather and metal, it takes more than a sewing machine to construct these items.

Although they try to stay as authentic as possible for demonstrations, the modern day knights sometimes resort to contemporary items as they "suit

Phelps puts legislative campaign on wheels

She rode her bike to a district championship and broke a record pedaling in Japan.

Now Frances Lokey Phelps has taken to her wheels to campaign for a seat in the Alabama House of Representatives.

Phelps is running on the Republican ticket in her bid to represent district 52.

Beside being at home on a bike, the Wilsonville native explains that it's the best way to cover territory when houses are grouped fairly close together.

Somewhat like the Imperial couriers that mailmen are sometimes compared to, Phelps rides in the heat, the rain, and sometimes doesn't finish her rounds until after dark.

When she campaigned for the seat she now holds on the city council, Phelps also used her bike to seek votes.

Ever since she can remember, the candidate says she's been interested in public affairs. "I've never been one to sit around." she laughs, "I've always been a doer!"

It doesn't take a campaign to get Phelps on a bike. She rides nearly every day - to the post office, the grocery store or to visit family and friends.

In competition, the biking enthusiast took the district championship medal in the U.S. Cycling Federation's Alabama Senior Citizens road race.

Riding in a bike-a-thon for Cystic Fibrosis a couple of years ago, Phelps proved her mettle once again. The long time biker racked up 50 miles on the roads around Wilsonville.

Her civic minded attitude was put into practice when she and her husband, a career naval officer, lived in Falls Church, Va.

There, she served on a civic committee which worked to regulate the developments that were taking over the farmland in price, Phelps and her father rode to Birmingham with J.F. Pope, owner of the town's general merchandise store, when he picked up a load of supplies.

As the family traveled up and down the east coast from one base to another, Phelps took her bike along with her.

During the early 1940's, when Phelps found employment in Kingsport, TN, the bike went with her and she rode it to work.

However, when she joined the Navy in WW II, Phelps put the bike in storage for the duration.

Although she broke a record in Japan for her biking skill, Phelps didn't leave the Toyko Trade Towers to do it.

Her Japanese triumph occurred while she and her husband Dick visited a friend from that country.

"This stationary bike in the tower registered the meters a rider could generate in a certain amount of time," Phelps explain-

"When I finished, everyone was clapping and cheering," she continued, "and I learned that I had broken the existing record."

Never one to sit on her hands when she saw something that needed doing, Phelps pitched in during her younger days to help her dad.

When help was scarce on O. F. Lokey's farm, his daughter took

In addition to operating his farm, Lokey also ran a ferry service across the Coosa to Talladega County.

Part of that area is in the district Phelps hopes to represent. During a swing through there recently, Phelps said she came across some of the old families who still remembered her dad and the days when the ferry

Being a woman and running on the ticket of a minority party in the state has not meant a cool reception from any of the voters she's called on, Phelps reported.

An outgoing type of person, the candidate's easy smile and friendly manner readily opens the avenue of communication with the public and allows her to get her message across.

No matter how the election turns out, Phelps feels that she'll be a winner.

With all the exercise she's been getting, she says she feels great. Plus, it's a special treat for her, Phelps notes, to have met so many fine people.

In John 17:20-21, Jesus said; "Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word; that they all may be one, as though, Father, art in me, an I in theee, that they also may be one in us: that the world my believe that thou

Jesus prayed that "believers" be one. Isn't it obvious then that the idea of denominationalism is set against Christ's prayer. Jesus says "be one" as God and I are, but denominationalism says we can divide and be separate.

David Jackson brushes Apache, one of the family's prize goats, as his mother feeds the Nubian doe who is bound for a show at the State Fair in Birmingham.

A family in Chelsea say they haven't bought milk in two years, the reason being that they have their own supply.

Donald and Janice Jackson raise goats. However, they're not your ordinary run of the mill variety.

The Jacksons have a herd of 30 registered purebred Nubians.

Besides furnishing milk, the animals are also used for show.

And if history repeats itself, the family may be returning from the State Fair in Birmingham with a trophy.

Their 15 month old doe Apache was named junior grand champion and best doe in show at an event in Georgia this spring.

When they travel to the fair Saturday, the Jacksons will take nine of their best animals to exhibit in the show which has 174 entries.

"Our main reason for having the goats though," remarked Jackson, "is for the milk."

"It's our dream," he continued, "to someday have a cheese processing operation and grade A dairy."

He said that at the present time there is only one such dairy in Alabama.

Proud of the production of one of his prize goats, Jackson reported that the doe gave 1,765 pounds of milk in 215 days.

Seeking to build a quality herd, the Jacksons have purchased a sold in the United States went for $8,009, Jackson reported. Their search for good stock has In order to earn a star on the resulted in their ordering goats from as far away as California,

Thompson football machine keeps rolling

by Fred Guarino

The Thompson Warriors are still steamrolling along toward a perfect football season.

The men in red claimed their seventh scalp in a row, Friday night, crushing Childersburg 35-13 in Childersburg.

And, if that were not enough, Arthur Johnson is now working out with the team again and may see action soon.

Coach Larry Simmons would only say that Johnson will begin play as soon as he and the doctor decide. But the coach indicated that his first game this season would not be too far down the Putting thoughts of Johnson away, the Warriors have proved all season long that they were not a one man team and have taken seven wins without his assistance.

Against Childersburg, Friday night, Demetrius Threatt gained 65 yards, Max Brown gained 91 yards and Stevie Hawkins gained 50 yards.

The Warriors made 18 first downs, rushed for 260 yards and passed for 97 yards for a total offense of 357 yards.

Childersburg was limited to a meager six first downs and a total offense of only 128 yards.

While Simmons was pleased with his team's win, he said that the Warriors did not play consistently in the first half against Childersburg and he indicated some tough games lie ahead.

He said, "Sylacauga is down the road and we've got Pelham Friday night for homecoming. I don't like playing our homecoming, I like to play other people for theirs."

The Warriors scored first in Friday night's action on a one yard run by Threatt early in the first period. The touchdown capped a 28 yard six play drive that began with a fumble recovery. The point after was no good.

With 2:02 remaining in the first quarter Max Brown scored for the Warriors on a 12 yard run. Richard Brasher ran the ball to pay dirt for the two point conver-

Those points capped a 55 yard, eight play drive.

Childersburg scored with 7:58 remaining in the second period to close the score 14-7.

However, the Warriors would not allow the Tigers to enjoy any comfort in being close.

With just 22 seconds left in the half, Threatt scored on a three yard burst. Jeff Willis booted the point after and Thompson led

That score capped a 71 yard 15

The Warriors scored early in the third period when Richard Brasher passed to Jeff Joiner. The point after was no good.

That touchdown drive covered 67 yards in nine plays.

Thompson put the icing on the cake with 4:54 remaining in the third period. Threatt scored on a 25 yard run and a two point conversion attempt was good.

Montevallo wins defensive battle with Vincent Yellow Jackets

In a true defensive battle, the Montevallo only managed two Montevallo Bulldogs edged the Vincent Yellow Jackets 12-7 in Montevallo Friday night.

The win pushed the Bulldogs into second place in area competition.

The 'Dogs held Vincent to only six first downs, minus 31 yards rushing and 81 yards passing for a total offensive effort of 50 yards.

Montevallo managed 14 first downs, 170 yards rushing and 43 yards passing for a total offense of 213 yards. However, Vincent was not nearly as generous as the statistics indicate.

The Yellow Jackets reached pay dirt first when Eddie Reynolds picked off a Bulldog pass and raced 66 yards for a touchdown. Mark Kelow booted the point after and Vincent led 7-0 with 7:14 remaining in the second period.

With super defensive play on both sides, Vincent and first downs each in the first half and the scoreboard did not blink again until the third period.

Montevallo drove to the Vincent two yard line in the third period before the Jackets pushed them back to the five, and took over the football. But Montevallo would not be denied.

The Bulldogs marched 48 yards in seven plays on their next possession. J. J. Moore went around right end for six yards and the touchdown. A two point conversion attempt failed and the score stood Vincent 7, Montevallo 6.

Vincent began a drive of its own after recovering a Montevallo fumble at the 44 yard line. But the Bulldogs would not give and the drive came to a halt at the Montevallo nine yard line with 9:13 remaining in the con-

Montevallo found itself having to move 80 vards with no time outs left to win the match.

Moore went up the middle most of the way until the Bulldogs were sitting at the Vincent 49 yard line.

Howard Gaddis was looking for an open Bulldog but found everyone covered. He then tucked the ball under his arm and ran 49 yards for the score. Again the two point conversion failed but the 'Dogs had enough points to Coach Richard Gilliam said after the contest that his defense played its best game all year, both providing coverage in the secondary and keeping pressure on Vincent's quarterback.

He complimented Bulldog Clyde Sailes who made ten tackles, five assists, two sacks of the quarterback and caused one

Also receiving praise from Gilliam were DeWayne Jackson, James Lucas, Anthony Prentice and Bobby Worthy.

Vincent Coach Harold Garrett said that he thought the battle between Montevallo and the Yellow Jackets was a good one.

He said that he felt if his Jackets had not given up a big play, they could have won the game.

Wildcats stumble to Pell City 16-20

by Richard Crosby

The cliche, "It was closer than the score indicates," was never more true than at Shelby County's homecoming last Friday night. The Wildcats fell to visiting Pell City 20-16. The reasons the game was closer are many. The 'Cats fought back twice and seemed to have the game firmly in their control. That may have been their downfall as Pell City won the game in the final five minutes. Another reason was the offense of Shelby County. The team tallied 305 yards of offense enough seemingly to win any game. . Quarterback Kenneth Jones passed 36 times, completing 17 and only giving up one interception. Bruce Martin caught seven of those passes for 85 yards and two touchdowns.

The final reason the game was close was because of the effort displayed by the team members. The Wildcats fought, scratched, growled, and played as a unit.

Not until the final horn blared did the stands start to empty.

The stands filled early in the evening as the homecoming crowd came for the festivities as much as the game. The Wildcat seniors served as captains for the Pell City got the first score of the night, and made it look easy. After taking the kickoff and being stopped in three plays, the Panthers punted. But Shelby County fumbled and the Panthers took over on the Wildcat 18. A first down and three plays later, Pell City racked up six points. The PAT made the count

The Wildcats took the ensuing kickoff, and starting from their own 29, drove for three first downs to the Panther 34. Then Kenneth Jones passed for the touchdown to a diving Bruce Martin in the corner of the endzone. Jones passed to Kevin Crumpton for the conversion giving Shelby County the lead at 8-7.

Several exchanges and missed opportunities later, Pell City started from its own 31. After making a first down on the 48, the Panther fullback broke out for a 52 yard touchdown run with two minutes left in the half. The conversion pass was broken up with a leaping effort by Bruce wonder. The Wildcats took the kickoff and literally marched downfield. Using the first seven minutes of the half and making 14 plays, the drive was capped with a 20 yard pass from Jones to Martin. The combination was also successful for the conversion as the Wildcats took a 16-13 lead.

Shelby County's effort to score again in the half ran out of ticks on the clock. The second half was one of

Jones saved a touchdown for the Wildcats minutes later by intercepting a pass in the endzone. Pell City returned the favor early in the fourth quarter by stopping a Wildcat drive with a fumble

Through several punt exchanges, Pell City received good field position with 5:29 left in the game. It took only four plays to change the outcome. The PAT kick was true as Pell City took the lead for the third time 20-16.

Shelby County countered with another offensive punch. The Wildcats looked headed for the endzone, but penalties plagued the drive which stalled on the Panther's 22.

The Wildcats got the ball back with 1:48 remaining in the contest but had to start the touchdown attempt from their own seven yard line. The passes fell incomplete and the clock ran out before the verdict could be changed.

The loss left the Wildcats with a 1-5 record. This week the squad heads to Sylacauga for a fight with the Aggies where Shelby County plans for the game to be just like the score.

Chelsea wins again

After losing 17 straight ball games, the Chelsea Hornets have put two wins back to back on the

The Hornets brought home their second victory this season by defeating Winterboro 7-0. Adding icing to the cake, the contest was Winterboro's homecoming.

The week before, Chelsea defeated Maplesville 18-9 in another away game.

Coach Roger Hibbs said of the win, "Its good for the kids and community for us to put two wins back to back. When you go 0-17, it can't do nothing but help morale."

Hibbs said, "When you're losing, it hard to get them (the players) up for a game. When they finally win, they are elated."

Hibbs said his squad must concentrate on taking each game one at a time now and make a respectable season of 1982.

Chelsea got on the scoreboard with only 2:30 seconds left in the contest. Tommy White recovered Winterboro fumble at the Winterboro six yard line. Greg Conkle capped the short drive by sneaking the ball over from the one. The point after was good. According to Hibbs, the turning point of the game was when Chelsea fumbled deep in its own territory, held Winterboro and blocked a field goal attempt.

The Hornets are now 2-4 on the season and will face St. Clair County for that school's homecoming Friday night.

Against Winterboro, the Hornets made 11 first downs, rushed for 180 yards, passed for 27 yards for a total offense of 207 yards.

Winterboro manged only 140 vards rushing and 41 yards passing for a total offense of 181 yards. Winterboro only made nine first downs.

If tying is like kissing your sister, Coosa Valley Academy football players didn't get much joy out of Friday's homecoming.

The Rebels fought Cahawba Christian Academy to a 7-7 knot. But there is some reason to smile for coach Gary Franks' squad. The team the Rebels tied was 5-1 coming into the contest while the Rebels brought a dismal 2-4 record to the game.

At least the Rebels did not suffer another loss and Cahawba Christian could not claim another

When asked what that meant about his team, Franks said, "That means we are out of shape. We will work on that next week."

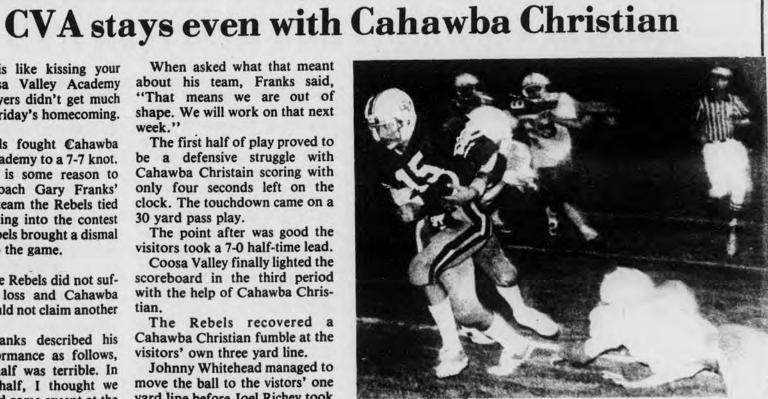

The first half of play proved to be a defensive struggle with Cahawba Christain scoring with only four seconds left on the clock. The touchdown came on a 30 yard pass play.

The Rebels recovered a Cahawba Christian fumble at the visitors' own three yard line.

Johnny Whitehead managed to move the ball to the vistors' one yard line before Joel Richey took it in for the score. The point after was good and the game was knotted at 7-7.

Coosa Valley will face Talladega in an away game tomorrow night.

The golfers dream, a hole in one, was accomplished at approximately noon on Saturday, October 9 by Montevallo dentist, Dr. Milton L. Orr. Jr.

Orr aced Montevallo golf course's number three, 165 yard hole. He used a number 7 wood.

"I thought it had rolled off the green," Orr said. "But when I got up to the pin, there it was in the cup."

Orr was part of a foursome consisting of Fred Frost, Mac McGehee and Matt Sproul.

Lady Falcons win

The Lady Falcon volleyball team is red hot!

The ladies have won their last 12 matches and have dropped only three games.

Recent victims of the team were UT-Martin, twice; Southwest Baptist University; Alabama A & M; Arkansas State; Tennessee Tech; Mississippi University for Women, twice; Jacksonville State, twice; North Alabama and Jackson State.

The three losses all came against UT Martin.

The 15-7 record the Lady Falcons have is quite a contrast to the 3-7 start they started with. The turnabout can be traced to a couple of things.

"After viewing films of the Florida Southern College Tournament, which we went 1-4 in, we saw some problems in our defense and offense and changed them..." said coach Beverly War-

She said, "After the FSC tournament, the players decided they wanted to play ball, they knew they had the potential after going 42-12 last year."

When the team decided to play, it was bad news for North Alabama. The Lady Falcons won 15-4, 15-7 and 15-7.

Reflecting on the players, coach Warren said:

Co-Captains Sandra Sims and Deborah Milliner, "At first they put a lot of pressure on themselves, being seniors, but then they decided to play ball. Both are showing leadership on the floor and playing strong. They want the ball at crucial

Dana DeLoach is stepping in as a freshman and coming into her own. "We wouldn't be where we are now without her net play."

Toots Cooley, "Defense is much improved and she is hitting the ball much better. Her setting is vital to our offense."

Blanche Watkins' serving has been strong and she is an offensive and defensive asset.

Amy Dishroom has been injured but will be a big help around the net on offense and defense.

A helpless Verbena football squad found itself in the territory of some angry Calera Eagles Friday night, and paid the price.

Verbena suffered the misfortune of showing up for Calera's homecoming and was whipped soundly, 20-0.

Calera completely dominated the visitors, allowing them only two first downs for the entire game and a total offense of 39 yards.

Coach Danny Alverson said that he was proud of his team's performance. "I was just proud of our guys for coming out and working real hard. Never before has a group kept its mind on football as they did during homecoming."

The Eagles certainly kept their minds on football. Calera made 16 first downs, rushed for 239 yards and passed for 24 yards for a total offense of 263 yards.

Alverson credited the tremendous defensive show put on by his team to outside linebackers Edward Millstead and Dan Campbell and inside linebackers Steve Beardin and Todd Kinngsworth.

The Eagles played so well on offense that after Calera scored 20 first half points, Alverson substituted freely throughout the remainder of the contest.

Calera scored its first touchdown of the night with 6:30 remaining in the first period. The score was set up by a 25 yard punt return by Tony Faucett.

The Eagles reached pay dirt when Edward Wilson ran 42 yards. The point after by Rickey Posey was good.

The Vincent Yellow Jackets were tired of losing and blaming each other for it.

They decided to do something about that situation and are now playing as a team which has won two of its last three contest.

What did they do to unify themselves?

To find out, the Reporter visited the Vincent High School campus Friday afternoon.

Just before the Jackets defeated B. B. Comer in an upset 13-0 two weeks ago, a meeting was called by the seniors.

Tim Smith told the Reporter "Just before the Comer game, the first team was playing defense and the second team was running over us in practice.

"We knew that if they were blowing us out, Comer would run over us. A meeting was called at center field."

It was learned that during that meeting, Vincent seniors decided that someone was going to have to take a leadership role and they decided that it was up to them.

Phill Berryhill said, "Mainly, we were tired of getting beat."

Kent Baker said, "We took it on ourselves."

Johnny Isbell said, "When we first had our meeting, other team members got mad. After they found out we all wanted to be together they wanted to be a part of it."

According to Phillip McGraw, until that meeting everyone was trying to tell everyone else what

Mark Kelow chipped in, "We were putting the blame on one person for mistakes and not taking it as a team."

When asked of the success of that meeting, Kelow said, "If we can stay fired up, we can stay together."

From the time of that meeting until the Jackets played a tremendous defensive battle with Montevallo, Friday night, Vincent won two contests back to back.

Except for a 49 yard run by Montevallo's Howard Gaddis, the Jackets could very well have Coach Harold Garrett said that his seniors called that meeting on their own after he dismissed practice and later met him in his of-

He said that his players said that they wanted to do something to pull themselves together and they made the changes they wanted on their own.

According to the coach, the players even changed the way Vincent carried out some of its warm-ups in practice sessions.

He complimented his senior squad by saying that had he not even been called into their meeting, they would have been effective in unifying the squad.

Senior team members are: Mark Brasher, Stoney Johnson, Phillip McGraw, Tim Smith, Tony Bradford, Warren Kelly, Johnny Isbell, Kent Baker, George Datcher, Jesse Allen, Phill Berryhill, and Mark Kelow.

The Yellow Jackets are 3-3 on the season with four games left to go. Just maybe they can make their record 7-3.

Those were the words of Shelby Academy Coach De-Wayne Kervin after his team fell to Bessemer 33-14 before a home crowd Friday night.

Coach Billy Tohill's squad traveled to play Moody Friday night, and came away with a 16-10 victory.

Moody drew first blood and took a 7-0 lead over the Panthers. But Pelham was determined that it would not lose again.

Mark Brashier got the Panthers on the scoreboard when he earned a safety, making the score

Just before the half, Ricky Hayes threw an 18 yard pass to conversion pass. That put the Panthers on top 10-7 at the half.

Late in the third period, Hayes hit Russell Brown for a 16 yard TD strike to up the Panther lead to 16-7. The point after was no good.

Moody came back to score on a field goal but the Pelham Panthers held on to claim victory

Coach Tohill said he was pleased to win Friday night but said his team still isn't comfortable holding on to a lead in a contest.

He said, "We finally started Jackie Johnson for a touchdown playing a little football but still and then completed a two point made mistakes. We had a chance to go ahead and put them (Moody) out of it but didn't go ahead and enjoy it."

Tax shortfall drops axe on county's new budget

by Marcia M. Sears

After eight frustrating hours of deliberation, the Shelby County Commission half-heartedly passed a budget Monday.

The budget is for the fiscal year which began October 1.

It is basically the same budget as last year's adjusted budget and totals $6,899,008. The frustration came because the commissioners had been led to believe by the tax assessor that they would have $2 million more this year, as a result of the tax reappraisals.

But Jim Sumners, from the assessor's office, told them Monday that the increase would likely be only $549,000 in the funds that are available to the commission.

He said this figure includes all tax revenues that go into the general fund, the road and bridge fund, and the gasoline fund.

Because the ad valorem tax notices are finally finished and in the mail, Sumners said he felt his figure was accurate.

The commissioners, required by law to complete a budget, and battered by requests for increases from all departments, finally adopted Chairman Tommy Snowden's suggestion, "Let's adopt last year's adjusted

They clearly hope to be able to adjust it upward, as they were able to do last year, when the tax revenues actually started coming

Snowden is optimistic that something is still wrong with the tax assessor's figures and that more money will be found.

In the meantime however, no raises were provided for anyone, including the sheriff's department, which is scheduled for an 11% raise by state rules.

Snowden thought he had found a way out of the pay dilemma in the sheriff's department, with the legislative act that set up the law enforcement personnel board. The act gave that board the power to set salaries, five years from the date of passage, taking away that power from the state troopers' pay scale.

He called in the county attorney, who confirmed his opinion that the five years' transition period provided in the act had passed.

But later in the day board chairman Teddy Brasher told the Reporter Snowden had quoted from an act that was ruled unconstitutional. The new act passed only three years ago, so it will be two more years before the salary change can begin.

Democrats fund races

Each of the six Democratic candidates running for office in Shelby County will get $500 from the party to spend before the general election.

Monday night in the courthouse, the Democratic Executive Committee voted to spend their war chest of $5,600 to help put their candidates in office.

The group voted an additional $500 to spend in the county on the campaign for George Wallace for governor.

George Dailey, speaking for black voters, asked the committee for a donation to help defray the costs of getting out the black vote. He submitted a list showing expenses of $790. The group unanimously agreed to provide $500 for the cause.

Board candidates field school questions

by Bert Seaman

The attendance policy being tried in the county school system this year was one of the issues that board of education candidates were questioned about Thursday.

There was agreement among the three candidates who participated in the forum at Pelham High School that a policy is needed. But they also conceded that changes are necessary before the plan is adopted.

The first of three forums being sponsored by the county Parent-Teacher Council failed to draw a big crowd. But the parents who showed up kept the candidates answering questions for nearly two hours.

The candidates present were: Barbara Whitman, chairman of the board of education, her Republican challenger for place 2. Lynn Argo and Al Knight, who is running on the Republican ticket for place 1.

Paul Sumners, who now holds that position, was not present and no reason was given for his

Responding to a question from the audience, both Argo and Knight said they were concerned about the punishment aspect of the attendance policy.

It was Knight's feeling that it would be more constructive to make students do something positive instead of expelling them for absenteeism.

Giving her thoughts on the subject, Argo insisted that testing is necessary to determine what a student has learned.

The policy now exempts students who have perfect attendance from taking some exams.

Whitman explained that the board had only voted to give Superintendent of Education Charles Knowles the authority to put the policy into effect on a trial basis.

The board chairman reported that a committee headed by Pelham Principal Dr. Ed Belue had worked on the policy during the summer.

But Argo contended that teachers had not had sufficient input and pointed out they would be the ones to implement the

During the course of the evening, members of the audience voiced their feelings that the board did not respond to suggestions offered by the public. And there were comments that the public was often puzzled about what board members were voting on and why.

Whitman said she always tried to explain what was going on if she felt there was any misunderstanding, adding that she would welcome more open discussion at board meetings.

In order to keep the public better informed, Knight said he would like a question period at the end of board meetings so topics not on the agenda could be discussed.

Answering a question on what to do about the overcrowding at Riverchase, Argo said she thought the 6th grade should be left in the elementary school.

Whitman disagreed, however, saying that age student fits in better with 7th and 8th graders. Her solution, she said, would be to build more classrooms at River-

The subject of kindergarten also came up for discussion during the forum.

Knight contended that every child should have the opportunity to attend for an entire year. He told the audience that citizens should become more vocal with the legislators about funding the program.

It was also his thinking that it should be dealt with creatively and fit the needs of each community.

Responding to a question on the evaluation of principals, Whitman said her campaign literature lists her belief that the Continued on page 5

United Way drive needs pledges - fast

by David F. Moore

For the United Way, the word is both a big promise, and a big

The United Way is pledged to helping people through its backing of 48 various agencies-through everything from the Red Cross, Big Brothers, and Girl Scouts, to Day Care Services Positive Maturity, and the Salvation Army.

To back these service agencies, the United Way needs the financial help of individual and corporations, and needs it fast.

November 5 is the deadline for the 1982 United Way - Community Chest Drive, which has targeted a goal of $9 million for the Shelby-Jefferson-Walker County area. Shelby County's share of that goal is $274,000.

According to local drive chairman Carl Grimes, senior vice president of the Alabaster branch of the First National Bank of Birmingham, Shelby County is 30% of the way there.

"Our hope is to get this completed by the first week in role of the United Way.

November," he said. "To do that, we've obviously got to get a push on. There are 29 United Way agencies that directly benefit people in Shelby County, and these funds stay right here at home."

"We're putting out an appeal to the people of Shelby County to get behind the campaign and put us over the top," Grimes told the Reporter. "They made it last year, and with a lot of help, we're expecting to make it this year."

Grimes said the local goal reflects a 14% increase over last year's successful drive.

Hurting this year's overall effort, however, is the shutdown of U.S. Steel and other area businesses, which will amount to a $1.3 million drop from traditionally strong donors.

"We're asking all working corporations and residents to help us pick up the slack," Grimes said.

All corporations interested in starting drives are urged to call Grimes (663-9165) to arrange a presentation on the multi-faceted

Police chase down armed robbery suspect

by David F. Moore A man wielding a blue steel, snub-nosed .38 held up a convenience store in Alabaster at 8 p.m. last Wednesday. A customer gave Alabaster police a tip, police aired a bulletin, and 18 minutes later an arrest was made.

Two Helena patrolmen chased down the suspect. On the front seat of his Pinto they found a gun matching the discription of the robbery weapon and a bag of money. Richard Carl Brion, 28, who lived most recently near Genery's Gap at 2125 South Shades Crest Road, was arrested on charges of first degree robbery. This week he remained in the county jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

A substitute clerk was working the highway 119 U-Totem near Woodbrook Apartments when the robbery occured.

The incident, she said, was much like a bad dream. She asked the Reporter to withold her name for fear of retaliation.

"I was on the phone and he walked around the counter with the gun," she said. "He said, 'Hang up the phone! This is a

The clerk didn't argue. "You sorta' do what they say when they have a gun," she said.

"And I was scared-well, you don't really have time to be scared. It happened so fast..."

The man told her to open the register, but her fumbling hands wouldn't work the key. Instead, she handed over money for the manager's register in the morning: a bundle of 50 one's and $33 in a bag from the First Bank of Alabaster.

"He said, 'Follow me!' We got outside and he said, 'Run that way as far as you can run!"" the clerk said.

She ran around the south end of the building.

"I heard him drive off and I seen--I guess it was--the exhaust smoke from his car. He wasn't wasting no time getting away." Sgt. Larry Rollan said the clerk called Alabaster police. When they arrived, Rollan said the clerk was too shaken by the experience to offer much information.

Also, she had been unable to see the make of the robber's car. However, a customer just prior to the robbery had noticed as he left, a suspicious man in front of the store. Rollan said when the customer saw the police cars flashing towards the store a few minutes later, he got curious and

The customer told police the man had been sitting in a black and yellow 1971 Pinto.

Alabaster police radioed a BOLO (Be On Lookout) to area law enforcers.

Almost immediately, Helena officer Jessie Payne and reservist Doug Jones passed a matching Pinto on highway 17. They turned around and gave chase, following the Pinto west on 52 towards Genery.

When the Pinto stopped, Rollan said the officers found a blue steel, snub nosed .38 on the car seat, along with a First Alabaster Bank bag containing $83. The driver was Brion.

Rollan said Brion has been arrested before for burglary. He said Brion used to live in the Alabaster area, moved to New York, then returned to Genery two months ago.

The manager of the 119 U-Totem said this was the fourth time in as many years the store had been robbed. Arrests have been made in half the cases, she

The clerk working the store that night said it was the first time she'd ever been robbed. "If I'm ever stuckup again, I won't be working no more," she added.

Fireman sues Alabaster

by Bert Seaman

Alabaster sets $1.3 million budget

City fathers in Alabaster worked long and hard in an effort to trim costs from this year's budget.

With no raises for any city employees, operating expenses for the 1982-83 fiscal year were increased by $29,978 over the actual amount spent last year.

Projections for a balanced budget list revenue and expenditures for the new year at $1,382,586.

The budget was passed at Monday's council meeting by a unanimous vote of those present. Councilman L.O. Farris was ab-

With a budget of $425,590, the city's police department will account for the largest expenditure. However that denartment sliced $9,818 from the amount spent last year. The sewer department is the next biggest spender of city income with a budget figure of $231,595. Administrative costs rank third in the expenditure column, although last year's figure of $205,543 has been cut by $5,344. The fire department anticipates spending $195,696, an increase of only $623 over last year; the street department expects to need $163,259, which represents a $16,506 increase.

Listing the same figure as they operated on last year, the sanitation department set their budget at $110,257. The park and recreation department anticipated a slight increase and raised their budget by $425 from the $24,575 that was used last year.

The utilities department also raised their figure slightly, going from $30,250 during the last fiscal year to $31,000 for this budget year.

In order to pay the bills, the city expects to take in more income, with sales tax accounting for the largest source of revenue. This year's receipts are expected to amount to $475,000.

Privilege license fees should put $275,000 in the city's coffers; sewer income should amount to $204,686 and ad valorem taxes are expected to add another

$156,000 to the city's income. The city also estimates collecting $125,000 in fines this year, which represents a jump of $12,500 over what was taken in last year; ABC receipts are projected at $45,000; vehicle licenses, $37,000; water and gas board revenue, $24,000.

A projected revenue of $18,000 has been set for cigarette stamps; $12,000 from interest; $8,000 from building permits; $2,000 from wine tax and $900 from accident reports and maps.

Zoning ordinance opens opportunities

by Fred Guarino

The City of Calera cleared the way Monday night for additional housing opportunities.

In a combination public hearing/council meeting, the city's governing body approved an ordinance which allows residential use of property which is zoned agricultural.

The use is allowed only with prior approval of the city's zoning board.

Councilman Doug LeSueur stated for public information that the ordinance came before the council with the approval and recommendation of the zoning Agriculturally zoned property is scattered throughout the City of Calera. However, one area which will be particularly affected by the new ordinance is that undeveloped land on the southside of Highway 25 between the railroad and the interstate.

The property is the site of 48 proposed apartment units.

Board members are Deegee Schroeder, John Kiriakos, Harry Deal, Carl Prichard, W. B. Watts, John Davis, Lamont Franklin, W. M. Davis and J. W. McLendon.

In other action:

Calera Elementary School was given permission to make use of utility poles and timbers owned by the city for the construction of a creative playground.

The materials were to be used by the city in its park but as such a project could not begin in the near future, LeSueur recommended that the school be allowed to use them.

Maintenance Supervisor David Jones was granted approval to purchase tools needed by the city shop from Mrs. E. G. Aldredge for $300. He estimated the value of the tools at $588 and called the price a bargain.

Jones was also granted approval to promote three men to positions approved in the city's budget. Ervin Goode of the street department will move up'from a class four to a class three position; Bobby Williams of the gas department will move from a class three to a class two position; and and James Burnette of the sewer department will move from a class two to a class one posi-

While fire chief James Miles was granted permission to purchase fire truck equipment needed to pass an Insurance Service Office inspection, that approval was not without controversy.

Councilmen Roy Hadaway and LeSueur objected to the way the purchase was handled.

Hadaway made a motion to allow the purchase before he realized that the capital outlay budget had not been approved. That motion was passed.

Hadaway later pointed out that the purchase would be a capital outlay expenditure and called for the council's action to be rescind-

He said the measure granted something which had not been discussed.

LeSueur seconded Hadaway's motion to rescind but that measure was defeated.

Hadaway shook his head after the vote and said, "I made a mistake I won't make again."

When Mayor Carl Prichard said the action would not hurt anything, LeSueur responded.

He said, "There is a legal way of doing things. We caught a mistake and tried to correct it." In order to clear its books, the city council agreed to write off three loans from the gas department to other city departments. The loans involved $325 to the fire department, $7,915.42 to the water department and $7,569.91 to the general fund.

Also to clear the city's books, unrecorded work done by the city shop from December 1981 through April 1982 will be charged to city departments.

Forty percent of the expense will be taken by the general fund, 30% by the water department and 30% by the sewer depart-

The council also agreed to set the minimum value of city assets at $500.

A move to separate the sewer and gas departments was also approved.

A requested increase in the annual Calera contribution to the Council on Alcoholism from $2,000 to $2,500 was denied because the public attending the meeting opposed it.

Upon the request of Joe Middlebrooks, the city asked Police Chief Harry Deal to talk to state troopers about their practice of stopping cars and trucks in front of the school.

Middlebrooks complained that the action by troopers blinds motorists to traffic.

A payment of $62,357.35 to H. N. Donahoo Construction and a payment of $5,707 to Lucas and Carr Engineers was approved for work done through September on the relocation of 18th Street.

Pelham council passes record budget

by David F. Moore

The city of Pelham will operate on a $2.2 million budget this year. Although the new budget is tight, it is the largest in the city's 18-year history.

"This budget is neither conservative, nor liberal," said city finance director and councilman R.E. "Ray" Hamilton. "It is realistic."

The budget, passed quietly and unanimously at Monday night's council meeting, calls for no frills. It does, however, provide for a 3% across the board pay raise for city employees.

Although one employee was laid off from the city street department because of tight money, Mayor Burk Dunaway said no cuts in services to residents and businesses are an-

Expenses of $2,201,502.67 were budgeted against $2,205,559 in expected revenues. The budget is padded with an expected surplus of $4,056.33, or 1/5 of

"There will be no new autos...no new anything, really. We will be holding our own," Dunaway said. "I might add, there'll be no new taxes."

Like most cities, Pelham is feeling the crunch of recession. But unlike many cities, Pelham traditionally has not relied strongly on revenue sharing money which is being slashed by the federal government.

Because of its self-reliance, Dunaway said, "We'll suffer less than a lot of cities."

Pelham will receive nearly $74,000 in revenue sharing for the 1982-83 fiscal year. Last year the city received about $140,000 from the federal government, Dunaway said.

Offsetting the slash in federal funds to Pelham are: increases in sales tax since the opening of Wal-Mart; expected tax revenue from K-Mart which opens in November; and an increase in ad valorem taxes resulting from the statewide reappraisals.

Dunaway said that three or four months after the ad valorem taxes start coming in, the city may revise its $270,000 projection for property tax revenues. But because of the confusion

Municipal clerk Willie Mae Dennis said last year the city operated within its $2,115,063 budget, although a few corners had to be cut. The 1981-82 budget projected an income of $2,118,919.

Dennis said auditors are currently checking the books on last year's budget, and exact figures will be available in the near future.

In other council action:

The council approved an ambulance ordinance that sets guidelines for ambulance companies operating in the city.

Pelham renewed its garbage collection contract, contingent on the same residential rates and twice weekly pickup schedules. The rates are not expected to increase for several years, Dunaway said.

Dunaway announced that Lee Street reopened last Thursday, following a lengthy period during which sewers were laid and the road repaved.

Daniel Walding requested a stop sign on Indian Hills Road and complained about a truck without a muffler that he said roars through the subdivision at 4:30 every morning except Thursday. "I think it's the milk truck. He wakes me, too," said police chief D.O. Watson.

Assessor's mistakes hit hard

It is hard to reach any other revenues that were available for conclusion after the events of

The tax assessor and her staff of reappraisal people are either incompetent, or they deliberately want to make the County Commissioners look foolish.

Either way they do not serve the county the way they should.

For years, the property tax reappraisals have been going on. Finally, this year was to be the year it was all finished. Taxes would be equalized, and the thousands of new housing units built in the county over the past ten years would all be taxed at the proper rate. The results were to be dramatic increases in tax

At the August 9 meeting of the county commission, Tax Assessor Bobbie Reynolds clearly said the county's income would be "over $2 million more this year than last," even after granting an additional homestead exemption. Every commissioner took this to mean the funds over which they have control: general fund, road and bridge fund, and gasoline fund.

On Monday, Jim Sumners, head of the reappraisal section of her office, said the increase in these funds would only be $549,000. Mrs. Reynolds has been out of her office for two weeks because of illness, and could not be reached for com-

Sumners indicated the commissioners must have misunderstood Mrs. Reynolds, but they all agreed that was what she led them to believe.

Not only that, but the Reporter printed excerpts from that August 9 meeting, showing these and other figures. The story was never questioned or refuted by anyone in the tax assessor's office, which it should have been if it contained misinformation of such financial magnitude.

The upshot is that everyone was allowed to believe there would be a comfortable margin next year to increase county services to the public, to buy some much needed equipment, and to cover the incessant raises to sheriff's personnel that are dictated by the state.

Instead, all hopes were dashed, and the increase will barely cover required bond issue payments, and the overruns from some departments.

With all the staff and with all the help from computerized operations, the tax assessor should have been able to provide accurate figures sooner, and should not have allowed misinformation to persist so long.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

Bonnie hemmed 'em up in John Pope's pasture, across aditch from highway 47, past the new graveyard. John farmed here years ago, but he stopped when the honeysuckle got so high he couldn't see his mule from his place behind the plow. Honeysuckle grew in the sunshine and gullies took shape in the rain and between the two a fellow, hunting bobwhites, had a heck of a time.

She hit 'em first behind Lizzie Pope's house, next to the scuppernong vine, and trailed 'em through five dewberry patches. She ended up in John's pasture across a honeysuckle ditch you could hide a passle of elephants

That's where she was when I spied here, as still as a picture, with her head up and her tail stretched out. And that's where I'd have to go, or she'd stay there all day and half the night, since that's the way it is with good bird

But there was this ditch. The banks were head high to a tall indian in a treee, and the briars and honeysuckle were so thick a guy had to almost cut his way throgh.

I looked at the courthouse clock. It was 10:15. I unloaded my gun and pitched it up on the bank. Then I started up, grabbing for roots, and slipping back and grabbing some more, and finally pulling my way up.

I reloaded my gun and sat down to rest. Bonnie was watching me out of the corner of one eye, still as immovable as a picture. It was a good fifty feet from where I was to where she was. Fifty feet of briars and vines, and an old wire fence covered with more vines.

I started out, pulling my crippled leg. My good leg was caught in a sticker vine. It had me in a dozen places. When I got free, I saw Bonnie had moved several feet. That meant they were moving in on her. I tried to hurry but couldn't do it. The briars were thicker now. I got to the fence and looked for a place to get over, but there wasn't one. I'd have to pull my way over, dragging my gun.

But I couldn't make it. I couldn't get my crippled leg over. I slid down, through another sticker vine.

Bonnie was still again. They had stopped moving. But I had to get over this fence. I stuck my gun through an opening in the vines and started climbing, pulling with both arms. And that's when it happened.

There was the noise bobwhites make when they flush, and a little movement in Bonnie's face. And suddenly, the sharp sound of the courthouse clock striking.

I looked that way. It was 12:00.

The truck belonged to Tommy Nelson of Vincent. When it ran out of gas last Wednesday, Nelson left the truck on a dirt road off county highway 62 near the Coosa River.

Nelson returned that afternoon to find the truck's tires, wheels and eight radio speakers gone. The sheriff's department investigated the incident.

Later the same afternoon someone burned the truck. Investigation by deputy Richard Fox and Vincent police chief George Humphries ended in the arrest of two young Vincent men and their 33-year old uncle from

I must have been a strange sight as I trundled into the office last week, begging for someone to go take a picture of a 100 year old man.

"I don't have my glasses or my car," I wailed. My glasses I'd left at home my car I'd abandoned down the road with a flat tire. Fortunately there was someone available who volunteered to take my assignment. However, he nearly backed out when I couldn't find the information on the day and time the picture was to be taken and had only a vague recollection of how to get to the house. "Oh go ahead," I urged, "I'm almost sure it's supposed to be this afternoon." I crossed my fingers as he left that I wasn't wrong. I'd had enough problems that day to last me the rest of the week.

this time was practically in shreds with smoke coming out one of the holes.

A ride was right behind me. As I stood looking at the shredded rubber, a friend pulled up doorstep, but my circumstances put my assignments on hold till I recovered my eyesight and my vehicle.

A trip to the drugstore for some temporary specs solved my sight problem, and a trip to a nearby tire store got me on wheels again.

And it was my good fortune that the 100 year old man did indeed celebrate a birthday that afternoon.

It was also somewhat amazing that I actually managed to give my fellow reporter directions that took him to the vicinity of the man's house.

Now that I look back on it, I'm glad things happened the way they did that day.

After getting the flat changed, at long last I had the car's alignment taken care of and now I feel like I'm riding on a cloud.

And my standby specs come in handy - I forgot my regular glasses again today.

By using Shelby Medical Center's new 24-hour heart monitoring service, patients can have pacemaker checkups, or cardiac problems diagnosed via telephone hookup. Using a special transmitter that's held to the patient's heart, John Ebaugh (left) and other SMC personnel can take EKG readings on people like Ruby Thompson, whether Ruby's upstairs in a hospital bed, visiting kin near Columbiana (right), or at home in south Alabama. The city has paid Anderson's medical bills.

Councilman Willie Arrington reported that money collected from the four cent gasoline tax would be used to pave and resurface streets in the areas of 12th Ave. SE, 10th Ave. SE, 9th Ave. SE and 6th Ave. SE.

Henry was instructed to send out bids to contractors who do that type of work.

After the council voted to grant a retail liquor license to the owner of the Sunset lounge, a new establishment, a member of the audience voiced his objections.

James Marcus, a resident of the black community near the lounge, said he thought there were already enough places in the city that sell liquor.

The Mayor explained that there couldn't be any discrimination in the granting of liquor licenses and stressed that police kept a close watch on establishments which sold liquor.

In other action, Municipal Court Judge Joel Watson was reappointed for a two year term; Roger Wheeler was reappointed to a three year term on the personnel board; and Dwayne Woods was reappointed to a four year term on the park and recreation board.

SMC opens phone-heart hookup

by David F. Moore

Shelby Medical Center has initiated a full-time, "heart to heart" telephone service for heart patients. More technically known as a transtelephonic telemetry monitor, the service is apparently the first of its kind to be offered on a 24-hour basis.

Clinical nurse specialist John Ebaugh, explained that the service enables SMC heart patients to have an EKG run via a simple telephone call. The heart's EKG print-out is then checked against the patient's heart record file.

Ebaugh explained that the beauty of the system is that even "if a patient's in St. Louis watching a baseball game and there's a telephone, they can call us and we can receive the transmission of the heart signal."

He said the service handles pacemaker implant followup monitoring, measurments of brief flutters, palpitations and other irregularities, and heart attack detection.

Other area hospitals have heart transmitters and receivers and offer telephone monitoring service during office hours. SMC has had telephone monitoring capabilities for six weeks, but last Friday it expanded the service to a 24-hour, 365 day a year standby basis.

"Frankly, I don't know of any other hospital doing quite what we're doing here," Ebaugh told the Reporter. "This should be a big benefit to people with heart conditions and pacemakers."

Ebaugh said SMC has 250-300 pacemaker patients.

One SMC patient who'll benefit from the telephone monitoring service is Ruby Thompson of Samson, Alabama.

She and her husband, J.C. Thompson, drove 175 miles three weeks ago to have SMC implant a programmable pacemaker in the right side of her chest. SMC was the first hospital in a several state region to implant the new "intelligent" pacemakers, and Mrs. Thompson became the second person in Alabama to receive one.

While recovering from the operation last week at the Columbiana home of her daughter, Mrs. John (Jackie) Cates, she talked about the new service.

"All I have to do is call the hospital, turn on my little transmitter and say I'm ready," she said. "I hold the transmitter to my heart, and the phone to the transmitter, and they'll record what my heart's doing."

Every week for the next month, she'll dial 1-663-8849 for a regular, long-distance checkup on her new unit. After that, she'll call SMC every three months.

"If for any reason I feel any discomfort, all I have to do is call the hospital, day or night," she said. "I have the assurance that I can call long distance and find out if there's something wrong."

The signals from the patients' heart transmitters are compared to the cardiograph read-outs on file at the hospital. If anything is amiss, "we can get proper help and directions to the patient-fast," said Ebaugh.

Heart patients interested in telephone monitoring services should consult their physician first, Ebaugh said.

Dolly Hodges presents award to Mrs. Frank Wyatt.

Woman honored by club for outstanding civic service

Before her named was called out at the annual meeting, members of Shelby County's Extension Homemaker Clubs knew that Mrs. Frank Wyatt was the award recipient.

No one else had been a charter member of a county club for 50

Nor had anyone served as president for 45 years as Wyatt

The Harpersville woman was honored for her half century of membership and outstanding service to the organization during Thursday's event at the 4-H Center

Telling the crowd what she had learned about Wyatt after talking to friends who knew her well, Dolly Hodges said "persistent was the word used most often to describe her."

"I found out she wouldn't take any excuses from members of her club when there was a meeting to attend," Hodges continued.

She brought smiles to the faces of the audience when she told of Wyatt's reaction to anyone who said they had to do their washing.

"She would tell them they could do it the next day," the speaker said, adding that the club president would offer to take them to the meeting.

Recounting other information she had gathered about the honoree, Hodges said "I guess she's taken more people to the

If the response is positive, the YMCA may scheduled further free classes in December. The YMCA is a non-profit organization that is partially sponsored by the United Way. For more information, call the YMCA at 663-6504.

Hodges added." The Klein Club, which Wyatt founded in 1932, has been one of the most active in civic affairs, the speaker noted.

Other awards handed out at the event went to 18 members who had read the prescribed number of books in the program carried out through the county Council President Frances Shaw recognized those who had perfect attendance for the year and also welcomed the new Westover club, whose president is Mrs. Claude Smith.

The speaker for the occasion was Dr. Charles Britt, assistant professor in Family Life and Child Development at Auburn University.

He spoke to the crowd of nearly 100, on the subject of "People With Special Needs."

Surf's up for Pelham wave pool as city creates park for project

by David F. Moore

The City of Pelham has given a "surf's up" green light to a proposed wave pool theme park near I-65.

The city council has officially approved the formation of a public park and recreation board. The non-profit board will promote the development of public recreation facilities through the issuance of tax-free municipal bonds which will be issued for the park are pre-sold. An unnamed bank in Texas has also agreed to underwrite the project.

The 24-acre park's main attraction will be a 450,000 gallon wave pool and six water slides featuring two 45-mph speed flumes, three corkscrew flumes and one flume for young children. Also on site will be a one-acre kiddie pool play area, an arcade, picnic facilities, fast food concessions and a six-acre parking lot.

Fun Waters will be located in the Fungo Hollow area on highway 33, fronting I-65.

Area residents originally protested the plans on grounds of added traffic to highway 33 and the highway 52 exit from I-65, infringements to privacy and the possibility of the city again imposing summer water rations.

But Mayor Burk Dunaway told the Reporter last week that opposition to the park appears to

Easy to be safe on Halloween

Here are some vision safety tips from the Alabama Optometric Association.

No mask or cloth should cover the face as they are likely to obscure vision. Use non-allergic make-up instead of a mask.

Be sure that wigs and hats are worn well off the face and securely fastened so that they will not slip over the eyes.

Decorate costumes, preferably administrator to pursue the light in color, with reflective tape so the costume will "Glow" when car headlights shine on it.

Treat bags can also be decorated with reflectorized tape. Jefferson County.

Students observe Oriental Day

When Shelby Elementary School observed Oriental Day last week, at least two students really took the program to heart.

Roy Binkerd and his sister Shawn wrote a Chinese play which they presented for their family the day before the school affair.

The Chinese outfits they wore at school the following day put them in a group of 15 winners. Oriental attire the students wore was judged on originality as well as authenticity.

Judges also looked for mannerisms exhibited by people of the culture which had been discussed in class.

These included their way of walking and holding their hands. Shawn was one of the school's top winners with her Chinese coolie hat, jacket and short pants. She also carried a doll in the type of carrier Chinese peasants use to carry their babies while working in the fields.

Imitating a Ninja, or secret warrior, Roy was dressed all in black including head gear and face covering.

He also carried weapons used by those warriors which included a tool used for beating rice and an implement for hitching a team to a wagon.

Farm implements were used, he explained, because the government did not allow their people to have arms.

Jeremy Pate was the judges' choice for the boy wearing the best outfit. His hat was the coolie type, and his quilted blue robe was Chinese style.

Other creative costumes were worn by Adam Edwards, Mary Ruth Pool, Lee Clayton, Mandy Yacko, Stacey Morris, Travis Fox. Dusty Fox, David Strickland, Perry Perkins, Karen Schrader, and Donna Beasley.

Decorations brought by teachers and staff included fans, dolls, and kimonos.

In keeping with the theme, the lunchroom staff served a menu consisting of Oriental chicken, stir fried vegetables, steamed rice, fruit fantasy and Chinese almond cookies.

NOTICE HUNTERS WILDLIFE LOVERS OF SHELBY COUNTY

Did you know that 10 years ago, all wildlife was on the verge of being destroyed by the practice of spraying from the air to kill almost everything in Shelby County but pine trees?

If this practire had continued, it would have destroyed all the food supply for all forms of wildlife.

Tom Stubbs was the state representative of Shelby County when this practice began and he immediately passed a local act to prohibit this practice by law, in spite of heavy opposition from three large land owners who own 30% of all of Shelby County. (143,000 acres)

Shelby County is the only county in the state that has such a law.

Tom Stubbs is again offering to serve you in the newly created House District #49 in the north half of Shelby County.

Let's continue to preserve our wildlife and forest land by voting for Tom Stubbs, state representative, District #49, Tuesday, Sept. 7th.

Women learn to shoot

Mildly put, they were a little gun-shy at first. But by the end of the 11-hour, three-day pistol class, FOP instructors had turned out some hot-shooting women.

Seven of the women who took the recent class are members of the Shelby County Women's FOP Auxiliary. The other three women were from outside the law-enforcement ring.

Eight of the women taking the National Rifle Association Qualifications course had never in their lives fired a gun before. They all passed with high marks. In fact, three of the previous nonshooters finished in the top five. "It was just a bunch of women who didn't know anything about guns at all," says auxiliary president Annette Lumpkin. "It was very fun and we enjoyed it, but it was informative, too."

"Anybody--especially if they're going to have a gun around the house--should be comfortable with it and have a little knowledge of how to use it," she continued.

"When someone's breaking in your house and you fear for your life--that's not a good time to learn how to shoot," Lumpkin

"I would highly recommend the FOP classes to women and men," she added. "You shouldn't worry about looking dumb, because if the others in the class were any good, they wouldn't be there. And if I can do it, anyone can!"

In fact, Lumpkin finished top in the class with a 98.6 mark. Rounding out the top five were Sandra Genry, 97.6; Pat Formby, 97.4; Donna Carter, 95.6; and Linda Walters, 94.6.

The class included safety instruction, written tests, and of course firing range time. NRA certificates were presented to the participants.

According to Tom Carter, one of the instructors, the FOP is lining up future pistol classes for men and women. For more information, call 663-5922.

Musical togetherness

At the keyboard with their teacher, Mary Shaw, center, are Staci, 6, Nikki, 9, Childree and Mrs. Childree.

Calera family finds key to togetherness on piano

Finding time to practice the piano is a problem for the Childree family of Calera.

They're all four taking piano lessons in the University of Montevallo Music Department's Preparatory Division.

The lessons are the first for Edwin, the father, and Staci, age 6. Susan Childree, the mother, and Nikki, 9, are continuing lessons they had started earlier.

Childree said he knew how to read music playing the trombone in junior high school back in his hometown of Cordele, Ga. As for Mrs. Childree, who already knew how to play "a little," he said, "now she's learning to play correctly."

"We're all musically inclined," he said, "and we're all four in choirs at the Calera Baptist Church." He is a salesman who covers a large territory.

"Playing the piano is just something I've always wanted to do," he said, "and I want my children to learn to play, too." As for practice, they have to take turns, Childree said. Mrs. Childree, who is working on a degree at UM, too, practices in the afternoon, and Childree works with their two daughters at night. "Sometimes, I have to find a place to practice by myself," he

SMC nurses help athletes ready for special games

Shelby Medical Center nurses recently helped Shelby County students who may enter the 1983 Special Olympics.

Mary Paul, Ruby Davis, Becky Tow, Terri Walton, and Reggie Bulger traveled to Columbiana Wednesday, October 13, to check the blood pressure, pulse, and lungs of 98 potential athletes.

"The purpose of the screening was to pick out any obvious problem a child might have--to make sure he is physically able to participate in the Special Olympics," said Paul.

The Board of Education required that children receive screening before participating in the event, said Bulger.

Parents of the children had already completed forms indicating what medications their children were on as well as other details.

Bulger said, last year nurses checked only children in the Columbiana school but this year there were children from all over the county.

She commented that only a few children were found to have disabilities which would prevent them from participating in the Special Olympics.

Mountains of Dunnavant isolate,

by David F. Moore

Dunnavant is defined by the mountains.

The county road map shows how the community's located near the Shelby-Jefferson-St. Clair line. It also shows Shoal Creek and the Central of Georgia (now Southern) Railroad.

Likewise, the map shows the highways: the ribbon of county

'Uptown' Dunnavant

41 (The Dunnavant Road); its intersection with the snaking Alabama highway 25; the loop of 101 into the far northern reaches of the county.

But the map does not show the mountains that form Dunnavant Valley. Nor does it give the names of the mountains, nor tell how they dictated the growth of Dunnavant, nor how they helped to mold the people that lived there yesterday and live there to-

It is the mountains that define Dunnavant, and they do it this

The hub of Dunnavant, consists of Bowdoins's Grocery, the service station, and the intersections of 41 and 25.

The community extends eastward along 25 to the top of Coosa Mountain (elevation 1.140')--known locally as "the mountain." To the west, the community rolls to the Shelby-Jefferson County line atop Oak Mountain (800'), or "the little mountain," depending on whom you're talking to.

The 800-foot ridges of Sand Mountain partially cork the valley some five miles northeast of the hub near the St. Clair line.

From the hub, 41 ribbons through the Dunnavant Valley to U.S. 280, 11 miles to the southwest. Two miles out of Dunnavant (near Wahapa Lake) the Appalachian roller-coaster crest of Coosa Mountain gives way to a level 1,400-foot ridge. and becomes Oak Mountain.

The far end of the valley, known as Howardtown, was generally considered part of Dunnavant until the Shoal Creek Development was built in the 1970's. Most folks now consider Shoal Creek Golf Course to be the southern end of Dunnavant.

Mountains here, mountains there. In Dunnavant, mountains are nearly everywhere.

"Yep," says 82-year old Earl Bowdoin, considered by many as the community patriarch, "until they built the dirt road (highway 25) over the mountain in 1921, this was probably the most isolated place in Alabama."

"It's about that bad even now, when the weather's nasty," adds Eugene Bean who moved to Dunnavant from Fungo Hollow (Pelham) 34 years ago.

Back in the 1860's-'70's Central of Georgia railroad surveyors got a good taste of just how "bad" the mountains are. There was no way a train would ever chug over the steep, rocky slopes of Oak and Coosa Mountains, so the railroad was forced to tunnel through them.

A large drill bit, embedded for years in the rock floor of Oak Tunnel, breeds the local legend that this is where the famous John Henry met his death while racing a spiking machine. True or not, Bowdoin swears that as a kid he saw the jutting end of the bit before it finally disappeared.

According to Bowdoin, 1872 was either the year the tunnels were finished, or the first train puffed through the community. Either way, during the building of the railroad, two men named Dunn and Avant migrated to the area and opened a commissary.

They called it Dunn and Avant's.

"After work the men would say, 'Let's go to Dunn and Avants,' or 'I'm off to Dunn and Avants," Bowdoin figures. "Before long, people started calling the store Dunnavant."

The store's long gone, but the name stuck--even if there's some question about the spelling. Its origin would indicate a spelling with double "n's," but the 1979 county highway department map and road signs read "Dunavant."

The oldest man in Dunnavant is L.W. "Lonnie" Adams. Age 96. Lonnie looks up from the large print Bible he's reading under a shade oak by his well.

"I'm sorta' one of them ol' coons," he grins in spite of himself. "It'll take you a long time to tree me."

A hint of fall wind blows down the moutainside, rustling oak leaves while Lonnie rambles memories:

"I've been in this valley most all my life. It's a good place to have neighbors-neighbors that mind their own business. But there's still two, three gossipers up and down here..."

"I always worked with timber--building or cutting it. 'Cut most anything out of a tree... 'Been more timber cut out up and down this valley than anywhere in the world."

"My father used to cut timber for the steam drills they used on those tunnels. I helped open up of way over the mountain. We used oxen teams 'cause horses don't have much sense working on mountains..." "Used to be if a fella' wanted out of here he'd have to walk, take a wagon or horse, or take the train to Leeds, then to Birmingham. Sometimes I'd catch the train, but mostly if I went to town I'd walk out of here in the mornings and over the (little) mountain to Irondale. I walked faster than most--take 'bout two hours. Irondale had street cars to Birmingham. I'd stay as long as I wanted, come back the same day..." "Seen mountain lions round here, big as from that dog to the tree. 'Dunno--700, 800 pounds? Seen a timberwolf weighed 92 pounds. I know, 'cause we weighed it when we killed it. That was 1913. I know, 'cause it was the day after I married."

About those wild animals... Grady Isbell says he used to see black bear on Coosa Mountain and Bowdoin talks about the "panter" he saw as a youngster near Sterrett. "There's either

Dunnavant, helped cut that right some of the biggest cats you've ever seen around here, or the biggest liars," Bowdoin figures.

"You can see some of the most awful cat prints around here after a rain. I mean BIG," says Lyle Harris, holding up his large, 52-year old fist to demonstrate. Maybe it was animals that people used to see running around the old Lokey place, acting strange, says Harris. And just maybe it had something to do with wild animals that time Oliver Isbell was hunting fox and got chased down the side of the little mountain by a fireball, Harris offers.

"There's some weird things happen in these mountains," adds his daughter, Pat Harris Parker.

"There's always stuff happening every once in a while," Harris agrees. "Keeps your interest going."

Just as the mountains define Dunnavant physically, historically and mythically, they also help define the people. At once, the isolation of the mountains brings out the good and the bad in folks.

The corporation is the new atfiliate of Marketing Management, Inc. (MMI) of Pelham, both of which are headed by Ken Williams.

Williams expressed his enthusiasm about having Swenson's 12 years of insurance experience to develop the recently formed company. Swenson is the former personal lines manager of Crum & Forster's Alabama office.

Anne Acton Reardon has been named office manager for the Riverchase Family Medical Center. The announcement was made last week by Brookwood Medical Center assistant administrator for ambulatory service William Stewart.

The volunteer fire department. headed by Harrison Gulledge and based at the community center on the 41 loop, is dedicated to serving Dunnavant emergency needs. Furthermore, the DVFD holds community-wide auctions every other Friday night.

The community center itself is another prime example of Dunnavant spirit. When the old Dunnavant School burned 15 years ago, the residents rebuilt it themselves.

After Chelsea School opened, the community took over the building for meetings and recreation. When the roof went bad, the Senior Citizens sold handmade quilts to have it replaced.

Now the roof's leaking again and Bowdoin says legal action may be taken against the company that did the work. But that certainly doesn't dampen the spirits of the 25 or more senior citizens who still meet there every every Thursday noon for lunch

"Even if there hasn't been any wedding yet, we have a good time and cut up," says Earline Bailey, one of senior crew. "It's fun--the community spirit. That's what it's all about--having a good time."

It may be the people, even the mountians, but according to local legend, it's the water of Shoal Creek that brings people back. Supposedly, once you've touched the water, you can never leave Dunnavant for good, and will always have to return.

"Folk lore or fact, I'd say 95% of the people who live here and leave, come back," says Harris. "They may be in a box, but they come back..."

Brad Bowdoin, who runs the gas station, agrees. "There's nothing unusual about folks coming in I've never seen before, saying they're coming back after 50-60 years to some family connection."

"This community is fine," says Eugene Bean, but the road system..."

> •Sterrett also won't sell water to Dunnavant, although Earl Bowdoin says it could be piped through the Coosa Tunnel if it weren't for politics. Meanwhile, local well water requires filters since it contains higher iron content than a rail spike. (Birmingham water from Shoal Creek Development may eventually be the solution.)

> •Government services, county and state representation? "We feel neglected, that's my honest opinion," states Harris. "But I guess it's just human nature to give more attention to bigger places..."

> The mountains harbor isolation. True. But isolation is not always a disadvantage, not always something to shun.

Homecoming dream victory eludes Chelsea

The Chelsea Hornets saw a dream bubble popped, Friday night, losing to St. Clair County

Chelsea which enjoyed its first win this season after 17 tries, had put two victories back to back by beating Maplesville and Winterboro on the road.

and a chance to claim its first homecoming victory in four years against winless St. Clair. But the Hornets handed St. Clair the opportunity to win early in the first quarter when they fumbled on their own 12 yard Dwayne Self took the ball into the endzone; the point after attempt was good and that was enough for a vistors' victory.

The Hornets were stopped again near the end of the contest when St. Clair intercepted a pass.

Coach Hibbs was bitter about the loss. He said, "We got whipped. We didn't get beat. That's worse than getting beat."

Hibbs said that many people in the community of Chelsea sacrificed more for football than his players and he said, "Until they (the football players) sacrifice as much, we won't get out of this rut."

Hibbs said, "The only thing we can do is challenge our kids. We've got to because Calera (coming up Friday at Chelsea) is a darn good team.

"If we don't, they'll embarrass us. They may have the best team we've faced all season."

Hibbs attributed the loss by his team to mental mistakes such as blocking the wrong man or not executing plays correctly."

He said, "We are going to have to bounce back. It will probably take us a couple of days to get but we will have to start as quick as we can to get Calera on our minds and St. Clair County off."

Johnson comes back,

Thompson's Threatt kills Pelham

The Thompson Warriors invited Pelham High School to their homecoming Friday night but proved to be very rude hosts.

The Warriors would not allow their guest to register a single point on the scoreboard but hogged it all for themselves, registering 31 points of their own.

The victory in this gridiron grudge match lofted the Warriors season record to a perfect 8-0 and pushed their area mark to 5-0.

Spelling bad news for future opponents, Thompson showed that its injured super star, Arthur Johnson, is now ready to contribute to its winning efforts.

Friday night, Johnson, who had not played in a single game this eason, carried the ball six times for 79 yards and had one touchdown run of 15 yards called back.

Coach Larry Simmons said that Johnson still had not reached his old form "but he looked good when he broke a run straight down the sidelines."

But the real star of homecoming for the Warriors was Demetrius Threatt who scored four touchdowns for the home team. He contributed heavily to the Warriors' 430 yards total offense on the night.

Pelham Coach Billy Tohill said of the entire Thompson team, "They are so good, hell I couldn't pick Arthur Johnson

Tohill said of the beating his team suffered, "We just got manhandled. Thompson has a real quality football team with a lot of talent and speed. Larry Simmons and his staff have done > a tremendous job of coaching their team and they are fundamentally sound."

The Warriors drew blood early in the first period when Threatt scored from two yards out. The point after was no good but with 7:56 remaining in the first quarter, the Warriors led 6-0.

The touchdown capped an nine play 85 yard drive.

Threatt added another touchdown for his team with 1:13 remaining in the first period. This time he scored from 55 yards out, capping a two play 60 yard drive.

A two point conversion try was good and the Warriors led 14-0.

Threatt struck pay dirt again with 5:25 remaining in the half, scoring from seven yards out. The touchdown capped a four play 70 yard drive and with the point after by Jeff Willis good, the score stood Thompson 21, Pelham 0.

Willis contributed a 27 yard field goal just before the end of the half to give the Warriors a 24-0 lead.

The final score of the night came with 7:03 remaining in the third period. Threatt scored from 33 yards out and Willis added the point after giving Thompson a 34-0 lead.

Warrior reserves played the remainder of the contest and protected the lopsided victory.

Simmons said of his team's play, "I thought as a whole our defense got after it. Offensively we blocked well but not as well as we would have liked."

The Warriors could be nuturing state play-off dreams but they will have to get past a tough Sylacauga team in a home game tomorrow night.

Simmons admitted that Johnson should be in shape by the time play-offs arrive but he said cautiously, "I just hope we

According to the Warrior mentor, Sylacauga was beaten by a very tough Stanhope-Elmore team only in the last quarter of play recently.

He said of the area opponent, "Sylacauga will play us tough." Pelham is now 2-5 on the season and will host the Vincent Yellow Jackets for its homecoming tomorrow night.

That smile... those bright eyes... all mean Arthur Johnson is back. Thompson's football machine should be stronger than ever now that Johnson has played his first game this season since hurting his knee. (Photo by David F. Moore)

Indian Springs student looks to tennis future

by Fred Guarino

A potential tennis super star is playing the sport for a high school in Shelby County.

Indian Springs School is currently both home and school for Victor Martinez Suarez, age 18 of Mexico City.

Suarez began playing tennis when he was just 11 years old. He said, "My father had a membership in a club. I liked all sports. got a tennis racket and played. I

The lessons must have helped because in 1980 Suarez won the sectional for 1,2 and 3A schools under the banner of Indian Spr-third in the state for singles and second in doubles competition.

The foreign student suffered a setback in 1981. He spoke no English when he came to Indian Springs School and was given an incomplete mark for his English course.

According to Suarez, Indian Springs had never had a student who could not speak English before, and didn't know how to grade him. The result was that he could not play in high school tennis in 1981.

But the young man has bounced back this year winning three out of eight tournaments and qualifying to play the Southern Circuit. That circuit is open to only the top 12 tennis players in high school in Alabama.

How did he come to Inidan Springs?

According to Suarez, "I first went to the U.S. Embassy in Mexico and they gave me information about a lot of high schools. Most schools said if I didn't speak English I could not get in.

"But Indian Springs gave me the chance to come and learn the language and play tennis."

Suarez said that he usually gets to see his family during the summer and at Christmas but this year he is staying at Indian Springs so he can play in more tennis events. Does he miss home?

"Of course I do. I don't think about it a lot because I get depressed. Indian Springs is a tough school which keeps me busy, and, playing tennis I don't have to time to think about home."

Does he like Alabama and the United States?

"I like it a lot. Most people here do what they want. Everywhere you go people are different but I am glad to be here."

Suarez can continue his competition until he graduates in June of this year. He hopes to become a tennis pro. Can he make it?

According to his tennis coach Boo Mason, "He's got talent enough to make his goal but he's a little behind the super stars because most of them started playing at 6 or 7. He started at Mason stated that Suarez did not get much training in Mexico and has gotten as far as he has on pure natural talent.

He said that the youngster should make the top five in the state this year. Making it as a pro depends a great deal on where Suarez plays his college tennis and how well he does, says Mason.

According to the tennis hopeful he has sent letters to junior colleges in Florida, Texas and California because the weather in those states allows competition to continue yearround.

Mason said he tried to talk Suarez into playing at Auburn.

Who are Suarez's favorites in the world of tennis? Try Lendal and Gerulaitis.

Billingsley crumbles before Calera attack

The Calera Eagles proved to be very unwelcome visitors at Billingsley, Friday night.

After a slow start, the Eagles ripped their opponents for 34 points and gave up none.

The win boosted Calera's season record to 5-2 but more importantly, put the Eagles' record at 3-0 in area play.

Coach Danny Alverson said of the contest, "In the first half I was real pleaded with our defense for keeping us in the game. We made some offensive mistakes. Todd Killingsworth was our defensive standout.' The Eagles certainly stayed in the game with its offense, putting on a football show late in the first half and throughout the third quarter.

Alverson said, "I was proud of our offense for making two touchdowns in ten minutes and for the way they turned the game around and put it on ice."

He listed quarterback James Blanchard and Edward Wilson as standouts.

Calera did not get on the scoreboard until only 2:59 remained in the first half. The score came on an 80 yard run by Wilson. Ricky Posey booted the point after good.

The Eagles upped their lead to 14-0 as the horn sounded to end the half.

With only 17 seconds left in the second quarter, Calera moved from its own 40 yard line to the Billingsley four on a 56 yard pass from Blanchard to Killingsworth.

Wilson bulled into the endzone from four yards out as time expired and Posey added his second point after. Early in the third quarter, Calera picked up where it left off at the half. Wilson capped a 54

Bulldogs come back in style

The Montevallo Bulldogs gave up seven points early to Winterboro, Friday night, but took sweet revenge.

The 'Dogs rebounded to whip their visitors 28-7 in a contest that evened Montevallo's season record at 4-4.

The Bulldogs let the football get away from them on their first possession play.

Winterboro took control of the ball at the Bulldog 21 yard line and scored with 8:43 remaining in the first quarter on a nine yard pass play from M. Garrett to Ricky Calhoun.

The Bulldogs took the lead with 10:13 remaining in the second period.

Jeff Chism scored from one yard out and Gaddis passed to Michael Grayson for a two point conversion. That made it 15-7, Montevallo's way.

Montevallo padded its lead in the second period when Moore scored on a three yard burst. The point after was no good but at halftime, the Bulldogs led 21-7.

The final score of the night came on an eight yard run by Howard Gaddis with 6:53 remaining in the third period. The point after was good and the Bulldogs led 28-7.

Coach Richard Gilliam threw his reserves into the game from that point on.

Gilliam said of his team's defensive play, "I felt good about our defense after Winterboro's first possession. I thought they would grind it out on us all night but we shut them down."

About his offense he said, "We weren't consistent. Our longest drive was carried out by our third string offensive unit." But Gilliam credited his offense for doing what it had to do to win the game. Standouts for Montevallo were Nikita Boling and Barry Worthy on offense.

Defensively, Gilliam had praise for Worthy who made 15 tackles, recovered two fumbles and made two sacks of the Winterboro quarterback.

He also recognized the defensive play of J. J. Moore and Dwayne Jackson.

Briarwood suffers first loss

The Briarwood Lions saw their perfect season come to an end Friday night, at the hands of Cathedral, 12-3

But the game was not lost due to lack of defense. It was lack of offensive thrust that dropped Briarwood's record to 6-1.

According to Coach Gary Fleming, "We play defensively well enough to win. Offensively, we didn't do anything."

The Briarwood offense drove ly only to be thrown back to its own 21 vard line. A field goal attempt from there was missed.

The Lions made another trip to the Cathedral 7 yard line but had to settle for a field goal by Rob Holmes from 21 yards out.

The Lions gave 12 points as the result of a sputtering offense.

After turning the ball over one time at the 15 and holding, the Lions gave Cathedral a second to the Cathedral 11 yard line ear- 20 yard line in the second its game tomorrow night against

The visotors scored from there. Near the end of the third quarter Briarwood gambled on a pass play on third and long and lost. Cathedral intercepted the pass and ran it to pay dirt.

If Briarwood can regain its momentum and win the remainder of its games, it could play for the state championship.

Coach Fleming told the chance by fumbling on their own Reporter that if his team can win

West Birmingham at home, it could be facing Cathedral later in the year for the title.

In Friday night's action, Briarwood made seven first downs, rushed for 76 yards and passed for 34 yards for a total offense of 110 yards.

Cathedral, however, made 12 first downs, rushed for 204 yards and passed for 22 yards for a total offense of 226 yards.

Speed, size beat Shelby County

by Richard Crosby

Maybe it was the helicopter. Or perhaps it was the Aggies homecoming. Most likely, Shelby County's 34-7 loss to Sylacauga was a result of the speed and size of the opposition.

It was homecoming though, and the Birmingham tv station's helicopter was in town to film some of the game action, and Sylacauga didn't waste time in showing off for the crowd and television.

Starting at its own 26, the Aggies drove for a first down on the 39, and on the next play gave the pigskin to Melvin Miller. Then

The home team started the second half much as it did the first. After one first down, the Aggies again watched Gaddis run for the score. This time he zoomed past the defense 45 yards. With the PAT, the score stood at 28-7.

October is good for fishing

by Fred Guarino

To some, October is a time of big bright orange pumpkins.

To others, it is a time of clear blue skies and cool crisp air and

But to some, October is the best time of the year for fishing. For those who love to sit on the banks of a nice smooth lake, soaking up nature and trying to catch that big one... the Reporter offers the outlook of the month from one person who really knows her fishing.

When I was asked to write a fishing outlook for October, only one name came to my mind...that of Dr. Miriam Collins, physical and health education professor at the University of Montevallo.

Nine years ago, when I was just a sophomore at UM, she had the patience to try to teach me how to properly use different types of fishing equipment.

For her efforts, she ended up paddling all over the campus lake trying to get my lures unstuck from logs and bushes and spending half the day trying to get my line from around her fishing

But Dr. Collins was willing to forgive me, Friday afternoon when I called her.

She said, "It is now October...weather is cool... people should be able to catch with top water plugs and bugs...It is a fantastic time for fly fishing."

Collins, who has been with UM since the fall of 1953, says she enjoys her casting class the best.

She said she has been busy trying to keep her students up on the latest in equipment, teaching them how to prepare fish and even giving them her own secret recipe.

She says to potential fishermen, "Even if you don't catch anything...it is so beautiful

On the serious side, Collins said that top water fishing should produce large female bream getting ready for winter.

She says that crappie should also be hitting now and bass should be striking top water plugs and worms.

Collins deals in general terms when forcasting a fishing month because, "you have to remember all fishermen are liars.

But she said that fishing should be good now because temperatures are finally right for fish after a long hot summer.

To be a little more specific about the fishing in Shelby County, the Reporter contacted three different fishing camps or

According to Jeff Wooten of Okomo Marina on Lay Lake, "Small bass are doing pretty good with the shad up. Crappie are picking up." He stated that most of the luck has been enjoyed by fishermen using surface lures.

Dit Safford of Lay Port' Marina said that things have been a little slow lately but one man caught the limit for spotted bass Sunday (ten). She commented that the lucky fisherman used a Little George lure, which runs shallow under the shad.

Mama Bozo of Bozo's Fish Camp said that people are catching most of the fish on Rooster Tails, Hot Spots, and Shastas, Humpback Rebels and Little Flippers. She commented that her nephew, Billy Bean, caught a 40pound Blue Cat on a snag line

He said of the interceptions, "They really saved us because they stalled out Autuaga's drives."

Even though Autauga enjoyed a one yard edge on Shelby Academy in total offense, Kervin still credited his defense.

He said, "They never got into our territory. We did move consistently on them. They got all of their first downs on their side of the field."

He said, "I feel we did dominate."

Kervin was not so pleased with his offense in the second half. He said, "We didn't block hard enough or run hard enough."

The only touchdown of the night came on Brian Russell's burst late in the second quarter. A bad snap on the point after attempt was turned into a bonus when quarterback Mike Silvani managed to get the ball into the endzone.

Those points put Shelby Academy out front for good. The Raiders made ten first downs, rushed for 145 yards and passed for 18 yards for a total offense of 163 yards. Autauga made 11 first downs, rushed for 149 yards and passed for 15 yards for a total offense of 164 yards.

To others, it is a time of clear

To others, it is a time of clear blue skies and cool crisp air and football.

But to some, October is the best time of the year for fishing. For those who love to sit on the banks of a nice smooth lake, soaking up nature and trying to catch that big one... the Reporter offers the outlook of the month from one person who really knows her fishing.

When I was asked to write a fishing outlook for October, only one name came to my mind...that of Dr. Miriam Collins, physical and health education professor at the University of Montevallo.

Nine years ago, when I was just a sophomore at UM, she had the patience to try to teach me how to properly use different types of fishing equipment.

For her efforts, she ended up paddling all over the campus lake trying to get my lures unstuck from logs and bushes and spending half the day trying to get my line from around her fishing motor.

But Dr. Collins was willing to forgive me, Friday afternoon when I called her.

She said, "It is now October...weather is cool... people should be able to catch with top water plugs and bugs...It is a fantastic time for fly fishing."

Collins, who has been with UM since the fall of 1953, says she enjoys her casting class the best.

She said she has been busy trying to keep her students up on the latest in equipment, teaching them how to prepare fish and even giving them her own secret recipe.

She says to potential fishermen, "Even if you don't catch anything...it is so beautiful out."

On the serious side, Collins said that top water fishing should produce large female bream getting ready for winter.

She says that crappie should also be hitting now and bass should be striking top water plugs and worms.

Collins deals in general terms when forcasting a fishing month because, "you have to remember all fishermen are liars."

But she said that fishing should be good now because temperatures are finally right for fish after a long hot summer.

To be a little more specific about the fishing in Shelby County, the Reporter contacted three different fishing camps or marinas.

According to Jeff Wooten of Okomo Marina on Lay Lake, "Small bass are doing pretty good with the shad up. Crappie are picking up." He stated that most of the luck has been enjoyed by fishermen using surface lures.

Dit Safford of Lay Port' Marina said that things have been a little slow lately but one man caught the limit for spotted bass Sunday (ten). She commented that the lucky fisherman used a Little George lure, which runs shallow under the shad.

Mama Bozo of Bozo's Fish Camp said that people are catching most of the fish on Rooster Tails, Hot Spots, and Shastas, Humpback Rebels and Little Flippers. She commented that her nephew, Billy Bean, caught a 40-pound Blue Cat on a snag line last week.

Family makes haul

A Montevallo family who moved to Lake Jordan are hauling in some big catches on their trot lines.

L.B. Green Jr. and his 18 year old grandson Eric had a gaft hook completly straightened when they pulled in a 34 pound yellow catfish from the line.

The whopper was caught on a number four hook attached to a

Shelby Academy bounces back

Defense played a key role in putting Shelby Academy back on the track of a respectable season, Friday night.

The Raiders downed Autauga 8-0 and evened their season mark at 4-4. Coach DeWayne Kervin said his team played well both offensively and defensively in the first half but that it was the defense which saved the show.

tions by Mike Silvani and one interception by Dennis Attaway which stopped possible game tying drives by Autauga.

He said of the interceptions, "They really saved us because they stalled out Autuaga's drives."

Even though Autauga enjoyed a one yard edge on Shelby Academy in total offense, Kervin still credited his defense.

He said, "They never got into our territory. We did move consistently on them. They got all of their first downs on their side of the field."

He said, "I feel we did dominate."

Kervin was not so pleased with his offense in the second half. He said, "We didn't block hard enough or run hard enough."

The only touchdown of the night came on Brian Russell's burst late in the second quarter.

A bad snap on the point after attempt was turned into a bonus when quarterback Mike Silvani managed to get the ball into the endzone.

Those points put Shelby Academy out front for good.

The Raiders made ten first downs, rushed for 145 yards and passed for 18 yards for a total offense of 163 yards.

Autauga made 11 first downs, rushed for 149 yards and passed for 15 yards for a total offense of 164 yards.

The Raiders will face Warrior Academy in an away contest tomorrow night.

Baptist Medical Center Montclair continues tradition of serving Birmingham's health care needs

A carpenter fits one last door into the casing, slipping the pins in place. A painter walks a corridor, looking for any last spots which might have been missed by the brush. Technicians adjust the dials and gauges on sophisticated new equipment. A landscaper carefully packs the soil around a plant on the new roof garden. Contractors walk through the building, looking for last minute details that need attention.

Architects designed it to be functional; decorators worked to give it warmth; planners made sure the right equipment was ordered to do the best job possible.

But as the doors to Baptist Medical Center Montclair's new West Wing Tower prepare to open, the bottom line is that this "Rise to New Heights" is a rise to the summit of quality medical care not only in Birmingham but the entire Southeast.

the "silk stocking hospital."

Over the years, changes occurred to provide more patient beds and services at Highland. Departments reallocated space and swapped areas, but by the mid-1950's, the need for additional space had reached a critical level; the 'silk stocking hospital" was no more.

With no place left to move, the Birmingham Baptist Association . . . owners of the Birmingham Baptist Hospitals ... saw the need for a long-range building program.

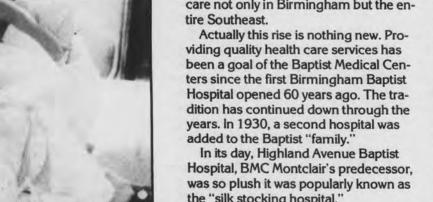

In 1962, 250 acres on Montclair Road were purchased for a new medical center and two years later, the dream began to take shape as construction began on Baptist Medical Center Montclair.

That dream became a reality in December of 1966 when 54 patients were transferred from Highland to the new hospital in what became known as "Operation Big Move."

When the hospital opened, it consisted of 300 patient beds, but only 150 of them were opened immediately. Within a few weeks, the demand for beds exceeded the supply so the remaining 150 beds were opened as soon as people could be hired to staff them. By 1969, the top three floors of the hospital, which had been "shelled in," had to be completed bringing the total bed capacity of BMC Montclair to 485.

What started out as a 150-bed hospital in 1966 has today grown to an imspace public parking deck to the cam-

In addition to the 11-story hospital and new West Wing Tower, the BMC Montclair campus contains the nine-story John H. Buchanan Building which houses the Ida V. Moffett School of Nursing of BMC and Samford University, a seven-story professional office building, two parking decks, three parking lots, a helipad, landscaped plaza and an underground tunnel system connecting all buildings and parking decks. New construction already underway will add a second professional office building and new 634-

COMMUNITY SUPPORT MADE WEST WING A REALITY

Twenty years ago when the planning for the new location and building of Baptist Medical Center Montclair was underway, charitable contributions from citizens and corporations of the Birmingham area provided a million and a half dollars through a Capital Campaign led by William M. Spencer, III that helped assure the successful construction of the new hospital.

Similarly, a key factor in the financial program that made possible the construction of the new West Wing is the $5.5 million "ministry of healing" Capital Campaign which has demonstrated the deep involvement and support of the hospital family and friends. This campaign has been in planning for tomorrow . . . today

Even with the completion of the West Wing, the Baptist Medical Center trance with no steps or ramps will be Montclair campus continues to take on a new look with an ongoing construction program designed to add even the hospital by an enclosed, air conmore health care services. The third phase of Baptist Medical Center Montclair's building program is the construction of a second Professional Office Building which is scheduled for completion late in 1983. The 10-story, 140,000-square-foot structure will include office space for 55 to 60 physicians in private practice, as well as commercial functions such as a pharmacy, optical shop, surgical supplies, automated bank teller, restaurant, barber and beauty shop. POB II will also include 48 deluxe guest rooms for the convenience of outpatients, patient family members and other related campus

A number of outpatient activities and services will be included in Montclair's second Professional Office Building to enhance the total ambulatory care. Other hospital services will be the education department and meeting rooms, the security department, a health center with exercise equipment, racquetball court and running track.

Space will be arranged in POB II so that outpatient, ambulatory care and hospital functions are on the lower levels while the private office space is located in the five tower floors above. POB I and POB II will share a new entrance lobby on the commercial plaza Professional Office Building I (top photo) will have a companion next fall upon completion of the POB II (at right). The building will in clude space for 55-60 doctors, in addition to commercial functions and outpatient services. Site plan (at top) shows relationship of new POB and parking deck with the hospital complex.

The new West Wing Tower is a major addition to BMC Montclair . . . and what a difference that addition will make to patients, visitors and employees. Here, briefly, is what's included:

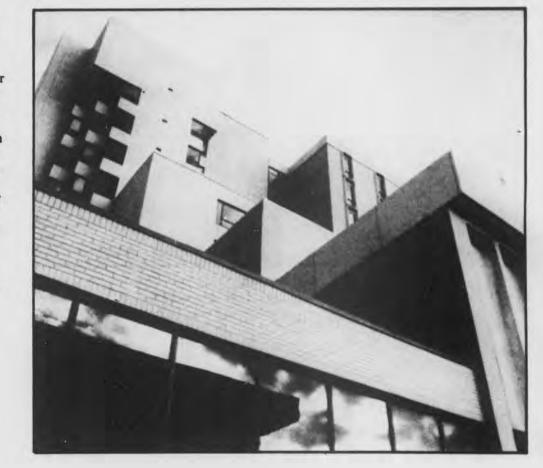

On the ground floor will be the new admitting entrance for patients checking into the hospital. The west side of the building will have two emergency entrances, one for emergency patients brought in by ambulance and another for those able to walk in. The radiology department, outpatient clinic, physical therapy and business office will also be located on the ground floor.

One floor up, on first floor, will be a spacious new clinical laboratory, public chapel, auditorium/meeting center, cafeteria and pharmacy. Also located on the first floor will be central supply, storeroom and other support services.

The second and third floors are devoted to four new intensive care units, a new recovery room, and additions to the surgical suite and cardiovascular services area. Opening out from the second floor will be a beautifullylandscaped roof garden for the enjoyment of patients, visitors and employees.

The top two floors, floors four and five, provide 96 new progressive care

As departments and nursing units move into the new West Wing, the older 11-story building will begin taking on a new appearance. The first and second floors and the vacated intensive care units will be renovated to provide much needed additional space for a number of departments. This renovation phase will involve radiation therapy, medical records, ambulatory/same day surgery center, neuroscience, medical library and medical education office, medical staff services office and physicians' lounge, volunteers' office, respiratory care, G.I. lab, call rooms, hospital kitchen and dietary offices and patient representative department.

The opening of the West Wing Tower brings together various ambulatory services at Montclair, with many planned additions and refinements to the ambulatory program.

The emergency department will move into new and expanded facilities, with twice the bed capacity of the current emergency room and more than double the physical area and capabilities

Among the 16 beds located in this department, four are major emergency rooms, four are minor emergency rooms; there are four observation beds, two fracture beds, an ear/nose/throat treatment room and a gynecology treatment room.

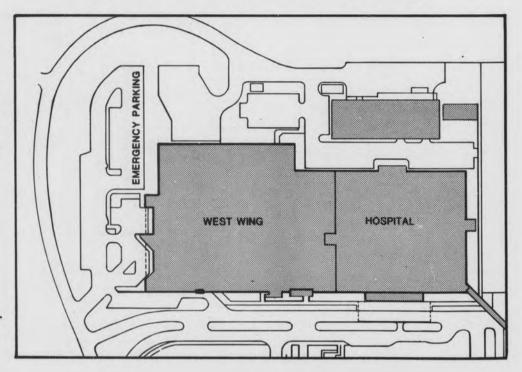

The major emergency rooms are divided into two major trauma rooms and two large cardiac rooms. A speciallyequipped emergency radiology room is located adjacent to the trauma rooms for easy access and immediate x-ray readings for physicians. Separate entrances will serve those patients arriving by ambulance and those ambulatory patients entering through the public en-

Another important service, the referral clinic, will be located adjacent to the emergency department. This outpatient clinic offers medical and surgical care to patients referred to the clinic by their private physicians. These patients benefit from the close proximity of such departments as emergency, admitting and

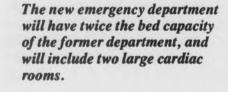

Future plans for Montclair's ambulatory services program call for a comprehensive same-day surgery center and other types of outpatient care and

The new emergency entrances will be located on the west side of the hospital. One will be for patients able to walk in, while a separate entrance will be for those arriving by ambulance.

The new West Wing will also provide much needed space for the sophisticated equipment for the radiology department (left and below).

While expanded space and facilities in the West Wing will be welcome, patients such as this one in physical therapy will still find the Montclair staff providing one-on-one contact.

In addition to the patient care areas moving into the West wing, a number of clinical and support services will also occupy the new addition. Although most patients will never see some of these departments, they are nevertheless critical to the operation of the hos-

For example, the laboratory which has been spread out in several locations, will consolidate almost all lab functions into one area on the West Wing's first floor. Naturally, the efficiency of laboratory functions will im-prove with the consolidations, but another efficiency aspect will be the floor plan, which will improve traffic flow and processing in the department.
The new laboratory will also include additional facilities for the teaching program, including the lab conference room, lecture hall, and an 800-square foot teaching lab.

Other areas moving into the new West Wing include materials management and central supply.

Ordering and receiving of orders will be made easier, and general stores will be able to do bulk ordering and fill departmental orders in smaller quantities than those now available

The implementation of a "Case Cart System" in the central supply area will facilitate transporting sterile supplies to and from surgery. The new system will operate with two special elevators which will transport large, metal carts between the two areas. All the sterile supplies, linens, and instruments needed for one case in surgery will be loaded into one of the carts and transported via a "clean" elevator directly into the operating room. Following the surgery, the used supplies will be reloaded into the cart and returned to central supply by a separate elevator.

Also gaining much needed new space will be the hospital's pharmacy and radiology department.

Radiology's space will triple and combine all radiological services performed in the hospital except radiation therapy. The department will include a central viewing area for mass film viewing, new equipment, a special emergency radiology room, a remote control unit for fluoroscopic procedures, better organization and separation of patient and staff areas, and increased space for nuclear medicine and

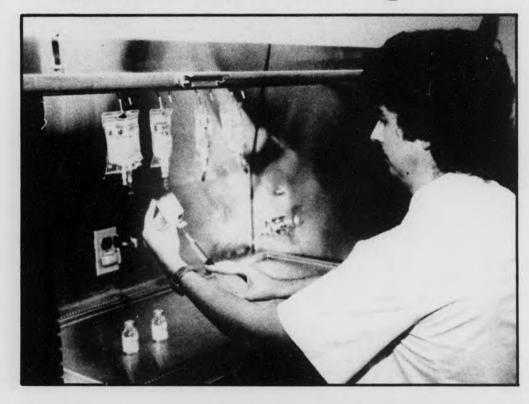

A new physical therapy department located on the ground floor will be about three times the size of the current department and have a more efficient layout for patient treatment. All offices and waiting areas will be located in the center of the department with an exercise room, treatment booths and hydrotherapy area surrounding them. This type of design provides greater visual control from the offices.

A separate occupational therapy area will help patients relearn the day-to-day activities that are often taken for granted but can be difficult for patients with a physical disability or some stroke victims. A daily living lab will include a kitchen, bathroom, bed, and table and chairs so that patients might practice routine daily skills before they go home.

The West Wing provides additional space for clinical services such as the pharmacy (top right), the laboratory (above and middle photos), and physical therapy (at right).

in day-to-day services you've come to expect

The new admitting department located in the West Wing will increase the admitting space, and offer better organization and added convenience for

The main hospital entrance, previously used by patients being admitted as well as hospital visitors, now becomes a "visitors-only" entrance. Patients checking in through the new admitting department will find a well-organized area. After checking their luggage with the patient escort service and registering at the desk, patients will wait in the lobby area until called into one of seven private admitting offices. From there, they will circle through the U-shaped department to the admitting laboratory. Once their lab work is completed, they will reclaim their luggage and be escorted to their rooms.

Advantages of the new admitting department include the elimination of backtracking on the part of patients, a separate waiting area for patients to be admitted, a pre-admissions orders nurse close at hand for patients needing medical attention prior to admission, and more privacy in the admitting offices and laboratory.

The new admitting department also serves as the discharge area for patients leaving the hospital. The business office is conveniently located adjacent to this area to facilitate settling of patient accounts when the patient is discharged.

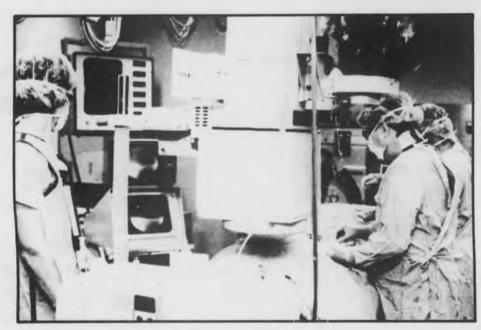

Patients checking into BMC Montclair will find more privacy during the admitting process. Seven new private admitting offices are a part of this department.

After leaving the admitting office, patients will circle around the department to the admitting lab for necessary work just prior to being escorted to their rooms.

On the third floor, one floor up from the surgical intensive care unit, is the

Intensive care units will move to new west wing

With the opening of the new medical, surgical, coronary and open heart intensive care units in the West Wing, BMC Montclair is stepping into the future of high quality critical care. Each of the four units is specially designed to best meet its patients' needs, with the very latest in medical equipment, supplies and technology.

The new coronary care and surgical intensive care units are located on the West Wing's second floor

The CORONARY CARE UNIT consists of 12 beds specially equipped for coronary patients. It includes monitoring equipment that detects and alerts professional nurses to any change in a patient's heart rhythm. The coronary care unit is located adjacent to the cardiovascular services department, affording patients immediate access for any needed treatment.

The SURGICAL INTENSIVE CARE UNIT is a 15-bed critical care area designed for patients needing intensive medical care following major surgery. Location here, also, is an important feature, since this intensive care unit is located immediately adjacent to the hospital's surgical suite and recovery area.

in intensive care where we're second to none

The second and third floors of the new Baptist Medical Center Montclair West Wing Tower includes expanded areas for surgery and cardiovascular services, as well as four sophisticated new intensive care units.

Six new operating rooms and a larger recovery area will be added to the surgical suite. Two of the new operating rooms are specially designed and equipped for open heart surgeries, while a third is designated for cardiovascular thoracic operations, a statement of BMC Montclair's commitment to the care of patients with heart disease. In fact, Montclair was the first community hospital in Alabama to perform open heart surgery and has since remained at the forefront in this

The cardiovascular services department at Montclair has likewise long been respected as a leader in the care and treatment of patients with heart disease. The department has a long string of "firsts" to its credit, including such recent developments as technology used to screen patients with a high risk of stroke and a new "balloon" catheterization procedure which can delay or sometimes prevent the necessity for open heart surgery for some patients.

With the expansion of the cardiovascular services department into the West Wing, existing procedures will receive badly needed space, new procedures will be added, and the list of "firsts" will continue to grow. A new pacemaker room will be added to the department, as well as a new heart catheterization laboratory. The new heart cath lab will be designed and equipped to perform pediatric catheterizations, making Montclair the first community hospital in the state to do this procedure.

Primary nursing concept used in progressive care units

The progressive care units are among the many nursing areas at BMC Montclair making use of primary nursing. Under the primary nursing concept, a particular registered nurse coordinates each patient's health care activities on a 24-hour-a-day basis, providing a more personal approach to health care. Because the primary nurse cannot be at the hospital continuously, he or she works closely with other members of the health care team to ensure that all patients receive round-the-clock quality care. These other health care team members include physicians, associate nurses, dieticians, physical therapists, pharmacists and respiratory therapists.

With the opening of the West Wing, several departments which were previously unable to utilize this nursing concept will become primary nursing units. For example, the increased space and facilities in the emergency department will allow the implementation of primary nursing there. An assignment board posted at the emergency nursing station will list each patient currently in the department as well as his or her room number, physician and primary nurse. Dividers between patient beds in the recovery area will also facilitate the use of primary nursing in that unit, while retaining continuous visual control of all pa-

Many of Montclair's general patient floors, as well as the intensive and progressive care areas have already instituted primary nursing programs.

Progressive care units provide intermediate care

While much of the second and third floors of the new West Wing is devoted to the intensive care units, the fourth and fifth floors contain 96 progressive care (or step-down) beds.

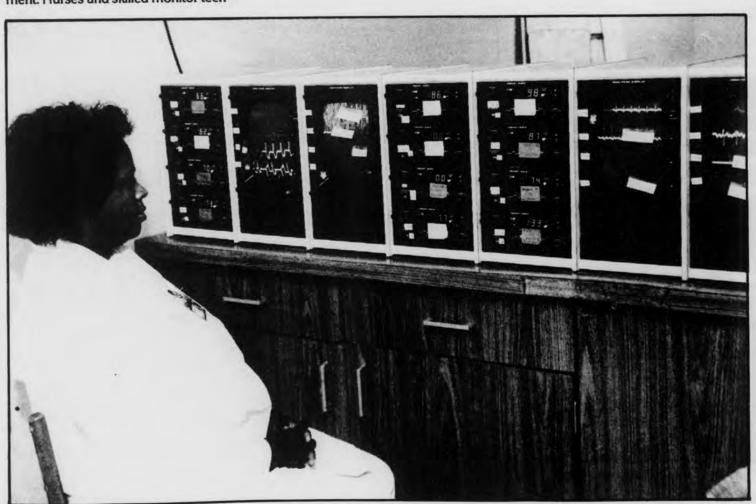

Each of these floors has 48 monitored beds for patients who need more care than that provided on a general patient floor, but who are not in need of intensive care. These beds will provide better use of hospital nursing personnel while making it less expensive for the

In the cardiac and surgical progressive care units, the heart rhythm of the patients can be continuously observed by using telemetry monitoring equipment. Nurses and skilled monitor technicians are able to watch the rhythm of the patient's heartbeat on a screen in the monitor room across from the nursing station.

Telemetry monitoring is done with the use of a small, wallet-sized battery pack, two monitoring wires and two skin electrodes. The equipment is painless and the patient wearing a telemetry monitoring unit is generally quite com-

Progressive care units are also teaching units. Educational programs have been designed to help patients understand their problems as well as how to participate in the recommended treatment plan.

ospital moves foward Montevallo, 280 offices

by David F. Moore

Shelby Medical Center is stepping into a new role--that of a landlord. The hospital has nearly completed its purchase of the Montevallo Medical Arts Building, and plans a groundbreaking next month for doctors' offices on U.S. 280.

Neither of the offices will be official SMC out-patient clinics, according to hospital planning director Norman Price. Instead, SMC will merely lease space to future doctors it plans to entice into Shelby County, Price said.

In Montevallo, SMC is purchasing the Medical Arts Building and its five acres at highway 119 and Salem Road. All that remains of the $300,000 deal is a signature session with the doctors that own it, Price bard and Lewis Kirkland, and dentists Milton L. Orr, Jr., and Mike Mahan maintain offices and practices there. The doctors will remain as SMC tenants once the deal is closed.

Price noted that both Kirkland and Hubbard are in their 60's, however, and may retire in the next several years.

"People in Montevallo are accustomed to getting medical care at that building," Price said.
"We want to keep that status quo. In the event of a retirement, our goal is to have a place available to lease to possible future doctors."

"Shelby Medical Center doesn't want to be in the clinic business right now," he continued. "We'll simply own and control the building."

On the other side of the county, SMC owns a 15-acre site it hopes to develop into a multiphase medical complex.

The final outcome of that intent, however, hinges on state approval, and state decisions on other planned medical developments along the 280 corridor and in Riverchase. State approval is not needed for medical office buildings.

The first stage of SMC's intended development will come Friday, November 12, with a groundbreaking for a professional office building. Like the Montevallo building, Price said the building would be made available for leasing to doctors.

Just what that building will look like, however, and how many doctors will lease space there, are points still under negotiation.

According to Price, hospital board members and administrators hope to complete the office plans before the groundbreaking, but the ceremony will go on, regardless.

"We want folks to know we intend to put something on that spot," Price said. "The hospital board is committed to meeting the health needs in Shelby County, and the groundbreaking will symbolize the entire 280 proiect."

Price said initial plans for the 15-acre medical "campus" will include a hospital, professional building, wellness center and "affordable" condominium housing for the elderly.

According to reports, private developers have plans for at least one shopping center and apartment complex in the 280/119 neighborhood.

SMC purchased its site there last summer for about $38,000 per acre, or $570,000, Price said.

School system sets $26 million budget

The Shelby County School system will have a budget of $25,713,352 for the fiscal year which began October 1.

But Finance Coordinator Jim Davis is quick to point out that $5.4 million of this is not a budget increase over last year. The difference comes because of a change in accounting procedures.

The change means several items which were not counted in the budget before, are now showing up on the fine lines of the budget as follows:

The money the state pays into the retirement fund for Shelby County's school employees will amount to $1,585,000 for the Social Security paid by the state for county employees will be about $933,438. Unemployment benefits will be $43,188. The state. is budgeted to make payments for textbooks of $124,749 and is holding the remaining balance on the new Inverness School of $400,000.

By far the biggest item which is now a budget item for the county system is the child nutrition program. This includes lunches, milk, and breakfasts. That figure for the year is expected to be $2,346,913.

All six of these major categories never showed up in the county budget in former years. The accounting change is welcomed by school officials, who feel it will improve control of expenditures and general management of the financial operation of the schools. Davis points out it will have no effect on the operation of the schools.

If the accounting change had not been made, the school budget for the year would have been just over $20 million.

He referred to the Alabaster Council's decision, which was passed as a resolution, to collect the tax money and put it in escrow until the Justice Department makes a ruling. Justice Department officials have already met with city attorneys and proposed that the city be divided into wards with members of the council being elected from specific areas.

Complying with those recommendations, attorneys Sonny Conwill and Bill Justice have drawn the lines and presented several plans to the city on how candidates for council seats will

A vote on which proposal to adopt will be taken at an upcoming council meeting.

City officials say the reason the money is being collected now instead of waiting for justice department approval, is to facilitate plans for serving the newly annexed area.

Those plans include building a new fire station.

Residents of black areas of the city who have expressed concern about getting funds for improving sewer problems in their area, recently brought up the matter of other annexations.

Rev. Jimmy Underwood eluded to the fact that the Justice Department had not given official approval to other areas the city has annexed in the past.

These areas will also recieve the department's sanction if they approve the plan Alabaster adopts.

The latest annexation of approximately 13 square miles takes in the subdivisions of Woodland Hills, Eaglewood, Green Valley, Scottsdale, Willow Glen and Mission Hills which are to the west and south of the present city

New Austrian firm locates in Riverchase

The first company from Austria to open a business in Alabama chose a location in Shelby County.

Tuesday afternoon the Lenzing USA Corporation of Lenzing, Austria, entertained visitors with an open house at its Riverchase ofices.

On hand were top company officials from the parent company, Chemiefaser, Lenzing AG in Austria and the executive vice president, Eric P. Hartmann, who will be in charge of operations at the new company's first American installation.

Officials demonstrated looms which manufacture polyethylene fabrics produced by the Lenzing Splitweaving process. The products are woven into bags and wrapping materials. A long time customer of the company has been Allied Flexible Materials of Helena and this was one of the reasons company officials decided to establish their first center Division Manager Dr. Bruno Haider told the Reporter that the specially designed looms were first shown in Paris six months ago, and since then the company has sold over 240 of them worldwide.

Helena passes give-cut budget

by David F. Moore The Helena council has passed a $374,049 general budget after weeks of give and take discussions. The budget was passed unanimously Monday night at a special, unannounced council meeting. The budget is figured against predicted revenues totaling $384,045, which leaves a surplus buffer of $9,996, according to city clerk Francis Parrish.

Major expenditures include $173,663 for the police department, $35,016 for the fire department, and $165,375 for all other city expenses, bills and salaries.

Major sources of revenue include the $19,000 county tax assessor Bobbie Reynolds predicts Helena will receive in ad valorum taxes, and about $100,000 from the sale of privilege licenses.

When contacted late Tuesday afternoon, Parrish did not yet have other predicted revenues totaled and listed. However, she told the Reporter that the council "all agrees that these revenues are very well predicted".

Last year the total city budget amounted to $445,000, which also included revenue sharing funds and state gasoline tax revenues.

The council has yet to budget some $24,000 expected in revenue sharing funds. Also, revenues are expected from state taxes, but Parrish said that amount is unknown, contingent on how much gasoline is purchased in the city limits.

Budget discussions had been expected at the regular council meeting October 18, but that meeting was canned because of the lack of a quorum. Mayor Charles Penhale and councilmen C.W. Fulgrem and Billy Harris were absent that night because of business or vacations.

Deputy pay raises temporarily locked into holding pattern

Shelby County sheriff's deputies will not see an increase in their pay this Friday.

The county commission agreed Monday to wait until it finds out exactly what the state has done regarding pay of its troopers.

If it turns out that the state raise was given on a conditional basis, the county will have to work out its raise for deputies on the same basis.

If the matter was solved with a voluntary solution on the part of troopers to take an increase in pay but a cut in hours, the deputies will be asked to make the same agreement.

On the possiblity that the state's solution was a volunteer action, the commission agreed that the county attorney, Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden, Sheriff Buddy Glasgow and one deputy of each rank should meet.

It was agreed that Sheriff Glasgow will appoint the representatives of the deputies.

Commissioner Jake Morris said of the pay situation, "It is not fair for them (the deputies) not to know and us not know. Someone has got to take the initiative to figure it out."

Commissioner Don Murphy stated that it was not fair to keep holding the deputies off. He said, "They need some time off for the same pay."

He also stated that no one on the commission wanted to lay anyone off.

Commissioner Harold Davenport stated,"We've got to do whatever the law says. People understand there is a shortage of

DAY teen program continues to snowball

Van keys

Alabaster Rotarians Ken Williams and Roy Martin present the keys for a new van, which will be used to transport students in the DAY program, to Project Director J.K. Terrell. Martin was in charge of the project for the Rotarians.

"I believe we're going to ge" snow early this year," J.K. Ter-rell told members of Alabaster's Rotary Club Thursday.

Terrell wasn't talking about the weather though. He was referring to a program for troubled youth which he expects to "snowball" because of the tremendous amount of enthusiasm and support it has received so far.

Part of the support for the DAY program (developing Alabama youth) he referred to, has come from the Alabaster Rotarians. And the reason for Terrell and District Judge Patti Smith's appearance at the meeting was to express apprecia-

The club donated a van to the Shelby County Board of Education to be used by the DAY program for transportation. At the present time there are 14 students enrolled in the program which is nearly ready to move its base of operations from Columbiana to Siluria.

Both the judge and Terrell told club members that transporation has been one of the biggest problems for the fledgling project.

"In fact," Terrell remarked, "one student was almost withdrawn because the mother couldn't afford the $5 it would take for transportation."

Her concern for the young people she dealt with in juvenile case work prompted Judge Smith to promote a program involving academic help and counseling.

She told the Rotarians she had seen the same scenario develop time and time again with the young people who came before

Poor performance in the classroom followed by the ensuing problems at home caused young people to look for answers on the street with the wrong crowd, the judge reported.

Even though she took a strong stand with the students who came into her courtroom, Smith said she knew that wasn't enough.

With funding from CETA and the Shelby County Board of Education, the program opened in a city owned building in Columbiana in August.

The change in location came about due to a space problem. Terrell reported that renovation work on the building that had been occupied by the Alabama Retarded Citizens group would be finished in another week.

Rotarian Ken Williams said the foundation will have a three year lease on the building with the option to buy at a reasonable price.

Columbiana buys land

Members of the Columbiana Council voted Thursday to purchase the property adjoining city hall.

The cost of the land measuring 500x80 feet is $30,000.

With a $70,000 CD maturing Oct. 29, the panel agreed to take out a loan for the purchase price, repay it with the CD and invest the remainder in another CD at the First National Bank of Columbiana.

Councilman Bill Seale, who was out of town at the time of the meeting, had earlier expressed apposition to the purchase of the property which has been in the Tom Stinson family since 1930.

When she signed the deed turning the property over to the city the day after the meeting, Stinson's daughter Myra Vickery said she thought her father would be pleased.

"He had a great love for the city and took an interest in its affairs," she remarked."

The city has no immediate plans for the property, but Mayor Buck Falkner noted that it would have been foolish to pass up the opportunity to purchase adjoining property when it was

Commission

A rural transportation program for the needy was also approved.

Commissioners agreed to support Amendment 5 to the state constitution which allows counties to finance industrial development.

Commissioners agreed that the county health department can put an X-Ray machine out for bid with the commission holding the right to reject those bids if they are too low.

Snowden were approved to represent Shelby County at the Association of County Commissions' data processing affiliate.

Snowden reported that things are falling into place concerning a branch license office of the courthouse.

He suggested however that a bank's offer for free space be turned down because it would not be fair to other banking institutions in the county.

He stated that space in Pelham Plaza is still available.

Snowden added that arrangements might be made to provide license office branches throughout the county.

The only problems Snowden saw were providing space for a state trooper to give driving tests, getting a driver's license machine and keeping lines open to the county's computer.

Snowden felt that a license office in north Shelby County might help the economy by attracting drivers from Hoover and Vestavia to spend money there.

Linda Dupree of the juvenile probation department was told to continue operating as usual regarding the number of employees.

While no official action was taken, commissioners agreed that beer distributors should be required to tell why beer tax is down although sales are up.

The county previously agreed to a voluntary assessment of the tax by distributors to save expense. for sale at a reasonable price.

Two requests for funds were put on hold. Because two council members were not present at a meeting involving the Smith-Harrison Museum, the Mayor asked that a request for $14,534.34 for upkeep be tabled.

Larry Ray, a member of the South East Shelby County Emergency Medical Rescue unit, made a second appearance before the panel with figures for a building project.

At the last council meeting, Ray and other members of the newly organized unit asked for the use of a city owned building as their base.

Because they needed an enclosed place for a rescue vehicle, they requested money to purchase the building materials.

Ray said the cost of the materials would be approximately $1,000-$1,200 with the unit doing the work themselves.

Because a lease agreement on the building hasn't been drawn up yet, the council delayed on making a commitment on the money.

Ray told the council that 17 members of the unit have recently completed a first responder course and are now in the process of trying to acquire pagers and a rescue vehicle.

He reported that members would join the Lay Lake Rescue squad over the weekend on a roadblock in Shelby to raise funds

Under The Courthouse Dome

A two month old liquor license request for the Town and Country Lounge has been tabled again amidst controversy by the county commission.

The site of the proposed lounge is on Highway 25 between Calera and Montevallo, the old 'Lib's'. Lorraine Montgomery is the applicant.

Commissioner Harold Davenport had tabled the matter waiting for a letter of recommendation from Sheriff Buddy Glasgow.

However, Bill Montgomery told commissioners Monday that the sheriff said he already mailed one letter and would not send another one.

The husband of the applicant said that the sheriff further stated that it was budget time and election time and that approval was not his responsibility.

It was common knowledge among commissioners that a letter from Glasgow concerning the matter had been received, but that the letter had been withdrawn at the sheriff's request.

Commissioners phoned the sheriff Monday morning for comment but he was unavailable.

The statement made by Montgomery sparked a strong reaction from county commissioners.

Commissioner Harold Davenport stated, "I turned down other license requests at election time and I was running ... '

Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden said, "If the sheriff says he is not going to do it (send letters of recommendation), we can forget anybody or wipe the resolution off the books."

Davenport said, "I resent his remarks, if he said them, that he was not going to do it because it is budget time and he is having to run for election. If he is not going to do it, let's get something in writing from him."

Davenport stated that if he received no letter from the sheriff he would have to go with his own feelings on the matter.

He commented that the location was bad, there had been cuttings and shootings in the past, and he had witnessed whiskey bottles sold over the counter in previous years.

The commissioner pointed out that an ABC Board representative told him he doesn't feel it would be smart to open the place.

Davenport added, "Even if I approve it, he (the ABC man)could stop it. He said he would go to the ABC Board to have the license denied."

Commissioner Jake Morris said of the letters from the sheriff, "The sheriff owes it to the commission to investigate every application and recommend. It is the sheriff's duty to do this."

The county attorney advised the commission that it could not be arbitrary in its decisions on these matters.

Well it's happened at last, I have finally latched on to a fashion find.

It's not often that I come up with something that seems to have the universal appeal of the sweater that I recently-purchased.

Most of the garments that I consider super, never draw an ooh or an aah from my friends let alone strangers on the street.

As I said though, my latest buy is the exception.

One of the things I really liked about this zingy little sweater is its adaptability. I can wear it to cover a football game - I can wear it to church. And I have done both.

I'm not sure if it was the reason for a coach apologizing for running in front of me when I was taking a picture, but that is the first time that has ever happened. And the funny part of it was, I never saw him run in front of me.

I call my little gem, my coat of many colors, and I don't believe the coat that Jacob made for Joseph could have been more colorful.

Eleven amendments to the designate a meeting place for state constitution will be on the voting machines next Tuesday, along with candidates for various offices.

The first one would cut out the need for all voters in the state to vote on proposals that apply to only one county. It would require that only the voters of the affected county would need to vote on the issue.

The second one would give the Judicial Compensation Commission the right to recommend salaries of state judges, which could go into effect immediately upon approval by the legislature.

Montevallo's city council adopted a budget for spending General Revenue Sharing funds Monday night, with public safety areas getting the lion's share.

During public hearings held earlier this month, council members heard requests for nearly $155,000 to be spent from GRS funds. Only $63,138 is available.

Council members budgeted the following amounts: police and fire departments $10,000 each; a computer for use by all city departments, $15,000; sidewalk repair, $8,000; dump truck, $7,500; city parks, $6,500; administrative reserve, $4,439; dog detention program, $1,200; Shelby County attention home,

The fourth amendment applies only to poultry producers, allowing them to assess themselves for costs of promoting their industry.

The fifth proposed amendment is of special interest to Shelby County, and several others. It would authorize the county to buy land for use as industrial sites and for industrial parks.

The others apply only to one county each. The full text of each amendment is on page B-10.

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE

Spencer Bachus believes in the greatness of Alabama's potential, the greatest being her people. Here are some of the reasons we need him in our legislature.

The Land:

"We have the finest inland waterways in the nation. Energy and mineral rich, we are third in natural resources. Both our soils and climate are rated as among the ten best in the nation."

"Those who serve in our State Legislature are the managers or stewards of this Great State. Have they been found trustworthy?"

"We spend less to educate our children than any other state. We are 48th in teacher/nupil ratio. We are 2nd in unemployment. Our penal system, the worst in the U. S., is too small to hold all our violent criminals. Metro Birmingham will be the last major city in the South to complete its interstate system. Alabama, the best of states, is at the bottom.

"Alabama and its families deserve better."

Shelco has firefighting power

With the two vehicles that have recently been put into service, the Shelco Fire Department can now roll up to a fire with 3,000 gallons of water.

Since there aren't fire hydrants in some areas that Shelco serves, the new equipment is a valuable addition.

Volunteer fireman Alan Eisenberg, who serves as Shelco's equipment chairman, related that it's rare to find a pumper like the one Shelco acquired a few months ago.

The vehicle is a 1959 American La France make with a 1,000 gallon per minute mid-ship pumper.

Used by the Caterpillar Corporation on their premises in Chicago, the vehicle only had 10,000 miles on it, Eisenberg reported.

Another vehicle the unit now has on line was allocated through the Forestry Department. But months of work went into designing it for Shelco's specific needs.

"We incorporated all the good features of trucks we looked at," reported Eisenberg, who rebuilt the motor.

Capable of traveling over all types of terrain, the truck can carry 1,200 gallons of water and pump at the rate of 500 gallons per minute.

Shelco Chief Lonnie Thompson noted that the vehicle is capable of fighting fires while moving and can be reloaded in a creek or pond in nine minutes.

All 24 volunteers with the Shelco unit have been instructed in the operation of the equipment. Eight members recently earned certificates after completing a school put on by the State Fire College.

In addition to the two new trucks, the unit also has another 1,000 gallon pumper, an off-road truck equipped with a pump to fight brush fires and a jeep and trailer for carrying equipment.

A medical rescue vehicle is also part of the unit's equipment, the replacement value of which is estimated at $500,000.

Twenty one members of the unit have received emergency medical training and four members are paramedics and four have reached the EMT 2 level.

With subscribers numbering a little over 200, Shelco is now in the midst of a promotion drive to enlist additional households.

Candymaker turns witches sweet

When her children were all in school and she wanted something to fill her time, Jane Siegrist taught herself to decorate cakes.

Family and friends complimented her on what she turned out and ten years later the hobby turned into a business.

Now the Montevallo resident has turned her hand to another kitchen art which she calls a challenge.

Siegrist makes candy - in all shapes and colors. Some is put on lollipop sticks, some is piled in baskets for gift giving.

A flowerpot filled with white tulips on lollipop stalks is to be used as a centerpiece for a party, Siegrist explained. She added that guests would be given a candy flower as a favor.

As far as she knows, Siegrist said, she is the only person to make and sell candy in this coun-

One of her customers' favorites, Siegrist said, is her candy card. If someone wants to say thank you or happy birthday, she ices that greeting on a card sized piece of chocolate.

The funny thing about her candy making, Siegrist related, was the fact that she didn't even want to learn how to do it.

"My daughter came down from Tennessee for a visit," she said, "and that was the big thing up there."

It was October, and Siegrist's daughter had some Halloween molds. "She finally talked me into making some candy," Siegrist laughed, "and I was hooked."

She has her own molds now to make ghosts, witches, jack-olanters and black cats.

And she also has molds to produce Auburn tigers and Alabama elephants.

Five generations celebrate 100th birthday of Leeds woman

After the surgery performed when she was 74, friends and relatives were worried that Ellie McLaughlin might not have much longer to live.

But there was never any doubt in the mind of the Leeds woman. who has never lived very far from the Lake Purdy area where she was born and grew up.

"She told them she'd live to be 100," her daughter, Ada Mae Moore, related Wednesday.

And her mother was right. On Oct. 20, the elderly woman celebrated her 100th birthday, having outlived most of the people who had been worried about her health.

Her mother had always been a very independent woman, Moore related, and had lived alone from the time she was widowed at 55 until the age of 92.

Then she moved in with her daughter and remained there for two years until a stroke necessitated her going to Briarcliff.

Describing her mother as an outdoorsy type of person, Moore said that she thought nothing of walking several miles to visit a neighbor.

And most of the time she wouldn't go empty handed, Moore said.

Explaining that her mother was not only a beekeeper but raised chickens as well, Moore reported that honey and eggs were often presented to those McLaughlin

Her mother felt a great fondness for the chickens because she said they kept her company, Moore remarked.

She also took a great deal of interest in the bees, her daughter related, and looked after the hives for 25 years.

NOTICE HUNTERS

WILDLIFE LOVERS OF SHELBY COUNTY

Did you know that 10 years ago, all wildlife was on the verge of being destroyed by the practice of spraying from the air to kill almost everything in Shelby County but pine trees?

If this practire had continued, it would have destroyed all the food supply for all forms of wildlife.

Tom Stubbs was the state representative of Shelby County when this practice began and he immediately passed a local act to prohibit this practice by law, in spite of heavy opposition from three large land owners who own 30% of all of Shelby County. (143,000 acres)

Shelby County is the only county in the state that has such a law.

Tom Stubbs is again offering to serve you in the newly created House District #49 in the north half of Shelby County.

Let's continue to preserve our wildlife and forest land by voting for Tom Stubbs, state representative, District #49,

Salaries rise amid school cuts

An actual increase of 17.6% is what the new county school budget shows. This is after allowing for the accounting change. (See other story)

Superintendent Charles Knowles reports that the major part of this increase will be paid in salaries. $12,447,800 is budgeted for instruction. He noted Tuesday that a 15% raise was ordered by the Legislature.

In addition, the county added 22 teachers this year. The effect was to reduce class size, broaden the curriculum, extend the work of guidance counselors from 9 to 10 months, and extend the work year of elementary and middle school principals from 10 to 11

the proration of 10% which was ordered by Governor Fob James, means that the county system will get only 90% of what it has budgeted from state sources. If taxes come in at better rates than expected, the situation may im-those for instruction.

County teachers attend class

Students in the Shelby County school system got a holiday last Monday so their teachers could go to class.

A countywide professional development day was held in Columbiana with speakers discussing the state's new high school graduation requirements, the new countywide attendance policy and other items of general in-

Approximately 650 certified personnel attended the session which lasted until 2:30 p.m.

Chelsea winners

Chelsea's band has been picking up a lot of trophies lately. Shown with the latest awards are Kent Smith, Jan Foster, Wendy Shirley and Darrin Parsons.

Band plays at festival

Trophies fill table tops, window ledges and the piano top in the Chelsea School band room.

"We're having a display case built so we'll have someplace to put all these awards," explained band director Dane Lawley as he pointed out the band's latest trophies.

They were obtained this past weekend from the Mid-Alabama Marching Festival at Midfield.

Drum major Darrin Parsons and majorettes Wendy Shirley, Gina Wallace and Wyna Alverson won best in class trophies.

The flag corp was rated superior and the band received an excellent rating.

At a contest held at Minor High School earlier this month, all of the Chelsea units won superior ratings.

On November 2nd Send SPENCER BACHUS The People's Choice to represent Senate District 17.

Dear Shelby County Citizens:

Momentum is building in my campaign for the State Senate in the Seventeenth District. I have been fortunate to meet and work with hundreds of people all across Shelby County during the campaign.

The people of our District are deeply concerned for Alabama and Shelby County. Shelby Countians are especially disappointed that my opponent was chosen not by a vote of the people, but in a confusing process by the Jefferson County Democratic Committee.

The people of Shelby County are disappointed in our Legislature and feel we deserve better. Alabama spends less to educate its children than any other state. The teacher-pupil ratio remains much too high. If elected, a fine education for each of these children will be my #1 priority. "Big time" drug trafficking continues to move into Alabama. Alabama needs to eradicate this evil before it takes a strangle hold on our people. I have campaigned for a statewide task force like our neighboring states have to combat the pro-

Won't you join other Shelby Countians in our effort to make our State and County a better place for our children and for us.

ELECT DON MURPHY

State Representative from District 49

This newly created district calls for LEADERSHIP FOR THE 80's. Let's not go back to the 60's.

We are a strong, progressive county. We need leadership for today and tomorrow. Don Murphy can provide that leadership. He is a hard worker, is dedicated to the job at hand and Don Murphy CAN GET THINGS DONE.

DON MURPHY

While others are still talking about it, Don Murphy SUCCEEDED in getting a branch license office approved for north Shelby County. At the October 18, 1982 meeting of the Shelby County Commission, Don Murphy made the motion that charges the commission chairman to make concrete plans for opening the office.

DON MURPHY SAYS:

DON'T BE MISLED...

This is a new district. My opponent will not have any more advantage than I will have in committee assignments in the legislature. Whoever wins starts out as a freshman legislator.

DON'T BE MISLED...

By letters circulating in Beat 12. These are personal letters ONLY from those who sign them. They are not from entire subdivisions, and do not represent the opinions of anyone other than those who have signed them.

ASK YOURSELF:

Are we better off now, after being served for 10 years by my opponent? Experience doesn't mean anything if it wasn't useful.

REMEMBER:

My opponent handcuffed the budget of the Shelby County Commission when he was in the legislature. He passed laws that took powers away from the County Commissioners - the very people you elected to run our local government.

I will work WITH the County Commission - not against it.

I believe in HOME RULE, and will work to promote it.

Thompson Warriors take Area 8 title; Sylacauga falls by wayside in 14-7 bout

The Thompson Warriors have remained undefeated to claim the Area 8, 3A high school football championship.

In a contest that was truly more lopsided than the score indicates, the Warriors defeated a quick Sylacauga team 14-7 at home, Friday night.

The win lifted Thompson to 9-0 on the season with one contest remaining in regular play and 6-0 in area competition.

Those marks are good enough to guarantee the Warriors a November 12 date with Stanhope-Elmore for the Region 4 title in state play-off competi-

Statistically, the Warriors ran all over the Aggies. Thompson earned 17 first downs, rushed for 258 yards, and passed for 90 yards for a total offense of 348

Sylacauga scored its only points of the night on a 62 yard pass play. The Aggies were held to three first downs, 19 yards rushing and 86 yards passing for a total offense of only 105 yards.

Coach Larry Simmons credited the low scoring effort by his squad to self destruction. He commented that his team stalled one drive on a penalty and another on lack of execution.

The Warriors were knocking at the Aggies' door from the two yard line when time expired.

However, Simmons was proud of his team's seven point victory. He said, "A lot of times, the longer you stay in a contest like this one was, the worse things go for you."

Simmons praised his defense for stopping Sylacauga. He said that the Aggies actually boasted two or three running backs who are quicker than Artnur Johnson.

The coach also had good words for the Aggie defense saying, "They have a real aggressive and swarming type defense. They just pull their ears back and come after you."

The Warriors drew first blood from Sylacauga early in the first period. With 7:11 remaining, Max Brown capped a nine play, 49 yard drive by scoring from four yards out. Jeff Willis added the extra point.

Sylacauga scored its only touchdown with 8:28 remaining in the first half and that knotted things up until the third period.

With 4:40 remaining in the third quarter, Demetrius Threatt scored on a one yard run. That touchdown capped a 17 play, eight minute drive by the Warriors which Simmons described as big and beneficial to his team.

Jeff Willis added the bonus point and Thompson had enough

When asked if he thought the Warriors would go undefeated through nine games, Simmons said, "Yes. I felt we had the opportunity to do it if things fell in place. I knew we had quality players and some big strong boys. Our team is physical."

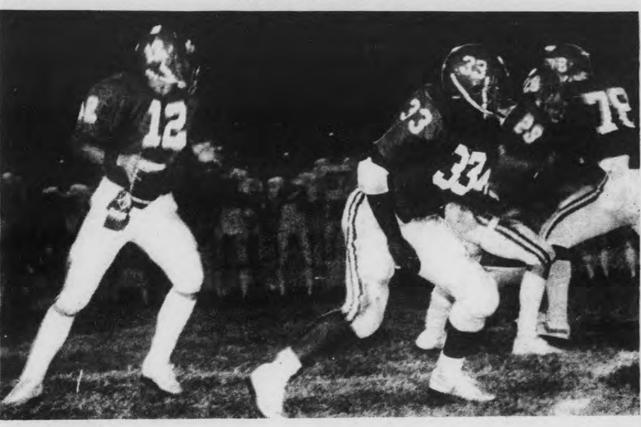

Physical is right, Thompson tackles average 240 pounds and Warrior guards average 235 pounds. As Simmons puts it, when you've got players like that, "You've got some meat to throw at folks."

Simmons also praised the good work that back Max Brown has done this season, filling in for Arthur Johnson.

Demetrius Threatt is another outstanding player, Simmons said, pointing out that he has already gained 1,125 yards in nine games.

The Thompson coach summed things up by simply stating he was proud of his team and noted that Friday's contest was the first this season when all Warrior starters dressed out.

The Warriors will journey to Vincent tomorrow night to take on a hungry bunch of Yellow Jackets.

Yellow Jackets spoil Pelham homecoming

Bad breaks, a big play and a stubborn Vincent defense denied Pelham a homecoming victory, Friday night.

With the assistance of two bright vellow penalty flags, a big pass play, and a Panther fumble at a crucial moment, the Yellow Jackets managed to take a 7-0

Friday's contest evened the Yellow Jackets' record at 4-4 and dropped Pelham to 2-6 on the season.

After giving up the football on a fumble deep in Pelham territory, the Yellow Jacket defense managed to shut down a first quarter drive by the Panthers with a Tim Smith interception.

Just as it appeared that the Pelham defense would rise to the occasion, Vincent pulled a big play that would ultimately ruin the night for Pelham fans.

With third down and 14 yards to go at the Pelham 40 yard line, quarterback Eddie Reynolds tossed the ball to the same man who intercepted Pelham's pass for a touchdown.

The bonus boot by Mark Kelow was good and the Jackets led 7-0 with 11:18 left in the second period.

The Panthers were set for a comeback late in the half but penalty flags would prove a potent defense.

Pelham's Ricky Hayes picked off a Vincent pass, giving the Panthers a first down at their own 49 yard line.

On the very next play, Hayes gave the ball to Jackie Johnson who lateraled it to Mark Brasher who then ran all the way down to the Yellow Jacket six yard line.

However, a flag was thrown by game officials, who reported that the lateral was actually an illegal forward pass.

Moments later, Hayes passed complete to Russell Brown for a touchdown with only 15 seconds remaining in the half.

Again, yellow flags flew...this time for offensive holding.

Time expired on the Panthers with the scorebaord reading Vincent 7, Pelham 0 after two quarters of action.

Pelham began what appeared to be a sure comeback drive in the final moments of the fourth quarter. But again touchdown hopes would be dashed.

The Panthers had driven from their own 14 yard line to the Vincent ten, where they faced a fourth and two yards to go situa-Pelham delayed taking the snap and Vincent jumped offsides. The flags this time gave Pelham a first and goal at the Vincent five yard line.

But moments later the football squirted loose and the Jackets claimed it, with only 15 seconds left on the scoreboard clock. Vincent simply let time expire for the win. Vincent's Coach Harold Garrett said after the battle, "They needed a win as badly as we did. I feel bad for them, but it was good for us."

Garrett admitted that penalties late in the second quarter helped his team but he said, "It's about time we had a break go our way. We're not going to give them back. I think they (the penalty calls) were fairly obvious."

But the Vincent coach was not taking anything away from his squad.

He said, "I'm just proud of our people. We had our backs to the wall during the whole last drive by Pelham... Our kids just played the way they had to play."

Pelham's Coach Billy Tohill said of the contest, "Penalties definitely hurt us. We moved the ball consistently all night but when we got right to the goal, we couldn't make the final shove."

He added, "And they don't count until you do make the final shove."

Tohill praised his team's defensive performance, especially for their action in the second half.

The contest between Pelham and Vincent was statistically as close as the score. Vincent out first-downed the Panthers 11 to nine and out- offensed the Pelham squad 187 to 182 yards.

Calera Eagles hog scoreboard in battle with Chelsea

Calera's Eagles invaded the home of the Chelsea Hornets, Friday night, and escaped with almost all the loot.

seven points as a memento. The win by Calera lifted the Eagles' season mark to 6-2 and dropped the Hornets to 2-6 on the year. If the Eagles win their next two contests, they could be state play-off bound. The Eagles manhandled Chelsea, allowing the Hornets seven first downs and only 122 yards total offense.

Only 36 of those yards came on the ground.

The Eagles earned 15 first downs, rushed for 238 yards and passed for 117 yards for an offensive effort of 355 yards.

Hibbs said of the Eagles, "Calera's got a good ball club, the second best we've faced this season. I felt we could have played them closer but two big plays broke the game open."

Those plays were an 85 yard touchdown pass and a 76 yard touchdown run as time expired to end the first half.

Hibbs continued to praise Calera for their talent, speed and size, and pointed out that the Eagles played Jemison closer than anyone else in the area.

Regarding the fact that Chelsea has won only two games this season and will face a tough B. B. Comer in Sylacauga, tomorrow night, Hibbs said, "I don't think we are going to quit."

He said, "We played much better in the second half against Calera. The score was 21-0 at the half and only 27-7 at the end of the game.

"It will be the coaches' job to get Calera off our minds, even though it was a county school, and look ahead to B. B. Comer." Hibbs said that his team played a lot of people close this year and they were only beaten soundly by Jemison, Montevallo and Calera.

Alverson said of Friday night's battle, "Our offense moved the ball well all night but we fumbled eight times which hurt us."

That was more fumbles than Calera has suffered this entire season and they lost three of

County hunting is good

"Folks in Shelby County think and has about 6,000 acres of land you have to drive hundreds of miles to hunt... But you don't."

Those were the words of Mike Knight, a member of the Calera Sportsman Club which is currently seeking new members.

Knight told the Reporter that Shelby County has some of the same good hunting as counties where people drive over 500 miles to hunt.

He said that his own club averages taking 25 deer per year on which to hunt.

"Last year," Knight reported, "a 12 year-old boy killed a six point and an eight point buck with a single-shot 12 gauge on his first time out."

Knight has already taken a deer this season with his bow.

But the good thing about hunting with the Calera Club, according to Knight, is the fact that a person can drive by car to most of the club's hunting land.

He added quickly that no transportation is needed from the club house.

During the season, the club has a hunt every day at 3 p.m. and serves breakfast at the clubhouse every Saturday morning.

There is a fee charged to join the club.

But Alverson said, "Our defensive effort was there and I am proud of our offense for ball control. I just wish we hadn't left the ball on the ground so much."

However, Alverson said, "We went out and played the kind of game I hoped we would. Chelsea has a passing offense and I praise my defense for its pass coverage."

The Eagles scored on their second possession of the game, going 80 yards in 12 plays. James Blanchard scored from four yards out and Ricky Posey hit the bonus point.

Chelsea had an opportunity to tie the contest in the second quarter but the Eagles stopped them on the one yard line.

Following that terrific defensive effort, the Eagles drove 99 yards in only five plays for a second touchdown. The score came on an 85 yard pass from Blanchard to Todd Killingsworth.

Posey made the extra point good and Calera led 14-0.

Calera closed out the scoring in the first half, moving 70 yards with only 43 seconds left on the clock and no time outs.

Daryl Griffith ran 76 yards to pay dirt as he horn sounded. The bonus point was good and Calera led 21-0.

The Hornets managed to get in the third quarter. Mike Gregg capped a 49 yard drive with a one yard touchdown run. The point after by Tommy Waites was good and the score stood Calera 21, Chelsea 7.

Calera ended the scoring for on the scoreboard with 3:36 left the night with a 21 yard touchdown run by Tony Faucett. The extra point was no good but Calera had iced the game 27-7.

Fishing results are getting better

by Fred Guarino

Bass and crappie fishermen can look forward to good results this week when lures are plopped into Shelby County waters.

According to the latest reports from fish camps, bait shops and marinas, the number of bass being put on stringers is increasing and crappie are beginning to make a good showing.

On Beeswax Creek, "Bass fishing has been good -- nothing over four pounds but a lot of them are being caught," says Nancy Culpepper of Beeswax Bait & Grocery.

Culpepper told the Reporter that she has seen stringers with anywhere from 15 to 20 fish on them and has heard fishermen say that they were throwing the smaller ones back.

When asked what kind of lures are being used, Culpepper laughed and said, "Bass fishermen won't tell you that. You can ask all you want."

While fishermen may not tell you what they are using to haul in those fish, Bill Henke of La Coosa Marina on Lay Lake will.

He said that fish are being caught in the early morning hours in weed bed areas and in shallow water with buzz bait and some

Later in the day, he said, crank bait is being used off near-points.

Henke said that bass fishing is jigs." going pretty good and things are picking up. He commented that bream fishing is still slow but crappie is fair.

According to Henke, those crappie which are being caught are in the fallen timber area,in water anywhere from four feet to ten feet deep.

Things are not going so well on Waxahatchie Creek. Dit Safford of Lay Port Marina told the Reporter, "There is nothing to brag about. I won't tell you a story."

But the story is good for crappie fishing at Okomo Marina on Lay Lake.

Trudy Wooten says, "Crappie fishing is pretty good in the stickups when people fish 12 to 16 foot depths with minnows and

She stated that bass are bein caught on crank baits and trotline fishing is adequate.

Wooten said that two men caught a yellow catfish that weighed between 50 and 60 pounds on a trotline.

The men were identified as Fred Hand and John Ozley. Both are year-round campers at Okomo from Chilton County.

Mama Bozo of Bozo's Fish Camp on Lay Lake says that bass are being caught with crank bait and worms in the sloughs and on the points.

She stated that crappie are being caught in 14 foot depths and bream is fair any time.

But as Dr. Miriam Collins of the University of Montevallo said recently, "The only real way to find out how the fish are biting is to go fishing yourself.

"WE MUST HAVE QUALITY EDUCATION AT ALL LEVELS."

"I came from a family of teachers and my wife taught school, and I know our teachers care about the quality of education in Alabama.

"In talking with literally hundreds of teachers around the state, two needs stand out. The first is the need to return discipline to the classroom and that must come from parental involvement. The second is the need to lower the pupil-teacher ratio. Our children need smaller classrooms and more individual instruction.

"Alabama needs a fully-funded kindergarten program to give our children a balanced start in school."

"FARMING IS ALABAMA'S NUMBER ONE BUSINESS."

"Our largest industry, farming, is hanging on the edge of disaster. High interest rates, high production costs and low market prices are threatening its destruction. A high priority of a Folmar administration will be to harness state government to improve the net income of our Alabama farms."

"WE'RE IN A WAR WITH CRIME. IT'S TIME WE DECIDED TO WIN IT."

"Alabamians are tired of the criminals having more rights than the victims of crime. They are tired of seeing criminals arrested only to be turned loose because of overcrowded jails. They are sick of having their property stolen and their safety threatened.

safety threatened.
"Nothing is more disgusting than a drug pusher peddling drugs to our children, and I promise you I'll make their lives miserable."

Emory Folmar is married to the former Anita Pierce. The Folmars have two children and one granddaughter. He is devoted to his family, active in his church and a leader in his community.

"I BELIEVE IN THE THINGS THAT MADE THIS COUNTRY GREAT."

"I love my God. I love my country and I love my family. I believe in the dignity of work and that all work is honorable. I believe in education of the hand as well as the mind. I believe in obedience to the law because it protects the rights of us all."

"ONE OF OUR BIGGEST PROBLEMS IS UNEMPLOYMENT."

"We can get Alabama working, but we must provide a good business climate to attract new industry and to expand existing industry. Alabama has a lot to offer, but we must be ready with efficient government, run in a business-like manner. We must offer educational opportunities at every level, so that Alabama's work force will be the most sought after in the nation. Our strongest asset is our people. Alabamians still believe in giving a day's work for a day's pay."

Emory Folmar's life is one of leadership and success. From June 1951 to August 1954, Folmar served in the U.S. Army including combat duty in Korea. He returned home a highly decorated hero.

Folmar currently serves as Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army for the State of Alabama. It is a high honor and gives Alabama a strong voice in Washington on military matters.

"THE FUTURE BELONGS TO ALABAMA. WE CAN REALIZE OUR POTENTIAL."

"Our area has more to offer than some of us take the time to realize. We can attract industries and create new jobs. We can create a good business climate so the industries we have can flourish and expand. We can improve our educational system so that, in this age of advanced technology, Alabamians can compete with any area in the nation and the world."

Folmar talks straight and takes action. He gets personally involved and gets results. Under his leadership, Montgomery has improved services dramatically, without increasing the level of taxes or government employees.

National figures show crime increasing in every major city, but Montgomery has shown a decrease in the crime rate every year since 1977, the year Emory Folmar first took office.

Folmar's record of experience, effective leadership and fairness make him the kind of man Alabama wants as governor, and the kind of governor Alabama needs to lead us to a better future.

"I PROMISE HONEST, ACTIVE, HARD WORKING LEADERSHIP."

"The other candidates have all had their hands on the levers of power in this state for as long as a quarter of a century, yet we still must deal with the same problems Alabama has been facing for years and years. The other candidates have talked about their leadership and their experience, but I submit to you that their experience is their indictment. They haven't solved the problems because they are the problem.

"I promise to approach our problems directly, tell the people exactly what these problems are, and get personally involved in solving them."

Victory proves costly for 'Dogs

The Montevallo Bulldogs paid heavy price to defeat B. B. Comer in Sylacauga, Friday

The 'Dogs scored all four of their touchdowns in the first half of play but saw four players in-

Those injuries, combined with the facts that Comer kept giving -Montevallo the ball deep in their own territory, and younger Bulldog players were used in the second half, prevented the lead from increasing.

Coach Richard Gilliam said of the gridiron dogfight, "We played the most consistently on offense that we have played the entire year in the first half. On defense, we were just an arm and a finger from stopping Comer on every play in their opening touchdown drive."

Gilliam said, "It took us a few minutes to adjust on defense but after we did adjust, we stopped them all night."

In scoring four first half touchdowns, Montevallo lost the services of:

Dwayne Jackson, who suffered a neck injury; Ricky Dobson, who suffered neck and shoulder injuries; Clyde Sailes who suffered hip and groin injuries; and Ricky Perry who reinjured a broken hand.

Comer scored the first touchdown of the night on a 67 yard drive which took nine plays to complete. James Garrett punched into the endzone from ten yards out. The bonus point was good.

From that point on, it was all Montevallo.

Howard Gaddis took the Comer kick to the Bulldog 46 yard line. The 'Dogs then put together a 54 yard drive in six plays and scored with Jeff Chism going up the middle for 24 yards.

No points after touchdown would be earned by the 'Dogs all night.

Comer led 7-6 until J. J. Moore scored on the first play of the second quarter from 25 yards

The score capped a ten play, 70 yard drive.

With under five minutes remaining in the first half, Moore wound up a 73 yard drive by scoring from 37 yards out. That made the score 18-7, Bulldogs.

Baby Panthers win conference, destroy Irondale by 62-0 score

The 85 pound Pelham Panthers have won the Alabama Youth Football League Central Conference title.

The baby Parithers took the honors by crushing Irondale 62-0 in a contest which brought their season record to 6-0, Saturday.

Pelham earned 262 yards total offense in the final contest of the regular season which resulted in a season total offense of 1,298 yards. In addition, the 62-0 win lifted the team's point total to 248 on the year.

The baby Panther defense gave Participating in this years event will be:

Class D: Shelby Academy, Berry, Calera, Reeltown, Chelsea, Winston County, Springville and Oak Grove.

C: 'Dadeville, Class Montevallo, Pinson Valley and Pell City.

The team, which crushed Irondale, has been playing as a unit since they were 65 pounders and have not lost a regular season game since October of 1980.

In devastating Irondale, Jimmy Hicks scored two touchdowns, George Golliday scored two touchdowns and four extra points. Robbie McCary, David Sanders and Brian Chambers all scored one touchdown each Offensive line blocking was led by Wade Evans, Chris Caldwell. Jimbo Doyle, J.D. Charlton, Slade Holladay and Todd Miller.

Let's Talk.

Talking. It's the best way to find out what's happening. To understand.

South Central Bell believes in talking things over. And there's never been a time when talking was more important. You may have heard about changes coming in the way you'll be getting your phone service. We want to talk with you about these changes. And answer some of the questions you may have been asking about South Central Bell.

Questions such as these:

I've heard stories about "divestiture," and the telephone company split-ting up. It's all very complicated. What's happening?

A Simply put, AT&T has agreed to separate itself from the local operations of its 22 Bell operating telephone companies. So in the future, South Central Bell will no longer be affiliated with AT&T.

If South Central Bell doesn't have AT&T behind it, won't the quality of my telephone service be affected?

A You can expect the same dependable service you have now. And you'll have the same dedicated people standing behind it. You'll also have more options than ever before in terms of equipment, services and suppliers.

What will happen to my local rates? Is

• it true they're going to skyrocket? Your rates are not going to skyrocket. They may continue to go up, but not because of the separation from AT&T. Increases in our costs are the main reason. For example, inflation causes increases in the cost of services and goods we use to provide phone service. And new technology in telecommunications makes it necessary for us to replace some equipment faster than in the past. Local rates will have to go up to cover part of these increased costs. Will South Central Bell be allowed to charge whatever it wants for local calls?

No. Local rates will still be regulated A by the state's public service commission. And at South Central Bell, we will continue to do everything we can to keep these rates as low as possible.

Where will I get my telephone in the future? And who will fix it in case something goes wrong or it breaks?

At some time in the future, you will be able to get phones from an AT&T subsidiary, other phone suppliers or possibly South Central Bell. Repair of phone equipment likely will be provided by the company that supplies the equipment. South Central Bell will continue to maintain your local telephone lines.

You may have more questions about the changes at South Central Bell. And we want to make it easy for you to get answers.

So give us a call toll free at 1 800 555-5000°, 10 a.m. -11 p.m., Central Time, Monday through Friday. We're ready to talk. Or send in this coupon. You'll get an answer. And a free booklet, "Let's Talk About Change."

SCHS gives way to Bibb County

by Richard Crosby

For half a football game, Shelby County convinced Bibb's Choctaws it was serious about an upset. But the end result was the seventh loss for the Wildcats with a score of 27-0.

The first half did belong to the visitors though. The Wildcats rolled up 122 yards offense while allowing only 84 for Bibb, who only scored once in the first half.

That first half touchdown came with barely two minutes gone in the game. Shelby County received the kickoff but fumbled on the first play. Starting at the Wildcat 21, it only took four plays for the Chocktaws to score.

Bibb failed to threaten again the first half. The Wildcats did mount a drive toward the goal line. Starting at their own three yard line, the Wildcats pushed out for four first downs. The big plays were the third down conversions as quarterback Kenneth Jones teamed up with twin brother Kevin for three strategic plays. Those plays combined for 40 yards. The drive by Columbiana took over seven minutes, but fell short of the goal. Penalties doomed the hope of scoring and the half end-

Bibb County was a different team in the second half. Taking the kickoff, the Choctaws marched 60 yards for their second score. Again in the third quarter the home team scored. This time it took only one play from 40 yards out. The resulting PAT made the count 21-0.

The final touchdown of the night was added in the fourth quarter with a 40 yard march. Bibb County missed the PAT

Falcons are soaru

The Lady Falcons volleyball team is soaring high posting a 16-1 record since September 28 and sporting a 19-8 season mark.

Four of the five setbacks against Division II teams have come on the road while all three defeats vs. Division I schools have been away from home.

The Lady Falcons started the season slowly going 3-7 and then reeled off a 15 match winning streak in which they lost only five games. In the middle of the streak was a 7-0 record the Lady Falcons posted in winning the UT-Martin Invitational where they lost only one game.

Head coach Beverly Warren with a record of 191-73-1 (.723) over 51/2 years at Montevallo had these observations about the teams turn about.

"The key to the teams recent success is that our veterans have come through with leadership on the court.

"As a team we are hitting at a much better percentage than at any time last year, our defense is much improved and most important we are not making as many foolish errors (serving & receiv-

Lions rip West Birmingham

Playing before a home crowd, the state championship bound Briarwood Lions showed West Birmingham no mercy, Friday night.

The Lions who will face Cathedral on Saturday, November 6, for the Alabama Christian Athletic Conference Championship, blasted their helpless visitors 56-6.

The win was sweet revenge for the Lions whose last contest was a season marring 12-3 defeat at the hands of Cathedral.

En route to the victory, the Lions rushed for 447 yards and passed for 11 yards for a total effort of 458 yards.

West Birmingham, which only managed to score on a long run late in the fourth quarter, made only 210 yards rushing and passed for only seven yards for a total offense of 217 yards.

Briarwood Coach Gary Fleming said that he was pleased with his team's offensive show of strength Friday night, because it had only scored one touchdown in its last two previous outings.

He said of the whipping his team handed West Birmingham, "That was the kind of game we are capable of playing."

The coach praised Jeff Nelson for rushing 168 yards against the visitors and Bric Baker for rushing 128 yards. He added, "All of our backs did well."

Defensively, Fleming had good words for Brad Byers, Peter Clemens, John Gunn and Art Hickman.

The Lions drew blood early in the first quarter on a 17 yard run by Nelson. Rob Holmes added the bonus point.

Baker scored from seven yards out later in the period and Nelson added a two point conversion. That made the score 15-0 at the end of one period of action.

The Lions continued to pour it on West Birmingham in the second period.

Craig Collier scored on a 30 yard punt return. The point after Stephen Lindsey scored on a ten yard run and Nelson added the point after.

Nelson finished the scoring in the first half by reaching pay dirt from 56 yards out. The extra point failed but the Lions took a 34-0 half-time lead.

If West Birmingham had been hoping for a better second half, they were sadly mistaken.

Nelson opened the third quarter by returning the kickoff 85 yards for a touchdown.

Early in the fourth quarter, Collier scored from 22 yards out.

Baker closed the scoring for Briarwood by reaching pay dirt from 13 yards out.

At this point the Lions led

West Birmingham's only touchdown came near the end of the game on a 64 yard run that accounted for almost a third of the team's total offense.

Before taking on Cathedral for the state title, the Lions will face Bell Road Christian School tomorrow night.

Folmar, Glasgow, Lansford win here

tical observers were suras nearly 20,000 Shelby voters trekked to the uesday, a record number. cial tallies had 19,700 plus abulated, about 66% of 00 registered voters in the ng a statewide trend, County gave Republican Folmar its backing in s gubernatorial election, me 11,425 unofficial ratic nominee George wanace racked up 8,099 votes here en route to a statewide victory and a fourth term as gover-

Folmar carried Beats 12, 17, and 21 and edged Wallace in Columbiana. Wallace led in Montevallo, Wilton, Shelby, Calera, and many rural boxes.

The five minor candidate tallies were not tabulated here election night.

Many of the 34 Democrats on Shelby County ballots were unopposed by other party nominees, but were on the ballot anyway, in case a write-in challenge was mounted. None

The Democrats, along with 10 Republicans, dominated the scattering of minor party candidates on the ballot. In the four contested races for county office, Democratic incumbent sheriff J. F. "Buddy" Glasgow turned back a challenge from Republican Clyde Wolfe, 12,039 votes to 4,047 while Paul Sumners defeated Al Knight for Board of Education, District 1, Democrat Barbara Whitman remained the county school board member (and chairman) from district 2, beating Republican Lynn Argo 10,263 to Incumbent Shelby County Circuit Clerk Kyle Lansford was the choice of 9,437 voters while GOP challenger Ruth Fincher got 4,700 unofficial votes.

The Democratic school board candidates carried virtually every beat except 12, and box 1 of beat 17. Lansford did a step better, carrying Beat 17, box 1. Glasgow was the most popular politician of the entire election, carrying every beat and box in the county.

Votes for Lieutenant Governor and state supreme court were not tabulated in the courthouse election night. Democrat Bill Baxley was expected to win the former office against minor party opposition, and Hugh Maddox was favored against Shelby County Republican Harry Lyon for Supreme Court, place 1.

Other races for state office saw Democrat Dale Corley pull 3,780 unofficial votes while losing to Republican Spencer Bachus' 2,534 for State Senate, District 17. Bachus carried all but the traditionally Democratic and rural beats 19, 20, 22, and 22 in Shelby County. Jefferson County votes remain to be counted, but Bachus reportedly led there, too.

For State Representative, District 49, GOP nominee Don Murphy polled 5,347 votes, while Democrat Tom Stubbs received 4,979. All votes except the have been unofficially counted in that race.

Beat 12 and Beat 17, box 1 boosted Murphy to victory after he had see-sawed with his opponent most of the evening in the day's tightest race.

In House District 52, incumbent Sonny Moore overwhelmed Frances Lokey Phelps' bicycle campaign 5,541 to 2,618. Unofficial returns in this race include Leeds but not Irondale or Talladega County.

The North Shelby County Fire and Emergency Medical District elected Charley Still over Jack Van Pelt as trustee. Larry Dillard was unopposed for another trustee's slot.

The proposal to set up a fire biana.

Sewer cost clamor erupts

by Fred Guarino

Calera residents are upset over possible sewer rates as the result of a new $4 million sewer system.

They are also upset that the city will have to seek funds to pay the difference between the anticipated cost of $4,059,896 and the $3,440,922 the federal government will pay.

Although nothing official has been said, it is anticipated that new sewer rates will be equal to the amount now charged for water.

Currently, Calera residents pay 50 percent of their water rate for Both R. E. Bowdon and Bill Bradshaw were upset that the city has spent $40,000 for land to be used for a new city hall.

Bowdon told council members, What is the use in looking for money if you are going to find places to throw it away?"

Bradshaw asked, "How can we spend $40,000 for a piece of property? Why did we not put that money toward the sewer?"

Bowdon also wanted to know before a grant was received and Bradshaw wanted to know why money collected could not be used toward the sewer project.

Hadaway explained that the city had to begin collecting money to take care of what it had before the federal government would even consider a grant.

He said that over the years cost of operation increased and some of the money had to be used.

The council member told residents that even if sewer rates go to 100% of the amount charged for water, it is not a matter of choice on the city's part.

He said the law requires that users of a sewer system must pay for its operation and maintenance and that money charged for service cannot be used toward construction.

When asked if the new suggested rate will pay for the system, Hadaway said, "We don't know. Money in the bank is going toward building, not maintenance. Bradshaw commented that why a sewer tax was collected Monday night marked the first time it had ever been explained that fees for service could not go toward construction.

> But Bradshaw and others still questioned the purchase of land for a city hall.

> Bradshaw asked Mayor Prichard, "Why didn't you poll the citizens to see if they wanted a new city hall. I bet you won't find 50 people who are for it."

> Hadaway said he felt a new municipal complex was needed for Calera.

> However, he said with the current economic situation he felt the complex should be delayed.

Pilgreen said he voted that way all along. Concerning the need for a new sewer treatment plant, Hadaway said, "Our plant is not in compliance with law. The law was created 15 years after the construction of the plant.

"We will do it, (build a new one) or close up shop and leave

Chamber plugs Columbiana

As they celebrated their first anniversary Thursday, members of the Columbiana Chamber of Commerce broadcast their needs to state and national legislators.

Congressman Richard Shelby received a leather briefcase which contained the proposal for improving the town's sewer system.

Alabama Senator Lister Hill Proctor and Representative Sonny Moore were both presented with containers of jelly beans which they were instructed to take morning, noon and night.

The gag gifts, explained Master of Ceremonies Jim Strickland, originated from a remark made by veterinarian Charles Thorn-

His wish had been that a pill could cure the ailments of the city. The intent of the jelly bean pills were to give the legislators extra energy to work on a permanent cure for the ailments such as the sewer system and highways.

In his talk to chamber members and guests, Shelby said that young people and those displaced from jobs need to seek training in the high technology

He also mentioned that the city and county need to make industry aware of the potential

Strickland told the Reporter that the Columbiana Chamber has been working on a brochure along the lines Shelby mentioned.

Certificates of appreciation were presented to the individuals who served as interim officers when the group first organized. They were: Geron Daniels, Shelby Bank; Howard Rogers, Elastic Corporation; Katie Robertson, Golden Grasshopper; Buddy Wyatt, First National Bank of Columbiana; Mike Atchison, attorney; Charles Thornburg, veterinarian; Jim Strickland, Strickland's Department Store. Permanent officers are: Strickland, president; Thornburg, vp; Wyatt, secretary; Atchison, treasurer.

issue is finally laid to legal rest. According to councilman James Kwater and Ron Erwin, the bottom line on the issue isn't eight residential chickens belonging to Curtis Mims, but a testing of the city's zoning law to see if it has any teeth. The council contends that the chickens -- traditionally thought of as farm animals -- violate residential zoning laws. Jim Dugger and some other Sunnybrook Subdivision residents agree, and are concerned that the situation could set a precedent for other animals that will lower property

Mims says the chickens are pets of a family member, caged, out of sight and harm's way, and as such he has a right to keep them. Other town residents appear to Mims and his lawyer also point out that the zoning laws don't specify that chickens can't be kept in a residentially zoned area.

Some residents, such as Frank Griffin who spoke at Monday's council meeting, say the aging issue should be settled by residents in the subdivision and Mims, without city intervention. The city, Griffin clucked, has better things to do and besides, "The chickens have become the laughing stock of the county, and Jefferson County, too."

But after receiving a nebulous zoning law interpretation from the attorney general's office, the council voted to take the issue to court. The judge's word is to be final.

Kwater said Monday that city attorney Frank Ellis, Jr., was However, Ellis told the Reporter Tuesday that even though the legal wheels are in motion, the issue is apparently far from a conclusion.

"If the defendent (Mims) contests the suit, he'll have 30 days to file a response," Ellis explained. "If it goes to court, I'd guess that it would probably be 90 days--at least 60--before a date is set."

About 45 minutes of Monday's council meeting was spent on a circular discussion of the chicken

After a much briefer discussion, the council and Mayor Charles Penhale decided to set Helena's proposed garbage pickup fee at $5 across the board (unless a hardship exemption is issued). The ordinance establishing the fees is expected to be passed at the November 15 meeting, and the rates put into effect December 1.

The city is currently offering the service free. Penhale explained that the increased cost of transporting waste to the Columbiana dump, added to already tight finances, necessitated the proposed charge.

At councilman Bill Harris' suggestion, the city will investigate the cost of stringing a fence between Joe Tucker Park and the city cemetery.

Resident Elsie Kirkpatrick requested the fence because sunbathers, picnickers and others use cemetery lots for recreation. Besides disrespect, damage to flowers and grave lots has occur-

She said she would donate the $157 replacement cost of the azaleas she lost there to the fence project.

The council also voted to use $24,000 received from revenue sharing to buy fire and rescue equipment and to pay the fire chief's salary.

Alabaster adopts ward system

Most of the people who crowded into the Alabaster Council chamber Monday night were not too happy about changing the city's method of voting.

But the Justice Department has told the city a ward system must be adopted in order for annexations that have taken place to be Saying they had no other choice, if some voters were not to be disenfranchised, the council voted to adopt the plan presented by one of the city's attorneys, Bill

It calls for the city to be divided into five wards with the stipulation that a candidate must live in the ward in which he runs.

Another requirement, which drew some flak, was the fact that voters can only elect the candidate from their ward. "People aren't going to go for that," emphasized Bobby Mixon, a resident of the black communi-

He felt this might keep the best qualified people from being elected and he also indicated that it prevented more than one black from serving on the council.

It was pointed out that the reason for the Justice Department's insistence on the ward system is to ensure black representation on the council.

Former council member Roger Wheeler wondered why Alabaster had been singled out for the ward system of voting when other cities in the county have annexed territory too. Justice said that the federal department had felt the annexations had diluted the voting power of black residents.

In drawing up the plan, the city attorney explained that one ward had a large concentration of black voters, that each ward had approximately the same number of residents, and that the lines followed natural boundaries such as streets, railroad or creeks.

Under the provisions of the ordinance, the mayor is still elected at large. The procedure will not go into effect until the 1984 elec-

However, the city must await word from the Justice Department on whether the plan is acceptable. If it isn't, they will make recommended changes, and the city will have to submit another plan.

Helena will have a new top cop next Monday. Assistant chief Ray Rollan will move into the slot being vacated by chief Gary

The announcement was made official at Monday night's council meeting, and the change will be effective November 8.

Carter, a former Pelham patrolman who was hired as Helena chief eight years ago, is shifting to a four-pronged position recently created by the city. His new duties will include building inspections, street maintenance, sanitation director, and dog control.

"I wasn't out job hunting," Carter told the Reporter. "This was just an opportunity that came by. It was my choice, totally. I know a lot of people here and I love the city. I wouldn't have taken anything out of the ci-

"But if anything needs quoting," he continued, "this will give me more time with my family. And if anybody deserves to be made chief, it's Ray."

Carter hired Rollan shortly after taking the chief's position. Sgt. Alvin Coggins has been promoted to lieutenant, but Carter said that had already been in the city's new budget.

According to Carter, the police force will not be short handed except on doubling up weekend

Mayor Charles Penhale said the city expects to hire another patrolman in 3-6 months. He said Carter's new position will pay the same as police chief, and the funds will be transferred from the police budget.

Pelham shifts board and zoning law

Oops, Chairman Jim Hallmark told the Pelham Council Monday night that a mistake had been inadvertently been made in a recent library board appointment.

Cathy Mikos had been appointed the board two weeks ago. but since then Hallmark said he learned that she lives outside the city limits--and Pelham residency is a requirement for serving on the board.

Hallmark suggested the council approve former board member Nyla Bryers for reappointment to another term. She is the wife of fire chief William Bryers.

Mayor Burk Dunaway said her services would be welcomed again and the council agreed.

In other business, the council amended its R-3 (multi-family) zoning classification to allow townhouse widths up to 18 feet. Only six units are still allowed in a building, however.

The change had been recommended by the planning and zoning board and passed unanimously with little fanfare.

Departmental reports for October were the only other business during the brief meeting.

Library: The circulation figure for the month was 1,309. Fortynine new volumes were added, 47 new library cards issued, and the story hour averaged 26 children.

Fire: Firemen answered 70 alarms, including 32 fire calls and 38 rescue runs. Sixty-five hydrants were tested, 11 buildings inspected, and 435 man-hours were spent in classes and training.

Police: Police answered 303 complaints and requests for services, investigated 33 wrecks, and made 144 cases for municipal court. Of the 122 traffic violations, 18 were DUI's. Three burglaries, 14 thefts and one breaking and entering of a vehicle were investigated.

Former University of Montevallo policeman Mark Hall was introduced by PPD chief D.O. Watson as a replacement for Bruce Matson.

Water system turmoil boils in Sterrett, Vandiver

by David F. Moore

A whirlpool of water troubles continues to swirl in Sterrett and Vandiver.

For the past three weeks, nothing but muddy water has come from the faucets of many of the 600 customers on the 11-year old Sterrett -Vandiver water line. Some customers. especially on higher ground, have had no water at all, on and off all summer.

Last week, an engineer from the state water supply program shut off a new well being developed in Sterrett, and cut the pumping rate of the old well by half in an effort to clear the murky water.

Water board members' telephones have reportedly been ringing heavily with complaints, and board chairman Hoyt Henderson resigned that nonpaying position Saturday.

Monday, board member Johnny Howard and volunteers from the Vandiver Fire Department made three runs to Vincent in the community's 2,000 gallon pumper to refurbish the dwindling water supply in Sterrett's nearly empty 200,000 gallon

VVFD Chief Marion Watson said Tuesday that more water

Also Tuesday evening, state water engineer Russell Kelley was planning to run valve pressure tests to locate what is expected to be several sizeable leaks in the lines.

Board member Evelyn Johnson said a large crowd is expected tonight (Thursday) at the water board meeting behind the Sterrett post office. She said she doesn't blame customers for being mad, either.

"And another thing," she told the Reporter Tuesday evening, "as long as this water business has been in circulation, to my knowledge this water board has never been audited or has never given an annual report, as it's required in the by-laws to do. It's high time someone knew what was going on."

Until the water system is back to normal, customers like Johnny and Pam Doss will have to find H2O elsewhere.

"We've been toting water from the spring at Calcis. We have to go nearly every day," said Mrs. Doss. "We use five-gallon buckets, the ice cooler, jars-anything that's empty."

She said their residence, which is at the same level as the system's storage tank, has not had water for a week.

"If it rains Wednesday, I'm putting all our buckets outside," she added.

Joe Downey, director of the water supply program for the department of environmental management, told the Reporter Monday from Montgomery that a good rain would be one of a number of relief valves to the Sterrett-Vandiver water turmoil. He said the area had not received rain in at least 30 days.

The dry spell has dropped the underground water table, causing the pump to stir up mud at full back the pumping capacity.

This, however, makes the nearly empty storage tank all the slower to refill.

Another problem, pointed out by Downey and former water board chairman Henderson is that the system has too many customers for the size of its water supply.

But Henderson said the well has been held up by the recent power company strike. Also, before the 1,000 feet of line can be laid from the new well to the present lines, the well has to run long enough to settle the mud and allow health department test.

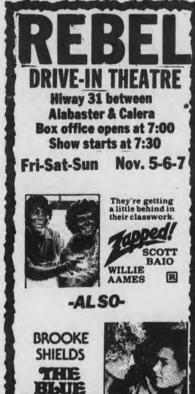

Henderson said he resigned his position because it was taking considerable time from his real estate business.

"My situation didn't just occur last week," he said. "And there was no argument between me and any board member."

Evelyn Johnson said she was miffed that she had not been offically notified when Henderson resigned, and felt like board members were going behind her back on several matters.

The Reporter tried to contact power. To keep more mud out of Johnny Howard before news the tank, Downey said Kelley cut deadline, but Howard was hauling water from Vincent.

Other board members are Horace Bradley and Carlton Bearden.

No charges are expected deputies discovered on one upon against a Harpersville man involved in the stabbing death of his brother. The case was presented to the grand jury last week, but no grounds for an indictment were found, according to district attorney Billy Hill.

Douglas Kelley, 20, of Harpersville, died of knife wounds Thursday, October 21. His brother, 22-year old Lee Andrew Kelley was held for questioning in connection with stabbing, according to reports from chief deputy investigator Reed Smith and Harpersville police chief Aubrey Perrigan.

Smith said that the brothers apparently got into a "tussle" and Douglas was cut. He was taken to Sylacauga Hospital and died a short time later. According to witnesses, it "appears that the one that got stabbed is the one that drew the knife," Smith said.

Fob reflects on four years

by Fob James

As you read this, the people of Alabama will have decided the direction state government will take in the next four years. The great people of this state have elected a new governor.

Before I continue I would like to express my deep and sincere appreciation to the people of Alabama for allowing me to serve as governor for almost four years now. It has been a truly gratifying experience and one that I would not trade for anything.

I hope that as you look back over my administration you will see fundamental change that has set the stage for a new and better Alabama in the years ahead. But as I have stated many times before, you elected me to serve as your governor until the term expires in January. Until that time I will be working diligently to wrap up the affairs of this administration and to achieve the goals we set several years ago.

Though I feel it important to continue working to meet the problems that face Alabama in my last days of state service, I also feel it important to insure an efficient transition from my administration to the new administration. During the coming weeks we will be working with the governor-elect and members of his administration to insure an orderly transition of information, programs and services.

By early December we expect to have several members of the new administration's staff working with us daily at the Capitol. This is necessary so the new governor can assume office in January and never falter as we leave office.

When I took office in 1979, I had three major goals set for this administration. One was my "War on Illiteracy." Under this program the students in each grade all over the state have been tested annually to allow us to investigate the deficiencies in primary grades of education. Through the work of dedicated superintendents, principals and teachers, I believe we have achieved much through this program. In my opinion, if a child does not have the basic skills in reading, writing and arithmetic, he or she will always have difficulty in obtaining and holding a good job, making decisions that adults must make, and consequently would never be a free

Secondly, I felt it was time to eliminate any lasting influences of discrimination to help us to move Alabama ahead in the future. In order to achieve that goal we have appointed minorities in positions at the county level on boards of registrars through the court system and up through the Supreme Court, with the first black appointment to that high court in this century.

I also wanted to insure that the women of this state had the opportunity to serve in this administration and to serve the people of Alabama through appointments to various cabinet positions. I am proud to say that during my administration I have had no less than eight women in major cabinet positions and numerous women in the judiciary.

And lastly, I have insisted that state government be candid, honest, open, and willing to make the hard decisions, no matter how unpopular those decisions may be.

Through the legislative process I have sought and obtained many major reforms in state government. But there are changes yet to come. I sincerely hope that you, the citizens of this state, will expect as much from your new governor and administration as you have from me.

The State of Alabama has a great future, and each and every one of you have a vital role to play in that future. In my Inaugural Address of January 15, 1979, I said:

"Our children cannot seek their own destinies without literacy. Our children cannot be free without literacy. We must have literacy and by the grace of God, we shall have literacy.

"Any government that places the yoke of debt upon its young adulthood borders on tyranny. Any government that tolerates erosion of the hard-earned, welldeserved retirement income of its elderly is immoral. Any government that does not hold sacred tax dollars taken from the labor of its citizenship is dishonest.

"I shall launch a frontal attack upon these injustices within the borders of Alabama, and I shall battle those forces beyond our borders that insist upon the economic strangulation of our

"On this day, the birthday of Martin Luther King, Jr., I claim for all Alabamians a "New Beginning" free from racism and discrimination. Let us bury forever the negative prejudices of the past. The same standards of justice, responsibility and reward are for one and all. I stand on this commitment without equivocation. So be it.

"It is then we have a New Beginning. It is time."

I pledged to you the best to this end in 1979, and I have never waivered. Thank you again for this great honor to serve you as your governor for four years. I shall forever be humbled by it.

To the people of Alabama, thank you. To the new governor, my congratulations and very best wishes for your administration.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

Without stretching it one whit, I guess you could say Amy and Skillet Bird like turnip greens and mustard better than most folks like chocolate ice cream. And with all the good places to get 'em, we found a new place today. Eddie and Lina and Matthew Benson live down the hill from us and they have enough in their side and back yard to feed three counties. I suppose the longer a fellow lives, the more friends he has. And counting his friends sort o' makes up for having the years pile up.

Yes, you count your friends, adding the new ones, and taking away some of the old ones, but you keep on going, while the years pile up, and in the end you find there is all sorts of good in the world.

Time was, when Jim Merrell and Skillet Bird looked forward all summer to getting in Tom Morris' corn fields to hunt doves. And to talk with this fine man in his back yard, under the shade of a big tree, before the hunt and after. But Jim is gone.now, and Tom is gone, too, and there is just Skillet, without two little lights that made the days bright week after week.

She had been in bad health for months, spending many days in the hospital over Alabaster way. I guess that's why we got to be friends. Time and time I'd find her over there, always smiling and always in a good humor. And when I'd leave I'd always feel better for having seen her. But she was sicker than we knew, and she passed away, and they put her to rest outside of town. I'll miss Clara Bates and the way she accepted life. I'm glad that our paths crossed in our hurry-up world.

He spent the last months of his life in the Nursing Home in Alabaster. Every Friday I'd stop by to see him in room 20. We'd talk a little and I'd hurry on to see others up and down the hall. Maybe there wasn't too much time, and maybe I should have stayed longer, but I'm glad today there was this little time for Hubert Atchison and I to enjoy each other.

Yep, you stop and you look back and you remember a thousand little lights that made your life brighter. And, remembering, you count them as so many blessings. And the longer you live, the more blessings there are to count.

Yes, we're just pilgrims passing through the world.

New governor inherits financial mess

It's one of those awkward times again...I write this before the election, you read it after the election. For sure, the governorelect will be named either Wallace or Folmar, but I can only guess...you know for a fact.

For C of C success

Hence some other bases will be touched.

Whoever the governor-elect is, come January 17, 1983, when he reports to his new job he will have plenty to do. The state is in a very severe financial mess, perhaps more severe than most Alabamians realize. And the alternatives facing the new governor and Legislature are but two-either increase taxes or reduce services and layoff some people.

The best bet is that the former route will be followed--increase

But whatever, that first regular session is going to be a testy one.

Odds and ends.... Judge Richard T. Rives, dead at 87, was the nearest thing Alabama has had to living legend in legal circles. Without any formal law school education, he began to practice at age 19 and became the most respected trial lawyer in the state. He then was named to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals and attracted even greater attention... Speaking of that profession, members of the bar and judiciary are still buzzing about a speech made recently by a member of the Alabama Supreme Court in which he described one of his colleagues on the court as "mentally incompetent"; another as "lazy" and a third as having a "don't give a damn" attitude....

And still in the same arena, the strangest quote to come from the campaign was voiced by Tom Hayden after he was denied a right to run for the Supreme Court. He said he felt like the man a couple of centuries ago "who was sold out for 13 pieces of silver." The last time I read that story in the New Testament it was 30 pieces of silver...

A recent reunion of past presidents of the Student Government Association (SGA) of the University of Alabama brought to mind an interesting fact---the number of former SGA prexies who have gone far in politics. Included in the SGA alumni association are Lister Hill, John Sparkman, Donald Stewart (all former U.S. Senators); Congressman Jack Edwards. Secretary of State Don Seigelman; and former Congressmen Carl Elliott and Walter

He told me it wouldn't look "professional."

And I was anything but that as I flew through the air with my arms flailing while everyone in the courtroom stared in amazement.

What had happened was this, I sit on a slightly lower elevation from the judge and the clerks who keep the records.

When one of the clerks left her seat for a minute, I claimed her spot to check on the disposition of a case I had missed.

Hastening to get out of her seat when she came back, I forgot about the stepdown and instead, stepped out into space.

As if that wasn't bad enough, I

Vet Day symbolizes lives lost for freedom By changing one word in a 28-year old resolution, the United States Congress renamed the day this Nation had traditionally set aside for honoring its war veterans. On June 1, 1954 Congress changed Armistice Day to "Veterans Day". Additional significance was added to Veterans Day in 1958, when two more unidentified American War dead were brought to Arlington Cemetery from overseas and interred beside the World War I Soldier. One was killed in World War II, the other in Korea. To honor the three, symbolic of all Americans who gave their lives, a U.S. Army honor guard keeps day and night vigil. The tribute honors the more than 1 million who have died in all U.S. wars. This includes the 4,000 who died during the American Revolution and the more then 50,000 who died in the Vietnam

Fighting in World War I ended at 11 a.m. on November 11, 1918. Two years later, France and England chose November 11, then known universally as Armistice Day, as the time for placing an unknown soldier of that war in each nation's highest place of honor. France chose the Arc de Triumph. England selected

Westminster Abbey. The following year, an American soldier whose named was "known only to God" was buried at Arlington National Cemetery. In 1926, Armistice Day was made the official name for November 11. Twelve years later, in 1938, another Congressional resolution made the date a national holiday.

If the idealistic hope had been realized that World War I was "the war to end all wars," November 11 might still be called Armistice Day. But only two years after the holiday was proclaimed, World War II broke out in Europe and shattered that dream. Sixteen and a half million Americans took part. Four hundred six thousand died. The families and friends of these dead longed for a way to honor their memory. The resolution introduced in 1954 provided the When President Eisenhower signed the bill proclaiming November 11 Veterans Day, he called for Americans everywhere to rededicate themselves to the cause of peace. The Nation's tribute to its war dead is symbolized by the laying of a Presidential wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arl-

Fourth Holcombe store goes up in Chelsea

Train kills man on Vincent track

A 28 year-old Birmingham area man was killed by a train in Vincent Thursday afternoon.

Tony Darrell Whitehead was struck from the rear at 2:20 p.m. by a Norfolk-Southern Railroad train as he walked along the tracks near a crossing.

Vincent police did not know the identity of the man Friday afternoon but his name was revealed by Childersburg police who gave him a ride to the county line the day of his death.

According to Reed Smith of the Shelby County Sheriff's Department, Whitehead's family had not heard from him in months. He stated that the victim had been a patient at Bryce Hospital eight months ago.

According to Police Chief George S. Humphries of Vincent, Whitehead approached the tracks as if he were going to cross while the train engineer blew his horn. However, Humphries said that instead of going on across the tracks, the man turned and began to walk in the same west bound direction in which the train was Humphries said that the train caught Whitehead from the rear, lifted him and threw him on his head beside the tracks.

Holcombe's adds store

Not daunted by current business conditions elsewhere, Holcombe Building Supply is expanding to a new location.

Construction is well underway on the fourth store in its Shelby County chain, in Chelsea. Owners Bobby and Howard Holcombe say they will be ready to open the new store in early December. It will contain 6600 square feet in the main building, and lumber sheds will be located outdoors. The location is on highway 280 near the highway 47 intersection.

The Holcombes look to the Chelsea and 280 corridor as a "good growth" area in the future and, "we want to be in on it."

The Holcombes stock building supplies of all kinds, selling both to contractors and do-it-yourself individuals.

The first store was opened 121/2 years ago in Columbiana when five brothers built a store on family owned land. Jimmy, Harvey, and B.H. Holcombe joined Bobby and Howard in the venture. According to Howard Holcombe, who has been with Glidden paint for 28 years, "I knew about paint, and Bobby had experience in building supplies."

Today Bobby, Jimmy and Harvey are at the Columbiana store. Bobby's son, Van, manages the Montevallo store, which opened eight years ago. Howard's son, Johnny, is manager of the Harpersville store which has been open for six years. B.H. Holcombe has withdrawn from the group to enter his own business in Colum-

The manager of the new store will be James "Buddy" Williamson, who is not a family member.

The Holcombes look forward to good business, particularly since interest rates are now dropping. "This will encourage people to build houses," Bobby Holcombe believes. He adds that business has never really slowed down for them even during the current recession. In fact, they have experienced growth, he

The family owned business sells lumber and popular brands of supplies. They deliver from a fleet of trucks, and also recommend contractors for remodeling work.

With the addition of their fourth store, and the extra purchasing power, they expect to provide good prices to the public.

The expansion will mean even greater company purchasing power, Howard Holcombe notes. and prices to the consumer will be improved.

To Heat

If you have an electric or LP water heater then you are burning money to heat your hot water. State solar water heaters save you money in three ways:

(1) They save 50-80% of your water heating bill.

(2) There is a 40% federal tax credit on the cost of solar water heater. (That amount will actually be subtracted from what you owe the I.R.S.)

(3) There is a 20% state tax credit on the cost of a solar

Annexed Alabaster residents question tax

Some residents of the area Alabaster annexed this spring asked the council Monday night why they had to pay ad valorem taxes for an entire year.

"That's the way the tax structure works," replied Mayor H.A. "Doc" Rubin.

The Mayor added that new citizens are receiving city services for the tax money, but some disagreed.

Some new residents pointed out that they didn't receive city garbage service and and also that they had to pay extra for water.

United Way hopes for miracle

The Shelby County United ed. Way Drive is looking for a miracle.

The annual drive ends tomorrow (Friday) with a "Victory Report." But as of the last week's latest figures, drive chairman Carl Grimes reported Tuesday that the goal is only 56.3% completed.

Shelby County's goal is $274,588.

Only $154,566 has been pledg-

"We're hoping and praying

we'll make 100% by Friday," Grimes told the Reporter. "We've gotten in more since the last report, some sizeable contributions."

"But realistically, unless a miracle happens, we won't be 100% by Friday," he continued. "We hope to be in the 70% range, but we'll continue on this until our goal is reached-- whenever that is."

The struggling economy and closing of major plants has greatly hurt the annual drive which helps fund 48 United Way agencies in the Shelby-Jefferson-Walker area.

The three county goal is $9 million. At the $7.1 million mark last Friday, the overall goal was at 79.5% with a week remaining.

On the way home from the hospital where their 18 year old son had just died following an automobile accident, Fran and Dale Sigle made the decision to donate his eyes.

"We felt that some good could come from his death," Alan's father told the Reporter, "and we found solace in that."

The accident which took his son's life happened July 31. Twelve hours later, one of Alan's eyes had given sight to another Alabamian.

Dale Sigle is a member of the Lion's Club in Columbiana, which organized the Alan Sigle Memorial Eye Donor Drive.

Because of the overwhelming response from county residents in the primary stages of organizing the drive, Columbiana optometrist Stancil Handley said the club decided to make it a county wide effort.

"If more people would donate their eyes," remarked a close friend of Alan, "there wouldn't be so many blind people."

But Lions club members realize that relatives usually don't think about such matters when tragedy strikes a loved one.

That's the purpose of the awareness campaign that is being conducted from November 7-13.

Donor cards and pickup boxes will be placed at various locations by members of the six Lions' clubs in the county.

Even if an eye cannot be implanted in another person, as was the case with one of Alan's eyes, the tissue can be used for repair in areas such as the ear, related

Speaking about her son, Alan's mother recalled that his life had been productive from a young

She related that he had been an Eagle Scout, a straight A student in school, a member of the Beta Club, and was listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students for two years.

"And everyone loved him," she said, adding that "it seems fitting that good should come from his death."

Even though they weren't aware of Alan's feelings about giving his eyes to another person when he died, the Sigles have since learned that he had discussed that intention with a friend.

"It's important," Handley stressed, "that the next of kin know about a person's intention, in order for the eyes to be remov-

Noting that the Lions' Eve Bank facility in Birmingham is rated as one of the top five in the nation, Handley related that the local club has also made tremendous strides.

Handley gives free examinations to indigent individuals and if glasses are needed, they are provided through a state sponsored program of the Lions' Club.

Norwegian student experiences life in U.S.

Tony Pruett and Tore Garvik were born a year apart in the same Norwegian hospital.

But the two young men have never met since Pruett's parents, who were missionaries at the time, moved back to the United States in 1964. That was the year Garvik was born.

However, fate, in the form of the American Intercultural Student Exchange program, has brought Pruett's family and Garvik together.

His urge to travel and learn about the American way of life brought Garvik to the Pruetts' home in Chelsea.

But after a year of college, 19 year old Tony decided to do some traveling, too, and he's now working in Alaska.

Norwegian scenes

Norwegian exchange student Tore Garvik shows Ruby and Joe Pruett, with whom he's staying, some scenes from his native country.

Textile posters

The Pruetts also have two caughters, but they are both married. So Tore is one of the few exchange students living in a home where there are no other young people in residence. But he says that doesn't bother him.

The day the Reporter dropped by for a visit, the young Norwegian was working on the family station wagon with Joe Pruett.

"He's really good at working with engines," explained Ruby Pruett.

As Garvik took time out to chat with the Reporter, he said that small engine repair is one of the subjects he's taking as part of his high school curriculum in Chelsea.

Although he had already finished school in Norway, Garvik is taking classes at Chelsea to comply with the academic aspect of his exchange program.

"We only go to school nine years in Norway,"Garvik explained. So after completing his studies, Garvik said that he had joined an agricultural program.

Even though he had taken English in his Norwegian school, Garvik admitted he had difficulty communicating when he first arrived.

However, the language barrier was easily surmounted in his case, since the Pruetts speak Norwegian.

And his daily classes and association with Chelsea students hastened his ability to speak and understand.

Besides the small engine repair class he takes at the Area Vocational Center, Garvik also studies American Government, English and takes a class in PE.

Her young houseguest has adjusted well, Mrs. Pruett noted; adding that he's shown no signs of being homesick.

"But we are," her husband ex-

The meeting will last from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Anyone who would like to leave their child in the nursery which is provided is asked to call by November 8. The numbers are 663-0399 or 991-6279.

claimed, explaining that having the Norwegian youth in their home had brought back fond memories of the four years they had spent in his native land.

Pruett is now minister of the Church of Christ in Columbiana.

Talking about the differences in the customs here and in his country, Garvik said that in Norway, young people usually go out in groups rather than pairing off.

He also mentioned his surprise that the majority of families here have two cars. With the well developed transportation system in Norway, every location is easily accesible by bus, rail or plane, he reported.

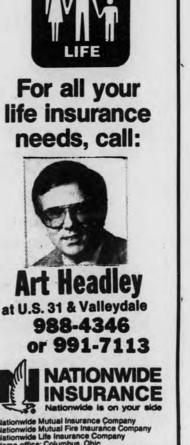

The youngest of seven children, Garvik and his family live in the village of Syfteland, near Bergen.

Since it's close to the coast and the Gulf stream, it doesn't get as cold there as it does in some parts of Norway.

"They don't have such variations in temperature as we have here," Pruett explained. "When it gets cold, it stays cold," he said.

Even though the change to Daylight Savings time will shorten the daylight in the afternoon here, Pruett said that in Norway, darkness descends at 3:30 p.m. by the end of the year.

However, in the summer months, he noted, the daylight stretches into the evening. And on the longest day of the year, the sun is still shining at midnight in the northernmost part of the country, he added.

Bulldogs complete winning season

Pressbox

Montevallo High School's new $15,000 pressbox was dedicated in pregame activities at Friday's homecoming game. Participants in the dedication were Athletic Booster Club President, Joe Brindley; MHS Principal Norman Payne, Shelby County Board of Education Chairman Barbara Whitman and Rev. Benny Peacock. Norvin Turner, who drew the plans and directed the work on the structure, was recognized.

by David F. Moore

They went out swinging, they went out in style.

The Montevallo Bulldogs beat West Blocton 27-12, Friday for an end-of-season homecoming. With the victory, the 'Dogs closed out their 1982 season with a 6-4 winning record.

Senior quarterback Howard Gaddis went out in style, too, scoring touchdowns on an 89-yard kickoff return and a 21-yard keeper. Gaddis rushed six times for 41 yards and connected for 70 yards on 4 of six "Yeah, we're going to miss Howard," commented head coach Richard Gilliam. "We'll lose a number of people."

Also in the missing column for 1983 will be seniors J.J Moore (8 carries, 68 yards Friday), Van Hawkş, Chris Wilder, Michael Grayson, Mark Jones, Robby Allen, and Nekita Bolling (four rambles for 57 yards Friday), a fist-year man whose eligibility ran out this year.

Gilliam said the team had earned his respect by coming on strong to close the season with four straight wins after a 2-4 start. MHS finished second in the area with a 4-1 mark, and was 6-1 on the year against other 2-A competition.

"I'm especially happy that our seniors got to finish out their last year as winners," Gilliam said. Montevallo looked every bit the winner as it took the opening kick Friday and marched 59 to score. Jeff Chism got the TD from the four, Gaddis toed the PAT, and the 'Dogs set the stage for first half domination.

Three straight Montevallo sacks killed WB's next drive, and a bad punt snap gave MHS the ball on the 34. Gaddis' passes to Grayson and Dwayne Jackson put MHS on the two, but a fumble killed any points.

Following WB's punt to the 48, Gaddis hit Taylor Blackwell for 38 yards. A Gaddis TD run from the four was nullified by holding, but on the next play Chism nullified the penalty with a 19-yard paydirt dash. The PAT was blocked, but the 'Dogs lead 13-0

In the second quarter, WB blocked a quick kick, recovered on the seven, and scored in two plays. The PAT missed, and the change in momentum was short

On the kickoff, Gaddis broke a tackle and followed a wedge of blockers for 89 yards and six points. He hit Grayson for two, upping the count to 20-6.

With Bolling and Barry Worth eating up hash marks, MHS moved its next possession 44 yards in six plays. Then it was Gaddis again with the big play, keeping an option and scoring from the 21. The two-point conversion pass was tipped away and MHS took an over confident lead into A promising third string quarterback, West Blocton's defense, and two killer penalties stymied the Bulldogs in the third quarter. Plans to play the younger squad were ditched in favor of maintaining a win.

Gilliam noted with pride, however, that his second string defense stopped Blocton on 12 when Bob Peete recovered a fum-

In the fourth quarter, WB intercepted Montevallo. Grayson, playing his trademark tough game, grabbed a would-be saving interception the next play, but from the two, upcoming QB Ricky Gaddis fumbled in the end zone. WB recovered to make the final score 27-12.

Gilliam complained briefly after the game about second half slackness and "the worst game of the year for big penalties."

But anybody who talked to the coach could tell he was basically happy because his Montevallo Bulldogs went out in style.

Warriors swat Jackets for perfect season

by David F. Moore

"You strive for perfection," said Thompson head coach Larry

So Friday night in Vincent, Simmons and his Warriors unleashed The Meat, cranked up The Big Red 'D,' and defeated a determined 2-A Yellow Jacket team 28-8.

And, for the first time since 1976, Thompson recorded a 10-0 season.

Ten wins. Zero losses.

That's perfect. Well, make that perfect for regular season play, anyway. There's still this little matter of the playoffs and somebody has to be the state 3-A football champion.

To the general thinking in Warrior Country, 14-0 would be even "more" perfect. And November 12 Thompson takes its first step towards that goal when it tackles perennial powerhouse Stanhope Elmore on the road.

Simmons didn't call THS "perfect," just said that's what you strive for. Vincent head coach Harold Garrett didn't call Thompson 'perfect' either, but he was quick Friday night to note "They have a tremendous team. They have so many weapons they can use against you, and they use them all well."

That's true.

THS couldn't even load one of its weapons Friday, and that was whiz gun Arthur Johnson. A frustrating, re-swollen knee injury forced him into pacing the sidelines in bluejeans.

But weapon Demetrius "Meat" Threatt proved to be just as awesome as he has all year long. In 21 carries The Meat hacked away 133 Vincent hash marks and scored four touchdowns.

Also devastating against Vincent--as it has been against others this year--was the Thompson defense. The Big 'D.' After an impressive night of sacks by Thompson, Vincent netted -61 yards rushing.

But for the first half, Vincent gave the Warriors just about as much football as they wanted.

Thompson took the first possession, cranked off one of its patented, mechanical drives which ended in a six-yard TD run for The Meat. Jeff Willis kicked the point after and all was according to Thompson plan.

But Vincent quarterback Eddie Reynolds and sure-handed Tim Smith had plans of their own. Reynolds tossed off a pass to Smith who took it 56 yards for the TD. Tony Bradford ran for two and suddenly the plan looked less than perfect. Vincent led 8-7.

On the closing play of the first quarter, however, Thompson capped a quick drive with two yard leap by Threatt. The twopoint conversion failed, but THS was back where it wanted to be, back where it would stay.

The Vincent defense, however, bottled Thompson with second quarter sacks and forced two punts from the endzone. One punt gave the 'Jackets the ball on the 25, but penalties barred points.

Reynolds aerials put Vincent in second quarter scoring position again at the 21, but a sack by Tyrone Jones and blocked field goal killed the 'Jackets last good chance to score in the game.

In the third quarter, tough running by Warrior Max Brown, (good for 123 yards in 19 carries), a 16-yard Richard Brasher-Brown pass, and two Vincent penalties put Thompson on the six. At 4:47 Threatt bowled over for the score, despite taking numerous solid licks from Vincent defenders.

On the two-point run, Brown collided head on at the goal with Vincent's Vernon Kidd. Brown won the collision by inches.

Early in the fourth quarter, senior lineman Jeff Bentley intercepted a Vincent whoopee pass and returned it 23 yards before being driven out of bounds at the two. Threatt bowled over for the TD, but not without paying a painful price.

Willis made a good chip shot for the PAT, and the game was basically over with 11:32 left to Friday marked the first time since 1973 that Thompson and Vincent have played. After leading only 7-0 at the half nine years ago, THS rallied behind James Riggins to win 42-7.

"This wasn't the best yer to pick up Thompson," Garrett commented. "I hope we keep the game going. And I hope Thompson's not this good every year and we are better in the other

"I think our young boys deserve all the credit they get for tonight," Garrett continued. "For the first half we gave Thompson all they wanted."

Now 4-5 on the year, Vincent looks to even its record tomorrow in a road clash with rival Chelsea.

Thompson, which has done all it can with its regular season, takes a much needed week off to prep for post-season play. Simmons and crew, as par for the course, will find something for the Warriors to work on, something to be unhappy about.

But Friday in Vincent, Simmons was happy: "Twenty-eight Continued on page B-5

THS takes volleyball crown

by David F. Moore

Thompson's Lady Warriors claimed their second straight state 3-A volleyball championship Saturday in Montgomery. Vincent's Lady 'Jackets placed #4 among 2-A schools in Alabama.

Both county teams also closed out their 1982 seasons with their best ever records, leaving hard acts to follow at both schools.

LADY WARRIORS

When you're hot, you're hot. When you're tops, you're tops. And Saturday, playing at Huntingdon College, the Lady Warriors were both. They became the first volleyball team in Alabama to win back-to -back championships since state tournaments were started in 1967.

Adding to the honor was the naming of senior hitter Ashley Sargent and junior setter-hitter Janiece Scoggins to the All-state 3-A Volleyball Team.

For six-year veteran Lynn Rushing, the 1982 Lady Warriors make the third team she has coached to a state title in four years. And in 1977, her girls finished state runners-up.

Rushing said that finishing #1 in 1981 with a team full of juniors created pressure for an encore performance at the tourney this year. Although the '82 team isn't the best bunch of athletes she's ever coached, Rushing insists that they are the most dedicated.

"Some of these girls aren't really that naturally gifted in athletics," Rushing told the Reporter, "but because they're so dedicated, they made themselves good."

Make that "great."

Rushing said their 54-5 record is the most wins a THS volleyball crew has ever collected, which says a lot for the traditionally strong school.

In round-robin pool play Friday, Thompson handily bumped off Haleyville, Eufaula and Hill

A bus load of supporters made the trip to Montgomery to cheer on the team Saturday.

When she gets time, Rushing said she'll probably sit down and cry about the seniors she'll lose: Angie Harris, Cynthia Cunningham, Robin Hutchison, Becky Ward and Sargent.

Next year the Warriors will have to rely heavily on Scoggins and returners Allison Bivins, Beverly Bivins, Janet Gaiters and Colleen Threatt.

The Lady Warriors have rebuilt before... LADY 'JACKETS

Fourth in the state is the farthest a Vincent volleyball team has ever gone, and the Lady 'Jackets' 32-6 mark for the season is a record, too.

"At the begining of the season, I didn't expect us to do this well," Barnes admitted Sunday. "And since we're just losing one senior, I hope to do even better next year."

Noteworthy of their record, the Lady 'Jackets had lost only three games going into the tourney at Montgomery Academy: two of those losses were to 3-A powerhouse Thompson, the other to 4-A giant Berry.

Comer whips Chelsea in Sylacauga

by David F. Moore

From Sylacauga to Chelsea can be a long ride home. An impressive B.B. Comer home team clobbered a battered Chelsea squad Friday night. The final score was 27-0.

However, for the fan or coach with an eye for the optimistic, the long ride home should have been somewhat brightened by the intense play of the younger Hornets.

Chelsea went into the game still stinging from its loss to Calera. Starting linebackers Keith Brasher (Jr.) and Larry Cork (Sr.) were both out with injuries, as was tailback Jeff Lackey (Sr.), who has a separated shoulder.

Comer added damage of its own. Two-way tackle Scott Wilson and defensive back/split end Jock Efferson (both seniors) were taken out during the game.

Taking on a physical Comer team at home with up to seven sophomore Hornets on the field is, mildly put, a tall order. On certain blocking assignments, Chelsea players were outweighed by 100 pounds.

"Seems like we were a little mesmerized by it all," reflected Cheisea nead coach Roger Hibbs.

Comer took advantage of its advantage and rolled up 412 yards offense, including TD runs of 65 and 37 yards, and TD passes of 21 and 65 yards. All scoring, except the fourth quater long pass play, took place in the first half.

Chelsea was held to only 36 yards rushing. But junior QB Jason Williams showed good poise at times and connected for 216 yards in quick passes.

On defense, linebacker Tommy White played inspired football with 12 individual tackles and five assists for Chelsea.

But Hibbs indicated that the brightest light he saw at the end of Firday's bleak shutout tunnel was the general play of his sophomores.

"You can draw all the X's and O's you want," Hibbs said. "But it all comes down to kids out there enjoying playing the game The sophomores have really worked hard, have good attitudes, and seem to enjoy play-

"They played with intensity and aggressiveness, and perhaps even above their capabilities, at times."

"It really hurt us because we had to play so many young people," Hibbs continued, "but I don't think we played that bad-

"We'll both be getting at each other. I know our kids will line up and battle with them, simply because they're playing Vincent," Hibbs said. "A lot of good things could come from a win Friday."

Trip proves educational for golfers

The Falcons golf team recently competed in the All-American Classic Golf Tournament in Nassau, Bahamas and found that education and athletics do mix.

"It was quite an educational experience for the players," commented coach Dr. Leon Davis, "They had a chance to visit downtown Nassau and get a firsthand look at a different way of life."

The tournament drew 13 teams from around the southeast and Montevallo finished in just about the middle of the pack at sixth. The Falcons posted a 54 hole team total of 934.

The five players that represented Montevallo were sophmores Charlie Moller. Harold Breen, Guice Potter, Chuck Wood and freshman Don Hancock.

Next up for the golf team is the Dixie Intercollegiate Tournament (Nov. 5-7) at Columbus, Ga.

Jons to play for state title

by David F. Moore

First the preliminaries. The Briarwood Lions leveled a 33-0 whammie against Bell Road of Montgomery, Friday night, at home in north Shelby.

With that out of the way (temporarily), on to the even more important "Casual Understatement of the Week Award". A real jewel, it goes to head Lions coach Gary Fleming for announcing, "We're looking forward to the championship game."

Casual. Real casual.

Just because the Lions are 8-1 on the year--just because they have a super running attack--just because the defense shut out Maxfield Air Force Base, Mobile Christian, Greystone, and, now, Bell Road--just because the Lions won the Alabama Christian Athletic Conference Championship in 1977--just because they went to the playoffs in '79 and again in '80 and DID'NT win it-just because Fleming and staff are winners at heart and turn out winners--just because...

That's all? The Lions are merely "looking forward" to the championship game they'll play Saturday night at home?

Add one more "just because" and the magnitude of Fleming's understatement burns clearly:

The Lions' one loss of the year--and it was an embarrassing one, too--came three weeks ago from Cathedral. The same Cathedral the Lions now get a second shot at during the championship.

The first time they played, Briarwood lost 12-3. The Lions moved inside the 10 THREE times in the first quarter and managed only a field goal; later they fumbled three times inside the 20 and had a key pass intercepted.

You shouldn't drive blindfolded in the left hand lane, and that score shouldn't have been 12-3. Fleming knows that (probably both points), and you can be sure the Lions know it, too. In fact, there's a sometime sports writer at the Reporter who'll eat this story if the Briarwood Lions aren't so intent on Saturday's game that all week the snort Cathedral with every waking breath, and dream of blocking assignments while they sleep at night.

"We're looking forward to the championship game."

No doubt, Gary. Just like paydays and raises, Thanksgiving dinners, and summer vacations.

Another good reason the Lions are itching for Saturday has to be the way they handled Bell Road last week--After losing the kickoff at their own 18, Lions defenders refused Bell Road even a first down. Four plays later the offense takes over on the 10 and in short order junior QB Bob Welch cranks off Fourth quarter: the Lions march 80 yards with Collier scoring from the five on a pitch from Nelson. The point after fails, but the win is solid. 33-0.

Pelham falls to Aggies; bright future awaits

by David F. Moore Thirty-five, zip.

What can you say?

Pelham head coach Billy Tohill: "Any time you get a 35-0 strapping, you don't have a lot of good playing out there. Pelham didn't play well. Sylacauga-they've got a real fine football Don't underestimate the last part of that statement by any means. The Aggies are big. Fast. And they've played impressive ball, ousting SCHS, nearly upsetting Stanhope Elmore, nearly tarnishing the Warriors' record.

Friday's shutout drops Tohill's Panthers to 2-7. Only a tough road game at Chilton County remains in what has been a tough year at Pelham.

Thirty-five, zip.

What can you say? Well, it could have been a lot better, but then again, it could have been raining Friday night in Pelham. Or the score could have been 42-0...

The Aggies drove the opening kick back for an early TD, setting the stage for a first-half romp that wouldn't let up until 28-0.

Their second and third touchdowns came on wings, and Tohill was disappointed that a couple of defending Panther backs didn't stick some paws in the way. Meanwhile, that big Aggie defense just kept coming.

At the half, Pelham made some changes, found some things it could do, canned some things it couldn't. Sylacauga scored a fifth touchdown early in the third quarter, but after that the Panthers finally said "Eee-nough!"

The offense never got on the board, but Tohill said the defense did come on with some good second half play, notably in the form of noseguard Danny Turner, linebacker Mike Filkens and ends Jackie Johnson, Kevin Young and Danny Whitman. Two and seven.

What can you say? Tohill: "When I came here I didn't know what to expect, except that Pelham went 0-10 last year. We were simply going to work hard and see what happened. We certainly aren't going to let one year get us down. We're just now getting laid out and working real good."

Significantly, by the time Tohill was finally hired earlier this year from Hueytown, and by the time he set up his staff, office, and locker room, there wasn't enough time for spring training. Not to mention enough time to establish the quality program Tohill and staff have targeted as Pelham's goal.

Two and seven. What can you say? At the risk of cliche: wait til NEXT year.

There's talent brewing in the 'B' and 'JV' ranks, Tohill noted. Also: despite the discouraging record, fans and boosters still believe and support; eight offensive and eight defensive starters will return for '83; Tohill plans a gut-busting, survival of the fittest, off-season weight program designed to put some iron in some muscles, some nails in some attitudes.

Tohill said it should all add up, eventually.

"We've got an awful lot of work that needs to be done at Pelham," he said, "and I plan to get it done. We're going to get this program going. If hard work will get that accomplished, we'll get it done."

It was that idea behind hilltop workouts this week that spurred on the Panthers in preparing for a trip to Clanton.

What can you say?

If they want it bad enough, they just might get it. And 3-7 beats 2-8, any day.

Calera takes easy win over Maplesville

The Calera Eagles were like a gold nugget covered with mud, Friday night.

On their way to a 28-6 whipping of Maplesville, at times they appeared cold and lifeless and at others they sparkled.

The 6-2 Eagles seemed to be looking past 3-4-2 Maplesville to an area title contest with Isabella. That game will be played tomorrow night.

Calera Coach Danny Alverson said of the performance by his team, "We came out and played a conservative type game. We lacked a little motivation because we knew we had to win the next game, not this one, for the area." The time at which the Eagles sparkled in the contest came after Maplesville scored.

Alverson said, "When they scored, that made us mad and we came back."

Part of the non inspiring performance turned in by the Eagles was due to the absence of leading ground gainer Edward Wilson.

Wilson suffered a bad ankle sprain and was deliberately held out of Friday's contest so he would be ready to go full steam

Alverson commented that his defensive is really the backbone of his team and he praised the efforts of Curtis Glass, John Campbell, Todd Killingsworth and Steve Bearden in holding Maplesville to just six points.

On offense, Coach Alverson praised the play of Tony Faucet who had to take most of the burden of running for the Eagles because Wilson did not play.

He also said that Eagle quarterback James Blanchard had his best night of the year as ·far as team leadership and passing were concerned.

by David F. Moore

Guess you wonder why I've called you all here on this occasion. Oh, you weren't wondering? I don't care, I'll tell you anyway...

Talk about memory flashbacks (we were, weren't we?)--here I am spending the weekend on the phone with (a million, count them) coaches, and beating my brain on football and assorted sports stories at this fancy, computerized, televised, typewriting machine. Just like the old days when I spent a year and half doing Reporter sports pages.

The current "Mr. Sports" (Fred Guarino) and I swapped assignments this issue to give me a few days off last week to put a motor back in my Opel. (Don't ask!) However, a nationwide computer search for an elusive $5 pilot bearing has left me sucking wind and the car project temporarily stalled. So what? So if Fred, Marcia, and Diane don't object, you may-for better or worse-find me again on these pages whenever that bearing comes in.

Speaking of no cars and sucking wind...

I'd like to take this opportunity to invite everyone to a special, benefit slide showing tonight (Thursday) in the Thompson gym.

Last year the Reporter featured some stories I wrote during a little 51/2-month hike Jeff Mitchell and I made from Georgia to Maine, through the mountains of Appalachia. I didn't have a car then, and there were many times I was sucking wind, too.

Anyway, the Shelby County United Way is running short on its annual fund raising drive. Also, we still hear a lot of comments about the hike. So Mitch and I decided to kill a couple stones with one big bird and hold a benefit showing of a few of our favorite slides from the Appalachian Trail.

The show starts at 7:30 p.m., and for a meager buck or two, we'll show you, or your group, a good time on the trail. We promise your muscles won't get sore, you won't work up a sweat or even an appetite. But you will help a worthy cause. For more details, see the ad in this issue, or give us a call at 669-2731.

See ya' there.

Speaking of the Appalachian Trail...

An ardent Alabaster hiker is in the process of organizing a club of Appalachian Trail Conference members in Alabama. But you don't have to belong to the ATC to join. Ernest J. McMeans says anyone interested in general hiking, or more specifically, hiking and trail maintenance on the AT, is invited to join. Make that URGED to join.

The first meeting is set for 1 p.m., Saturday, November 20, in the ; downstairs meeting room of the Homewood Public Library. Between now and then, Ernest said you might be thinking of a name for the group, and a logo and patch design. If you have any questions about the meeting or the group, call Ernest at 663-3128.

Also wanted to take an inch or two and offer Reporter congratulations to the Warriors and Coach Larry and his staff. You'll do us all proud in the playoffs, I'm sure. Lotsa' luck!

Gary and his Lions at Briarwood Christain also deserve a big 'congrats' and a big 'good luck.' Over the past several years the school has wasted little time in catching the county tradition of tough competition and good sportsmanship. Just make sure you put a handle on the football Saturday, Gary. Maybe even a little glue...

And how 'bout them Eagles? Danny, are you guys in Calera going to the playoffs, the layoffs, or what? Why don't you beat Isabella, then see what happens. Heaven knows we'd like to see you fellows go.

So would a few thousand Calera fans! Football congrats are also due the Bulldogs, Richard Gilliam and crew, for closing out yet another winning season for Montevallo. They may not be top 'Dog in the state, but all things considered 6-4 and #2 in the area looks pretty good.

Thompson and Vincent (and the rest of the county, for that matter) can be proud of their girls' volleyball teams, and their respective coaches, Lynn Rushing and Debbie Barnes. Even from a Warrior point of view, you just can't do any better than #1 in the state. And from the 'Jacket side of the volleyball net, this year's girls did better than ever before.

Who's the Vincent volleyball mascot? I'm not mentioning any names, but his initials are Jim Barnes...

Scribble, scribble, scribble. Nothing to it, Crosby.

SCHS suffers disappointing loss

by Richard Crosby

Shelby County High School lost its eighth game of the season last Friday night in Columbiana. The Wildcats fell to Childersburg which picked up its second win of the season. The score was 26-13.

For the Wildcats the loss was a disappointing one. Shelby County gave the visiting Tigers 20 points before getting into a scoring offense. From there it was too little too late.

Childersburg got its first score the same way Bibb County did the week before. The Wildcats fumbled on their first offensive play. Four plays later it was touchdown time.

The Tigers scored again before the half with a 68 yard drive. The count halted at 14-0 while the bands performed.

Shelby County managed only 12 yards rushing in the first half despite Pat Wallace's 26 yards. The Wildcats completed three passes for 20 yards. The statistics improved in the second half, but not enough for a winning perfor-

Childersburg intercepted a Wildcat pass early in the third quarter and converted it into points. The PAT was wide leaving the score 20-0.

The Wildcats got the ball moving as the third quarter drew to a close. The team traveled 60 yards with Pat Wallace bursting the final four for the touchdown. The PAT split the uprights.

That touchdown sparked the Tigers to action. Childersburg put the ball across the goal line to make the margin 26-7.

The final score of the night was Shelby County's as the Wildcats again started moving forward. Pat Wallace was again called upon to carry the pigskin for the touchdown, this time on a two yard run. The try for two failed as the final minutes of the game were fought in the middle of the Jason Head was the leader on the defense for the Wildcats. Wallace was the leading rusher on offense.

This week Columbiana hosts the undefeated Jemison Panthers. It's the final game of the year for Shelby County but only the final regular game for Jemison, which heads into the payoffs next week.

Baby Warriors wallop Midfield youths

The Thompson Warrior youth teams like playing Midfield. And who can blame them?

Thursday four of the junior Warrior squads traveled to Midfield and returned with four victories. On Monday, the 95-pounders beat Bessemer.

The 70-pounders evened out their season at 3-3 with a 13-0 win over the Patriots.

Mark Macaully led the shutout defense in tackles while Shawn Hall sparked the offense with two touchdowns. If they keep up the work, the coaches are expecting the boys to make it a winning

The 85-pounders came from behind, then held on the entire second half to beat Midfield 18-13.

Greg Martin scored early on a 48-yard ramble, but after a fumble recovery by Pete Dupree, Thompson was unable to move its second possession. Midfield scored, added tha PAT and led Following fumble recoveries by Kevin Flynn and Derrick Shroyer, Warrior Chris Smith eventually reeled off a 45-yard TD run. Again the PAT failed, and the ensuing Midfield TD put the visitors down 13-12.

Scott Busby, however, ran from the 36 to put Thompson ahead to stay. Second half defense, led by Jarred Myers. Busby, and Miles, kept the lead safe despite a last minute threat.

Monday, the Bessemer 95-ers gave Thompson an early trick or treat scare, pulling out to a quick, two-touchdown lead.

But the kid-Warriors played like the big boys, mounting a team effort, and climbed from a 19-14 halftime hole to claim the victory, 21-14. Coaches commented that effort by the entire team was the key to the comeback.

Thompson's 105-ers didn't have much trouble with Midfield. The entire defense teamed up for a shutout while the offense rolled up 36 points.

With QB Brady Thames at the helm, Ronnie Roan rushed 13 times for 96 yards and four touchdowns. Brian Bunn picked up two TD's and 155 yards in 18

Looking toward a strong season's finish, the 105 team downed Midfield 19-13. The Warriors jumped out to a 13-0 lead after only six minutes of play, but their host got stingy with the home field real estate after that.

"We're trying to teach these boys basic football fundamentals and as they learn, we hope to come on strong the last few games of the season," the 669-4133. 105-pounder coach commented.

State nurseries annually produce over 70 million tree seedlings and usually cannot fill the demand. This year seems to be different. Orders have been slowly coming in. Approximately 20 million trees will go to waste if not ordered soon, says Forester Lee Laechelt of Helena.

For people who plant trees on rural areas for producing furure timber crops there is available an excellent 10% federal tax credit and a quick 7 year amortization of all planting costs. Cookie champ

Thompson Elementary School student Cindy Coutta tries out the Go-Cart she won as the top cookie salesman for the school. The first grader raised $1,053. The other top sellers who won prizes are: Eric Smith, Jason French, Brian Fritz, Brad Scarbrough, Lee Howard, Brenda Littleton, Maury Clinkscales, Jena Langford, Ashley Camp.

Sticking with it pays

Working with an ornery steer can be exasperating. But the 17 Shelby County young people who show their steers know that persistence pays off.

According to Montevallo High School ag teacher Tony Berry, 28 steers are being shown this year by 4-H and FFA members.

Besides working with their animals each day, teaching them to lead, the young people must also get the required weight on the steer at each stage of growth.

The ideal finished weight of a steer, Berry noted, is around 1,250 pounds.

In teaching a particularly stubborn steer to lead, the animal is usually coupled with a donkey to make it more tractable.

Another method, which was used by the owner of an uncooperative animal last year, was to tie the steer to a tractor driven by her father while she walked alongside holding the leadrope.

One of the steers being shown this year belongs to Jessica Ann Eisenberg. While she works with the animal in leading each day, she uses the long cement driveway of her home which helps to trim the steer's feet.

She also works on hilly ground to firm the steer's muscles.

Another reason for the daily exercise is to increase the animal's appetite. The average feed ration is 20 pounds per day with a daily weight gain of approximately 41/2 pounds. Grooming is another integral part of getting ready to show. And that involves getting the steers accustomed to being washed, brushed, sprayed and dried

The young people have shown their animals at the Shelby County Fair, the Alabama State Fair in Birmingham and the Central Alabama Fair in Selma.

Their next event will be an Auburn show in December.

'Deathtrap' comes to UM

One of the most popular successes of recent Broadway history, the mystery thriller "Deathtrap" will be performed by the University of Montevallo Theatre Wednesday-Saturday, Nov. 10-13.

The ingeniously constructed play offers a rare blending of thrills, spontaneous laughter, twists, and shocks, according to Dr. John Rude, director.

The production will begin at 8 p.m. in Reynolds Hall Theatre.

Tickets are $2.50. For reservations call 665-2521, ext. 413.

Optical illusions spark contest

A unique art competition, "Optical Illusions in Two Dimensions," will be conducted at the UAB School of Optometry again this year.

Optical illusions have amused people and held fascination for artists, psychologists and vision scientists for centuries. Using lines, spaces and color in special ways to confuse perception, these graphics can be irresistably entertaining.

Dr. Henry B. Peters, Dean of the School of Optometry, said "This contest is being held to stimulate a fresh look at this intriguing subject and to have fun."

Strange fashions

Although Halloween had not yet arrived, Thursday afternoon, an advanced troop of creatures appeared at a nursing home in Alabaster. The creatures were really the girls of Brownie Troop 33 in Alabaster who were led by Elaine Smith. They performed their version of a Halloween fashion

Ghosts, goblins raise $8,500 for charity

by Fred Guarino

Miss Piggy selling fabric, Papa Smurff giving medical exams, witches and space cadets cashing

It all happened in Shelby County, Friday. But the mysterious goings on did not start Friday. Some mystical box containing strange creatures of the night must have been opened the Thursday before Halloween. Black cats and jack-o-lanterns dle School. were moving about in the open Thursday and that night vampires and witches rushed about. The weird events took place from the east end of the county in Vincent, the west end of the county near Alabaster and the northwest part of the county at Pelham and Riverchase.

However, there was nothing to fear. The unusual characters which attracted attention were merely Shelby County folk having a good time for the Halloween weekend.

The first appearance of mysterious characters occurred at an Alabaster nursing home.

Brownie Troop 33 of Alabaster, performed a Halloween fashion show and sang songs for delighted residents. The girls also brought residents various bread treats.

Led by Elaine Smith, Danielle Paladino wore a clown outfit, Heather White was Cinderella, Kacey Simmons dressed as Annie, Christine Smith was a convincing black cat;

Diane Coggins showed up as Raggedy Ann, Heather Griggs was a ballerina, Kathy Tate appeared as a clown, Beth Ailshie was a baton twirler, D. Minke was a rabbit, and Heather Eison was a jack-o-lantern.

According to Troop Leader Smith, the girls performed a fashion show for the nursing home residents at Easter but decided they wanted to do a little something different.

Resident Julia Lemely said of the performance, "I though they were very interesting... They reminded me of when I was little."

Ona Ray said, "I thought they were real sweet to come and try to cheer us up. I liked it."

The second occurence of the mysterious took place at the National Guard Armory in Vincent, Thursday night.

The event was a Halloween Party for Vincent Elementary School students. The PTO planned the party to raise funds for a school copier and to provide a safe outing for the youngsters.

Friday, however, the creatures appeared in unlikely places.

A local bank featured Peter Pan, a strange person called Charlie, a witch, a space cadet and one of the cone heads.

They were really Susan Ray of Pelham, Ginger Peek and Penny Serrano of Alabaster, Debbie Whitten of Montevallo and Linda Jones of Pelham.

At a local store, Debra Quin appeared as Miss Piggy.

In Riverchase, a physician appeared as Pappa Smuff and gave a very much surprised 3 year-old, a physical.

The weird events continued at a Halloween Party at 4 p.m. Friday afternoon at Thompson Mid-

The strange Halloween creatures proved most beneficial, however in Pelham in the old Carver furniture building.

Monsters of every description haunted a house that raised close to $8,500 for charity. The north Shelby Jaycees were responsible for the thrilling and chilling ex-

He said of the good showing, "It was more successful than we ever thought it would be. We thought we would only raise about half as much money as we

The Jaycees will use the funds raised by ghosts and goblins to benefit muscular dystrophy, the county Foster Children's Fund, a Christmas shopping tour for the needy and a camp for underprivileged children.

The "Spectre de la Rose" was the most famous ballet danced by renowned dancer, Nijinsky. It is about a young girl who, after her first ball, dreamily falls asleep while clutching the rose given to her by her handsome dancing partner. With a leap across the stage, the spirit of the rose suddenly enters the girl's room and awakens her. They dance together and recapture the romance of the night just passed. Then, just as suddenly as he arrived, the spirit leaps through the window into the rose scented night. Most young ladies will tell you that there is more than a bit of truth in this romantic story.

North Shelby board gets on fire rates

for the North Fire District ers this week and the fiscal year. priority, we're age our class 7 iss 4," said new-

- udirman Larry Dillard. Such an upgrading will save residents in the district $50-$100 annually on fire insurance, Dillard estimated.

A ladder truck to serve midrise buildings in Inverness, a second fire station on highway 119 (Cahaba Valley Road), and three additional paid firemen are needed for reclassification. Dillard told the Reporter the NSCFD is shooting to obtain all three requirements within a year.

"We have our homework cut out for us," he admitted.

Procurement of the ladder truck and new station will be "almost simultaneous," Dillard said. And the search for a lot on 119 within a half-mile of the Caldwell Mill intersection is already cranking up.

The ladder truck would be stationed at the present fire hall on Valley Dale Road. One of the two engines now there would be moved to the new location.

Also on the priority listing is the pursuit "with all expediency" of a lawsuit against Dewberry Printing on U.S. 280. Dillard said the final papers on the suit would be filed in 2-3 weeks, and the case would be heard by Judge Robert Armstrong.

At issue is the question of a fire district's fees being a service charge or a tax. Dewberry is tied in with the tax-exempt Vincent Industrial Board, and has not paid some $15,000 in dues because it contends the charges are taxes.

The priorities were set Monday night at the NSCFD trustees monthly board meeting.

During the meeting the trustees unanimously voted to make a presentation at a later date to former board member Jack van Pelt. Van Pelt was instrumental in helping establish the fire district five years ago.

"We're most appreciative of van Pelt's help," said Dillard. "We have a good feeling that his counsel will still be available to the fire district anytime we need

Deputies refuse cut in hours; will see if revenues run short

by Fred Guarino

Shelby County sheriff's deputies do not want to take a voluntary cut in their working

The request was made on behalf of the county commission by its attorney because the county cannot afford an 11 percent pay raise passed by state law for state troopers.

The deputies' answer was reported by the county attorney, Monday morning, and it angered county commissioners.

The attorney said that Sheriff Buddy Glasgow, Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden and he met with the deputies recently.

He stated, deputies were asked if they would take the same voluntary cutbacks in work time that state troopers took when the state could not afford an 11 percent salary increase for them.

According to the county's legal representative, "They (the deputies) said they wanted to wait as far as making any voluntary reduction in hours until after the first of the year."

He stated the deputies assured him "If the shortage in revenues proves true, the problem would be resolved."

However, deputies mentioned no cutback in hours.

The attorney pointed out that the deputies were firm in the decision even though they were told that reductions may be more severe at the first of the year than

He said, "We had a copy of the voluntary statement troopers were asked to sign, cutting one day from each pay period."

The attorney advised commissioners to bring the personnel board up to date on their situation so that a spirit of cooperation could be established in the event the county had to take actions regarding personnel.

Murphy stated, "I got the distinct feeling the deputies based their decision on the fact the state is on proration. They expect the county to go on proration, which would effect all departments."

Snowden suggested that the personnel board be given a breakdown of the county's budget.

Murphy responded, "I don't believe voters want the personnel board or the sheriff's department to control this county's budget. That's our job."

He added about the law which links deputies pay to that of state troopers, "I think it is a bad piece of legislation."

Commissioner Alpha Lowe said, "I'm ready to do whatever it takes to run the county until January."

Commissioner Jake Morris said, "The well is running dry...who is getting blamed? Five people. I'm making a challenge to you."

He added, "Give them (deputies) what the law says. When all the water is out of the bucket, it is gone."

Commissioner Harold Davenport pointed out that Tommy Snowden is the purchasing agent for the county. If any department is in trouble, he said, deny their purchases. Morris reported that the county sheriff's department over ran its budget by $200,000 last year.

He said, "We are not doing our job if we let this happen again. I say today we give them the money and sit down and take care of cabinet business."

Davenport said, "The county came up with a balanced budget because other departments did without. If we talk about proration, I say prorate the one department getting itself in trouble."

The county attorney insisted that the personnel board must enter the picture with the deputies. He said that the county could not reduce the salaries of deputies, and minimum numbers are set by law. But he said the county did have control of other

Got an extra $84,352 for short-funded UW?

"Hey buddy -- can you spare $84,352?"

It's a tall order, but that's the amount the Shelby United Way Drive is trying to drum up this

Last Friday was the deadline for the annual drive, the day chairman Carl Grimes had to announce that the goal of $274,588 had been reached.

However, only $190,236, or 69.3% of that goal had been realized by then, so the deadline has, of necessity, been extended another week.

In the overall Shelby-Jefferson-Walker area, 94.4% of a $9 million goal was reached.

Grimes said there was little question that Shelby County was behind in its share. "We're not where we wanted to be at this point, by a long shot," he said.

Considering the economic hardships caused by layoffs, shutdowns, reductions in hours worked, and a lack of raises, Grimes said he was not too surprised at the drive coming up short.

"Still some of the companies, employees, and individuals did better on donations this year than last year," Grimes told the Reporter. "Some of the companies have shown extrmemly good leadership in helping with this program."

Grimes said realistically, he hopes to reach 80% by Friday, but even that will be tough. If the goal isn't reached by then, money will continue to be collected until it is.

"That's to say we're not going to leave any money sitting on the table," Grimes said. "We'll continue to try and get it in."

The United Way funds 48 various service agencies, and Grimes pointed out that donations aid people here in Shelby County.

Robbers hit Pelham shoe store

by David F. Moore

A Pelham shoe store was robbed at gun point Sunday afternoon. The manager was left bound and gagged -- but unharmed -- in the stockroom.

Police are searching for two black men who made off with an undisclosed amount of money and two pair of children's basketball shoes. At least one of the suspects is also being sought for questioning in connection with two similar shoe shop holdups.

Pic n' Pay manager Ron Cherry said four customers were in the Pelham Mart store Sunday about 4:15 when the two men entered and started asking questions about some shoes.

In the right rear corner of the store, Cherry said the tall man pulled a small, blue steel pistol from a handbag. The man told him to go to the front, bag up the money from the register and two pair of basketball shoes, leave the bag, and return to the rear of the

"This has got to be joke!" Cherry remembered thinking. "But then I looked at the pistol and decided it had to be real. I wasn't in the mood to get shot over it, so I went up front and did like he said."

Other customers in the store apparently were unaware the robbery was occuring. Cherry told the Reporter he kept quiet "because I didn't want anybody to get shot.'

Cherry and Pelham investigators would not disclose the amount of money stolen, but a former employee said it was probably less than $100. Cherry did say the basketball shoes were high-top leather Cuga, sizes '4' and '41/2,' valued at $28.97 per

The man stuffed a snow glove in his mouth, told him not to move for 20 minutes and left, Cherry said.

After five minutes and some 30 unanswered rings on the store phone, one of the customers grew curious and discovered Cherry bound on the stockroom floor.

Columbiana cranks up second mini-park

'Asphalt breaking'

Members of Columbiana's City Council and Beautification Board gather around landscape architect John Reeves as he prepares to break asphalt for a second beautification project. Pictured are: Mayor Buck Falkner, Councilmembers Jessie Jones, Harold McCord, Frank Owen and board members Mildred . Harrison, Jim Strickland, Ann Davis, Diane Ellis, Memory Barrow, Carl Jones, and Buddy Wyatt.

Instead of a ground breaking, members of the Columbiana Council and Beautification Board gathered for an asphalt breaking Monday morning.

The project which will add parking spaces and make the south end of Main Street more attractive is located across the street from the old courthouse.

Following the observance of the project getting underway, landscape architect John Reeves began breaking up asphalt in the areas where a sidewalk and four planters will be placed.

Reeves is in charge of the project which he estimates will be completed by Thanksgiving.

The addition of a sidewalk and planters to the parking lot is phase two of the Beautification Board's master plan to improve the appearance of the city.

Because some merchants along Main Street had been worried about the project eliminating parking space, the board was delayed in getting council approval.

But the final plans showed that there would be extra space by making the parking diagonal and by marking off spaces at the rear of the lot which hasn't been used.

"This will make a nice frame for the courthouse," noted Beautification Board Chairman Mildred Harrison.

She related that funds are now being raised to paint the exterior of the old courthouse in which the Shelby County Historical Society plans to house a museum.

The cost of the second beautification project will cost between $10,000 and $12,000, Harrison reported.

She explained that the plantings will be similar to those used in the mini-park diagonally across the street.

Sterrett-Vandiver water:

Leaks patched, new chairman appointed

by David F. Moore

Problems aren't over yet on the Sterrett-Vandiver Water System, but some headway is being made.

At least seven leaks have been located and patched, most customers apparently have some clear water, and a new chairman has been appointed to the board of directors.

Despite rumors to the contrary, water from the Sterrett-Vandiver is apparently not contaminated.

Health department notices were posted last Friday in area stores instructing the 516 customers on the system to bou water five minutes before drinking or cooking with it. Those notices, and subsequent reports on television and radio, led some residents to think the water was unsafe, according to Jake Waller, newly appointed chairman of the water board.

"The water is not contaminated and never has been," said Waller, who was unanimously elected chairman by the water board last week. "None of our tests have ever shown contamination."

"This is a precautionary measure," county health official George Holcombe told the Reporter. "The breaks in the water line and low water pressure create ideal conditions tamination."

Holcombe said the notice would remain in effect until the system is operating cleanly again.

Leaks in the system were thought to be a large part of the reason many water customers in far northeastern Shelby County have had dirty water, or no water, in some cases on and off all summer.

Waller said pressure tests were run last week and seven leaks were eventually located and patched. State officials estimated that 30,000-40,000 gallons of water per day were saved by patching the leaks, Waller said.

By this week, most of the customers had water by at least 8:30 in the mornings. But the 200,000 gallon storage tank is still nearly empty.

Waller said well driller Stan Graves explained that apparently the system's new well is tied into the same water table as the old following last week's rain, Waller said the water table pumping level has risen from 105 feet to 85 feet.

The water situation may be improving, but as board member Evelyn Johnson told the Reporter, "I don't think it's going to be right until we get that new well going."

Shelby County Commissioner Don Murphy announced Monday that he was attending what would probably be his last commission meeting.

Murphy was successful as a Republican candidate for State Representative, District 49 on November 2.

The new state representative said, "I have mixed emotions about leaving this commission. but I feel I can be more effective to the commission in Montgomery."

Murphy said that he would try to stop bad things from happening to Shelby County and rectify some of those things which already have happend.

He said, "I think this commission will make decisions with the people in mind. It has been a pleasure being here... arguing with each other, each for the betterment of the county.'

Commissioner Harold Davenport said, "Don has done an excellent job. Probably he will serve us better in Montgomery. We need someone in our corner."

Commissioner Alpha Lowe said of Murphy, "We didn't agree on everything but we didn't get mad at each other. You always knew where he stood."

The Amerasian Children's Bill, introduced in the Senate by Senator Jeremiah Denton(R-Alabama), was signed into law by President Reagan at a white house ceremony on October 22.

The new law gives improved immigration status to children abandoned by their U.S. fathers in five Asian countries.

Said Denton, "This law gives these children of Americans the benefit of their birthright."

"Our nation has a moral responsibility to these children. Unfortunately, the U.S. has in the past made no provision to take responsibility for the inevitable offspring of U.S. citizens stationed or fighting overseas. Most European nations give the illegitimate children of a citizen and native the right to choose citizenship in the land of the father." In Asia, the half-American children and young adults are subject to unremitting social discrimination because Asian cultures resist assimilating children of mixed parentage.

One of the challenges of pic-VAUCSA: James Norman ture taking, I've found, is to get a large group of people or items in the camera's view finder without backing up a mile.

> Last week my task was to snap a showroom full of furniture.

> Next week's challenge, or dilemma, however you might look at it, will be to get a group of 80 or so children in a picture and still be able to recognize Off hand, I'd say there's no way. But I was doubtful about the furniture picture too.

Somehow or other though, I managed to get a photograph that the advertiser liked.

I have a sneaking suspicion, however, that the poor soul had no idea of what she was in for when I arrived.

There wasn't much room to rearrange anything since there were tons of items jammed against each other in that humongous room.

I decided there should be a focal point though, so the store owner and a helper began the arduous task of shoving couches, chairs and tables around.

As they heaved and grunted, I took off my shoes and climbed up on one of the desks which comprised the office in the rear of the establishment.

In my quest to get just the right angle, I wandered from desktop to desktop, trying not to disturb the papers I had to walk through.

As I moved gingerly along, wending my way through the paper labryinth, I suddenly heard a clickety, clickety, clickety sound.

It suddenly dawned on me that I had just stepped on a calculator and set it to figuring.

The ladies didn't seem to notice though. They were absorbed in getting a big old armchair past a couch that was unwilling to

It suddenly occurred to me that the view from the other end of the desk complex might be better. Skirting around the calculator,

I made my way carefully back through the paperwork until I came to the TV set.

I'm proud to say I climbed over it without a hitch. In fact, with some skillful ducking and dodging, I hardly disturbed the rabbit ears.

After snapping a shot from that vantage point, I decided to take one last angle from the back of a couch.

I blithely stepped from desktop to couch, only to find that the pillows I was standing on were moving.

Fighting to regain my balance. I decided I had enough shots, and was about to take my leave when realized I was in my stocking feet.

My shoes, I feared, must be under one of the pieces of furniture that had been moved. The problem was to discover which

So it was push and shove again until we uncovered them.

I'm not sure, but I think I detected a sigh of relief from the furniture store women as I finally made my way out the door.

If inanimate objects gave me so much trouble, I'm wondering how I'm going to handle 80 moving objects.

Only time will tell.

More sidewalks asked for youth

Letter to the Editor: Many streets in small towns are not safe enough for most children. In Shelby County the need for sidewalks is great. A lot of children like to walk but are unable. That is just one of the reasons that sidewalks would be greatly appreciated in most Shelby County towns. Just imagine being a child in a small town that was without any sidewalks. There would be no way that you could walk out of your yard safely. Sidewalks can be more important than some people think Let's help the kids.

owe her a large debt of gratitude. I truly believe that public education is on trial in our nation. We must wake up and realize the importance of this issue before it is too late. There is ample evidence of the deterioration of our educational systems. Our test scores are trending the wrong way; until very recently, many systems were promoting students for all the wrong reasons; we are giving a high school diploma to young people, who are functionally illiterate; we are giving college degrees to students whose only accomplishments are in the sports

Adoptive parents

needed by kids

Dear Friends: Thanksgiving week has been declared National Adoption Week. As families gather together to express their gratitude and love please remember that there are many children in our state, nation, and the world without a forever home. Our goal for the coming year is "One Church, One Child." If just one family in each church adopted a child many children would have a family to celebrate thanksgiving with next year. In Alabama we desperately need homes for black children of all ages and older white children (over the age of 9). Please make the children's plight known and uphold them in your prayers and actions.

Writer describes Children's section

Letter to the Editor:

There should be a part in the newspaper just for children, so they can understand it better. This way they will know what's happening without all the big words.

The things that should be in it should be mostly about children with more pictures. It should also have bigger print. One suggestion might be for the people who write the stories to call themselves a name of a cartoon character.

This part should help the children learn to read and like it. Another suggestion could be to have a fun part at the end with some questions to see if they learned anything while they were reading.

The newspaper is fun to read but hard to understand. Dannette Clifton 204 Pine Hill Drive Columbiana, Alabama

The level of activity regarding education in the recent political races indicates what is uppermost in our minds. Every politician, from the county level on through to the governor's race pledged their support to strengthen our educational system. I stated many times that there is absolutely nothing in government today that is more important than public education. I challenge every elected official to carry out their pledges and to make education number one on their priority list. We will never have full employment without adequate education. A superior educational system is critical to all of us, whether or not we have

I made those statements regarding what I would do if I were elected. Those were well thought ideas, and I would like to see them implemented. I am willing to meet with our Board of Education and our Superintendent of Education at their convenience to discuss the ideas. I believe that we are just beginning to make some headway into getting our school system in step with today's requirements. My defeat last tuesday was only a temporary setback - as the song so aptly says,

"We've only just begun!" In Shelby County, school is a family affair; let's all join together and make it a community and county-wide affair. Very sincerely yours, Al Knight 2421 Brook Run Birmingham, Alabama

Pelham's K mart celebrates grand opening

K mart opened a new store in Pelham last Thursday to a line of shoppers waiting outside the doors.

"This will be good for you, and good for us," district manager Al Olds told Pelham Mayor Burk Dunaway as the shoppers shuffled past them, pushing carts in search of grand opening bargins. "We're glad to be here -- and I'm glad we got that ribbon cut!"

Numerous K mart dignitaries attended the 8:30 a.m. ribbon cutting, as well as city and county officials. Also on hand were what appeared to be most of the store's 120 employees, making for a sizeable crowd.

The K mart developer has owned property at U.S. 31 and highway 105 in Pelham for some four years, and last summer finally began construction there on the new 68,337-square foot store.

Three and a half weeks ago K mart personnel began the massive job of stocking shelves.

"It's been a chore," grinned relieved store manager Howard Kirk. "We've been trying to get a store here four years. This is an excellent location. Growth is coming this way and this is an unlimited opportunity for us."

Local officials at the ribbon cutting were eyeing opportunities, too.

Dunaway said several potential investors had made inquiries into the property above the new store, as well as the corner lot on U.S. 31 that K mart still controls.

"I'm sure that since K mart's here, people are going to be looking at this immediate vicinity for development," Dunaway said.

The mayor and other Pelham official are also eyeing anticipated tax revenues from the new store -- $75,000 to $100,000, Dunaway estimated. He said Wal Mart and K mart together should generate about $150,000 in tax revenues for the city this year.

"I think there's definitely room for both Wal Mart and K mart in Pelham," Dunaway grinned.

Employment is another benefit K mart brings with its grand opening. The store has already hired 80 new employees from the area, Kirk said, and is beefing up that number with about 40 seasoned employees who'll be at the store through the holidays.

UM starts lab

A microcomputer lab has been developed by the University of Montevallo College of Educa-

The lab is to prepare student teachers and professioanl educators for the increasing use of computer technology in the classroom, according to Bob Lightfoot, lab director.

Lightfoot and Dr. Pat Ernest will teach in the lab, which is equipped with 12 Apple II microcomputers.

They will teach the first credit classes in computer literacy beginning in January.

Education majors at Montevallo will not be required to take the computer classes, but they will be encouraged to, they said.

Anyone who wants to know more about the lab can phone Lightfoot at 665-2521, ext. 331.

Kirk himself has recently moved into Pelham with his wife and children, who helped cut Thursday's ribbon.

"I think all around this is a positive factor in developing the economy of Shelby County," commented county commissioner Don Murphy, recently elected as state representative to District 49. "They're having a very good turnout. I'd like to have more of this in the county."

K mart personnel and local officials weren't the only people glad to see the new store open in last week in Pelham.

"I lost my tooth and the tooth fairy came and left me some money," said four and half-year old Julie Seales, shopping from inside a cart while her mother pushed. "I wanted to come here and buy something!"

"I don't mind coming to Pelham," said Polly Seales of Moore's Cross Roads, a 10-12 mile drive from the new store. "It's better than driving all the way to Hoover."

Pelham marks K mart's 39th store in Alabama. The 84-year corporation employs more than 200,000 people at over 2,300 stores in the U.S., Canada, and Puerto Rico.

MAKE YOUR MONEY COUNT

CHARLES E. MARTIN, CHAIRMAN AND PRESIDENT

Today, many sellers are financing the sale of their homes. In such cases, it makes sense to have a professional handle the administrative aspects of such a loan. Most financial institutions have initiated "servicing" programs for sellers. In return for a relatively modest fee, these lending institutions will check out the credit and income qualification of a prospective buyer. This greatly reduces the risk of default. The financial institution can also handle the monthly payments. Seller financing is a good tool for home resale when judiciously applied.

Money matters today have become recognized as an era of professional expertise. For assistance and advice on your financial considerations, we suggest you stop in at FIRST AMERICAN BANK, 3000 Hwy. 31 So., Pelham. From savings to checking to loans and more, we will be happy to discuss your needs, review our many available services and recommend those that will serve your best interests. Tel. 663-4750. ## Columbiana hears of pool, vandals, rescues

Don Hoffman was one of three Columbiana residents who attended Thursday night's council meeting to make a request.

Hoffman asked to be allowed to keep two pool tables at his place of business near Shelby County High School.

Melba Reed asked the city for help in eliminating the vandalism that she and other residents along County Highway 47 S have experienced.

After several appearances before the council, Larry Ray returned to ask for a decision on using a city owned dwelling as a base station for a recently organized rescue unit.

Councilman Bill Seale presided at the meeting in the absence of Mayor Buck Falkner, who was out of town, and Mayor Pro Tem Lewis Walker who had a death in the family.

Answering Hoffman's request to keep his pool tables, the panel said they would have to look into the laws pertaining to his particular type of operation.

"People are putting together different types of things which governed by several types of legality," Councilwoman Jessie Jones remarked.

She referred to the game room and pool tables Hoffman has added to his restaurant.

The Mayor had asked him to take the matter up with the council because he had been getting a lot of flack, Hoffman said.

The complaints were apparently based on the assumption that he was competing with other businesses that had similar types of equipment, Hoffman said.

But the restaurant owner said his establishment was a "stopping point for the kids," and noted that the tables had been put in for their use and not for adults.

He pointed out that students could use the pay phone outside his business and could also get something to eat if they were waiting for a ride.

The restaurant owner also made the point that he didn't sell alcoholic beverages.

Although no action was taken on the matter, Councilman Harold McCord told Hoffman that he had his support.

Asking for action on the vandalism that is allegedly occurring at homes along the roadbed where the L&N tracks formerly ran, Melba Reed presented a petition signed by residents of the

She related that rocks have been thrown through her window and at her neighbor's dog which is kept inside a fence.

Another neighbor had his yard torn up by vandals, Reed said.

Until the individuals responsible for the vandalism could be identified, Police Chief Howels Horn explained that he could not make any arrests.

It was Jones' feeling however, that the city could work with the L&N to solve the problem.

Although city attorneys have not completed a lease agreement on the house they agreed the rescue unit could use, those present voted to let the unit occupy the dwelling.

The move was made with the understanding it was subject to approval of the lease agreement.

Jones' motion to let the unit proceed with their plans for the house also includes giving the group approximately $1,000 to build an enclosure for a rescue vehicle.

Ray reported that the unit has some good leads on a vehicle and hopes to have one within two or three weeks.

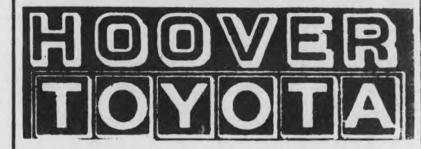

Graduation ceremonies for members of the unit who had completed a first responder course were held Monday night, Ray said.

He also related that BREMS (Birmingham Regional Emergency Medical Service) had donated over $600 worth of equipment to the unit.

tour of the Hawaiian Islands.

DAY 1 - En route to Honolulu on the Island of Oahu. We'll gather this morning at the Birmingham airport to begin our trip to Honolulu. Upon arrival, you'll be greeted with the traditional flower lei by a native islander. Aloha!

DAY 2 — We've already had time to settle in at the beautiful Hilton Hawaiian Village Hotel on Waikiki Beach, where we'll stay for three dreamy tropical nights.

A scenic Circle-Island tour is scheduled today. As we drive along the rugged coast we'll see small settlements and beach parks clustered alongside bay inlets, each one seemingly more beautiful than the last. Tropical farming is much different from farming back home, and we'll have ample opportunity to compare notes with local farmers during farm visits today. We'll also see historic Schofield Barracks, and drive up to the Pali Precipice for one of the great views of the western world, then move on to famous Diamond Head.

DAY 3 - A free day to do as you wish. There are many interesting shopping opportunities in lovely Honolulu. You may also want to visit the inspirational USS Arizona Memorial in Pearl Harbor. Tonight, if you wish, you can take in a beautiful Polynesian Show.

DAY 4 - This morning we fly to Kauai, the most luxuriant of the islands, with rainbow-filled can-yons and thundering waterfalls. Gentle rivers and sweeping patchwork valleys of sugar cane, taro, rice, ginger flowers and hibiscus make Kauai a most fascinating island. We'll take a relaxing trip up the Wailua River past lush green shores to a rain forest wonderland and visit exquisite Fern Grotto. This is an awe-inspiring natural cavern with cascading tropical ferns. So romantic is the Grotto that many couples choose to say their wedding vows there.

DAY 5 - This is your day to relax, shop and explore as you choose. One possibility is an optional tour to Waimea Canyon-the "Grand Canyon of the Pacific"—which is ten miles long and 3,657 feet deep.

DAY 6 - Today we jet to Hawaii, biggest of all the islands. From the air, we'll catch awesome views of Mauna Loa. Later, we'll leave our hotel, the Hilo Hawaiian, and go by motorcoach to Mauna Loa, traveling through Volcanoes National Park where we'll see steam escaping from Kilauea Crater. We return to tropical lushness with a tour of Nani Mau Gardens, with more than 100 varieties of tropical fruit trees and 2,000 varieties of orchids.

DAY 7 — We begin our day at a public fish auction conducted in pidgin English, then journey to breathtaking, 420-foot-high Akaka Falls. After driving north along the Laupahoehoe Coast, we'll skirt snow-capped Mauna Kea, the tallest island mountain on earth. Our next stop is the Parker Ranch, the world's largest single-family spread, with 50,000 head of cattle on 250,000 acres. After lunch at the Parker Ranch, we'll head for the fascinating Kahua Ranch, where we'll hear about a Record of Performance program involving 400 head of A.I. cattle. Then to the beautiful Hilton Hotel on the Kona Coast.

DAY 8 - Today is a free day to enjoy and experience Kona's Kailua Bay area. You may want to watch tropical fish from a glass-bottomed boat or visit the City of Refuge National Historical Park, with native temples, Polynesian ancestral statues, sacred fish ponds and a great stone wall that dates back to before Shakespeare's time. A luau feast tonight will be another of the many highlights of the tour for you.

DAY 9 — We'll leave Hawaii's Kona Coast today for a short flight back to Honolulu. This evening, we'll board our jumbo jet for our overnight flight back to the mainland.

DAY 10 — Welcome Home!

THE COST OF THIS UNFORGETTABLE TOUR is $1,498 from Birmingham. It's probably less than you'd think possible for a tour that includes outstanding deluxe-class hotels, a full-time, professional tour escort, transportation on the islands by deluxe, air-conditioned motorcoach, fantastic sightseeing, airfares between the three islands, unique farm and ranch visits and much, much more. But the folks at Southern Farm Tours have the professional ability to make arrangements that you and I could not possibly make on our own. This is a truly great opportunity to enjoy a once-in-a-lifetime vacation with friends and neighbors.

Courthouse work time extended

by Fred Guarino

Amid allegations of lunch period abuse, the Shelby County Commission has voted to change the working hours of courthouse personnel.

Commissioner Jake Morris moved Monday to change courthouse employees' working hours from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. to 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. with 30 minutes allowed for lunch.

Morris' motion also includes the sending of a letter to department heads warning that a time clock will be installed in the courthouse if the working hours of personnel cannot be controlled.

The change will go into effect with the next pay period and the warning will be sent.

The courthouse hours change was actually a compromise on the part of Morris.

His original motion was to install a time clock in the courthouse for employees; to extend the working hours until 4:30 p.m. with 30 minutes for lunch and to discharge any employee who punches a time card for any other employee.

Morris told fellow commissioners, "I've seen them (courthouse personnel) shopping... taking an hour and a half for lunch...

"I know people are not working like they should."

Commissioner Don Murphy asked if Morris was speaking of few incidents or gross abuse of lunch time.

Morris responded, "I'm talking about the whole operation

Commissioner Harold Davenport suggested that the courthouse hours be changed to include 30 minutes for lunch and to send a letter warning that a time clock may be installed.

Morris asked that his motion be voted upon. That motion received positive votes from Morris and Commissioner Alpha Lowe and negative votes from Murphy and Davenport. Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden broke the tie with a no vote.

Morris then moved to adopt a motion based upon Davenport's suggestion which passed without objection.

Ken Roberson of the courthouse data processing center asked what he would do if employees asked to be paid for the extra 30 minutes.

Morris responded, "That's the problem. They are working 7 and a half hours and getting paid for

In previous discussion, Bill Tucker of the county civil defense objected to the time clock idea and Snowden commented that things were working well as they

Murphy was in favor of a time clock if it applied to all county personnel, not just those in the

Helena students sling mud as they learn about pottery

Helena Elementary School children made a mess of themselves Friday, but learned in the process.

Sheila Horn's third grade class learned about Indians and the process of pottery making by doing from Dr. Creighton Alexander of UAB's department of industrial arts.

Alexander began as any teacher would, by going to the blackboard. But instead of writing 15 x 2 or 40 divided by 10, he drew a cut-away picture of a clay pot.

The professor explained how the children would take a slice of clay and mold it into a ball. He then told them that they would stick their thumb into the gooey substance and pinch the edges until a vessel or pot was made.

When the process began, the children squealed with laughter at the mess the clay made of their desk tops, their hands and their

Alexander explained that Indians used regular clay unlike the pottery clay used today and that they learned that food and water could be kept much longer in clay pots than they could in the open.

He further explained that the Indians discovered something by accidently dropping one of their pots into a fire. That was that pots baked in a fire were much harder and more durable than those dried in the sun.

Alexander stated that the Indians learned to put their pottery into a circle and build a fire around it, which was the basis for ceramic kilns or furnaces used to-

The children were delighted when they learned that Alexander would fire their pottery in his lab.

They also showed excitement when he told them they would be able to paint their pots with a solution of ground glass to make them slick when he baked them

He told them that the process was known as glazing.

But the children became the most excited when the professor told them they would be able to take their ceramic works home.

The children also learned something about art. That is that they could be creative and that their pots did not have to look

Alexander told the youngsters, "Do what you like. You are not all the same. Don't make your pot look like your neighbor's."

The professor told the Reporter that he periodically goes to elementary schools to teach for his former students, such as Horn.

When asked why he did it, Dr. Alexander said, "It helps the children learn a little bit about the crafts process, gives them a medium to work with and do

He said, "Many students don't have an opportunity to do these things because budget crunches cut out school art first." The professor praised Shelby County schools for their industrial arts programs and pointed to those at Pelham and Thompson High School as good examples.

He said that he goes to schools as a service for UAB but that industrial arts exposure helps a young person to figure out a career in life.

Dr. Alexander charges nothing for his service to schools, or for his supplies or time.

The visit to Helena Elementary School helped children learn a little something about Indians, how pottery is made and gave them a work of art to take home.

State employees donate $1,000 to exceptional children

"Yea!" That was the enthusiastic appreciation voiced by the 33 students Center for Exceptional Children when their program received a $1,000 donation. The Shelby County Chapter of the Alabama State Employees Association made the donation Thursday in Columbiana. The check was presented by Talmadge Butler, chapter president and Oak Mountain security supervisor, and chapter treasurer Johnnie Tidwell, an employee of the State Forestry Commission.

Association's Arts and Crafts Show, held last month at Oak Mountain. Several thousand people attended the sale. According to Butler, first year proceeds from the sale bought equipment for the Rehabilitation Recreation Center bus. Second Force on Family Violence.

The money was raised during the 4th Annual State Employees

In donating the check, Butler said, "The parents and teachers from the exceptional center came to the sale and worked so hard with us, that we'd like to give some of it back," Butler said. "Maybe they should change the name from the Center for Exceptional Children, to the Exceptional People."

Motioning to the circle of young faces around him, students who all have special needs, Butler told the Reporter, "It's the kids, mostly -- we want to help them. And the center needs lots of thousands of dollars."

As a show of their appreciation, the students and teachers gave a special program for Butler, Tidwell and others attending the presentation. The program included singing, and a play called "The Gingerbread Man."

Exceptional Center principal Beverly Hall, who was obviously surprised by the sizeable donation, said that it would go toward two special chairs for two of the students.

About 130 belong to the Shelby County State Employees Association. Statewide, the group has about 15,000 members.

Butler said the local chapter is considering making the exceptional center the recipient of its yearly arts and crafts sale.

ing in the way you'll be getting your phone these changes. And answer some of the questions you may have been asking about South Central Bell.

What's happening? A Simply put, AT&T has agreed to separate itself from the local operations of its 22 Bell operating telephone companies. So in the future, South Central Bell will no longer be affiliated with AT&T.

If South Central Bell doesn't have AT&T behind it, won't the quality of my telephone service be affected?

A You can expect the same dependable service you have now. And you'll have the same dedicated people standing behind it. You'll also have more options than ever before in terms of equipment, services and suppliers.

What will happen to my local rates? Is it true they're going to skyrocket?

Your rates are not going to skyrocket. They may continue to go up, but not because of the separation from AT&T. Increases in our costs are the main reason. For example, inflation causes increases in the cost of services and goods we use to provide phone service. And new technology in telecommunications makes it necessary for us to replace some equipment faster than in the past. Local rates will have to go up to cover part of these increased costs.

Will South Central Bell be allowed to charge whatever it wants for local calls?

A No. Local rates will still be regulated by the state's public service commission. And at South Central Bell, we will continue to do everything we can to keep these rates as low as possible.

Where will I get my telephone in the future? And who will fix it in case something goes wrong or it breaks?

At some time in the future, you will he be able to get phones from an AT&T subsidiary, other phone suppliers or possibly South Central Bell. Repair of phone equipment likely will be provided by the company that supplies the equipment. South Central Bell will continue to maintain your local telephone lines.

You may have more questions about the changes at South Central Bell. And we want to make it easy for you to get answers.

So give us a call toll free at 1 800 555-5000*, 10 a.m. - 11 p.m., Central Time, Monday through Friday. We're ready to talk.

If one of your checks has been lost, stolen or made out to the wrong person, you should stop payment on it. To do so, immediately call your bank. Give the teller the details of the check and be sure to get the tellers name for future reference. Next, it is best to confirm your request for "stop payment" in writing. While a yerbal stop payment is usually good for two weeks, a written request is usually binding for 6 months. In the event that your name is forged to a check, you will probably suffer no loss. The bank will usually make good if you can prove that you were not at fault.

Boothton-more than a dream remembered

by David F. Moore

Once upon a yesteryear there was a place called Boothton.

It was actually a company owned mining camp, and sprung up in 1915, spawned by the corporate search for coal beneath the rolling hills of western Shelby County. Boothton thrived for 35 on the business of mining coal.

But in 1950, the four mines there were closed.

No mines, no jobs. No reason for hundreds of coaling families to stay. So they packed up and moved to other places, other jobs, other lives.

The houses, offices, stores, ball field -- all were abruptly deserted. Lighted windows went dark. Homes that once rang with evening talk and laughter went silent. In short order Boothton became a ghost town, as dark and quiet as its abandoned mine shafts in the bowles of the earth.

To get to Boothton today, drive west on county highway 10 from Montevallo, through Aldrich and Pea Ridge, and when you reach the old Anita train crossing near the Bibb County line, you're there.

But Boothton's not.

Even the physical ghosts are gone. The houses were sold and moved away. What remained was later razed by strip mining. On the barren hills, in the remaining woods, you can't find enough left of the old place to kindle a campfire.

Boothton exists today only in the memories of its former residents. There's coal in their blood, and a strong, invisible bond that keeps those memories alive by drawing them and their descendents together for annual Boothton Day reunions.

This year marked the 25th such reunion. Nearly 100 folks gathered for the occasion under the "hanging tree" at highways 251 and 10. There may not have been much to see, but there was plenty to hear: Hamilton, Herman, and Mildred Stone, Maurine Birchfield, Alfred Gentry, Steve and Glennice Smitherman, Royal Scott, Luther Jordan, and many others.

They told the Boothton story...

Haul sixteen tons, what do you get? A lot of memories of a place like this:

Before Boothton, there was Boothtown. It wasn't ever as big as Boothton, but it did boast a privately owned store and a number of privately owned homes. And it did outlast Boothton. But today Boothtown's only a few houses scattered along highway 251 between "the hanging tree" and the crumpled slab crossing at the Cahaba River.

One story has it that Boothtown was founded by a Doc Booth who stowed away on a ship from Europe and eventually--via Tuscaloosa--ended up in western Shelby County. But the actual origin of Boothtown may be lost to time.

One thing's for certain: the Booths and many of the early settlers in the area came for coal.

George Peter, a Pennsylvania entrepreneur, came to Maylene in the early 1900's for the same reason. The owner of Southern Coal and Coke Company, he leased a large tract of land near Boothtown from the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company, and in 1915 set about building a new mining camp and mines there.

His timber crews cleared the land with rapid efficiency. Soon there was nothing left of the woods but burning tree stumps. Peter visited the project and the men told him they'd dubbed the place "Blazing Stumps."

No way.

An iron-willed businessman,
Peter not only said "no" to Blazing Stumps, but decreed that it never again be called by that name. Glancing figuratively over his shoulder at the community across the road, Peter said his camp would be called Boothton, and that was that.

By company-owned mining camp standards, Boothton wasn't a bad place to live. The company kept up the houses, paved one road, and even provided electricity.

But perhaps the key to Boothton's uniqueness was a

Boothton revisited in 1982

A total of 93 former residents and descendants attended the 25th Annual Boothton Day reunion October 3. The register listed the following names: Mrs. Rosa Brasher, Nellie and Randolph Ramey, Herman and Geraldine Peters, Herman Peters, Jr., Alfred and Tots Gentry, Maurine Birchfield, Eloise Terrell, Delene (Tot) Dement, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brasher, Hamilton Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Jordan, Herman and Mildred Stone, Alma Lewis, Guyma Sims, Lola Stone, Gladys Acker, James Gould, Alvin Gould, Wyman Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Smitherman, Myrtle Smitherman, Mr. Grady Raybon, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Stone, Alison and Randi Lynn Stone, Mr. and Mrs. J.D. strong sense of closeness in the community.

The company operated a commissary where one stop did it all: dry goods, groceries, meats, even coffins were available. Usually, shoppers saw a neighbor or two at the commissary.

Boothites also saw neighbors at the ice house drink stand on hot Saturdays. Neighbors also got to know each other from toiling together over coal soiled clothes at the boilers and scrub boards in the wash sheds.

The Cahaba River was only a couple of miles down the road. However, except as a place to swim, fish, or maybe go courting, it played only a small part in daily Boothton life.

The five teachers at the twostory schoolhouse prepped students for Montevallo High. There was only one church, so the Baptists and Methodists shared.

The camp consisted of 200-300 houses (the count varies, depending on who's remembering). Four separate housing areas were set up for blacks. Most houses didn't have over four bedrooms, and you could rent a three-bedroom house for $7.50 a month. Neighbors shared community wells which had buckets that poured into wooden troughs.

A company doctor kept an office in the "business district," and miners were cut $3 per month for family medical coverage.

Boss Peter lived nearby in a stately, two-story house, and cut a stately figure as he walked to the general offices in the mornings.

At the post office, barber shop, and train station, there was no mention of Blazing Stumps. This was Boothton, Alabama, and everybody was in it together.

The community center, hub of town activities, also served to bring neighbors together. Movies and community plays were always big drawing cards.

"Apple Night" was another attraction. These were monthly company meetings with entertainment programs. The company gave an apple to those who came, or sometimes a Dixie cup of ice cream.

The programs included girls from the "Angel Farm" (Alabama College, now the University of Montevallo) who played violins and such. The attempt at culture was fine, but violins often met mixed reviews from men who sweated all month in stuffy mines 1,200 feet under ground.

The mining work itself also brought Boothtonites together. During peak operations, some 500 employees from Boothton, Boothtown, Marvel, Gurnee Junction, Middletown, and other nearby communities worked the three, and later four mines at Boothton.

Work, however, wa

sometimes sporadic. Often dangerous. Always hard.

Southern Coal and Coke paid (in 1928) $1.25 per day. Pay cuts were made for insurance, commissary tabs, and rent. Miners also paid 50 cents a month for bath house privileges so they could scrub the coal dust from their pores, and 10 cents a day for the mining lamps they used to help pick their way through the dark shafts.

At one time, Boothton had the largest payroll in Shelby County. The bi-weekly $90,000 came into camp under the eyes of shotgun toting guards.

Unions helped draw people together in the early '30's, as did tough times during the Great Depression. People had to stick together.

Then, in the mid-1940's, Peter sold the mines and camp to D.A. Thomas. The name changed to Boothton Coal Mining Company, but that didn't last long.

A long, nationwide strike resulted in miners' pay eventually going to $16 a day. The strike may have helped pull miners even closer together, but many marginally profitable mines in Alabama subsequently shut down. Thomas followed suit and closed the Boothton operation in 1950.

TCI, who owned the land, wanted all buildings removed.
That was that.

Miners packed their families, packed their belongings. They left Boothton behind, and with it, a big part of their lives.

But apparently, what was left behind was so big, and the people who had shared that time and place had been drawn so close together, that even closing the mines could not erase Boothton completely.

In 1957 the late Myrtle Terrell and others organized the first Boothton Day reunion. A tradition was sparked.

Four-hundred and seven people showed up at the old town site for the first Boothton Day. As the years passed, time whittled the crowd sizes, but even after 25 years, nearly 100 people attended the reunion on October 3.

They met beneath the old "hanging tree" and talked about how it got its name, about the 1943 prank pulled by Clyde Allen, Junior Brasher and others. (On Halloween night, they slide a sling on a stray mule known as "Ol' 99," hoisted him up the tree, and left.)

They also relived tales of the mines, the school, Apple Nights, the Angel Farm, baseball teams, George Peter - a thousand memories came to light.

They saw friends and neighbors from Boothton's boom days. They ate tables of good food, shared yellowing photographs, learned who died and who had new grandchildren:

Montevallo adds police

Two new police officers were sworn in during an intermission at Montevallo's municipal court Thursday

John Bolling is a former Montevallo policeman and Ricky Richburg had worked as an investigator in the District Attorney's office in Montgomery County.

The swearing-in was performed by Municipal Judge Eason Mitchell:

On the court docket, Joe Davis Sparks' name headed the list. His driving under the influence charge was dismissed since circumstances prevented a PEI test from being given.

Sparks was fined $227.50 for driving while revoked and was given a 180 day sentence which was suspended. He was fined $37.50 for running a stop sign with probation for three days at hard labor.

A driving while suspended charge also resulted in a $227.50 fine and a 15 day suspended jail sentence for Johnny Keith Barnett.

Bryan Carl Brewer was fined $327 for DUI, given probation for a sentence of 30 days at hard labor and ordered to attend DUI school.

Charlie Odell Godfrey was fined $327.50 for DUI, given probation for five days at hard labor and ordered to sign up for the DUI counterattack program.

David Logan was given probation on a 180 days at hard labor sentence after pleading guilty to public intoxication. The judge also ordered him to report to the court counselor once a month, to attend weekly AA meetings, to obey the law, and to refrain from the consumption of any alcoholic beverages.

Jody Mills was found guilty of public intoxication, received a $67.50 fine and filed notice of appeal. The judge let the jail time Keith Lawson Childers had served suffice for a guilty plea to public intoxication, but fined him $77.50 for criminal mischief.

Fred Calhoun Williams III will be sentenced for public intoxication on November 17.

Arthur Anderson was fined $87.50 for attempt to pass a bad check; Jack Austin Broadway Jr. was found guilty of attempting to pass a bad check and fined court costs of $27.50; a NWNI (bad check) charge was dismissed against Mark E. Crawford with the payment of $27.50 in court Jeffrey L. Sanders was fined $37.50 for passing in a prohibited zone; Roger Dale Bass Jr. was fined $37.50 for having an expired tag.

Lions take Christian Athletic Conference title

"We got the state. We got the Alabama Christian Athletic Constate. We got the state."

That was the resounding cheer raised by the Briarwood Lions, Saturday night, after they defeated Cathedral 19-8 for the ference championship.

The victory on their home field gave the Lions a 9-1 season mark, a title, and sweet revenge all at the same time.

Earlier this season Briarwood fell to Cathedral for its only loss of the year 12-3.

The title won Saturday night marks the second time the Lions have taken state honors.

The private school's victory can truly be celebrated by football fans in this county.

Not only is Briarwood located off Cahaba Valley Road in north Shelby but some 10 members of the winning squad are residents of this county.

They are Jeff Nelson, Kevin Kynerd, Craig Collier, Art Hickman, Brad Byers, Ronnie Haynes, John Gunn, Mike Mulvaney, Ken Preston and Peter Clemens.

Nelson and Collier proved to be real assets in the Cathedral

The Lions took a 13-0 lead in the first half with the assistance of big plays.

Craig Collier set up the first score in the first quarter when he returned a Cathedral punt to their 38 yard line.

Jeff Nelson ran 38 yards to pay dirt on the very next play and Rob Holmes added the bonus Briarwood led 7-0.

Collier also had a hand in the second score. He returned a punt to the Cathedral 20 yard line in the second quarter.

On the next play Steve Lindsey ripped 20 yards for the touchdown. A two point conversion attempt failed but the Lions had the momentum of the game on their side.

Cathedral made its only points of the night in the third quarter on an 11 yard play. A two point conversion attempt was good and Nelson assisted again in the final touchdown of the night.

Bobby Welch punched the ball forward two more yards on the next play and Bric Baker capped the short drive by scoring from five yards out.

Hibbs reflected on the battle saying, "It was a team effort. There is nobody you could single out. There were a heck of a lot of big plays."

When asked what winning the final contest of the season meant to his squad, the coach said, "It is good for the seniors. It leaves them something positive to think about when they are old and gray."

He added, "Especially with the rivalry between Chelsea and Vincent, this is something that no one can take from them."

For the younger players, the coach said, "It gives the sophomores and juniors something they can build on. In the off season, weight lifting will go much quicker. It will give them momentum to work out and to get better.'

About Vincent, Hibbs said, "I've got all the respect in the world for Coach Harold Garrett and his kids.

"Last year was a nip and tuck game. This year was one too. When Vincent and Chelsea play each other, you can throw out the X's and O's. The kids win the game and there is no way the coaching comes into it."

Chelsea was not the only high school in this county to pull an upset in their final football contest.

The Pelham Panthers concluded the 1982 season last Friday by knocking off Chilton County 20-19 in overtime.

Gary Howard, who suffered an ankle injury and was taken out of the contest, booted the winning extra point.

The win gave the Panthers a 3-7 season mark. Chilton County ended the year with a 5-4-1 tally.

Coach Billy Tohill said after the game, "I was just so pleased...for our kids played awful hard against a team that had more talent and was much big-

"It will be a confidence builder for our team overall, a positive note to start the off season weight lifting program on, and something to carry into spring training."

The contest did not get off to a good beginning for Pelham. Chilton County scored in the first

Calera Eagles defeat Isabella, to play for Region 4 title

The Calera Eagles will play for the Area 8 Region 4 Class A football title tomorrow night in Montgomery.

The Eagles won the opportunity for regional playoff competition Friday night when they blasted Isabella 35-0 on the road. The win crowned the Eagles as champions of Area 8 and boosted their season win record to 8-2.

Coach Danny Alverson said of his team, "We went out Friday night in the area championship game and put together 459 yards total offense. Edward Wilson was outstanding, carrying the ball 15 times for 123 yards. He gained over 1,000 yards this season." The coach went on to say that Tony Faucett turned in a super performance by carrying the ball 13 times for 103 yards and James Blanchard completed seven of ten passes for 158 yards.

Calera struck early in the contest, driving 81 yards in nine plays on its first possession. Danny Campbell scored by bulling into the endzone from one yard out and Ricky Posey added the bonus point.

Wilson proved the driving force of that drive as he carried the ball five times for 60 yards.

The Eagles scored again with 28 seconds remaining in the first half. This time Calera drove 62 yards in 13 plays. Daryl Griffith scored from one yard out and Posey added the point after touchdown. Continuing domination into the second half, Calera scored in the third period on a five play 41 yard drive. Wilson scored from eight yards out and the point after was good.

On their next possession, the Eagles drove 62 yards in 13 plays with Tony Faucett scoring form three yards out. The extra point was good.

The final touchdown of the night came in the fourth quarter when James Blanchard tossed a 24 yard pass to Todd Killingsworth. The play capped an 11 play 59 yard drive and with the point after good, the Eagles took home a 35-0 win.

With basketball season a little more than two weeks away now is the time to make your plans to attend all Falcons and Lady Falcons home games.

Head coach Dr. Bill Elder and assistant Terry Sellers have put together an exciting team, a tough schedule and some fun promotions and give-a-ways that will make Myrick Hall the place to be during the 1982-83 basketball season.

One promotion and give away on tap this year is:

The Great Kentucky Fried Chicken Shootout! Three (3) lucky fans at each men's home contest will be chosen for a chance to win a 1983 Honda Civic. To be eligible fans will pick up an entry form at Kentucky Fried Chicken in Montevallo before each home game and drop the form in a box in the lobby of Myrick Hall before the game. The lucky fans will then shoot a lay-up, free throw, a shot from the top of the key and from half court. If they make them all they will be the proud owner of a 1983 Honda Civic. The 105-lb. Cougars suffered the only loss of the day for Columbiana falling to Vincent 18-14.

Vincent jumped out to a 16-0 lead before Kip Horton and Patrick Green scored two touchdowns. But the Vincent defense stop-better jumper than most high school players, kept scoring with a two-handed set shot. "We changed that to a one-handed jump shot. The other shot was flat, straight like a bullet. This shot has more arc." Learning it, the coach and Gaddis explained, helps the relatively short player get up and over the taller opponents she'll face in college play.

"I can jump, and I think that makes up for my height," Gaddis said. "I don't know what I'd do if I couldn't jump."

Both freshmen brought armloads of high school honors with them to the university. Perkins was All-County, All Tournament, at Montevallo High School. She was elected "friendliest" of the 1982 seniors, played in the Marching Troubadors Band, was vice president of the Drama Club, treasurer of the Honor Society and a member of the Student Council.

Gaddis was also a two-year Honor Society member (only juniors and seniors are eligible), and was a three-year All-Area selection in basketball. She also was All-County twice and All-Area MVP last year. She earned letters in basketball, track and volleyball. After finishing fifth in the state discus throw, she was named 1982 track MVP. Gaddis also is listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students.

The transition from 'Big-duck-little-puddle' doesn't bother her, Gaddis said. "They don't depend on me here as much as they did in high school. They expected me to bring the ball down and then shoot it. Here, I concentrate on bringing the ball down.

"I like it now that I am getting the idea. The thing about college I like is that everybody is good. I like measuring myself against tougher players. Like that scrimmage (against Stillman)...I wasn't happy with the way I played, not happy at all."

Gaddis grins, then admits that, "no, not very often" is she happy with the way she plays and "yes" (emphatically) she is very critical herself and her game

"My mother couldn't have taken it if two of us left home at the same time," Perkins said. Her twin sister, Robyn, is a boarding student at the University of Alabama. Separation is tougher on twins than other siblings, psychologists claim, and Perkins goes along with that, "I miss my sister. This is the first time we've ever been separated. I have our room all to myself, but it's kind of lonely. I go over to the dorm (Brooke) a lot to spend the night with the other girls on the team."

Perkins said that she, like Gaddis, looks forward to measuring herself against the tougher college competition. "I like the idea of traveling, too. Like the trip to Orlando (Sun Roast Classic) over Thanksgiving." Gaddis said that she elected to

Raiders win county shootout with Rebels

The Raiders of Shelby Academy and the Rebels of Coosa Valley Academy squared off Friday night in a real cross county shootout.

The contest was the last of the season for both teams and to them, it was as big as Alabama versus Auburn.

SCHS plays Jemison tough

by Richard Crosby

The 1982 season finally ended last Friday for the Wildcats of Shelby County. The Jemison Panthers completed their unblemished season by beating Columbiana 14-6.

The loss wasn't as disappointing as it might seem though. Shelby County kept the Jemison attack at bay almost the entire game. The Wildcats even had a chance of upsetting the playoff bound Panthers.

Shelby County had a golden opportunity in the opening minute of the game as Jemison fumbled the kickoff. The Wildcats had the ball within ten yards of a touchdown but couldn't budge the line of scrimmage from there. On fourth down, Ronald Benton missed a field goal and Curtis Sherman's fumble recovery went for naught.

The Panthers took over on the 20 and marched downfield for The PAT made the count 7-0.

Shelby County also showed some defensive muscle late in the second quarter, pushing Jemison back until the Panthers had fourth down and 40 yards to go. Despite those efforts, the Wildcats remained scoreless in the first half.

The second stanza of the game continued more of the first batworst enemy as fumbles and interceptions plagued its drives.

Jemison drove toward the Wildcat's goal early in the third period. After four first downs, the Panthers seemed to bog down. On a lateral pass, the

> A few plays later Shelby County was again guilty of a turnover as Jemison intercepted a pass. That turnover led to the second Panther score of the night and the tally was 14-0.

The Wildcats retaliated with a score of their own on the ensuing kickoff. From their own 34, Shelby County marched to the goal line. Ambrose Woods sparktle. Shelby County was its own ed the drive with a gallup of 47 yards down the sidelines. Curtis Sherman got the call for the touchdown run from six yards out. The conversion pass failed leaving the final score of the season 14-6 in favor of Jemison. The loss was the ninth for the Wildcats whose only victory came against Montevallo.

When the smoke cleared, the Raiders claimed a 28-13 win on Coosa Valley Academy turf that was closer than it appeared.

On a frozen field, with foggy breaths of air smoking from each player's helmet, the score stood Raiders 14 and Rebels 13 at the end of the third quarter.

Coosa Valley's squad was reported to have already been injury ridden before the game began.

Dennis Attaway took the Raider helm but was unable to throw and it was up to the defense and a pure running attack for Shelby Academy to pull away from the gap closing Pull away the Raiders did.

The Raiders faced first and ten at their own 25 yard line to begin the fourth quarter. Momentum had shifted to the Rebels who had just scored.

But on the first play of the final period Brian Russell was handed the ball by Attaway and ripped 75 yards for a touchdown down the Coosa Valley sidelines.

Russell was stopped on a two point conversion play but the score stood Shelby Academy 20, Coosa Valley Academy 13.

Both sides were unable to move on their next possessions, but lightning was about to strike.

Ray returned the interception for a touchdown. Russell added a two point conversion and the contest wound to a close with the Raiders leading 28-13.

The Raiders opened the contest by driving 60 yards for the first touchdown of the night. Raider quarterback Silvani scored from seven yards out and a bonus point attempt was good.

Still in the first quarter, the Raiders upped their lead by driving 87 yards on their next posses-

Keith Knowles scored from 20 yards out at the first period buzzer and the point after was good.

The first half closed with the score Raiders 14, Rebels nothing.

But the Rebels came out shooting in the third period to drive 64 yards for a touchdown.

Kevin Garrett hit Joel Richey for a 21 yard touchdown strike. Rodney Spates made the point after touchdown good.

The score stood Raiders 14. Rebels 7.

The Rebels drove 58 yards on their next possession to score again. Johnny Whitehead scored from four yards out.

A two point conversion attempt failed but with only nine seconds left in the third period, the score was Raiders 14, Rebels

However, the Rebels never got any closer.

Coosa Valley Coach Gary Franks was disappointed about the outcome of the contest but proud of his team's effort. He said, "I felt our kids played as well as they could." He explained, "We had five or six starters out at the beginn-

Franks added, "If only we had a little more experience."

Shelby Academy's DeWayne Kervin was glad to take home a win of any sort.

He said of the contest, "When Silvani broke his collar bone, the score was 14-13. They went for two and we were on the verge of losing it. "But later Brian Russell broke 75 yards for the biggest play of the night and the defense saved the game when Carl Ray picked off a pop pass and took it to the endzone.

"Tonight we played maybe not that fundamentally sound but emotionally when our backs were against the wall."

The Raiders closed the 1982 season tied for fourth in the state in their classification and with a winning 6-4-1 season.

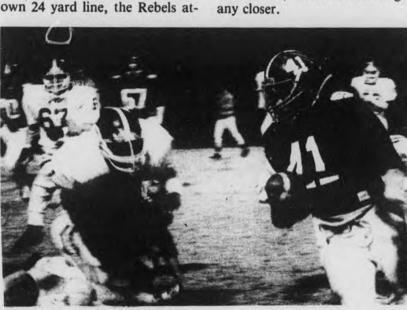

Coosa Valley wrapped up 1982 with a 3-6-1 mark.

Does football have place in school?

Part I by Fred Guarino

Football builds character. discipline, and teamwork, ingredients necessary for success in County football coaches often make that statement, or a variation of it. According to a Reporter survey of Shelby County school principals, it is true.

Football takes away from the academic excellence of learning institutions and their students.

The same survey indicates that principals do not believe that favorite remark of football

Asked by the Reporter to comment on their football programs, Shelby County principals had the following to say:

Wayne Lowe of Vincent High School:

"The program is not going to do anything for us financially.... The program overcame a deficit of several thousand dollars which

"But the program teaches a team concept, increases the pride of students and self discipline. We have been emphasizing 'Jacket Pride' and 'I love VHS.'

"The football program gives the kids something to rally around. It promotes racial relations. Our team is pulling together and playing as a unit."

Lowe continued, "Football promotes the idea of kids having the initiative to want to learn. Football teaches and students learn that school is more than the individual.

"One of the biggest things is that it brings the parents back to the school,"

Norman Payne of Montevallo

"It is so helpful to school spirit. I think we have outstanding coaches who build character and Coach Richard Gilliam is an outstanding Christian witness.

"The program adds to the whole school."

Payne added, "The football program does pay for itself and also helps pay for the baseball program at Montevallo High School.

"I think it gives the kids something to look forward to and to work for... I think it is a big part of the total school program."

Dr. Edwin Belue of Pelham High School said:

"The football program as all sports in general provides a rallying for school pride.

"The football program here has had its ups and downs and it is definitely on the up. We have one of the most stable coaching staffs in high school athletics and I look forward to the next couple years with the program building and becoming a major com-

"The program does pay for itself and helps all other sports.

"It teaches cooperation, teamwork and discipline. We live in a world where discipline is not as highly thought of as it was in the days of our mothers and fathers. Athletics provides that old fashioned concept that people who are disciplined are successful."

Dr. Belue said, "I have seen many young men change their whole value system as the result of athletics. Without it we would see a much less enthusiastic student body.

"Athletics is a way students express their school pride."

Don Bulger of Shelby County High School:

"I do feel all football programs are good for school spirit. They go along with band. They give the students a chance to be for something and back something through good and "Sometimes it can be taken a little too seriously concerning winning...

"Athletics, band, drama, all are integral parts of the school program. I think that it gives you something that you would mniss without it ... unity and togetherness.

"I think it teaches a man a lot of life. To be good in sports you must sacrifice and pay a price. If you are not willing, you may not be willing later in life."

"I don't feel everyone is cut out to play sports. But anyone who wants to will enjoy it and benefit from it. Band is the same. Both teach discipline."

Concerning finances, Bulger said, "It is a problem sometimes when you have a losing season. Our program has got to pay for itself. Our booster club put up stadium lights, built the stadium and the field.

But he concluded, "I feel all our extra curricular activities are very good for students. Sports does not take away from academics because some of our best students are athletes and some of our best teachers are coaches."

Brad Stephens of Chelsea, School:

"The football program supports other programs financially. But we receive a lot of help from our booster club. If it were not for boosters, it would be very dif-

Dedication helps fishermen win

It takes dedication and incentive to fish in the winter.

Two men from Bessemer had both Saturday at Camp Waxahatchie in Shelby County.

The true fishermen were not hard to spot.

They were putting a boat into the water on a Saturday morning when temperatures were so low their boat controls froze.

They were the ones who stayed out from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. under such conditions. Jerry Lee and Bo Grimes were the two who met all of the requirements.

The incentive to fish under such conditions?

They were among eight boat loads of men trying for $500 in prize money offered by the camp for the most fish caught, trophies for that achievement, and a trophy for catching the biggest fish of the day.

The men won with ease. Lee and Grimes hauled in 18 pounds of fish, nine bass.

They also hauled in the largest bass which weighed six pounds. What were they using to make the haul?

The men reluctantly admitted..."top water plugs."

Just behind Lee and Grimes were Ricky Byars and Tommy McKinnon of Chilton County, second place and Mike and Gene Bullock of Bessemer, third place.

All eight boats paid a $54 entry fee which did not cover the cost of the prize money. But Ivy Hyche who runs Camp

Waxahatchie with his wife Lillian said, "When we say we are going to give something away, we stand behind it." Hyche said of the small turnout, "Cold weather caught us. In the past we have had as many $109.25, Brian Ward who raised $105, and Marnie Rutledge who raised $69.50.

Jackson presented a check for the amount of the pledges to Diggs, Tuesday, November 2 at Helena Elementary School.

used to rob bank

by David F. Moore

The note on the Wilsonville bank door Friday read: "Closed today due to robbery." By Saturday afternoon the note was gone and a Shelby County man was in jail, facing federal charges for the sawed-off shotgun holdup.

Monday, a second arrest was made in the case.

Billy Joe Montgomery, 54, was arrested by sheriff's investigators around noon Saturday. According to Sheriff Buddy Glasgow, a sawed-off .20 gauge shotgun and most the stolen money was found in the woods behind Montogmery's house on highway 333 south of Chelsea.

Montgomery was tracked down by sheriff's investigators, FBI special agent Cecil Moses, and Wilsonville PD Chief Sherman Humphries, Glasgow said. Eyewitnesses and watchful area residents, as well as pictures from a bank camera, were instrumental in the quick arrest.

Wylene Peal, 28, of Columbiana, was arrested Monday in connection with the robbery.

The holdup occurred about 9:55 Friday morning at the Wilsonville branch of the First National Bank of Columbiana. Sheriff reports and eyewitness accounts reconstruct the story this way:

A mustachioed man wearing a cowboy hat, tan leather sport coat, tan pants, and cowboy boots, walked into the office carrying a long, white box that appeared to have cut flowers in it.

"He was walking kind of fast, strutting," recalled teller Renee' Lansford, one of four bank employees working that morning. He asked if Mr. Brasner was in. I said "yes," and he walked on back. I thought he knew Mr. Brasher."

Branch manager Edwin Brasher was inside his small office at the rear of the main room, talking with one of three customers in the bank at the time.

"Rather than stopping and doing his robbing as he came in, he walked into my office and whipped out his gun (from the flower box)," Brasher said. "That's why I thought he was just going to shoot me."

"It was a very harrowing experience," Brasher told the Reporter. "I don't remember what I said, but I let him know I didn't want to be killed today. This would not have been a good day to get shot."

"I was scared," said Greg Sims, who was with Brasher in the office. "I'd be crazy not to be. It (the shotgun) looked like a cannon."

One teller stayed hidden inside the bank vault during the few minutes it took the other employees to empty their cash drawers. Bank officials would not disclose the amount stolen, except to say that it was "small."

"He tore out from around the side of the bank and missed an elderly couple in front of us by two or three feet," Thomas told the Reporter. "We started to chase him but we saw Edwin (Brasher) running from the bank. He said the man had a shotgun and asked us not to chase him. Terry probably could have caught him."

Carter said the man was driving a 1977, silver, short-hooded Grand Prix.

"I notice any kind of car," Carter said after talking with FBI agents. "I passed the same guy about 9:30 on (highway) 25 -- I guess he was coming from Columbiana."

Carter said the man left Wilsonville, driving north on highway 61.

A few hours later, acting on a tip from a resident who had been monitoring police radio transmissions, deputies found the car near highway 56, 2.3 miles from the bank. The car was stolen November 3 from Midfield Auto Auction, Glasgow said.

Another area resident reported spotting a mid-'70's model, white-over-blue Cadillac parked earlier where the Grand Prix was found. Glasgow said the Cadillac description, suspect descriptions, and images on the bank film led investigators to Montgomery.

Glasgow said the man has been previously convicted on felony charges. A search warrant was issued Saturday and Montgomery was arrested after the money and gun were found.

Peal, who has been previously charged with menancing, was arrested Monday for allegedly driving the Cadillac. She is in federal custody in Birmingham in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Montgomery was transferred from the county jail Tuesday for bond hearing before a federal magistrate in Birmingham. His bond was unknown at press time.

Johnnie G. Lemley points to the spot where he found a babies body at the county landfill.

Landfill operator finds dead infant

by Fred Guarino

Shelby County authorities have ruled the death of a baby found at the county landfill near Columbiana a homicide.

The tragic discovery was made by landfill bulldozer operator Johnnie Givhan Lemley.

Lemley, who has worked for the county for over 20 years, said his feelings upon making the find couldn't be expressed. He said simply, "unbelieveable."

Lemley wanted to make it clear that the baby had not been dumped at the landfill originally. He said that the area in which it was found had been clean until a Columbiana and state garbage trucks came in and dumped their

The operator said, "I pushed off where the city had dumped and backed up and discovered that baby lying within ten feet of the tractor.'

Reflecting on the fateful afternoon, he said, "At first I saw its nose, ear and little hand. At first I thought it was a dog then I saw the nose and ear and discovered it was a human."

Lemley said that he motioned for gate keeper John Leemon, Sr. at approximately 2:15 p.m. to call the sheriff.

He stated that the infant was not touched until county coroner Billy Thompson arrived and no one but Thompson touched it.

The operator said,"I asked him if I had killed the baby, but Thompson told me the baby had been dead between four and six Lemley said, "I don't know the words that would be proper to express my feelings. It was a great shock...unexpected."

The operator offered that the baby was fully developed, "a girl...blond headed. I've raised seven. It was a beautiful baby."

Lemley said that all of his children were born at home and that is why he knew it was fully developed.

He said that he had worked for the county at its first landfill near Calera and drove the first garbage truck purchased by the county. He said that he had never seen anything like this before.

The gate keeper agreed that the infant came from a Columbiana dumpster.

Leemon said, "He (Lemley) made one swipe and boogered it up a little. One of its little legs was missing. It was a full nine month baby. He hollered for me to get the sheriff."

An investigation is underway by the sheriff's department.

Inmates lead police on high speed chase

by David F. Moore "It was a hell of a chase."

State inmate Michael Beck made that comment last Thursday as Shelby County jailers searched and booked him following an escape escapade that involved hijacking a sheriff's van and a Jemison woman's Oldsmobile, high-speed shooting on I-65, two road blocks and eventual apprehension by Calera police.

Law officers from the state, two counties, and several municipalities were involved in the wild, 30 minute spree. There were no injuries.

According to Shelby County Sheriff Buddy Glasgow, jail reports, radio tranmissions monitored during the chase, and Calera Chief Harry Deal, the incident unfolded this way:

Earlier in the day, deputy Bobby Boyd, corrections officer Beverly Frye, and reservist Pat Bailey picked up five inmates from around the state, all of whom faced additional court charges in Shelby County.

Beck and David E. Hayes, both of Birmingham, were picked up at Kilby Prison and a state Alabaster Methodists facility in Elmore County, respectively. Reginald Dates of Vincent and James Arthur Jeffcoat of Westover were retrieved from Frank Lee Youth Center, and Steve Buckner of Columbiana was picked up at Montgomery County Jail.

The prisoners were already serving time for robbery, burglary and theft.

In the van, Beck somehow managed to free a hand from his handcuffs and grab Bailey's .38 revolver.

With the loaded leverage, the inmates also took Boyd's .38, then forced the three officers out of the van at Gene's Marina on highway 145 near I-65 in Chilton County. That was about 1:25 The inmates continued in the sheriff's van toward Shelby County before stopping two women in an Oldsmobile. With guns pulled, three of the inmates took the car belonging to Irene Bittinger of Jemison and doubled back towards I-65.

Inmates Buckner and Jeffcoat apparently decided not to run, but remained in the van, still wearing handcuffs.

By now Boyd had notified law officers of the escape, and Bittinger had called from a residence nearby about her hijacking. Police from Calera and Jemison, deputies from Shelby and Chilton Counties, and state troopers rapidly converged on the area.

The fleeing inmates turned north on I-65, and were quickly spotted by Jemison Police Chief Jeff Townsend who gave chase at high speed. At 1:42 Townsend radioed that several shots had been fired unsuccessfully in an attempt to force the inmates to

Two Calera squad cars and a state trooper car had set up a road block in the northbound lane near highway 25. The fleeing inmates apparently spotted the blockade, did a 180° turn in the median and sped south.

The lawmen followed. Chief Deal and officer Billy O'Bryan, riding in the fastest of the three squad cars, chased the Olds' at speeds in excess of 120 mph for about 10 miles. They finally forced the inmates to stop 1.5 miles north of the Jemison exit, where apparently another road block had been set by state troopers and deputies from Shelby and Chilton County.

The car's motor was still running as Deal approached the stopped car, so Deal fired two shots: one into the left rear tire to stop a possible escape, the other into a brakelight.

"These guys were armed felon prisoners and they weren't following orders," Deal told the Reporter. "I didn't want them making a Jackrabbit escape."

Other lawmen were quickly on the scene and the three inmates were taken to the Shelby County

Buckner and Jeffcoat were ed him about 30 minutes later. "I reportedly still in the van when authorities retrieved them a short

"You'll have a lot more than that, now," deputy Carl Overton told him.

Jailhouse explanation

'I hope the others tell the truth," inmate David Hayes told deputy Carl Overton and Vincent chief George Humphries while he was booked Thursday. Hayes said he was forced at gunpoint to join two inmates in a futile hijack escape attempt. Two other inmates in the hijacked van, however, did not flee when the others commandeered a second vehicle. ### Petition asks mayor of Calera to resign

by Fred Guarino

was asked to resign from office Monday night.

A capacity crowd packed Calera City Hall as the petition signed by over 300 persons was handed to the mayor by Howard Hughes.

Hughes thanked the crowd for coming out to see how its government was run. He told Prichard, "We don't blame you for the petition is for your resignation as mayor."

Prichard stood up and took the petition from Hughes. He folded it and put it into his pocket. His only comment was, "I will take it under consideration."

The mayor declined to comment on the petition.

One lady was heard to say, "They are pretty smart and pretty dumb too,"

Earlier in the meeting, a man in the crowd asked to have the floor. Prichard responded, "No sir. The time will come."

Upon acceptance of the petieverything that has happend... tion, Prichard asked the council if it had further business to discuss. As there was nothing left to handle, the meeting was adjourned to the obvious surprise of the crowd.

in addition, four new classrooms will be included, along with office space for the pastor and secretary.

The building will be constructed of masonry. It is designed to serve the needs of handicapped citizens, and will be energyefficient. Rev. Tom Hammons, pastor, said that the present church has long since been outgrown by its membership.

Planning has been underway on the project for at least two years. Rev. Tom Hammons, has worked with the administrative council, headed by Phil Gamgle, and the building committee, chaired by Don McClure, in determining how the church could better serve the needs of its members and the community.

Other committee members who have been instrumental in the planning are Charles Wagers, Robert Jones and Bill Higdon.

Higdon, who is also finance committee chairman, said that the church will offer sale $300,000 worth of bonds. They will include both the coupon and compound types, and will yield from 11 to 12 percent interest. The bonds will mature at different rates, from 6 months to 15 years. They are registered with the State of Alabama Security and Exchange Commission.

The bonds will be available to its members and to any other interested persons at a meeting on Sunday, November 21 at 7 p.m. Additional information: 663-0509, 663-1621.

Former drug dealer speaks at Pelham

A cocaine dealer paid a visit to Pelham High School Tuesday afternoon.

But this dealer did not come to see kids purchase his supply. Instead, he came to tell them how crazy people are who sell drugs and where the trade landed him.

The visitor was Jack Babashoff, a former University of Alabama swimmer who was arrested in March of 1980 for possession with intent to sell cocaine.

For his efforts, Babashoff was sentenced to ten years in prison.

He had been a silver medalist in the 100 meter free style in the 1976 Olympics; a four time All American at the University of Alabama, and in 1977 he swam the fastest in the world for the 100 meter free style.

Babashoff is scheduled to be paroled in January. Until that time, he is serving time in Shelby County jail and is speaking in county schools.

Arrangements were made by Bob McGregor, the assistant Shelby County district attorney, who was a swim team coach at UA when Babashoff was there.

McGregor said

JACK BABASHOFF

Babashoff's being in Shelby County was a joint effort among his office, the Tuscaloosa district attorney, Sheriff Buddy Glasgow, and school Superintendent Charles Knowles.

Babashoff told the Reporter that he sold cocaine because he was broke. He stated that he did not use cocaine seriously and did not purchase the substance himself.

The former swimmer said that he simply sold the drug for a cut in the take. He stated firmly that he knew no one in the operation other than his co-defendant.

Babashoff told the Pelham youngsters that the Tuscaloosa jail was a rough place. He stated that from there he was sent to Bryce Hospital.

His next stop was Kilby Prison where he was hit in the head with a glass for sitting in another inmate's chair.

From there, he said he went to Draper Prison.

He said, "The place was a total mad house. It was loud all the time. The library was the quietest place and even it was loud at times."

He said there were 90 people to a floor in the dorms and that there was a fight going on there all the time.

He said, "I was never so happy as when the guards told me I was going to Shelby County. Considering some of the places I have been it is pretty nice."

He said, "Anyone who sells drugs is crazy. Drug traffickers 'are treated like rapists; no work release and no pre-discretionary release."

He warned the young people that it was easy to be caught. He said, "If you make a lot of money, people will become envious of you and rat on you. There are plenty of other ways to make money."

He concluded, "If only I had waited and eaten a few more peanut butter and jelly sandwiches."

Calera industrial board receives grant

Calera's industrial development board will receive $50,000 from the city for industrial development, to be paid over the next five years.

The grant was opposed during Monday's city council meeting,

The money will come from ten percent interest paid to the city by Abex on a $220,750 expansion

However, the funds will not come without strings attached. The board must purchase land within one year of the time the money becomes available, and the money must be used within three years.

A failure on the part of the board to purchase land and to utilize the funds will result in their reverting back to control of the city.

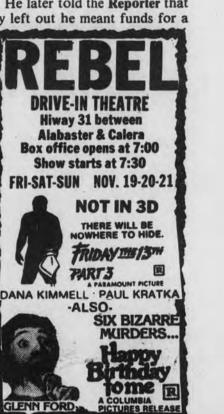

The motion to grant the money to the industrial development board was made by Councilman Doug LeSueur and seconded by Councilman W. B. Watts.

LeSueur made the move after Watts insisted that the city get some assurance that the money will be used and not be held idle. Capital Outlay

Over the objection of Watts, the city approved a 1982-'83 capital outlay budget of $102,771.

Watts wanted to know why the fire department and the rescue department were left out of the budget.

He later told the Reporter that by left out he meant funds for a small pumper and for a rescue truck were not included.

Mayor Carl Prichard responded, "The finance committee said we could not afford it."

Watts stated that the decision of the finance committee was no good unless it was aired before the council. He said. "Our rescue unit is immobile and our fire department units are real old."

The mayor reminded Watts that $8,000 was included in the budget for rescue equipment.

After the council meeting, Watts told this newspaper that fire and resuce units would be something the city could use for 20 years.

He pointed out that one of the city's fire trucks is a 1947 model and the other is a 1960 model and that neither one is rated.

He said one of the city's rescue units is a 1942 or '43 model and the other is a 1969 model.

According to Watts, "There is no point in spending $8,000 for equipment if you can't get it to the place where it is needed. It doesn't do you any good."

The capital outlay budget items

Fire Department; $2,450 less equipment already purchased,$1,229 pagers, hose ramps, $1,221:

Library; shelves, $1,500; Recreation Building; renovation of inside rec hall and parking lot this budget year. Will renovate rec hall and library exterior in subsequent years, $50,000;

Street Department; one half compressor and one trailer, $4,725: Shop, fence and tools, $4,300: Gas Department; one half air compressor, trailer and generator, $5,225: Apartment complex, street opening, $20,000: Park benches, $600. Accounts Payable

Over the objection of LeSueur, the council approved accounts payable. LeSueur was upset that the accounts included seed and fertilizer for Pilgreen Drive and roofing materials for the rescue building.

He said, "I objected when these were brought before the council and now. They were not part of any budget."

Other Actions

Maintenance Supervisor David Jones was given permission to secure a land surveyor for street pavement in the annexed area near the Parkside Inn.

A second phone was approved for the maintenance shop, subject to agreement by the water department to be responsible for part of the cost.

The mayor agreed to contact the water board about a request from fire chief James Miles for two additional fire plugs.

The council approved the writing of a resolution commending the Calera football team and its coaches for reaching the state playoffs.

It was also agreed that the deed to 46 acres of additional land for the city's park would be presented to the park and recreation department at half-time during Calera's playoff game tomorrow night. This is subject to time allowances.

Sterrett system plugs major water leak

by David F. Moore

Water board phones have stopped ringing in the Sterrett-Vandiver area. That means one

"We've got our water problem solved," water board chairman Jake Waller told the Reporter.

The problem proved to be a major break in a three-inch main that has apparently been pumping water into a creek ever since April -- at an estimated rate of two million gallons per month.

Waller said the leak was discovered Sunday about 1:30, and was repaired in two and half

The leak, Waller said, was at a residence near the end of water line on highway 45. Because the former residents had moved, and the water was washing into a creek, the leak went undetected.

By checking consumption records for the Sterrett-Vandiver Water System, Waller said it appeared that the leak had been there since April.

Many people on the system have had only muddy water, or even no water at all, on and off all summer. The problem became widespread during the dry month of October.

"There was a hole in that line p.m. in Reynolds Theatre.

big enough to drop a shovel straight down into it," Waller said.

He said service had been restored to all 516 customers. Tuesday morning the system's 200,000 gallon water tank was up to half full.

With the system back in full swing. Waller said he expects work to resume soon on a new well and pump that were shut down because of the depleted water table.

"We will continue to develop the new well now so we'll have plenty of water to serve new customers," Waller said.

However, the water boiling advisory for customers on the system remains in effect until further notice, a health department official said late Tuesday.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

Church, Willis Oakes and I, on a day that was made especially for bird hunters. A soft November day with every tree and bush spruced up in multi-colored dresses. A little wind was blowing, a lazy wind that tarried in a sweetgum, shaking the red and lavender leaves. A warm gentle wind that felt good on your face and inside the neck of your shirt.

"I hope it doesn't get too hot," Willis said, letting his dog out. He picked up his gun and got shells out of a box and put them in his pocket. He breeched his gun and looked down both barrels. "A fellow can't be too sure about a loaded gun," he said. "Or an unloaded gun either. Some folks say they'll kill you the quickest, but I don't know about that."

He snapped his gun shut and we started out. The trees and bushes were so pretty a fellow almost wanted to just stand still and look. In a wateroak, with the brown leaves waving in the wind, a squirrel ran out on a limb. He found an acorn and darted back, a flutter of bark drifting down.

"When you're bird hunting, you see squirrels,"I said. "And if you're squirrel hunting, you'll see birds." A hawk flew over, screaming, and suddenly there was no sound.

Scrambled

We got out at Florence The peter birds that had fussed at us farther back were quiet now. Two jaybirds in a wateroak were still and silent. The hawk screamed again, further up the hollow, and the woods came alive.

"If he'd been closer," Willis said, "I'd have shot 'im. but they know better than the man who made the gun how far a gun'll shoot."

A rabbit had squatted under a clump of sage. He was as still as a stick except for his nose that moved letting the air in and out. His bright eyes stared at us, unblinking, and followed us as we passed.

"Remember how good rabbit tasted when we were boys?"

Willis didn't answer. He was looking up at the road, at a sage hill. Halfway up the west side, his dog had found birds. We started towards him. The rabbit slipped from behind the sage and bounced off through the grass.

"Which side you want?" Willis asked.

We were close behind the dog now. I scuffed the leaves with my foot and the birds flushed. I shot twice. I looked at Willis and he had a funny look on his You didn't shoot," I said.

"Why?"

"I forgot to load my gun."

Deputies don't buy dropped pants story

The Goodwater man claimed it was case of being nearly caught with his pants down. Investigators saw things differently, however, and jailed Floyd Vance Fowler on burglary charges.

Vance was spotted inside the closed Cain Shell on U.S. 280, by an employee coming to work about 5 a.m., November 10.

When deputies arrived, they found Fowler inside the closed building. Fowler said he had just come in to use the bathroom, according to sheriff's investigators.

The closed case was one of six burglaries, four thefts and a prowler report listed on the sheriff daily blotter for the November 4-12 period.

Other burglary reports still under investigation include: two tv's stolen from a cabin at Glasscox Camp; tools stolen from a shop at a Harpersville residence; a stereo and speakers stolen from Comanche Drive in north Shelby: a wall telephone from a Dunnavant farm on highway 41; and an apparent burglar was chased from a Hollow Log Lane basement in north Shelby.

Fixed rate loans given

The Alabama Agricultural Development Authority (AADA) has implemented a program to provide low-cost, fixed rate loans to Alabama farmers.

According to Shelby County Agent, Grant Gober, here's how the program will work: tax-free bonds used to generate funds will be placed into certificates of deposit at participating banks. THe banks will lend the money to farmers at interest rates 2 to 6 percent lower than current rates offered by other farm lending organizations.

'The deadline for application is December 15," Gober says.

Thefts include: a flute stolen from the Riverchase Middle School bandroom; a radio reportedly stolen from a vehicle in a Montevallo resident's garage; 300 gallons of gas and some oil from a Harpersville farm; a motorcycle from a Columbiana resident.

No one was found in connection with a prowler report on Lullwater Road.

Lawmakers may play musical chairs

Newly elected representatives to the Alabama House and Senate found, just after election day, that their districts may be shifted from under them.

The redistricting plan, under which all candidates ran for office was found to be inadequate by the U.S. Justice Department, and new compromise plans are now being circulated.

Representative Don Murphy, newly elected to the new House Seat 49, reports that a compromise plan would change his district, and Sonny Moore's district (52) in such a way that Shelby County could wind up with two representatives.

Murphy's district now includes a small part of Jefferson County and all of north Shelby County's populous Beat 12. Under the new plan, he would lose those sections, but would add part of Montevallo, and the northern half of Bibb County, including West Blocton and Piper. The district Sonny Moore represents would lose the Jefferson and Talladega County section, and would add most of Beat 12, Montevallo and Wilton.

Curtis Smith, the Chilton County resident whose district now includes Montevallo, would lose all Shelby County areas, and would add sections of Bibb County.

because it would give two strong districts to the county, rather than the three splintered districts the county had in the past.

Legislators are hoping that they will be allowed to serve their districts for the full four-year term, and have new district lines put into effect four years from now. However, they have no guarantee this will happen, and, in fact, new elections could be called within a year.

Drug trials delayed

Although a jury venire was assembled for the Nov. 8 session of circuit court in Shelby County, no trials were held. A spokesman for the district attorney's office explained that a series of drug trials had been scheduled as a result of buys by undercover agents.

But the unexpected hospitalization of a key witness in the cases, he said, has postponed the trials

However, 47 percent of the docket was disposed of in the following manner: Pleading guilty to drug charges were Ernest Norwood, felony possession of marijuana, sentencing 12-20; Jerry Craig Norwood, misdemeanor possession of marijuana, $250 fine and 6 months suspended sentence plus costs.

Ervin S. Cottingham, misdemeanor possession of marijuana, fined $250 and costs, 6 months suspended sentence; Betty Jean Edward, misdemeanor possession of marijuana, fined $500 and costs, 6 months suspended sentence; Buddy Franklin, sale of marijuana, sentencing 12-20.

James Frederick Crocker Jr., Darnell. Guy and Jerry Darrell Fleming all pled guilty to misdemeanor possession of marijuana, were fined $250 and costs, with 6 months sentences suspended; Amanda Anderson, attempted VAUCSA, fined $250 and costs, 6 months suspended sentence; Robert Brown, two counts of the sale of methqualone, sentencing 12-20.

In cases involving theft, Shirley Gray pled guilty to attempted theft 2nd degree, was sentenced to 12 months suspended for 2 years with restitution and costs; Samuel Edward Ward, attempt to receive stolen property, sentenced to serve 12 months at hard labor for the county.

Virgil Bradford Belew, unlawful use of an auto, sentenced to 12 months suspended 2 years with restitution and costs; Andrew Edward Cobb, theft of property 2nd

'Where's the honor?'

EDITORIAL COMMENT .

Generals marched in Washington D.C. in honor of the veterans, living and dead, who served their country. Bands played. Flags flew everywhere.

In Birmingham, one of the nation's oldest and largest Veterans Day parades marched through the streets. Flags flew everywhere.

Marella "Dean" Weldon didn't expect generals to show up in Columbiana. She didn't expect bands to parade past the cemetery in Columbiana where her son's ashes are buried with other veterans of various wars. The woman from Four Mile, didn't expect much in the way of Veteran Day honors.

But she did expect to see an American flag flying from the pole on top of the hill in Pinelawn Gardens.

But there was no flag. Not this year.

The pole was bare on Veterans Day. It was bare the day after. It was bare over the weekend while generals marched in Washington and salutes were fired with dignity over the unknown soldiers' graves at Robert Paul Weldon was born October 10, 1955. Every mother's son, a handsome, joking, personable fellow. In Vietnam he was crew chief aboard a helicopter that was shot down May 13, 1975, near the close of the war. His ashes -- or someone's ashes -- were sent home and buried in Columbiana on May 27, 1975, in a ceremony with full military honors.

But seven and half years later the honor is all gone, as far as Mrs. Weldon is concerned.

"Now it's just another day," she said. "and without the flag it all looks so empty..."

Mrs. Weldon called the Reporter last Thursday night, hurt because this nation's flag had not been raised in honor of the veterans buried on the edge of Columiana. She asked what could be done. She told me she had the flag that had been draped over her son's coffin, but because of a recent operation, she was unable to raise it herself. I told her to come to Columbiana Friday and we'd raise the flag together.

Friday it rained. And it's a dishonor to raise the flag in the rain. "I could cry," she said over the phone. I don't know if she cried or not, but later that day (too late to raise a flag), I visited her son's grave with her anyway.

'I feel there should have been a flag," she said, sounding as depressed as the overcast sky. "Parents or anyone shouldn't have to go down to the cemetery and say, 'Gee, nobody flew a flag today."" "All over the nation we're celebrating and honoring veterans -- but there's nothing here. Nothing. Where's the honor?" I didn't know the answer. I said very little. She continued, saying how the flag used to fly there on Veterans Day, how she called Elmwood Cemetery which she was told now owns Pinelawn, how a -caretaker in Calera told her a flag was supposedly on order. She had also called several agencies like the VFW and Veterans Administration. Still, there was no flag on a day there should have been one.

"I'm not a warmonger," she said. "But I am patriotic and we shouldn't forget our boys -- any of them. Especially today. I feel like that flag should have been on that flag pole." "Yes, Ma'm," I agreed. "There should be a flag. There should be honor. I'll see what I can do."

No flag

There was no American flag on the pole at Pinelawn Cemetery in honor of Veteran's Day. So Dean Weldon brought a small replica to place at her son's grave, Friday. "Where's the honor?" she

Alabaster paves roads

The contract for the administration of the $700,000 community development block grant for Alabaster has been put aside for further study.

When the matter was brought up at Monday's council meeting, Councilman Jack Reagin said he wanted to find out what other cities had paid for overseeing a grant the size of Alabaster's.

"I'd like to have it nailed down in a little more detail so I'll know what I'm doing before I vote," Reagin declared.

City Clerk Dot Henry reported that Jim Crouse from Public Systems was going to charge $24,000 for the two years he anticipates it will take to complete housing rehabilitation and other grant work.

In addition to that amount, Henry said that a secretary would be employed at a salary of $8,000-$10,000 per year with another $10,000 being expended for the salary of an assistant.

It was noted that all of the money for administration costs would come from the grant.

The office where the work will be handled is to be set up around December 1 in the city hall annex.

Reporting on a project that has recently been completed, Councilman Willie Arrington said that 10 Ave. S.E., and portions of 9th Ave. S.E. and 6th Ave. S.E. had been paved with resurfacing done on 11th Ave S.E.

The cost, which exceeded $30,000, was derived from money collected from the gasoline tax, Arrington noted.

When finance chairman L.O. Farris gave his report, he described the city's financial situation as "not good."

The figures he gave showed a deficit of $13,112.80. However, Mayor H.A. "Doc" Rubin pointed out that $40,000 of a $60,000 certificate of deposit that was cashed had put the city in the

UM names new director

The marketing manager for the nation's second largest student exchange program has been named new director of admissions and records at the University of Montevallo.

Robert A. Doyle, who has managed marketing for the Washington, D.C.-based Youth For Understanding International Student Exchange since September 1981, is also a former director of admissions at Hood College, Lycoming College and Roanoke College.

Dr. Russell Warren, vice president for academic affairs at Montevallo, said Doyle was selected after a nationwide search that attracted more than 150 applicants.

Doyle succeeds Larry Peevy, who took a similar post at Georgia College last summer.

The new UM administrator holds a bachelor's degree from Juniata College and has taken graduate studies at the University of Colorado.

Barber recalls 50 years of shear effort

by Janice Durrett

It is just what you'd expect a barbershop to be...

A two seater, folks sittin' around summing up the events of the day, and the barber, who knows almost everyone in Columbiana, and then some.

... The only thing missing is the candystriped swirling pole outside.

According to owner, Leon F. Dorough, "This has always been the number one barbershop in Columbiana." He should know. He's owned the shop since Nov. 17, 1931.

Leon Dorough began his barbering career by taking a course in Jacksonville, Fla. After living two years in Michigan, he bought half interest in the shop on Main Street in Columbiana. And there he stayed for almost 51 years, less only 10 months in the Army and 6 months working for DuPont in Childersburg.

But the 75 year old barber decided to hang up his shears for good on Nov. 2 when he sold the shop and retired.

Reminiscing through all the years, Mr. Dorough said that he wouldn't have had it any other way. "My ambition has always been to please the people," he commented. "I'd do the same thing over. It agrees with me."

Mr. Dorough had a good relationship with all his customers, even the children. "I've always got along with them fine," he said, "I've broke in as many as three generations of a family. Most children come to me for their first haircut."

He recalled a time when a girl about ten years old brought her younger brother in for a haircut. "She brought him into the shop and, after waiting a long time, he refused to get in the chair," Dorough chuckled. "I told her to take the little boy home and let his big brother bring him back later that afternoon."

The girl went outside but returned after only a few minutes with a large stick in her hand. Dorough said, "I asked her what she was going to do with it and she said, 'I'm gonna make him get a haircut, that's what I'm gonna do' and she did!"

Mr. Dorough's good relationship with his customers is largely due to his ability to make them feel relaxed. He remembered, "One lady got so relaxed that she signed my name to her personal check for a haircut."

He also has a perfect relationship with his six children and his wife, Eleanor. And he plans to spend a lot of time with them now that he has retired. He also plans to spend time taking up other interests.

He will continue to support the SCHS Wildcats as he has done for many years. "I saw more Shelby County High School games than any man living," he said. Leon Dorough has seen at least 95 percent of all SCHS games at home and away since he has lived in Shelby County.

He will also spend a good deal of time hunting, fishing and raising cows and gardening on his farm near Shelby.

Someone asked him why he wanted to grow so may turnip greens in his garden and he replied, "I wouldn't have any for my neighbors if I didn't raise so many."

He wants to thank all his customers for their business throughout the years and also for all the kind things they have said about him and done for him.

It isn't any wonder that a lady who has been around for more than 90 years is beginning to look a little dowdy.

And since that lady, who stands on an island in New York harbor, is the symbol of our nation's freedom, a nationwide campaign is underway to get her back in shape.

At a Veterans' Day program Wednesday, Thompson Middle School students filled three fishbowls with money to go toward repair work on the Statue of Liberty.

The donations of nickels, dimes and quarters, collected the week prior to the program, totaled $455.61.

TMS social studies teacher Judy Smitherman, who spearheaded the drive, explained that the federal government has formed a historical commission to restore the Statue of Liberty and the Ellis Island Immigration Center.

The goal of the nationwide drive, she reported, is $30

In paying tribute to the nation's veterans, Smitherman noted that it seemed fitting for the school to express its sentiment toward the symbol of freedom for which they fought, by contributing the money for her repair.

A trophy was awarded to Rita Rutherford's 7th grade homeroom for being the top money raisers with $62.

Debbie Patterson's 6th grade homeroom was second, Melody Acker's 8th grade homeroom, 3rd, Ralph Vogle's 6th grade homeroom 4th and Linda Haines' 7th grade homeroom Certificates and ribbons were presented to the winners.

The TMS band provided patriotic music for the Veterans' Day program and three candles were lit in honor of Vietnam veterans, the veterans of all wars and to express the hope that freedom and liberty will always continue to exist.

Elaine Carpenter was chairman of the program.

It is ironic that one of the best fringe benefits that your company can offer you is actually a type of pay cut. A salary reduction allows you to put part of your income into a retirement plan. The set-aside income is then not touched by taxes until it is withdrawn. Combining a salary reduction plan with an IRA can dramatically reduce your taxes. For example, a taxable income of $30,000 a year can require a $7172 payment in federal income tax. By putting $2000 into an IRA and $3000 (10% of your income) into a salary reduction plan, you cut your taxable income down to $25,000. The resultant federal income tax of $5362 is a 25% reduction.

February 7 thru February 16, 1983

We'll enjoy guided sightseeing on Oahu, where Honolulu, Walkiki Beach and Pearl Harbor are located; the "Garden Island" of Kauai and the "Orchid Island" of Hawaii.

Send for your FREE detailed itinerary

DAY ! - En route to Honolulu on the Island of Oahu. We'll gather this morning at the Birmingham airport to begin our trip to Honolulu. Upon arrival, you'll be greeted with the traditional flower lei by a native islander. Aloha!

DAY 2 - We've already had time to settle in at the beautiful Hilton Hawaiian Village Hotel on Waikiki Beach, where we'll stay for three dreamy tropical nights.

A scenic Circle-Island tour is scheduled today. As we drive along the rugged coast we'll see small settlements and beach parks clustered alongside bay inlets, each one seemingly more beautiful than the last. Tropical farming is much different from farming back home, and we'll have ample opportunity to compare notes with local farmers during farm visits today. We'll also see historic Schofield Barracks, and drive up to the Pali Precipice for one of the great views of the western world, then move on to famous Diamond Head.

DAY 3 - A free day to do as you wish. There are many interesting shopping opportunities in lovely Honolulu. You may also want to visit the inspirational USS Arizona Memorial in Pearl Harbor. Tonight, if you wish, you can take in a beautiful Polynesian Show.

DAY 4 - This morning we fly to Kauai, the most luxuriant of the islands, with rainbow-filled canyons and thundering waterfalls. Gentle rivers and sweeping patchwork valleys of sugar cane, taro, rice, ginger flowers and hibiscus make Kauai a most fascinating island. We'll take a relaxing trip up the Wailua River past lush green shores to a rain forest wonderland and visit exquisite Fern Grotto. This is an awe-inspiring natural cavern with cascading tropical ferns. So romantic is the Grotto that many couples choose to say their wedding vows there.

That's a dog?

Glenna Claxon (left) and Shirley Jones came from Alabaster Thursday to look at dogs at the animal shelter in Columbiana. Joe Pig, a captured runaway, didn't quite fit their dreams, however. The oinker's owner finally found him and took him home this week.

This little piggie . . .

by David F. Moore

This little piggie went to market.

This little piggie stayed home. Mr. Pig, a 300-pound oinker who ran amuck in a north Shelby subdivision last week, should have stayed home with piggie #2. But he didn't.

And before the three dayincident was over, Mr. Pig -who's first name turned out to be Joe -- caused quite a stir in both Wagon Trace subdivision and later at the humane society shelter in Columbiana.

It all got started just before 1 a.m. last Wednesday when a Wagon Trace woman heard a ruckus outside. A prowler? Dogs were yelping, and when she opened her side door her pet Schnauzer dashed inside -motivated by a snorting Mr. Pig.

Mr. Pig apparently wanted to come in too, but the woman reportedly thought it was a bit late for odd company, and called the sheriff's department instead.

"The deputies called me about midnight saying they had a pig trying to enter a house," recalled animal shelter director Anne Speakman. "I explained to them that I can't catch a pig in the middle of the night."

Wednesday afternoon, however, armed with a tranquilizer and assisted by son Danny and co-worker Lynn Fridley. Speakman went pigging in Wagon Trace.

Speakman: "When we got there, the pig was kicked back and snoozing in a lady's flower bed. We used a box of corn to entice him."

"Danny slipped the catch pole over his back leg, and he took off. Do you know what a 300 pound pig can do? He dragged Danny all over until Lynn got a rope around him. Then he dragged Danny and Lynn all over. I mean, hill and dale. Everywhere."

"Finally I tranquilized him." she continued. "I couldn't stick him in the ear, so we stuck him in the rear. He never did go all the way out. Anyway, we finally got him here..."

Mr. Pig was apparently a little amazed to find himself at the animal shelter. So were some of the people who came by looking for cats and dogs.

Thursday, after word got out on Mr. Pig -- who still refused to reveal his full identity--William Keith, an elderly north Shelby farmer, showed up at the shelter.

Speakman: "Yep,' he said. 'That's Joe.' Then he called, 'Joe!' and the pig came over to him. The man said Joe was just a big old pet. He didn't have a truck to carry Joe home in, but he said he'd be back Friday and get him."

"So Joe the Pig is going home," Speakman grinned. It was unknown at press time whether Joe Pig cried "Wee, wee weeeee," all the way home.

New elementary PE method studied at UM

Students in some Alabama elementary schools will soon be having fun playing games and not realize they're in a physical education class.

"The program is designed to eliminate failure," said Martha Owens of Ocilla, Ga., originator of the nationally recognized "Every Child a Winner" method of teaching physical education to kindergarten and elementary school children.

Teachers, student teachers and college physical education professors from around the state studied the new teaching methods during a three-day seminar at the University of Montevallo.

They learned teaching methods that help children develop fitness. confidence, coordination and academic performance through creative games, creative dance and gymnastics.

Mrs. Owens started the program in the Ocilla schools when she saw students excluded from games and physical activities because they felt uncoordinated, lacked strength, had low self esteem or because of other fac-

"I wanted to improve academics through movement," she said. "And we don't do anything to make a child feel embarrassed or to humiliate them." "It works," she added.

"Every Child a Winner," when first implemented, is for use in kindergarten through the third grade, expandable to the sixth grade.

Early weapon

Sgt. Harry Moon shows 7th grade students at Columbiana Middle School a rifle that was carried by Revolutionary War soldiers. The arms exhibit was presented at a Veteran's Day observance.

Guard lectures at CMS

After showing students at Columbiana Middle School weapons used during wartime, Sgt. Harry Moon told his audience that war was not the function of the Army National Guard.

"We're here to defend and protect you" Moon declared.

Moon, who is a recruiter from Calera and Sgt. David Horton, a recruiter from Pelham, demonstrated weapons dating from the Revolutionary War to the present.

It was brought to the students' attention that civil defense hasn't been practiced in this country since 1962. "But the Russians practice constantly," Moon related.

"There are only two things we ask of you," Moon said in con-clusion. "We ask for your understanding and support."

Calera is region champ

by David F. Moore

Danny Alverson is a real gambler.

Before the game the coach figured his Calera Eagles were 61/2-point favorites over the Eagles of Montgomery Academy. Six and half points?

Now, Danny...

All year long Calera players. have been earning skull and crossbones helmet stickers for tough play.

Friday night in the Capitol City, the Calera Eagles lowered those helmets and left the sign of the skull and crossbones imprinted in the gear and bodies of out-matched MA players as they convincingly clobbered their hosts 41-6 in the Class 'A' Regional Championship State Playoffs.

Six and half points?

Calera scored six touchdowns and five extra points. That breaks the school record for points scored in a post season playoff game, set in 1978 with 32 points

Mark up the effectiveness of the offensive artillery to serious minded blocking by linemen Louis Giddens, All-State Steve Bearden, Ken LeSueur, Barry Pickett, Curtis Glass, John Campbell and others.

Behind them (and sometimes quickly out in front of them), was awesome, senior artillery shell Edward Wilson, who gunned 130 yards in 11 carries, twisting, knifing (figuratively), and blasting his way to two touchdowns.

QB James Blanchard fired the artillery show and scored two Touchdowns, while Dan "Dork" Campbell added the other two TD's. Designated workhorse Daryl Griffith ran 34 times for Significantly, Calera has not been forced to punt in its last two

Defensively, the Eagles didn't even THINK about giving up a first down for the entire first quarter. MA's only second quarter first down followed a Calera fumble on the 42 and turned into MA's last TD for the year. That touchdown was only the second one Calera has allowed this year to a 1-A opponent. It was only the fifth TD scored against a defense that has notched four shutouts in the '82 record book. Six-and-half-point favorite? Calera looked good Friday night. Make that real good. Great? Awesome? Whatever turns you on... As one MA defender cried in amazement with the score 13-0 and only five minutes gone: "What the ----'s going on out here???"

On the fifth play of the game the Eagles swept wide right. Blan- ed up and hit, spun free, cut all chard held the ball til the last possible second then pitched out to Wilson. Coach Mark Lovett saw it first from the sideline: "There he goes!"

And Wilson went. Afterburners smoldered. Fifty yards. Touchdown.

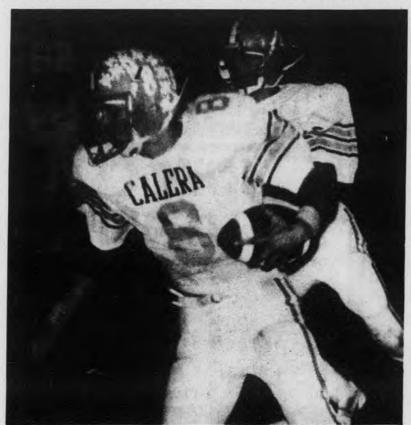

Ricky Posey toed the first of five good extra points on the night. 7-0 with 2:20 gone.

Kickoff. MA fumbled. Curtis Glass recovered for Calera. Two the way back to the right side on an impromptu reverse, and scored. PAT by Posey. 34-6. Six and half points?

"It's not over by any means," Alverson told the squad inside the locker room. (He wasn't lying, just didn't know any better.) "Remember, regional champs is what it's all about. Now let's start the second half where we left off.

There was a brief moment of and half minutes later "Dork" Campbell scored from the one. MA knew it would be a long night. Posey hit again. 14-0.

MA ran three and punted, and Calera started again from their own 40. After a clip (spelled D-O-R-K), Wilson hit John Campbell with a 27-yard halfback pass, then ran for 20 more. Blanchard ran it in from the 18. Twenty-zip, first quarter.

It was too tough an act to follow in stanza two. Calera lapsed. MA scored at 10:24, but missed the PAT. Points, but no threat.

The Eagles came back with big plays by Wilson, Griffith and Blanchard, and in five minutes were at the two, Blanchard dropped back, found his receivers covered, scrambled, and scored. Posey hit again, 27-6 and back in action.

With :33 left in the half, linebacking whiz Steve Bearden nabbed an interception on the 25. Scotty Wells made a diving catch for a Blanchard pass at the five. With seconds left in the half, Wilson started far left, got bottl-doubt. MA almost looked like a different team. A 59-yard play put the home boys quickly on the 21. Then it was first and goal from the eight.

But the alarm clock went off, woke up the defense, and four plays later Calera took over on the nine.

It was the last MA threat of the evening. The younger Eagles got in some playing time, and Calera nearly scored again in the closing seconds.

The clock ran out on a field goal set up, but Alverson's 6½-point spread was safe.

The 41-6 romp upped Calera's record to 9-2 and puts it in line to host Ariton in the quarter-finals tomorrow night at Oliver Park.

The Eagles are shooting for ten wins this season, as well as a Southern State Championship -something they haven't won since 1978 when they went 10-3 under the late coach Ricky Cairns.

Furthermore, the Eagles seem to have visions of earning their first ever state championship this

After driving from their own 19 yard line to the Mustang 46, Demetrius Threatt was stopped short of a first down on a gutsy fourth and one play.

But the Warrior defense shut Stanhope-Elmore down quickly and the Warriors drove 86 yards for a touchdown on their next possession.

Threatt scored the six points on a seven yard burst and then added the two point conversion to give Thompson an 8-0 lead late in the first quarter.

The Mustangs roared back scoring a touchdown of their own on a 65 yard pass play to John Tucker at the first quarter buzzer.

A two point conversion attempt failed and the period ended with Thompson leading 8-6.

Time expired in the first half with Thompson knocking at the Stanhope-Elmore three yard line.

But despite a nip and tuck first half, the Warriors roared back to score 27 second half points. The Thompson defense allowed the Mustangs nothing.

Threatt capped a 66 yard drive with 5:53 remaining in the third period. A bonus attempt failed and the Warriors led 14-6.

Thompson did not score again until early in the fourth period. That touchdown was set up by a heady defensive play on the part of Arthur Johnson.

Stanhope-Elmore faced second down and 17 yards to go at their own 30 yard line. Johnson read the pass play planned by the Mustangs perfectly, picked off the air ball and returned it to the Mustang 33 yard line.

The touchdown came on a 16 yard pass play Luvell Bivens. Threatt added the two point conversion and with 9:20 left in the contest, the Warriors' lead was upped to 22-6.

The Warriors defense helped the offense to another touchdown only moments later.

A Stanhope-Elmore fumble was recovered by Greg Snell at the Mustang 30 yard line.

Threatt carried the ball 26 yards to the Mustang four yard line and quarterback Richard Brasher took it to pay dirt from there. The point after hit the goal post and was no good.

However, with 7:45 remaining in the game, Thompson led 28-6.

The two cheers are an appropriate comment on what happend on a cold and wet field in Millbrook, near Montgomery, 65 miles from home.

By a score of 35-6 Thompson High School added the regional honors to its Area 8 crown and will now face Demopolis in the quarter finals of the state championship, tomorrow night.

The game was a perfect ending for a day which began in a less than perfect manner.

Rain showers pelted the Alabaster area most of the morning hours. The storm was also headed in the direction of Millbrook where the match-up would be held.

Was it on or off? The fate of the contest was in doubt.

Thompson High School planned to send the Warriors to the ween Birmingham and Mon-

Birmingham said the storm striking Alabaster would be in Montgomery at game time. Montgomery said the storm would be over by game time.

Players gathered their gear, not knowing if their emotional pitch to play the Mustangs would benefit them or lead to a let down if the game were called off.

It was not until 4:30 p.m. that the decision was made that the game would be on.

The rain held off during the contest but the Mustang field was drenched. While temperatures were comfortable at kickoff, they were becoming quite chilly in the second half.

But for the Warriors, the weather and game decision delays mattered little. They returned home as winners with dreams of a state championship still alive.

Warriors prove talent

by Fred Guarino

All questions concerning the true ability of the 1982 Thompson Warriors can now and forever be laid to rest.

The Warriors are a true high school football super power. They are a real and deserving contender for the state 3A football championship

The Warriors proved that fact, Friday night in Millbrook, by defeating the Stanhope-Elmore Mustangs 35-6.

In winning their 11th straight game of the season, the Warriors are now the undisputed champions of Area 8 Region 4, 3A high school football.

Over the course of the regular season, some people believed that the Warriors had never really been tested.

There was really no power in Shelby County teams on their schedule, yet the Warriors defeated the Montevallo Bulldogs by just a last minute TD.

The Warriors whipped Vestavia but that team was not up to par with past squads from that city.

Thompson did pass what was called its lone test of the regular season by defeating Sylacauga 14-7 for the Area 8 title. But the win was a little sloppy.

The Warriors statistically routed the Aggies. However, Coach Larry Simmons credited the low scoring effort to self destruction in the name of penalties and lack of execution.

But Friday night....the Warriors played a team that was no stranger to state playoff competition, that was no slouch, and that was a real test of power.

The Mustangs came into the contest with an equally perfect 10-0 record. They were playing at home and boasted their own super star in running back Andrew Gilder.

What did the Warriors do with this test?

The team from Shelby County rushed for 365 yards and passed 65 yards for a total offense of 430

The team from Shelby County earned 20 first downs, only had to punt one time, controlled the football for 70 plays and 28:13 minutes of the contest and scored 35 points.

Stanhope-Elmore, the annual football super power, was held to a miserable 60 yards rushing and 110 yards passing for a total of-

The Millbrook based team earned only four first downs for the entire game. They had to punt to the Warriors three times, made just 47 plays and held the ball 20:47 seconds. That was nearly seven and a-half minutes less time of ball possession than the War-

The Mustangs' Gilder, who led the state with over 1,400 yards rushing coming into Friday night's game, was allowed only ten yards by the Thompson Warriors.

In stark contrast, Demetrius Threatt rushed for 143 yards, Max Brown rushed for 61 yards and Arthur Johnson rushed for 61 yards.

The game put Threatt at 1,401 for the season and Brown at 673

Statistics and points prove beyond any shadow of doubt that the Warriors rose to the occasion Friday night and passed any test offered by the Mustangs with flying colors.

After the gridiron battle Coach Larry Simmons told his players, "I was asked if this was the biggest win ever for Thompson. I don't know if it's the biggest but it is a monster biggie!"

Eagle fans bring home smiles

by David F. Moore

Some of the Calera fans were disgruntled at the lack of seating arrangements at Montgomery Academy.

Some of the Calera coaches were unsettled over the loss of Ronald "Marcel" Byrd, rallying point of the offensive line.

But after only two minutes and 20 seconds of play Friday night, the Eagles had both fans and coaches smiling.

The eventual 41-6 score was a pleasent enough shock to erase the unsavory idea of mixing bleacher space with the opposition, or sitting in folding chairs or standing on the "Calera" side of the field.

And after a playoff romp like Friday's, it's doubtful that anyone from Shelby County minded the drive back home -especially if they were traveling on Lady Eagle sandwiches with a flashing escort from deputy sheriffs.

The fans loved it.

"We never dreamed it would be like this," beamed coach Bobby Sherrer.

Head coach Danny Alverson was having a good time, too.

"Big time in the big city tonight!" Alverson grinned. "The first round of the playoffs are good to Calera. We came at them and did what we've been doing best all year (running wide). Things just worked out great."

Coach Mark Lovett was relieved after watching the offensive line. There had been a big question there because Marcel was in the hospital. The 255-pound senior tackle has been both a physical and mental cornerstone to the offensive line this year.

good tonight without Marcel," Lovett said. The offensive line's performance, he said, should build a lot of confidence for next week.

Alverson said the team was planning to present Marcel with an autographed game ball. The only question there was everyone remembering how to spell their

The next question on the list is, will the Eagles win 10 this year. They're now 9-2.

"I want 10 wins," Alverson told the Reporter. "That's big. That's what we want to do. That's what we're aiming for."

To do so, the Eagles will have the advantage of their home turf (and bleachers). But they'll still have their hands full halting the boys from Ariton.

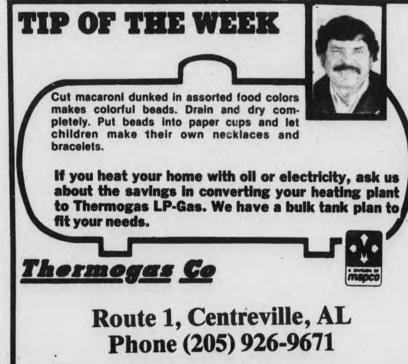

Ariton beat Reeltown 20-17 in regional play last week, showing cool poise under the heat of triple overtime.

IF Calera wins tomorrow (Friday), then Alverson and crew can shoot for 11 wins, to tie last year's number.

IF they make 11 wins, THEN the Eagles are looking at a shot at the "you-know-what."

Calera has never before won

PELHAM/ ALABASTER

In defeating Montgomery Academy Friday night, Calera earned the privilege of playing in the quarter finals of the state playoffs.

A possible Class A state championship lies ahead.

Just what does that win mean to the players of Calera High School and their principal?

According to principal D. E. Goggins, "We are all proud of the victory. It speaks well for our kids and our athletic program to put out that much effort to keep going that far.

"Most teams are not as lucky as we. I was surprised over the margin of victory in the regional contest and I am looking forward to another Friday night of football."

Calera defeated Montgomery Academy 41-6 to push its 1982 record to 9-2 on the season. The next round of the playoffs for Calera will be at home against Eagles' quarterback James Blanchard said of Friday's win, "It was like a dream come true to reach the state playoffs. We are dreaming of making it all the way this year."

Last year the Eagles made it to the second round of the state playoffs. When asked if his team could go the distance, Blanchard said, "Yes sir. I think we can make it if we keep working hard."

Fullback Dan Campbell said of the win, "At this point it means a lot to the team. We realize we have a real chance to go all the way."

When asked if he thought Calera would make it this far this season, Campbell said, "Every team hopes they are going to make it. I always thought we were because I felt we had a good team before we started.

"We have a lot of seniors and they have provided us good leadership to help us out."

Runningback Edward Wilson who has gained 1,100 yards this season said, "It means a lot to me because last year we made it to the second round. This year we want to go a little further to show the people what we are all about and have them believe in us."

Wilson explained, "After we lost our second game this season, people started doubting. I think we have a chance of making it all the way. Our line has been great at times when they get their heads

We lost one starting lineman, Ronnie Byrd, to injury but the younger ones are doing great so far. We have got to keep rolling and keep our confidence up."

Fullback Daryl Griffith said, "I knew we could do it if we put our minds to it. We went out and just played ball because we wanted it. We want it bad because our fans are telling us we can make it all the way."

Griffith said that he felt his team could make it to the state championship at the beginning of the season. But after the team suffered injuries he was not sure.

Now he says, "I believe we can make it all the way because we have our confidence. ... We are going to do our best."

About the crowd support Calera has enjoyed this season, Griffith said, "You don't hear anything because you are working real hard playing ball but I am glad they are there."

arriors tell victory thoughts in 3A high school football.

To win that honor, the Warriors literally blasted a very tough Stanhope-Elmore team off the to come back and doing just field 35-6, Friday night.

The accomplishment was a grand one because the contest was played on a cold and rain soaked field after a road trip of 65 miles.

Just what did that game mean to Thompson High School?

Before the contest, quarterback Richard Brasher said, "This game is real important for the state playoffs. We win this and we have a good chance for the state championship.

'When I was a tenth grader we played them and I didn't see much playing time. We came out on the short end of the stick. I feel the whole team is ready now. We've had two weeks to prepare for them."

The Warriors were ready. After the contest, Arthur

Johnson went berserk with delight. He began jumping up and down, laughing and shouting, "I just don't believe that score...no way."

Demetrius Threatt, who proved to be a real star in the battle said simply, "We didn't come out here to embarrass them but to win."

Coach Larry Simmons said, "Two years ago we played them and tucked our tails. We owed them one. We got it tonight."

Thompson High School Principal Allen Fulton said, "I think this is the best thing to happen to our program. We overcame a lot of adversity..."

He explained that adversity meant "When Arthur Johnson was hurt we had to change our

Panthers are bowl bound

The 85 pound Pelham Panthers have won their final playoff game and advanced to the Alabama Youth Football League Super Bowl.

The Panthers have an unblemished record of 9-0. They will play Centerpoint who also boasts a perfect 9-0 record.

The Super Bowl will be played at noon November 20 at Pinson High School.

The final playoff game was a stem winder in which the Panthers defeated a stubborn Sumiton team 14-13. The Sumiton Bulldogs ended the season with a 7-2 record.

Offensively the Panthers were spearheaded by the play calling and ball handling of quarterback Jimmy Hicks and the ball carrying and blocking of the other backs George Golliday, David Sanders, and Robbie McCary.

Golliday scored both of the Panthers' touchdowns with runs of nine and 27 yards. McCary scored the only point after which eventually was the decided two points of the contest.

Offensive line blocking was led by Wade Evans, Chris Caldwell, Jimbo Doyle, J.D. Charlton, Slade Holladay, Todd Miller and Brian Chambers.

Defensively the Panthers were led by J.D. Charlton, Jeff Sciascia, Eric Horton, Scott Queen, John Fant, Wade Evans, Chris Caldwell, David Sanders, Slade Honagay, Jimbo Doyle, Robbie McCary and Brian Chambers.

1:30

The Panthers are coached by Bill Fant, Larry Evans and Bob Sciascia. The team mothers are Terry Holladay and Pam Evans.

Coach Bill Fant wished to express his thanks to all the parents of the players for the jobs they have done this season and the press box, running the chain and working the concession stands.

"To have a great football team, each player and parent must make a great sacrifice. These families have been willing to do so. Congratulations Panthers for being the first Pelham team to make it to the Super

Principals rally behind sports programs

Football Part II by Fred Guarino

Last week, the Reporter began a survey of county principals to learn if football had a valid place in school.

The response has been a positive one from Vincent. Montevallo, Pelham, Shelby County and Chelsea.

This week, interviews with the principals of Coosa Valley Academy, Shelby Academy, Thompson, Briarwood, and Calera High School continue to show the support of school principals for their football programs.

Allen Fulton of Thompson High School had these comments to make:

"One thing the program does...especially being successful... is that it goes over into other areas...the entire student body, and has a positive affect on the whole school atmosphere.

"The kids who are participating learn sacrifice, while others are out for the summer water skiing or going to concerts. Football players sacrifice and work all of August, at least one month in the spring and work in a weight program year-round.

"The program is worthwhile and is a real character builder."

Fulton added that not only football but football related activities such as cheerleading, band, and sports in general help students by teaching them to work for a positive goal.

When asked directly if he believed football had a place in his school, Fulton answered, "I certainly do. It also has an impact on the community."

But Fulton did not limit his comments to a successful football

He said, "Even if a school goes 0-10 instead of 10-0, there is a positive influence. The kids playing and those in the band and other related activies are working just as hard."

He added, "The influence may not be as over reaching because you don't rally behind a loss but we encourage our kids to get involved."

Fulton said that the football program at Thompson does pay for itself.

He pointed out that with the money earned from making the playoffs this year, the school will build new bathrooms at the football stadium which were not otherwise budgeted.

Fulton stressed that the school has also received commitments on the bathroom project from both athletic and band booster groups and Roy Martin, a 1962 graduate of the school who will build them at no profit to himself.

Jimmy Carroll, principal of Briarwood Christian School had this to say about football:

"I think it does play a part in the total school structure and does have a valid role.

"It shouldn't be ranked above academics but sports in general are a source of pride, and competition is good in that we accept a challenge placed before us and we compete within a set of rules.

"We learn teamwork, sport-smanship, dedication to an objective, commitment to a common goal, respect for others and...the list goes on and on."

Carroll said of football's benefits, "It is something intangible. You can't grab it but you feel it."

He said that students know when they have gone out, laid it on the line, and did the best they could. They know they can look themselves in the eye.

Carroll echoes the comments of school principals last week when he said that football is a rallying point for the entire school.

About finances, Carroll said, "We try to make it pay for itself but we have to supplement it some. At Briarwood, students pay an activity and supply fee which gets them into all football games. Only the general public buys tickets."

The principal said, "I just ran a survey on the entire curriculum and different programs and learned that 60 percent of our students are in some form of athletic endeavor."

He said of the survey result, "I think it is excellent. We are really proud. Involvement in school, skills, character are learned that cannot be learned in the classroom.'

Davis Wooley, principal of Coosa Valley Academy said:

"The main thing football does is to promote school support. It gets the kids involved in extracurricular activities and gets them to work together. I think they benefit."

Wooley said that football at CVA does carry itself financially with six home games and good

He stated that football should not come first but academics and athletics should supplement each

He said that students learn to work with each other but are not pressured to join teams.

"In a small town, it gives the kids something to go to," Wooley added.

DeWayne Kervin of Shelby Academy is both football coach and principal.

He said of the program, "It gives them (the students) something to participate in.

"I stress character and determination in both the classroom and in coaching. To be successful in football and basketball means facing pressure. There are pressures in life."

At Shelby Academy the football program earns about $7,000 per year profit. But unlike other schools, the money does not merely support athletics. It goes into the school's general fund to be spent anywhere the school sees Kervin said, "The school comes first. Our booster club totally supports athletics."

Danny E. Goggins of Calera High School had this to say about

"First of all it is good for the school, sort of a focal point so that the student body and community can pull together for one

"It helps the school because it

"A good program... and I feel we do have a good program... teaches students that to accomplish something you must put out effort and show self pride."

Goggins said that the football program at Calera more or less pays for itself. But he said that Class A football (as opposed to 3A) does not lend itself to big money.

The principal noted that Calera's program receives help from booster groups.

Academically, Goggins said, "I don't think football hurts but in some cases it helps. If a student wants to play, he must make the grades which are required by the Alabama High School Athletic Association.

"A kid who may not be a strong student will work harder on his grades so that he can play

Bass, crappie bite

Fishermen who want to bring home a long stringer of bass and crappie are in luck.

According to a random survey of fish camps in Shelby County, bass are hitting in the shallow water and crappie are staying at depths of ten to 12 feet.

Jerry Wooten of Okomo

Marina on Lay Lake said that bass are being caught on spinner bait and lunker lures (top water plugs).

Nancy Culpepper would not say what bass fishermen are using because she said that they would not say. But she did say that on Beeswax Creek, crappie can be in the dropoffs.

Queen named for Thompson

Miss Thompson Youth Football Homecoming Queen for 1982 is Melissa Carrier, daughter of Joe and Joyce Carrier of Alabaster.

She represented the 120 pound red squad.

Carrier raised over $1,900 in less than six weeks, the largest amount ever turned in by a queen for Thompson Youth Football.

Representing the other squads were Kristen Capps, 70 lb.; Jennifer Herron, 85 lb.; Renee White, 105 lb.; and Wendy Ellison, 120 lb. white squad.

Jump ropes whapped the floor will receive frisbees and T-shirts.

According to the American Heart Association, heart attacks and stroke kill more people annually than all other causes of death combined.

Spokesmen for that organization point out that physical fitness helps to develop and maintain a healthy heart and vascular system.

Inmates are tough competition

The County Mounties only had to cross the street to play the Columbiana Baptists in volleyball Thursday night.

However, it was a big outingfor the visiting team who are inmates in the Shelby County jail.

The brown uniforms they wore, with County Mounties stamped on the back, had belonged to deputies when the Sheriff's department had a softball team.

"It was the best competition we've had all year," Baptist team captain Mike Waymon told the Reporter after the final game. Although the scores were fairly close in each match, the Baptists won two of the three games played. "Yes, I'm glad to be here," said Ray Lowe, who has been in jail for six months.

Asked what they'd be doing if the game hadn't been scheduled. he and Raymond Grayson said they'd probably be watching the television program Fame - or else be playing cards.

Grayson, who has been confined for 11 months, related that inmates have a recreation area less than half the size of the gymnasium at the Family Life Center with a net lower than regulation height.

The Baptists' interim recreation director, Richard Crosby, explained that the volleyball invitation issued to the inmates was an outreach ministry of the

"We don't try and preach to them," Crosby explained. "We simply give them the opportunity to have recreation in a Christian environment."

The Baptists had played a basketball game with the inmates last year and have planned another one for next month.

"It gives everyone a good opportunity to have fellowship," Crosby noted, adding that an attempt will be made to schedule games more frequently.

Students appreciate freedom

Two Pelham High School students have developed a higher appreciation of the freedom offered citizens of the U.S.

Vanessa Usher and Tammy Woeste attended the Freedom Foundation Conference held at Valley Forge, Penn. November

The girls were elected to represent their school by fellow members of the Pelham Anchor Club.

Woeste said that the purpose of the conference was to promote patriotism, appreciation of freedom and leadership among Anchor Club members.

Usher said that representatives from all over the country were given a chance to be a leader.

-According to the two, they were put into groups to design posters symbolizing freedom and to make presentations on those

They stated that men dressed as Colonial soldiers talked to them about the U.S. Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

And one defector from the Soviet Union told them that freedom was a privilege and not a

When asked if the $700 trip funded by their club was worthwhile, Usher said, "Oh yes it was worth it. I developed a greater extent of patriotism."

Woeste said, "We also met a lot of nice people from all over the United States, including a couple of 'Valley girls' from California. They said the event was 'totally awesome.""

Leadership ideas brought back by the girls for their club were fund raisers, including a Little Miss Anchor pageant, a Valentine formal dance, car wash, and answering children's letters to Santa.

The two pointed out that the club already provides services such as singing at the hospital at Christmas and sponsoring a child for Thanksgiving and Christmas with toys and food.

The club also cleans up the school after events, provides refreshments for graduating seniors after their graduation ceremony and raises funds for the school.

But the most exciting thing about the conference itself, according to Woeste was, "They made you feel like you were there... a part of the revolution by the way they dressed and talk-

"In a dark room lighted with candles they spoke of the reason they signed the Declaration of Independence and its consequences and asked us to sign too and commit ourselves.

"As each of us signed, all of the participants sang the National Anthem."

Usher said she came away from the conference feeling, "I had taken all of this (the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence, the revolution and our freedom) for granted.

To fund their trip to Valley Forge the girls sold candy, held two car washes and sponsored a Mr. Leggs contest at Pelham

High School. The Pelham Anchor Club is sponsored by the Birmingham Pilot Club and their school sponsor is Susan Payne.

Severe laws for hunters

Alabama's new hunting laws call for severe penalties.

Taking deer from public waters or at night, calls for a minimum $500 fine.

Illegally hunting at night or without landowner's permission or from public roads, railroads or their right-of-ways call for minimum fines of $250; mandatory fines to $1,000, 10 to 60 day jail terms, and loss of hunting privileges to 3 years.

Queen named for Thompson

Miss Thompson Youth Football Homecoming Queen for 1982 is Melissa Carrier, daughter of Joe and Joyce Carrier of Alabaster.

She represented the 120 pound red squad.

Carrier raised over $1,900 in less than six weeks, the largest amount ever turned in by a queen for Thompson Youth Football.

Representing the other squads were Kristen Capps, 70 lb.; Jennifer Herron, 85 lb.; Renee White, 105 lb.; and Wendy Ellison, 120 lb. white squad.

Inmates are tough competition

The County Mounties only had to cross the street to play the Columbiana Baptists in volleyball Thursday night.

However, it was a big outingfor the visiting team who are inmates in the Shelby County jail.

The brown uniforms they wore, with County Mounties stamped on the back, had belonged to deputies when the Sheriff's department had a softball team.

"It was the best competition we've had all year," Baptist team captain Mike Waymon told the Reporter after the final game. Although the scores were fairly close in each match, the Baptists won two of the three games played. "Yes, I'm glad to be here," said Ray Lowe, who has been in jail for six months.

Asked what they'd be doing if the game hadn't been scheduled. he and Raymond Grayson said they'd probably be watching the television program Fame - or else be playing cards.

Grayson, who has been confined for 11 months, related that inmates have a recreation area less than half the size of the gymnasium at the Family Life Center with a net lower than regulation

The Baptists' interim recreation director, Richard Crosby, explained that the volleyball invitation issued to the inmates was an outreach ministry of the

"We don't try and preach to them," Crosby explained. "We simply give them the opportunity to have recreation in a Christian environment."

The Baptists had played a basketball game with the inmates last year and have planned another one for next month.

"It gives everyone a good opportunity to have fellowship, Crosby noted, adding that an attempt will be made to schedule games more frequently.

Students appreciate freedom

Two Pelham High School students have developed a higher appreciation of the freedom offered citizens of the U.S.

Vanessa Usher and Tammy Woeste attended the Freedom Foundation Conference held at Valley Forge, Penn. November

The girls were elected to represent their school by fellow members of the Pelham Anchor

Woeste said that the purpose of the conference was to promote patriotism, appreciation of freedom and leadership among Anchor Club members.

Usher said that representatives from all over the country were given a chance to be a leader.

- According to the two, they were put into groups to design posters symbolizing freedom and to make presentations on those

They stated that men dressed as Colonial soldiers talked to them about the U.S. Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

And one defector from the Soviet Union told them that freedom was a privilege and not a

When asked if the $700 trip funded by their club was worthwhile, Usher said, "Oh yes it was worth it. I developed a greater extent of patriotism."

Woeste said, "We also met a lot of nice people from all over the United States, including a couple of 'Valley girls' from California. They said the event was 'totally awesome.""

Leadership ideas brought back by the girls for their club were fund raisers, including a Little Miss Anchor pageant, a Valentine formal dance, car wash, and answering children's letters to

The two pointed out that the club already provides services such as singing at the hospital at Christmas and sponsoring a child for Thanksgiving and Christmas with toys and food.

The club also cleans up the school after events, provides refreshments for graduating seniors after their graduation ceremony and raises funds for the school.

But the most exciting thing about the conference itself, according to Woeste was, "They made you feel like you were there... a part of the revolution by the way they dressed and talk-

"In a dark room lighted with candles they spoke of the reason they signed the Declaration of Independence and its consequences and asked us to sign too and commit ourselves.

"As each of us signed, all of the participants sang the National Anthem."

Usher said she came away from the conference feeling, "I had taken all of this (the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence, the revolution and our freedom) for granted.

To fund their trip to Valley Forge the girls sold candy, held two car washes and sponsored a Mr. Leggs contest at Pelham High School.

The Pelham Anchor Club is sponsored by the Birmingham Pilot Club and their school sponsor is Susan Payne.

sucioy County's commission chairman and county commission members will receive an increase in pay this January.

The increases will result from a resolution the commissioners passed Monday morning.

That resolution confirms the commission's concurrence with two state laws passed in the 1982 regular session of the state legislature.

Act 82-627 provides that no probate judge who is on a salary and who serves as commission chairman shall receive total compensation of less than $30,000 per year.

Act 82-552 provides that no county commissioner shall receive compensation that is less than $9,600 per year.

Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden currently earns a salary of $26,000 per year. In addition he receives an expense allowance of $5,000 for serving as probate judge and a separate allowance of $5,000 for serving as commission chairman.

The new law does not affect Snowden's two expense allowances.

This means that the commission chairman will see his total income rise from $36,000 to $40,000 per year. That is an increase of $4,000.

County commissioners currently receive $200 per month in salary and $400 per month in expense allowances. This amounts to a total of $7,200 per year.

A taste of Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving. It's a time of harvest. A time of thanks. A time for families to be together. And last but not least, a time for some of the best feasting of the year. Ever notice how Thanksgiving cooking draws a crowd to the kitchen? Just ask a good cook, like Sue Morris of Columbiana. While she pacifies her five year old son Paul and her husband Benny with a mixer bowl sample, seven-year old Ben sneaks a taste of pumpkin pie behind mom's back. Think there'll be enough left when other family members drop by to visit?

Sewer line turned down

County wants sheriff's input on liquor requests

by Fred Guarino

The Shelby County Commission does not want the Humane Society to run a sewerage line across its property.

The society asked permission to run a line to its new addition across county property to reduce the length of pipe needed.

Not crossing the county land means that 1,800 feet of line must be laid down Industrial Road to Highway 70 instead of only 800 feet if the Humane Society could cut across the county land.

But commission members were concerned that the county might want to use its property in the future.

While no vote was taken on the matter, the longer route was suggested unless arrangements could be made to run the sewerage line along property lines.

County engineer Gary Ray presented the request for the Humane Society. The commission had no objection to helping the society with the engineering of the sewerage

The Shelby County Commission has voted to pass'a resolution supporting the construction of a county water based recreation park on Beeswax Creek.

The 180 acre park support was requested by the Shelby County Resource Development Commit-

Commissioner Jake Morris said, "I think it would help the community. It is in the area of the public boat launch and that is a headache."

Commissioner Harold Davenport pointed out that the committee will seek both the funds and development of the park.

Policy

Without taking official action, the county commission has agreed to use a policy drafted by the county attorney for approval or disapproval of liquor licenses.

The new policy calls for a letter to be sent to the county sheriff upon receipt of applications.

The letter asks the sheriff to give a brief report indicating his answers to the following ques-

What criminal record, if any, does the applicant have? Has there been a previous alcoholic beverage license issued at the particular site, and if so, what experience has law enforcement had there?

Do you have any knowledge yourself as to whether or not applicant or any member of applicant's immediate family has ever held or applied for and been refused any type of alcoholic beverage license in the State of Alabama?

forcement agency? Any observations of Shelby County sheriff's office personnel concerning applicant and/or his application? Recommendations of Shelby County sheriff's department concerning approval or rejection of Commissioner Harold Davenport asked the county attorney to draft bills for the state legislature concerning control of concerts in the county. Commissioner Jake Morris asked him to draw up a similar bill regarding hazardous chemicals and waste.

In other action: The commission voted to support the National Association of County Commissions with $240.50.

The commission voted to request new bids for a civil defense vehicle and to extend the lease agreement for the current vehicle by 30 days.

Commissioners voted to send Myra Davis to a Job Training Partnership Act meeting in Birmingham, December 1-2. Commissioners voted to have the county attorney notify occupants of mobile homes in Beat 12 that legal action will be taken if those units are not removed. Davenport requested that a letter notifying department heads of their budget for the year include a statement that no raises or new employees are allowed.

The commission voted to let retired Judge James H. Sharbutt purchase a county owned .22 calibre pistol for $50. The judge had had it in his possession during his active days on the bench.

Commissioners also voted to make the First Bank of Columbiana the county's depository for one year.

Minutes of the last meeting and county bills were approved with one exception.

Prichard refuses to step down

Mayor Carl Prichard of Calera said Monday that he will not resign his office.

At a news conference he spoke of the petition that was presetned to him last week asking him to resign and issued the following statement:

"After due consideration of the petition presented to me, at the last council meeting by Mr. Howard Hughes, I have decided to continue to serve the people of Calera for the next two years, as I have served them for the last two years. During this last two years I have strived to serve the people of our city with honesty, hard work, and integrity aimed at achieving an efficient and progressive government that will benefit all the people.

'This city government has been administered without favoritism with a supreme effort to bring about the most for every tax dollar we receive and to enforce the laws of our city with dedication and effort to end the illegal drug traffic and other illegal activities that had been occuring in our city.

'There is absolutely no merit in the charges against our police chief and his department. The implementation of sound fiscal policy within our city in the impending grant from the federal government to rebuild our sewer system are indeed milestones of progress for Calera's future.

'The urban development grant we have just received, the expansion of our city park, the rebuilding of our library, and the general cleanup of our city, coupled with the removal of old buildings, has been carried out with only one thing in mind. That is, the improvement of our city for the benefit of its citizens.

'It is indeed unfortunate that there are misunderstandings from some who think that the progress and growth of our city will harm them in any way. A healthy growing and progressive Calera will benefit every one of us because we will have a better place in which to live. The door to my office is always open, and I will be glad to discuss any problem that any citizen has concerning the progress and actions of our city government.

'Therefore, a complete report will be sent to the citizens of Calera outlining the progress that has been made and details concerning the future plans to make our city one of the finest small cities in the state of Alabama. I deeply appreciate the support of many during this last week."

Prichard was elected mayor in the municipal elections of 1980, with a vote of 340.

In the contest he had two opponents. The incumbent, George Roy, received 185 votes, and Larry Farris received 166 votes.

But Roy conceded to Prichard and there was no runoff. In his first months in office,

Columbiana gets jump on Xmas

The Columbiana City Council established a tradition at Thursday's meeting.

Acting on a suggestion from Chamber of Commerece President Jim Strickland, the council voted to put up Christmas lights before Thanksgiving.

In his letter to the council, Strickland said that a survey of merchants revealed that they were in favor of lighting the city as close to Thanksgiving as possi-

"It would keep our home folks shopping locally and add to the atmosphere," Strickland wrote.

Going along with the merchants on the proposal, Councilwoman Jessie Jones said she would like to make it a tradition to turn on the Christmas lights in Columbiana the day before Thanksgiving.

(However, the city crew went right to work, and the lights were put up on Saturday.)

After Mayor Buck Falkner gave a report from, County Engineer Gary Ray on the cost of a sidewalk project at Elvin Hill Elementary School, Jones spoke up for the school trustees.

Recommending only one walk on the east side of the street, Ray listed the cost between $30,000 and $35,000.

The trustees, Jones said, felt there wasn't room on the stadium side of the street. Although they would like a sidewalk on both sides of the street, their preference would be to have it on the west side if there were just one walk.

She also proposed constructing a crossover to the east side of the street at the high school. It was Ray's thinking, the Mayor explained, that youngsters would be darting back and forth across the street if there were two sidewalks. Noting that construction couldn't begin any time soon since winter is approaching, Falkner asked the council to give the matter further study. "I'm real pleased over this proiect - it gets our business in order," declared Jones after the council voted on the resolution to Continued on page 5

...and the boys keep winning

Two county football teams will be reaching for new honors Friday night, as they go into the state high school football semi finals on their home turf.

The Calera Eagles and the Thompson Warriors, who have beaten strong opponents in their drive for state championships, will kickoff their games at 7:30 p.m. at the schools' respective stadiums.

Calera advanced to the Class A semi finals by defeating Ariton at home 21-6 November 19.

Thompson earned the honors in Class 3A football by defeating Demopolis in Demopolis 22-14 November 20.

The Eagles overcame a 0-6 halftime deficit to win and Thompson broke a 14-14 tie in overtime. Calera will take on Sweetwater High School and Thompson's Warriors will face Greenville

High School. Both schools won Area 8, Region 4 and quarter final contests to keep their championship

Pelham seeks lower fire rate

by David F. Moore .

The Pelham Fire Department has saved lives and has saved property. By next year it may be saving businesses and residents additional money on fire insurance.

Because of improvements in the fire department over the last three years -- many accomplished by the firefighters' in their free time -- the city has asked the state Insurance Service Office (ISO) to upgrade Pelham's fire rating from Class 6 to Class 4.

"Shoot," said PFD Chief William Bryers, "we really want a Class 1. But we'll settle for a

A Class 4 rating would mean a savings of $50-$80 per year on residential fire insurance, according to city councilman Bob Cleveland.

'Cleveland said the savings on commercial fire rates would be a plus for Pelham in the eyes of industries who are looking for new locations, especially in the "world of marginal profits."

Amidst words of praise from other councilmen, Cleveland formally proposed seeking reclassification at the November 15 council meeting. Mayor Burk Dunaway readily agreed and a request for a new reclassification inspection has been mailed to ISO in Montgomery.

But don't rush out and spend the anticipated savings yet. Although city officials appear confident lower rates will be granted, the change may take nine months or so.

The ISO sets Alabama fire insurance schedules according to the level of protection offered by local fire departments. Class 10 is no protection; Class 1, as good it gets.

Pelham last requested a new rating in 1979 when it built a second fire station at the entrance to Green Park South on U.S. 31. In October of that year, ISO lowered Pelham fire rates from an '8' to a '6.'

Since then, fire department with shooting for something betpersonnel have built a training facility in Pelham Industrial Park, further upgrading their training program. In addition, a new dispatcher booth, a 24-hour call recorder, separate emergency phone lines and other ISO required improvements have been Bryers pointed out that ISO has also revised its rating method. "Now they give you credit for what you do have, not penalize you for what you don't have," he explained.

Pelham already has one of the lower fire ratings for a city its size. "But there's nothing wrong ing areas into the city, but they were not successful.

In recent weeks, Calera received one of the very few federal state grants given cities in Alabama this year; a $3 million grant for improving the sewer system. The grant is on a 75-25 basis, and will cost the city somewhere between $800,000 and $1 million, but is considered by municipal officials elsewhere, a major feather in Calera's cap. Prichard is given credit for pushing hard to get it.

Salaries

The new law states that compensation means combining the salary and expense allowance. This means the commissioners will see their total income go from $7,200 to $9,600 per year.

To become effective, both acts required approval of a resolution by the county governing body.

Commissioners Davenport and Morris voted in favor of the resolution placed on the floor by Davenport. Commissioner Alpha Lowe did not vote at all.

Lowe later told the Reporter that if he had been re-elected to office he would have voted against the resolution. ter," Dunaway said.

The Pelham FD operates three fire engines, one rescue and one brush truck. It has an annual budget of $468,000

At the recent council meeting, Bryers introduced Mike Harris, the department's 19th and newest paid firefighter. Harris has been a volunteer with Pelham for two placed on the assailant, not the victim," rape counselor Claudia McNeely stressed following a meeting with police chiefs last week.

McNeely is one of the volunteer counselors working in the rape response program now in effect at Shelby Medical Center.

In an effort to be helpful to police as well as the rape victim, McNeely and the director of the Crisis Center's Rape Response Program, Donna Rickert, conferred with representatives of law enforcement agencies at their monthly meeting.

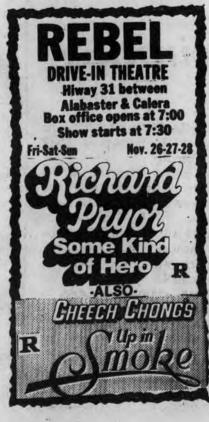

Head Emergency Room nurse at SMC, Charlie Ivey, and Kay Ward from the hospital's social services department were also at the meeting to offer input.

Ward reported that the hospital has only had five rape victims this year but noted there were probably many unreported cases.

Through community education, the rape response counselors hope that more victims will report the crime.

The number to call for 24 hour a day counseling help is 323-7273 (RAPE).

Explaining that an effort is made to relieve victims of the guilt they sometimes feel about being raped, McNeely said that "We want to get the blame the intent of the act was violence, department agreed that a

"Women are prone to think that the act may have been provoked by what they were wearing or something they said or did," she related.

In support of the program, Ivey told the law enforcement agents that doctors who examine rape victims like to have a counselor present.

Chief Investigator Reed Smith from the Shelby County Sheriff's counselor's presence was helpful. In cases where victims were especially distraught, Smith said he was unable to talk with them until a counselor arrived.

Mentioning that there is a charge at SMC for the examination, Ivey said that no one would be turned away for financial reasons. "We can handle these cases like we do indigent patients," she said.

Beyond math class

Shelby County Enrichment Resource Centers are designed to take students beyond the intellectual challenges of basic math and history classes. For instance, at Riverchase Middle, sixth graders Lance Meister (above, left) and Todd Chambers develop conceptual thinking skills over a game of chess while eighth grader Mike Dueitt observes. ### How do you challenge exceptional minds? Pave a new Yellow Brick Road for them

by David F. Moore

The quest for a brain prompted the mindless Scarecrow to join Dorothy on the Yellow Brick Road to Oz.

Most humans need not make such a trip, but come preequipped with functioning, average-type brains. Grammar and high school, trade school or college will generally challenge and satisfy the average mind's yen for learning.

But how do you challenge the young mind that functions beyond average levels? The I.Q. that's measured at 130, 150 or beyond?

To cultivate this kind of fertile grey matter, the Yellow Brick Road of education has to lead beyond basic math and history classes at the end of the hall.

Oz? No, not exactly. But Enrichment Resource Centers (ERC's) now provide intellectual challenges at school for exceptionally bright students -sometimes called "gifted."

ERC's go beyond the bounds of basic textbooks and class work generally found in school. According to ERC literature, the idea is to provide an environment to nurture creative talents, independent and conceptual thinking, love of knowledge, positive selfconcepts and respect for humani-

The programs aren't for everyone.

Within the Shelby County school system, however, 350 students have been identified to date as ERC material. According to Dr. Lusia MacPherson, supervisor of the the county's gifted students program, that number is still growing as more students are tested and identified.

MacPherson said Riverchase, Valley, Thompson Middle and Thompson High first offered students access to resource teachers in the late '70's. Three years ago the state initiated required ERC's and the programs are now available to students from all 21 county schools, grades K-12.

Initially, 180 ERC students were identified in the Shelby County school system, but that number has now nearly doubled. State requirements for student

ERC eligibility are: 1)Teacher referral

2)Scores at or above the 90th percentile in three of the four categories on the California Achievement Test

3)An acceptable score on the Slosson screening test

4) A score of at least 130 on the Stanford-Binet intelligence test Students identified as ERC material are offered the program as an elective. Class availability and student participation vary according to schools and individual students, but MacPherson said all involved students receive 1-5 hours of ERC class time per week.

ERC options open to students include mentorships with local professionals, summer scholarships and library privileges at UM, chess tournaments, and participation in the scholar bowls, secretary.

MacPherson said. Some of the options have been, or are being expanded to general school bodies, she noted.

In a word, ERC programs provide "challenges."

"I try to teach my students first, how to think. Secondly, how to think creatively," explained Cindy Kirkpatrick, ERC instructor at Riverchase and Montevallo Middle Schools.

"These kids are different, but at the same time, not different," she explained. "Some of them have IQ's of 165, but they're still children, still students, still part of the human race."

"They can't stay in their rooms and play with their computers all day," Kirkpatrick continued. "They have to cope with the real world and be a part of humanity,

In the ERC, there are no textbooks. There is no set curriculum. So what goes on in "class?"

All sorts of things. For example, at Riverchase this year the ERC is on the Yellow Brick Road

·A December 15 musical production of "Mr. Scrooge"

•School chess tournament culminating in a county-wide championship ·Scholarship bowl participation, and work on the countywide literary magazine due out in January.

ERC programs are funded through the state and county, but receive no federal funding like other special education programs, MacPherson said. Furthermore, some of the schools, such as those in Columbiana and Thompson Elementary, have active parent support groups, she said.

All county ERC teachers have or are actively pursuing masters degrees in gifted education. Other local ERC teachers are Debra Reeves, Martha Brewer, Nancy Brown, Nancy Hayes, and Marilyn Kirkland, all of whom hold classes at several schools.

Law personnel board remains in the dark

Even though county attorney Frank Ellis recently advised the Shelby County Commission to get the Law Enforcement Pesonnel board involved in matters regarding the Sheriff's department, they have not followed that advice.

"If it weren't for the press," remarked board member Mickey Johnson, "we wouldn't know what was going on."

In light of recent decisions regarding pay raises for deputies, he had expected someone from the commission to be present at last week's meeting, Johnson told fellow board members.

When the deputies 11 percent pay raise was passed by the commission after a meeting with representatives from the Sheriff's department, Ellis recommended the commission enlist the cooperation of the Personnel Board in any future actions that may be required.

The implication was that personnel might have to be laid off if money runs out.

Following a question from the jail administration regarding vacation time, the board voted to delete the section of rule 6.9 which says that one week's vacation shall be given to employees who have been with department from six months to a year.

Saying that he had never heard of a business which gave a week's vacation after six months of employment, board chairman Teddy Brasher added that Sheriff Buddy Glasgow had wanted the change.

The board made it clear, however, that their decision would not affect present chairman and Mickey Johnson as employees.

Vacation time was questioned because several CETA employees who have been with the department a year in November are eligible for two weeks vacation.

There was some confusion about whether the time had to be taken in this calendar year and concern because of the shortage of personnel.

Although vacation time is based on the date of employment, the board agreed that supervisors should be able to schedule vacations any time during the calendar year.

Board member Crawford Cox pointed out that if any of the former CETA workers took two weeks now, they wouldn't get any more vacation until next November.

The board agreed to issue a policy statement to be sent to every member of the department informing them of how vacation time is figured.

It was Johnson's suggestion that scheduling for the following year be done in November with employees listing first, second and third choices of the dates they wanted.

Employees with seniority would have preference, he added. In other business, the board reelected Teddy Brasher as board

Women, as mothers, are to," rule the household, give no occasion to the adversary for reviling: for already some are turned aside after Satan," I Tim. 5-14-15.

In Titus 2:4-5 the aged women are to "train the young women to love their husbands, to love their children (note: same LOVE as John 3:16), to be sober-minded, chaste, workers at home, kind being in subjection to their own husbands, that the word of GOD be not blasphemed".

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

Evelyn Chapman White and I have been friends longer than a lot of folks live. All the way from the first grade under Aunt Louella Nelson to one day last week when she called to tell me about another friend. She said she'd been blue for a week, but after reading my story about the fishing trip she had laughed herself well again. Sometimes other things are better than pills.

Another call, this one from Alex Fancher. Alex is a big town retired lawyer who went to high school here years ago. He and I set a hen nest on fire to get rid of the mites. The nest burned and set the henhouse on fire and it burned. The dog-trot set the wellshed on fire and it was burning like all get out when Alex and I got there. But we got it out, with the help from half a dozen other guys who came along. And this is to tell Alex that I went back up there today, almost 60 years later, and there wasn't a sign of a mite anywhere.

Mr. and Mrs. F.W. Cooksey live at Santa Rosa Beach, Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Cooksey and Amy and I are in-law kinfolks, and we were down to see them while visiting the Buddy Brown family who are kinfolks too. He said he went to Florida seven years ago to dodge the cold winters around Irondale. They got settled in on the 23rd of December. On the 27th the bayou froze all the way across. A week later, while watching a man dig his well, he stood out there with a pair of longjohns on and two sweat shirts and an overcoat. He shook for two hours before he went inside to keep from freezing. But things, he told me, got better later on, and have been better ever since.

A letter in the mail from Jane Fowler Carter with a check inside for the Columbiana Christmas fund. It is the beginning. In the end we'll have around $2500. Because we are determined, all of us, that not a single child in our area will miss seeing Santa Claus. It has been that way for years. Maybe it's the nicest thing we do.

Cat and mouse car games and oddball phone calls have been harrassing a Wilsonville woman and a Calera man. The incidents' reports were listed on the sheriff's blotter report for the eight-day period ending November 18.

The Wilsonville woman told deputies that a white vehicle with rust and body damage on it has been following her from Lloyd's Restaurant for about 20 days. She said the driver plays cat and mouse games with her on the highway.

The man from Calera reported receiving numerous phone calls from an unknown white male who tells him he will receive instructions at a later call.

The Calera man told deputies the next day that a suspicious white car drove by his house several times.

Investigators said a family member is suspected in the theft of $6,500 worth of jewlery from a Columbiana residence.

The November 14 incident is one of nine thefts and four burglaries listed on the blotter during the report period.

Numerous items were listed as stolen in the burglary of the Standard Company in Calera. Other burglaries include: four chain saws stolen at Hatcher Hardware in Westover; a car broken down on highway 42; and an undetermined amount of money taken from a Chelsea residence.

Reported thefts include: chain saw and tool box missing from a vehicle parked in Wilton; building materials taken from a

Meadowbrook home site; a piece of furniture stolen from a Rt. 2 Leeds house (suspect); a movie camera and other items taken from an Alabaster woman's car; a ceiling fan removed from an unoccupied Montevallo home; two electrical sign extension cords swiped from the 280 Package Store; and a pocket knife taken from a vehicle parked at a Chelsea convenience store (suspect). The burned remains of a Freightliner tractor stolen from a Birmingham man was recovered at Lake Purdy.

And because of vandalism problems, stepped up patrols have been requested at Mount Calvary Baptist Church on highway 74.

Alabama Scene ...shotgun style

It's been a while since we've done a shotgun-type column... a scattering of unrelated items, to

Nothing but applause has been heard from Gov.-elect Wallace's decision not to have an elaborate inauguration on Jan. 17. The economy being what it is, Wallace rightly figured that the counties didn't need to go to the expense of building floats, etc. Besides, Wallace has already been to three inaugurations, a fourth one would probably be monotonous...

Goat Hill won't be quite the same with the announcement that Al Fox has retired as chief political writer for The Birmingham News. Fox went up on the Hill 22 years ago, succeeding the late and legendary Hugh Sparrow. What a bird, that Sparгоw...

Mrs. Willa Adams, wife of Justice Oscar Adams of the Supreme Court, had known for months that she had terminal cancer. But she was determined to live long enough to see her husband become the first black ever elected to state office in Alabama. She did. Mrs. Adams her husband's historic election... Speculation continues to increase on who will do what in the new administration. One interesting tidbit -- John (Bubba) Trotman, the Montgomery cattleman who was runner-up for Agriculture Commissioner, has been mentioned as a possible appointee as State Finance Director. He is a nephew of State Treasurer Annie Laurie Gunter, who is super-close to the Wallace camp. A likely appointee as Pensions and Security commissioner -- Dot Moore, hyper-active head of the Montgomery Democratic Executive Comittee. She's given credit for Wallace's powerful showing in Montgomery County on Nov. 2... Emory Folmar, the defeated GOP candidate, is back on the job as mayor and already gearing up to seek another term in August. Despite his disappointing showing in Montgomery in the governor's race, Folmar is an odds-on favorite to win reelection as mayor...

And have you seen the sticker some Alabama farmers have on the bumpers of their pick-ups this fall? It says: "If Dolly Pardon was a farmer she'd be flat busted

Did George Wallace promise several members of the Alabama Legislature that he would not hand-pick the next Speaker of the House of Representatives?

Rep. Rick Manley of Demopolis swears up and down that Wallace made that promise to him. Rep. Alvin Holmes of Montgomery--who has never been known to agree with Manley on anything--agrees with him this time. He too insists Wallace made an identical committment to several black legislators.

Both legislators claim Wallace told them he would submit to the House a list of several names, any of whom would be acceptable to him as Speaker.

But alas, a few days ago Wallace announced that he wanted Rep. Tom Drake of Cullman to be speaker, and in so doing he stirred up the first controversy of a new administration that hasn't even begun.

When Manley, Holmes and others screamed "foul" Wallace spokesman insisted that lawmakers misunderstood the governorelect. "He didn't promise to send up a list...He promised to consider sending up a list," was the official explanation. And after considering that approach, he rejected it.

Drake is a veteran legislator, having served in both the House and Senate. But an even bigger plus than that is that he has been a Wallace supporter from day one. Also going for him is the fact that he has close ties with the Alabama Education Association. Had this not been so it is unlikely the AEA would have abruptly dropped its support for Rep. Roy Johnson of Tuscaloosa, who had been the favorite to be elected speaker. Johnson was tabbed as speaker pro tem by Wallace.

Manley, despite being snubbed by Wallace, says he will not give up the fight. He still hopes to put together a coalition of disgruntled blacks, Republicans and anti-Wallace lawmakers to defeat

Drake. It won't be easy. Odds and Ends -- There was a strange contradiction at the polls on Nov. 2. The Republican candidate for governor was bombed; an incumbent Republican congressman was ousted; another GOP Congressman survived by the skin of his teeth, yet in legislative races GOP candidates never had it so good. During the past administration there were three Republican House members, no Republican senators. Come January there will be eight Republicans in the House, three in the Senate...Blacks also improved their legislative position. The new Legislature will include 20 blacks---17 in the House, three in the Senate.

How soon is too soon when it comes to getting ready for Christmas?

get the Thanksgiving turkey on the table, we begin to hear the jingle of sleigh bells. Does all this lead you to believe

I mean really! Before we even a serious column may be in the works? If you're getting an idea like that, you're absolutely right. But I'll have to admit the idea isn't mine. I got the word through my editor that a reader was tiring of my ding-a-ling humor and wanted me to get serious for a change. So I'll try to make a reader happy by pretending that I'm not a ding-a-ling all the time.

Why are we supposed to be so iolly during the Christmas season and all the many weeks leading up to it anyway?

If we're talking about celebrating the birth of Christ, I do consider that a joyous occasion. Maybe if we could condense the season, I could recapture some of the expectation I felt in my younger days.

As it is, gloom begins settling in as soon as stores and streets start being lit and the Christmas hoopla begins.

It's almost in full swing now, but at least I'm grateful not to have heard any Christmas music

Of course I understand that merchants want to make as much off the season as they can and I can hardly blame them.

But the more merchandise I see advertised on TV, in the newspapers and in the stores, the more depressed I get.

Even though gift suggestions come from every direction, I go absolutely blank when I go shopping. And having abandoned letter writing long ago, I can no longer even face up to the simple task of penning a note and signing my name on a Christmas card. I'd like to get a mailbox full of cards though. If only my friends and relatives were like those of a friend who told me she'd given up sending cards too. "But I still get a bunch of them," she exclaimed gleefully! If I had my druthers, we'd put up a tree the day before Christmas, enjoy a meal with family and close friends and just buy gifts for the kids. And I'd like everyone to take the time to consider the best gift of all - the gift that came down from heaven.

Well hallelujah - I'm glad I wrote this. I really think I'm beginning to the Christmas spirit after all!

What's to be thankful for?

by Richard Shelby Congressman

 As November draws to a close, we think of the time of the year --Thanksgiving. What is there to be thankful for? Many of us ask ourselves as news of unemployment, inflation, famine, terrorist attacks, and other tribulations spill into the morning headlines.

Indeed this Thanksgiving season seems to find America wrestling with a sense of frustration and discouragement, but this is not the first Thanksgiving Day celebrated at a time of adversity. Americans have much to give thanks for, just as did our Pilgrim forebears and other hardpressed generations.

At this time of the season we need to remember to give thanks for all the many blessings bestowed upon us as a Nation. We need to recall the strengths and virtues which characterize our great country - to give thanks for those -- and to honor and respect the characteristics of our American system which have led us to our important position in the world today and upon which we must rely as we move toward even greater heights in the years ahead. To name only a few:

Thanks for the dedicated men who serve in our armed forcesready at a moment's notice to make the supreme sacrifice.

Thanks for the many humane employers who do care about the welfare of their employees.

Thanks for the guardians of the law who risk their lives in fighting fire, in fighting crime, in fighting the hidden subversion that could destroy us from

Thanks for the men and women who teach in our schools -- inspired only by devotion to the single cause of a trained youth. Thanks for those who serve in our hospitals and institutions caring for the sick and the handicapped.

Thanks for the freedoms proclaimed in the Bill of Rights.

Thanks for the achievements in communications -- the miraculous benefits of the telephone, the radio and televi-

Thanks for all the vaccines to prevent disease, for the progress of cancer research, and for the great advances being made in the field of medicine to relieve many forms of illness.

The list could go on. Yes, each of these items can be hedged with ifs and buts. We do not close our eyes to the severity of today's problems or the magnitude of the wisdom needed to solve them.

But keeping our trials in perspective, remembering and acknowledging each step of progress and the Godgiven good already at hand, we help lighten the burdens ahead -- and open the way to overcoming them.

it. Most letters do go into

Here's how to write to the editor

Like many of you who push pencils from 9 to 5, I have a desktop telephone that is convinced it's on piecework. It rings all day long.

As often as not, the callers are angered or pleased, saddened or gladdened, chagrined or heartened by something they saw in the paper. They pound my eardrum for a while, and then I suggest they write a letter to the editor. They usually say they will, but they rarely follow through.

Why? You tell me. Maybe it is the curse of timidity. Maybe it's laziness or illiteracy or writer's block. Or maybe, just maybe, people have no idea how to write to the editor and fear they'll look foolish trying.

Here, for them, is everything they ever wanted to know about writing a letter to the editor (*but were afraid to ask).

First, the basics.

In order for a letter to appear in print, typists and editors must be able to read it. That means the handwriting must be legible. If yours isn't, you should print or use a typewriter. You can't expect us to publish a letter we cannot read. If it's only a word or phrase we can't quite make out, and the letter is otherwise worthwhile, we may have to guess what it means - and perhaps distort your meaning.

We don't like to guess, and when in doubt we try to contact you. We need to know how to. Print or type your name, address and daytime phone number where we will easily see it. And yes, we insist on printing your name and community. (We don't print your street address or phone number.) Sign your letter as evidence of good faith.

Depending on the backlog at the time, a letter may appear a day or a month after we get print.

Which ones don't? Open letters, written to one person but sent to everyone and his brother, don't, see print. Nor does poetry. We don't publish personal correspondence such as expressions of gratitude to neighbors and friends. Complaints about business, better handled by an action line, don't run. Neither do profanity-laden letters. Letters of religious interpretation or religious assertion don't see print. Correspondence from candidates for public office, unless in response to criticism printed in the paper is treated as news, and editors determine whether it deserves to be reported in the regular news columns. What we do like to print is a variety of opinion about public affairs - local, regional, national, foreign. And we love to print letters that disagree with our own editorials. There's nothing like a good controversy to stir up reader-

So much for the basics. Let's move on to the advanced course.

Remember you're trying to communicate. Do your readers a favor and make your letter easy to read. Don't force people to decipher it. Spell things out. For example, if you refer to a particular article, mention its headline and the date it was published; a sentence summarizing the article is

Be clear. Keep your sentences short and to the point. If you want to impress people, impress them with the depth of your knowledge and the elegance of your reasoning, not the length of your sentences and obscurity of your vocabulary.

Expect us to edit for spelling, punctuation, syntax and so forth. Rarely do we receive a grammatically perfect letter. But it's up to you to get the facts straight. Never assume anything, always check it.

Now for the refinements. Well-written letters share a few qualities. Among them are coherence, documentation and conciseness. Even before you pick up a pen, sit back and think about what you want to say. Ask yourself the questions someone else might ask. What exactly is your point? Does it make sense? What makes you think that way? Where did you get your facts? Why should anyone else think the way you Having thought it through, turn your attention to organizing your letter. Be prepared to confine a single letter to a single topic, and devote yourself to it. Don't ramble. Give your letter a beginning, a middle, an end. State your purpose at the start, then proceed to explain yourself, and finally wrap it up.

A few extra bits of advice. Instead of using exclamation marks, find powerful verbs. Write in the active voice. Get rid of unnecessary words. Be as specific as you can. Avoid cliches. Go ahead and revise what you have; even Hemingway spent half his time revising and rewriting. Set aside your finished letter for a day or two and then read it with a fresh eye, or ask someone else to read it and tell you what he truly thinks.

Finally, have the courage to speak out. Democracy isn't for the meek and quiet. It thrives on debate and disagreement. Go ahead and pipe up.

Agreement rescinded

Columbiana boards won't merge

The plan to merge boards in the city of Columbiana for greater operating efficiency has come to a halt.

Mayor Buck Falkner informed the council Thursday evening that the water board had rescinded their agreement to merge with the gas board and sewer department.

Having attended the water board meeting when the action was taken, Falkner said that Truitt Ray and Ty Sockwell had voted to rescind the agreement while chairman Lewis Walker was opposed.

The two water board members who were against the merger saw no advantage to it, the mayor explained.

Because of a loan from the Farmer's Home Administration, board members understood that the FHA would have to set their budget should they become part. of a utility board.

Further, all records would have to be kept separately.

According to the mayor, the water board also felt they would be at a disadvantage in placing members on a combined board.

It was assumed that the three members of the gas board would remain in place since the name of that board has been officially changed to utility board.

A resolution of the council gives the mayor a place on the five member board. So that would only leave one place open for a water board member.

Another bit of news given the council concerning the water board involved the proposed move to disconnect the water of individuals with delinquent garbage bills. Since the council had voted to give the water board authority to disconnect the water of residents who had delinquent sewer fees, it was thought the department could do the same thing with residents who refuse to pay for garbage pickup.

However, League of Municipalities legal advisor, Perry Roquemore, has informed the city that such action would be

His advice, which the city agreed to follow, was to institute action in small claims court against the offenders who have the biggest bills.

Although water is still running in the homes of individuals who have long overdue sewer bills, it will reportedly be turned off after legal notices have been placed in the newspaper.

Alabaster handles five DUI cases

Five DUI cases were on the Alabaster Municipal Court docket last week.

accept the codification of city ordinances. The Birmingham Regional Planning Commission performed the task which spanned a nine month period and eliminated duplicate and outdated laws. Restaurant owner Don Hoffman got some bad news from the council regarding his pool tables.

According to state law, no one under the age of 19 is allowed to go into a billiard parlor.

Hoffman had informed the council on a previous appearance, that his main clientele are young people since he is close to the high school.

Sympathizing with Hoffman, Jones said it was probably an antiquated law, but since it is still on the books the council has to abide by it.

Hoffman predicted there would be some protests forthcoming when he removed the tables.

In other business, the city voted to accept the low bid for gasoline which was submitted by Stinson Oil.

Four bids were sent out and three companies responded. They were Stinson Oil, Tidmore's Gulf and W.H. Thomas Oil.

As Barnes pulled out of County Road 22 onto Hwy. 119 heading toward Montevallo, her car was struck by a northbound car driven by Clay Owen of Columbiana.

"She must have thought it was a four way stop," Rutledge said, adding that she and her friend saw the Owen car coming, but remembering that it had seemed a long way off.

"I hope you'll put this in the paper," Rutledge said. "There should be a traffic light at that intersection." (there is a blinking light there now)

A recent opinion poll has shown that Americans are buying generic products more frequently than even two years ago. Generic products are the less expensive non-brand-name items on store shelves. The best sellers among generics are grocery store items such as canned fruit salads, paper goods, jams, and jellies. Also making inroads into consumer buying habits are generic drugs, beer, liquor and gasoline. The primary reason is price. Generics average 30% below the average overall prices of similar products. Store brand products offer an even greater challenge to name brand products because consumers perceive their quality to be higher than generics.

Vincent fifth graders learn first aid

Eighty six fifth graders at Vincent Elementary School have completed basic first aid training. The course was initiated by Pat Courington who serves as chairman of the school's health room.

It was her feeling, Courington said, that youngsters should be able to help each other if simple injuries occur in areas such as the playground.

The Red Cross Youth Services course was designed for students in grades K-6 with six hours of instruction.

However, the Vincent fifth graders spent a total of eight hours by going into greater depth with the skills.

Beginning the latter part of September, instruction was sandwiched into any spare time the students had during the school

"We might spend 30-45 minutes one or two days a week," Courington explained. And even though the course was extended over several weeks, the interest of students remained keen, the instructor noted.

By the end of the school year every grade in the school will have taken the course, Courington said.

The course teaches basic essential emergency care. Students learned about bleeding, bandaging, applying splints, treating shock, mouth to mouth rescucitation and preventing choking.

A unit on caustic poisoning and recognizing poisonous plants around the home was also studied.

One written test was given, Courington reported, and all the skills, she said, had to be done to her satisfaction.

At an assembly last week, the 86 fifth graders who successfully completed the course received certificates and pins with the BAT initials (Basic Aid Training).

As they received their certificates, the students each placed a lighted candle in a cake which was served later at a reception along with punch.

Calera Eagles THS Warriors reach semis

Thanks to a 21-6 comeback win over Ariton, the Calera Eagles advanced to semi final Class A football competition, Friday night.

By virtue of a 22-14 overtime win at Demopolis, the Thompson Warriors did the same in Class 3-A playoff action, Saturday.

advance to state semi finals

On a rain soaked field in Calera, the scoreboard twinkled: visitors 6, home 0 at half-time, Friday night.

The contest was a quarter final state playoff match between the Calera Eagles and the Ariton

Blue Cats. The home team was Calera and the Eagles appeared as if they might go down for the count. Their playoff train appeared to be derailed. Coach Danny Alverson addressed his troops in the locker room. His last words were, "In 24 minutes it will be all over."

Whatever else Alverson may have told his squad about techniques and strategy, that last statement must have been filled with

The scoreboard signaled: home 21, visitors 6 at the end of the gridiron battle. The Eagles had come back.

For the second time since 1978. the Calera Eagles advanced to the semi finals of the state Class A playoff action. The win gives the Eagles the right to play the winner of the Brantleyville -Sweetwater match-

Ariton brought a 10-1 record to Calera, its only loss coming against a 2 A squad.

Trapped

The Eagles hit the field with a 9-2 mark.

Ariton Coach Dick Chastain told the Reporter before the contest, "I think we are going to play some real fundamental football and get after them. The team which makes the fewest mistakes will win."

Coach Danny Alverson said before the match, "They are big and strong and I am scared to death. I'm too scared to make a prediction. They are bigger than we thought they were."

He added, "This is a big one

It appeared as if what Chastain said about mistakes was going to

The Eagles did make many mistakes and they did trail at the But Chastain did not count on a Calera defense that would negate enough of those mistakes to keep Ariton from upping that lead.

And, while Alverson may have been scared, it appeared that his team was not planning on rolling over and playing dead for

Early into the first quarter, the Eagles made their first mistake, and the Blue Cats recovered a loose ball on the Eagle 16 yard

Three plays later Ronnie Stinson scored from six yards out. The point after failed but with 7:32 remaining in the first period, Ariton led 6-0.

Strategy

"We score and hold them to win ... " Thompson Warriors receive overtime instruction on how to knock out Demopolis. They did just that Friday night. (Photo by Fred Guarino)

close in on state 3A crown

If Arthur Johnson has contributed nothing else to the Thompson Warrior football team this year, he made up for it Friday night.

The big man, who was sidelined with injuries most of this season, helped his team defeat the Demopolis Tigers in overtime to advance to the state playoff semi finals.

By virtue of a 22-14 win on the road, 90 miles from home, the Warriors will host Greenville at Alabaster tomorrow night.

Johnson, who gained 58 yards on 17 carries, scored the first touchdown of the game to give the Warriors a 6-0 lead over Demopolis.

And, on the Warriors' second play in overtime, Johnson scored what proved to be the winning touchdown to break a 14-14 tie.

Demopolis radio announcers called the contest played before an estimated crowd of 8,000 persons "one of the finest football games" they had ever seen.

After seeing Thompson in action, they said they thought they had watched the team that would eventually prove to be the state 3A champ.

The Warriors lighted the scoreboard early in the contest when Johnson scored on a 23 yard first quarter run. A bonus

The Demopolis Tigers roared back in the second quarter to take a 7-6 halftime lead. Greg Snell came to the rescue of the Warriors in the third period when he returned a fumble in the air 23 yards to pay dirt.

Richard Brasher made up for the first missed extra point by hitting Jeff Willis with a two point conversion pass.

The 14-7 lead held up until the fourth quarter, when Demopolis bulled its way into the endzone. The extra point was good and the score was knotted at 14-14 with 8:35 remaining in the contest.

The Warriors were unable to drive on their next possession losing two yards on their first try and seeing two passes fall incomplete.

Demopolis was unable to move on its next possession as well.

The Warriors began what appeared to be a sure touchdown drive as the final minutes ticked away in regular play. But a fumble after a pass reception stalled the boys from Alabaster at the Demopolis 31 yard line.

Again the Tigers were unable to move and again Thompson began a would-be touchdown

Brasher threw the ball into the crowd to stop the clock with only

Arthur Johnson does what he knows best. That is ... taking the football and running for a touchdown. Here he heads to pay dirt for what proved a winning score against Demopolis. (Phote by Fred Guarino)

Coming through

Eagles take Ariton

(Continued on page B-1) picked off by Stinson (a third mistake). This time the visitors held the ball at the Calera 28 yard

But again Calera's defense held.

Calera had survived two mistakes. The defense had been on the field a long time. How much more could they take?

Just as it appeared Calera was going to put an offensive drive together, a fourth mistake hit. Blanchard was picked off by Stinson again.

But again Calera's defense held together at the seams. An Ariton fumble was recovered by Eagle Todd Killingsworth to put an end to the threat.

The Eagles began a drive of their own that petered out at the Artion 19 yard line.

The half came to a close. The Eagles had turned the ball over four times and Ariton had only turned it over twice. But the differnce had been defense. In the locker room Alverson told his men, "Early mistakes have killed us. Get together and let's go. "We didn't get 9-2 by changing up. Do you know anything to do? We haven't played a super aggressive game. We've got to look a little hungry."

Could a season and the dreams that went with it end so quickly? Not, Friday night. Not for Calera.

Calera made early fumbles but scored in the third period on a 50 yard run by Blanchard. The bonus attempt was blocked and the game was tied at 6 all.

The Eagles and the Blue Cats swapped turnovers, a fumble for a pass interception until Artion made a mistake Calera could take advantage of.

Edward Wilson hit an Ariton runner causing a fumble in the air. Dan Campbell grabbed the ball and raced 25 yards to pay

Wilson added the two point conversion and like magic, the Eagles led 14-6.

The Eagles added the icing to the cake early in the fourth Capping an 80 yard drive, Wilson scored on an 18 yard run. The point after by Ricky Posey was good and the final tally had been made: Calera 21, Ariton 6. The touchdown was set up by a beautiful 46 yard air ball from Blanchard to Killingsworth.

Coach Alverson would not say what his team's chances were for later playoff action. He would only comment that he had a lot of players bunged up in a physical

But his team shouted gleefully in their locker room, "Who said they going to beat those Eagles? Who dat? Who dat?"

For the Eagles, championship dreams still live.

Warriors snuff Huffman

Thompson's 105-pound youth team went out on a winning note with a 20-zip shutout over Huffman Thursday night.

The young Warriors closed their 1982 season with a 6-3-2 winning record.

In a muddy splash, the 105-pounders executed well from the beginning with Brian Bunn, Alan Barefoot and Ronnie Roan, all scoring touchdowns. Bunn and Johnathan Mashburn ran for extra points.

Throwing up the offensive blocking wall were Scott Macaulay, Bill Walker, Chad Ingram, Sambo Skinner and Jimmy Fortenberry.

Coach Bob Thames gave a verbal pat on the back to defensive standouts Bobby Knight, Brady Thames and Kevin Hansford.

It was the first year the warriors played in the Jeffco Youth football League, and the boys found the competition pretty tough. The coach, however, said that the experience should benefit the boys in the long run.

The other members of the winning 105-pounders are Brad Boshell, Brett Boutwell, Paul Brackin, Scott Dupriest, Brad Flynn, Clay Guy, Jason Stonicher, Scott Tromer, Brant Owens, Ti Mask. Assistant coaches are Mike Barefoot, Wayne Bunn, Bill Walker and Sandra Thames.

Running back earns honor

Brian Russell, a senior running back for Shelby Academy has been named an All State player.

Russell who gained 1,081 yards this season will play in the Alabama Private Schools Assocation annual North-South game December 3 in Selma.

Coach DeWayne Kervin said that Russell was All State material. He said, "He was our leading rusher and broke a lot of games open for us.

"The Coosa Valley Academy game was probably his best game. He was the fastest man on the team."

The running back is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Russell of Alabaster.

Warriors stay alive

A pass interference call against the Tigers at the buzzer gave the Warriors one last shot in regular time. According to rules, a contest could not end on a penalty.

But with first and ten at the Tiger 35 yard line, Brasher was hit by a Demopolis Tiger, and the game went into overtime.

The instructions of Coach Larry Simmons were very simple at that point.

With his troops gathered all about him, he said, "We score and hold them to win the ball

As simple as the instructions might have been, they proved to be good enough for the Warriors.

Thompson was given the ball at the Demopolis ten yard line for their first overtime possession.

The first play was an incomplete pass. The second play... Brasher took the snap and flipped the ball to Johnson. The rest is history. Johnson ran over a Demopolis defender to score.

But it was not over yet. Thompson would have to make the bonus point and stop Demopolis from tying the game or taking the lead for a win.

Demopolis was under pressure. The Tigers knew they had to While Calera and Thompson High School are keeping football alive and kicking in Shelby County, another sport is moving in. Basketball is upon us.

This week, the Reporter presents the schools, the schedules, starting line-ups and senior members in our Basketball 1982 Report.

Indian Springs too early to tell

The team is coached by Greg Van Horn and features only two senior members, Sven Balfanz and Eric Woodward.

Obviously, with only two senior players, Van Horn says it is much too early to tell what kind of team he will have this

Cooley becomes dream player

Just a little more than two years ago, Elizabeth "Toots" Cooley of Pelham was "sitting home watching the soaps and thinking about going to vocational school." And she was fat,

The Thompson High School graduate's story might make a good "soap" in itself, so full is it of improbably occurrences and heart-warming evidence of the individual's ability to triumph over circumstances.

Lady Falcons volleyball coach Beverly Warren remembers the "old" Cooley. "She walked on as a freshman. In fact, school had already started. She almost didn't go to college. When I called her, she had to come here and go through all the hassles of late registration, starting classes late, plus all of us had already had two weeks of pre-season work."

For Cooley, that phone made all the difference in the world. "I was just sitting home watching the soaps and thinking about going to vocational school. I probably would have just got fatter. I really wanted to go to college, and I want to be a coach, probably volleyball, and a physical education teacher."

"She weighed 148 pounds and sat on the bench virutally her whole freshman year," Warren said. "Then she really dropped the weight in the off-season. I had talked to her and told her there was no point in playing if she wasn't going to lose that weight."

Warren is known to be a stickler about playing weights. No matter how good she is, a player even a couple of pounds overweight can expect to be riding the bench for the sake of a few thousand calories.

"She came back her sophomore year at 118, and I don't think her weight has fluctuated more than a pound ever since. She says she's going to stay 118 pounds forever, and I believe her," Warren said.

Besides finding her new form, Cooley had to develop a new style. A setter in high school volleyball and a setter on a championship caliber college volleyball team are worlds apart. "Toots was a setter for Thompson, but they didn't use short sets. She had to learn to vary the height of the sets."

Warren explained that Cooley's role with the Lady Falcons is a critical one. In the sometimes rough and always tough competition of college volleyball, "the setter is like a quarterback in football. She takes the ball when it's bumped to her, calls the plays and she has a lot of options. A good setter can make any hitter look good."

When you watch Cooley on the court, it is as if she is looking ching behind her for the ball to be bumped her way. She's looking ahead of her to read the defense across the net, and she's looking at the hitters who'll handle her

After that "first year when I was more or less scared," Cooley blossomed. In her sophomore season, she was an All-state selection, she led the team with 617 assists and a serving percentage of 93.8. She was all-district this year and is maintaining the 93 percent service average with 47 aces so far.

Cooley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tim cooley of Pelham, said that she shed the pounds first "by starving myself to death" and then by switching to diet drinks, broiling instead of frying meat and cutting out all sweets. "Oh yeah, and I started running six or eight miles a day. I never ran at all before."

"This took a lot of guts on her part," Warren said. "She's really determined. She'll work at something until she gets it. To me, Toots is like a dream come

In the nation's service

Kathy L. Crowe, daughter of Robert E. and Shirley A. Crowe of Montevallo, has been specially identifed for early promotion to senior airman in the U.S. Air Force.

The airman was awarded the new rating ahead of other Air Force members by a "below-the-zone" promotion board which considered job performance, military knowledge, bearing and self-improvement efforts.

Crowe is a construction control specialist at Whiteman Air Force Base, Mo., with the 351st Civil Engineering Squadron.

She is a 1979 graduate of Montevallo High School.

Interest improves

The ceiling on the interest rate earned by U.S. Savings Bonds has been repealed. They are no longer locked into a fixed rate (9 percent recently). Congress and the President have freed the rate on Bonds to fluctuate in proportion to other Government securities.

The rate is 85 percent of the average market yield on Treasury securities maturing in five years, if the Bonds are held at least five years starting anytime after November, 1982, when the change goes into effect. (Bonds held a shorter time will continue to earn fixed, guaranteed rates depending on how long they are held.

The change affects all new Series EE Bonds, as well as all outstanding EE and E Bonds issued since late 1947.

There is no state or local tax on interest, and the buyer can defer Federal income tax until he or she redeems them.

There is a guaranteed floor to the Variable interest rate. If market interest rates fall substantially, average interest on Savings Bonds held five years or longer still can't drop below 7.5 percent.

"Kay and I invite you to come

Shelby County

Buck Clark, former Shelby County Extension Agent, and his wife, Kay, will host a 10-day tour of the Hawaiian Islands.

with farm and ranch visits!"

February 7 thru February 16, 1983

We'll enjoy guided sightseeing on Oahu, where Honolulu, Waikiki Beach and Pearl Harbor are located; the "Garden Island" of Kauai and the "Orchid Island" of Hawaii.

Send for your FREE detailed itinerary

DAY 1 - En route to Honolulu on the Island of Oahu. We'll gather this morning at the Birmingham airport to begin our trip to Honolulu. Upon arrival, you'll be greeted with the traditional flower lei by a native islander. Aloha!

DAY 2 - We've already had time to settle in at the beautiful Hilton Hawaiian Village Hotel on Waikiki Beach, where we'll stay for three dreamy tropical nights.

A scenic Circle-Island tour is scheduled today. As we drive along the rugged coast we'll see small settlements and beach parks clustered alongside bay inlets, each one seemingly more beautiful than the last. Tropical farming is much different from farming back home, and we'll have ample opportunity to compare notes with local farmers during farm visits today. We'll also see historic Schofield Barracks, and drive up to the Pali Precipice for one of the great views of the western world, then move on to famous Diamond Head.

DAY 3 - A free day to do as you wish. There are many interesting shopping opportunities in lovely Honolulu. You may also want to visit the inspirational USS Arizona Memorial in Pearl Harbor. Tonight, if you wish, you can take in a beautiful Polynesian Show.

DAY 4 - This morning we fly to Kauai, the most luxuriant of the islands, with rainbow-filled canyons and thundering waterfalls. Gentle rivers and sweeping patchwork valleys of sugar cane, taro, rice, ginger flowers and hibiscus make Kauai a most fascinating island. We'll take a relaxing trip up the Wailua River past lush green shores to a rain forest wonderland and visit exquisite Fern Grotto. This is an awe-inspiring natural cavern with cascading tropical ferns. So romantic is the Grotto that many couples choose to say their wedding vows there.

DAY 5 - This is your day to relax, shop and explore as you choose. One possibility is an optional tour to Waimea Canyon-the "Grand Canyon of the Pacific"-which is ten miles long and 3,657 feet deep.

DAY 6 - Today we jet to Hawaii, biggest of all the islands. From the air, we'll catch awesome views of Mauna Loa. Later, we'll leave our hotel, the Hilo Hawaiian, and go by motorcoach to Mauna Loa, traveling through Volcanoes National Park where we'll see steam escaping from Kilauea Crater. We return to tropical lushness with a tour of Nani Mau Gardens, with more than 100 varieties of tropical fruit trees and 2,000 varieties of orchids.

DAY 7 - We begin our day at a public fish auction conducted in pidgin English, then journey to breathtaking, 420-foot-high Akaka Falls. After driving north along the Laupahoehoe Coast, we'll skirt snow-capped Mauna Kea, the tallest island mountain on earth. Our next stop is the Parker Ranch, the world's largest single-family spread, with 50,000 head of cattle on 250,000 acres. After lunch at the Parker Ranch, we'll head for the fascinating Kahua Ranch, where we'll hear about a Record of Performance program involving 400 head of A.I. cattle. Then to the beautiful Hilton Hotel on the Kona Coast.

DAY 8 - Today is a free day to enjoy and experience Kona's Kailua Bay area. You may want to watch tropical fish from a glass-bottomed boat or visit the City of Refuge National Historical Park, with native temples, Polynesian ancestral statues, sacred fish ponds and a great stone wall that dates back to before Shakespeare's time. A luau feast tonight will be another of the many highlights of the tour for you.

DAY 9 — We'll leave Hawaii's Kona Coast today for a short flight back to Honolulu. This evening, we'll board our jumbo jet for our overnight flight back to the mainland.

ries to the people

DAY 10 - Welcome Home!

THE COST OF THIS UNFORGETTABLE TOUR is $1,498 from Birmingham. It's probably less than you'd think possible for a tour that includes outstanding deluxe-class hotels, a full-time, professional tour escort, transportation on the islands by deluxe, air-conditioned motorcoach, fantastic sightseeing, airfares between the three islands, unique farm and ranch visits and much, much more. But the folks at Southern Farm Tours have the professional ability to make arrangements that you and I could not possibly make on our own. This is a truly great opportunity to enjoy a once-in-a-lifetime vacation with friends and neighbors.

Fourth in a series on Shelby County communities

Chelsea: many facets, no one handle

Chelsea. You can picture it a lot of different ways.

Picture it in memories, history if you like, yellowed like attic photos: a district in London; Saturday train rides to town; candy counters in clapboard stores; convicts blasting through the mountain at Yellow Leaf Creek; crammed inside old Lloyd's, waiting for a vacant table, fighting temptation to sample a stranger's hamburger steak. Or maybe you conjure images of icicle fangs dripping as a winter sun creeps into the Picture Chelsea today: morning breaking over misty fields; rushing a son or daughter out the door for school; a long freight train rumbling over the crossing; letters (and bills) at the post office; 10,000 chickens under one roof clucking at the same time; deer season; ribs of an old barn showing through the rot; ribs barbequing at the fire station; people building together for a better life; country club lake stumps silhouetted against a full moon.

With foresight and question marks, picture Chelsea tomorrow: growth, development and change passing Oak Mountain over four lanes of asphalt; new neighbors and cable tv; municipal incorporation; a 14-0 football team.

Chelsea. A community sprawled from Oak Mountain to Simmsville, from old 280 to as far south as perhaps highway 69. Chelsea. One of the largest communities in Shelby County. 'Home' to some 2,400 folks.

Chelsea. You can picture it in a lot of different ways. Too many for a single frame. Too many for one little nail.

Shelby County High School had the first football team since the beginning of WW II when the class of '46 were sophomores.

And the coach of that team was present Saturday when class members held their first reunion in 36 years.

Remembering that the team got off to a flying start, Braxton Baker told the group gathered at the state 4-H Center that the eight years he had spent at SCHS were "very rewarding."

Approximately 80 people, which included 42 alumni, attended the affair. Another one will be held in two years to give those who were not present a chance to see old classmates again.

Leading the group in a school cheer, were former Wildcat cheerleaders Betty Lyon Rush

Santa Claus flies to Montevallo

Santa Claus arrives in Montevallo by helicopter on December 3 at 4:30. After landing at the football field, he will ride to the elementary school on a fire truck escorted by the Montevallo High School band.

Christmas at M.E.S., which is sponsored by the Centrala Garden Club, includes a chili supper, Christmas bazaar booth, and pictures with Santa.

The chili supper is moderately priced. Activities will last from 4:30 until 8:00.

All proceeds will go to buy equipment for the new Montevallo Elementary School gymnasium.

UM enrollment increases by 2%

Student enrollment at the University of Montevallo is up slightly over the fall 1981 totals.

The 2,600 students enrolled this year at Montevallo is a 2 percent increase over the fall 1981 total, 2,552.

Within the totals are other statistics that show apparant successful efforts to increase enrollment of male students, full-time students, university officials said. Of the total campus enrollment, 80 percent or 2,087, are full-time undergraduates, an increase of 86 students, or 4.3 percent from fall 1981. Black student enrollment increased almost 11 percent from fall 1981, from 158 to 175. Blacks make up almost 8 percent of UM's student enrollment.

Male enrollment at the undergraduate level increased from 842 in fall 1981 to 870 in fall, 1982, while female undergraduate enrollment remained the same, 1,459.

Dr. Russell G. Warren, vice president for academic affairs, said the enrollment increases are particularly gratifying in light of tuition increases over the last few years. Montevallo's tuition has doubled over the last five years, yet at $918, it is $1 below the state average for a regular nine-month. two-semester or three-quarter academic year.

Rush, who was listed on the program as "Mouth" Lyon, also took the class down memory lane as she recalled people and events from high school days.

Woodrow Elliott, she reminded the group was principal at the time and P.B. Shaw held the office of Superintendent of Educa-

Six of the 48 students who graduated in 1946, Rush reported, had gone through the entire 12 years of school together.

Three of the group were present for the reunion. They were Myra Holcombe Horton, Milton (Bucket) White and Amy Walton Ward.

In addition to Baker, who was called the school's "winningest coach," another teacher who held his first teaching position at SCHS was also present for the occasion.

Sherrel McClure recalled the days he taught agriculture in Columbiana.

Before the program ended, the alumni joined in singing the alma mater written by Mildred White Wallace and her sister Clarice White Luck.

Reunion fun

Shelby County High School alumni and teachers who attended the class of 1946 reunion were: Louise Austin Horton, Thomas Baker, Majorie Bentley Nolen, Villa Bentley Wright, James T. Brasher, Jessie Butler Jones, Hazel Butterworth Hall, Durwood Davis, Lou Jean Davis Joiner, Evelyn Dennis Farmer, Gene Dill, J.W.
